REMINGTON PORTABLE.

The Remington Portable is the most compact of all typewriters, a perfect marvel of condensation. The curved, open basket is eliminated. So also is the elevated top plate and every other space-consuming feature. The result is a machine, standard in quality and service, which actually fits into a case only four inches high.

More Remington Portables are sold than of all other makes of Portables Combined.

The following further letter from General Bruce, Mt. Everest Expedition gives one other reason why you should buy the Remington Portable :

MOUNT EVEREST EXPEDITION.

C/o Postmaster, Darjeeling, 21st July 1922.

DEAR SIR,

The Mount Everest Expedition is now returning to Darjeeling and I am writing to tell you how very serviceable your Remington Portable Typewriter has proved. Notwithstanding the immense amount of knocking about it has had, it is still working excellently.

With many thanks,

I remain,

C. G. BRUCE.

Orders are continually coming in from Government officials and in many instances officers have asked us to take over their present Portable Typewriters and supply the Remington Portable, which is the ideal typewriter for personal correspondence and records. The commercial world have definitely set their seal of approval on the machine as indicated by the tremendous sales throughout the world which taxes the utmost capacity of factory production.

FISH MEAL FOR CATTLE AND POULTRY, Etc.

An admirable quality of fish meal suitable for feeding cattle, pigs, poultry and dogs is now manufactured at the Fisheries Experimental Station in Malabar. In Europe and America fish meal is in great favour with breeders of all domestic animals as supplying valuable food constituents lacking or scarce in the ordinary feeding stuffs such as cottonseed cake and poonac. Fish meal is particularly rich in phosphate of lime and in protein and so is specially valuable as an addition to starchy and oily foods in rearing calves, pigs and poultry.

For particulars, prices and samples, apply to :—

The Director of Fisheries, Chepauk, Madras.

FOREWORD.

A Year Book and Directory for the Madras Presidency has been a long-felt want and the present compilation is an attempt to meet that want. No pains have been spared to make the information given in the book as accurate and up to date as possible. The Editor fears, however, that there may be mistakes and imperfections here and there for which he begs the readers' kind forbearance.

The Editor also desires to express his grateful thanks to the heads of departments who have contributed to this volume, to the several official and non-official gentlemen who have helped him with valuable suggestions and information, to the Survey office which prepared the route map, and to the Superintendent of the Government Press and his staff for seeing the book through the Press.

A D	500	400	300	200	100	0	.	Explanation. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 or 0 are called co-efficients. Each century, year of a century and month of a year has its co-efficient which is shown in the table and all we have to do is to add up the co-efficients for the component elements of a date, the day of the month being an additional co-efficient. Thus if we want to know the week day of January 1, 1923, we proceed as follows.— Co-efficient of 1900 ... 2 Co-efficient of 23 ... 7 or 0 Co-efficient of January, 6 Day of month ... 1 Total ... 16 or 9 Dividing 16 or 9 by 7 we have as remainder 2 which is equivalent to Monday the second day of the week.

Method of reading time from stars.—From the Right Ascension of the star which is in the upper meridian at the moment of observation, subtract the Sidereal Time for the day given in the table at pages 8 and 9. If the Right Ascension is less than the Sidereal Time, add 24 hours to the Right Ascension and then from the sum, subtract the Sidereal Time. This gives the meridian Mean Time. To get the Standard Time for Madras, add 9 minutes, and to get the Standard Time for any other place, add to, or subtract from, the Standard Time obtained for Madras, 4 minutes \times the difference in longitude between the place and Madras according as the place is to the west or east of Madras. If greater accuracy is required, subtract from the time obtained above, one minute for the time-difference between Greenwich and Madras (as the Sidereal Time given in the table is that of Greenwich Mean Noon) and also 10 seconds for every hour obtained above. Success in reading depends on accurate observation and, the more the eye is trained in observation, the more accurate will be the reading of time. By this method, a clock or a watch can be corrected. Let d stand for the difference between the latitude of the place and the star's northern declination and let s stand for the sum of the latitude of the place and the star's southern declination. Then in the northern hemisphere, when the star passes the meridian (1) if the latitude of the place is greater or less than the northern declination of the star, the star will be d degrees to the south or to the north of the zenith respectively and (2) if the declination is south, the star will be s degrees to the south of the zenith.

Times of Sunrise and Sunset are given for the appearance and disappearance of the upper limb of the Sun's disc, taking into account the effect of refraction and the change in Sun's Right Ascension during the day.

The Planets

GENERAL OUTLINE OF THE SOLAR SYSTEM.

(Charles Young and Bruno.)

The name planet or wanderer was used by the Greeks to designate all those celestial bodies except comets and meteors, that changed their position relatively to stars and independently of the diurnal motion, these included the Sun and Moon. At present, however, the name planet applies to only those bodies which move in orbits about the Sun. The Sun itself is considered to be a star while the Earth is classed among the planets, and the Moon which follows the Earth in its annual path, and has an orbital motion about the Earth is described, along with similar bodies which revolve about other planets, as a Satellite or Secondary.

The Sun—the nearest of the stars—is a hot self-luminous globe, enormous as compared with the Earth and the Moon, though probably of medium size when compared with other stars; but to the Earth and the other planets which circle around it, it is the most magnificent and important of all the heavenly bodies. Its attraction controls their motions and its rays supply the energy which maintains every form of activity upon their surfaces. Its mean distance from the Earth is very closely 92,900,000 miles, the horizontal parallax being $8'' 80 \pm 0'' 02$. Its real diameter is 866,500 miles or 109½ times that of the Earth and its mass is about 333,000 times that of the Earth. From the apparent motion of the dark spots which cross the Sun's disc from East to West, it is inferred that the Sun rotates on its axis in about 25 days. There is a halo or glory of light called the Corona which surrounds the Sun at the time of a total eclipse and has been known from remote antiquity as one of the most beautiful and impressive of all natural phenomena.

Mercury—It is an exceptional planet in various ways. It is the nearest to the Sun, receives the most light and heat, is the swiftest in its movements and (excepting some of the asteroids) has the most eccentric orbit, with the greatest inclination to the ecliptic. It is also the smallest in diameter (again excepting the asteroids) and has the least mass. Its mean distance from the Sun is about 36,000,000 miles, its real diameter is very nearly 3,000 miles. Its surface is about one-seventh that of the Earth and its volume or bulk, one-eighteenth. If the interior conjunction occurs when the planet is very near its node, it crosses the disc of the Sun as a small black spot. Since the Earth passes the planets' node on May 7 and November 9, transits can occur only near those dates. It is best seen in the evening at such eastern elongations as occur in March and April. As a morning star, it is best seen at Western elongations in September and October.

Venus—the next planet, in order from the Sun, is by far the brightest and most conspicuous of all—the Earth's twin sister in magnitude, density, and general constitution, if not in other physical conditions. It is so brilliant that it is easily seen by the naked eye in the day time for several weeks when near its greatest elongation. Its mean distance from the Sun is 67,200,000 miles. The real diameter of the planet is about 7,600 miles. The mass of Venus is found to be a little more than four-fifths of the Earth's. It exhibits phases like the Moon and attains its maximum brightness thirty-six days before and after inferior conjunction at a distance of about 38° or 39° from the Sun. Occasionally Venus passes between the Earth and the Sun at inferior conjunction and transits or crosses the disc of the Sun from east to west as a round black spot. The transit can happen only within a day or two of the dates when the Earth passes the nodes, viz., June 5 and December 7.

The Earth comes next. It is a great ball about 7920 miles in diameter.

It rotates on its axis once in 24 sidereal hours. It is not exactly spherical, but is flattened at the poles, the polar diameter being nearly 27 miles less than the equatorial. Its mass is six thousand millions of millions of millions of tons. It is flying through space in its orbit around the Sun with a velocity of about $18\frac{1}{2}$ miles a second. It has a satellite, the Moon. The Moon is, next to the Sun, the most conspicuous and to us the most important of all the heavenly bodies. It makes a complete circuit of the heavens from star to star in about 27 $\frac{1}{2}$ days. The average velocity of its motion is 2,287 miles an hour. Its real diameter is 2,163 miles. The surface area is about $\frac{1}{14}$ of the Earth's and the volume or bulk about $\frac{1}{49}$ of the Earth's.

Mars is very conspicuous in colour and brightness, and in the extent and apparent capriciousness of its movement. Its mean distance from the Sun is a little more than one and a half times that of the Earth (141,500,000 miles). At a favourable opposition (when the distance is at its minimum) the planet is more than fifty times as bright as at conjunction and fairly rivals Jupiter, when most remote it is hardly as bright as the pole-star. Its real diameter is very near 4,200 miles. This makes its surface about two-sevenths and its volume one-seventh of the Earth's. Its mass is a little less than one-ninth of the Earth's. It rotates on its axis in about 24 hours 37 minutes. It has two satellites Deimos and Phobos which are extremely small and observable only with very large telescopes.

The Asteroids or minor planets, are a host of small bodies circulating with a few exceptions between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter. The first asteroid Ceres was discovered in 1801 A.D. and since then a few new asteroids have been discovered almost every year, so much so the number at present known exceeds seven hundred and for the past thirteen years has been increasing with great rapidity. The most conspicuous asteroids are Vesta, Juno, Ceres, Pallas and Astraca.

The Planet Eros—This little planet insignificant in size but of great astronomical interest should probably be regarded as a member of the asteroid family. Its mean distance from the sun is 135,500,000 miles. It is small probably, not more than 15 or 20 miles in diameter.

Jupiter stands next to Venus in the order of brilliance among the heavenly bodies, being five or six times as bright as Sirius, the most brilliant of the stars, and decidedly superior to Mars even when Mars is nearest. It is not, like Venus, confined to the twilight sky, but at the time of opposition dominates the heavens all night long. Its mean distance is 483,000,000 miles. The mean diameter is 88,000 miles or a little over eleven times that of the Earth. Its surface is 122 and its volume or bulk 1,355 times that of the Earth. It is by far the largest of all planets—larger, in fact than all the rest united. Its mass is about 317 times that of the Earth. It rotates on its axis more swiftly than any other planet—in about 9 hours—55 minutes. It has eight satellites, four of them so large as to be seen easily with a common opera-glass. These were in a sense the first heavenly bodies ever "discovered" having been found by Galileo in January 1610 A.D. with his newly-invented telescope. The four Galilean satellites are all larger than our Moon though much less massive.

Saturn is the most remote of the planets known to the ancients. In brilliance, it is inferior to Venus and Jupiter or even Mars when nearest. It is unique among the heavenly bodies, a great globe attended by eight, now ten, satellites, and surrounded by a system of rings which has no counterpart elsewhere in the universe, so far as known at present. Its mean distance from the sun is 886,000,000 miles. Its mean diameter, therefore, is about 74,000 miles—a little more than nine times the diameter of the Earth. The surface is about eighty-six times that of the Earth and its volume about 800. Its mass is found to be ninety-five times that of the Earth. It is by far the least dense of all the planetary family. Its rotation period is about 10 hours 14 minutes. The most remarkable peculiarity of the planet is its ring system. The globe is surrounded by three thin, flat, concentric rings in the plane of Saturn's equator, like circular discs of paper perforated through the centre. Saturn has ten satellites, the largest of which is Titan.

Uranus was the first planet ever "discovered" and the discovery created great excitement and brought the highest honours to the astronomer who discovered it. It was found accidentally in 1811 by the elder Herschel who named it the "Georgium Sidus," in honour of the King. Its mean distance from the Sun is 1,782,000,000 miles. Its mean diameter is only 28,500 miles. Its volume is about 47 times that of the Earth. Its mass is about 146 times that of the Earth. It has four satellites.

Neptune—The discovery of Neptune is reckoned as the greatest triumph of mathematical astronomy since the days of Newton. The position of the planet was predicted in 1846 almost simultaneously by Adams and Leverrier from the observed effects of its attraction on the orbital motion of Uranus. Its mean distance from the Sun is a little more than 2,800,000,000 miles. Its mean diameter is 29,750 miles and its volume 58 times that of the Earth. Its mass is about 17 times that of the Earth. It has one satellite. Uranus and Neptune form a "pair of twins" very much as the Earth and Venus do, being almost alike in magnitude, density and many other characteristics.

Morning and Evening Stars, and Heliacal Immersion of Planets.

Mercury—is an evening star from before the beginning of the year to about January 21, is a morning star from about February 3 to about March 23, is an evening star from about April 20 to May 19, is a morning star from June 7 to July 10, is an evening star from August 3 to September 22, is a morning star from October 6 to October 26, is an evening star from December 9 to the end of year. In the other periods of the year, it is in heliacal immersion.

Venus—is a morning star from before the beginning of the year to about August 12, and an evening star from about October 12 to the end of the year. In the other period of the year, it is in heliacal immersion.

Mars—is visible throughout the year except from about June 15 to September 29 during which period, it is in heliacal immersion.

Jupiter—is visible throughout the year except from about November 8 to December 6 during which period, it is in heliacal immersion.

Saturn—is visible throughout the year except from about September 30 to November 3 during which period, it is in heliacal immersion.

Jupiter's Cycle of Sixty Years

The reckoning of years by the Barhaspathiya or Jupiter's cycle of sixty years has been in use in India at least since the 5th or 6th century A.D. and is freely cited in inscriptions. It is in current use in two forms, the Northern System, which takes account of suppressed years and the Southern System which simply reckons one of these Jovian years for every Indian year beginning with Charitra sukla or Mesha Sankranti as the case may be. Thus according to the Southern System which is current in Southern India the A.D. year 1923-24 coincides with the cyclic year Rudhirodgarī, while 1924-25 will be Raktaksha and subsequent years will take the names of years in the order indicated below. In A.D. 1927-28 the cycle will begin again with Prabhava.

History of the Madras Presidency.

Boundaries.—The present Madras Presidency, or the Presidency of Fort St. George, occupies the southern portion of the peninsula from latitude $20^{\circ} 18'$ on the eastern coast and latitude 14° on the western coast to Cape Comorin in latitude $8^{\circ} 4'$, the longitude ranges from $74^{\circ} 9'$ to $85^{\circ} 15'$. The extreme length of the Presidency, from north-east to south-west, is about 950 miles and its extreme breadth about 450 miles. On every side but the north, the Presidency is washed by the open sea. The Madras Presidency comprises 27 districts, among which are numbered the City of Madras and the recently-constituted Agency division. The latter was formed by the amalgamation of the old Agency tracts of the Ganjam, Vizagapatam and Godavari districts and is under the control of a separate Commissioner. There are five Native States, viz., Sandhur, Ranganapalle, Pudukkottai, Cochin and Travancore. The Presidency has a total area of 112,260 square miles excluding the area occupied by the five States mentioned above.

Mountains.—From a physical point of view the Presidency may be roughly divided into three portions, the long and broad eastern coast, the shorter and narrower western coast, and the high tableland in the interior. These divisions are determined by the two great mountain ranges of the Eastern and Western Ghats, which give the key to the configuration of all Southern India. The two chains extend along the opposite coasts, parallel to each other, or rather diverging, and leaving between them and the sea only a plain of forty or fifty miles in breadth. They rise in few places above 3,000 or 4,000 feet high, but they are very rugged and steep, and the entrance into the interior is only by very narrow and difficult passes, whose name of "ghat" has by popular usage come to signify the mountains themselves. The Eastern Ghats, which lie entirely within this Presidency, form a continuation of the hill system of Chutia Nagpur. They run in a south-westerly direction almost through the entire length of Madras, until they lose themselves in the Nilgiris, and there meet the western range. Their average height is 1,500 feet and for the most part they leave a broad expanse of lowland between their base and the sea. Their line is pierced by the Godavari, Kistna and Cauvery rivers, as well as by minor streams, so that they do not perform the part of a watershed. The Western Ghats, on the other hand, which stretch southwards continuously along the shore of the Indian Ocean from the north of Bombay, possess all the characteristics of a mountain range. Rising steeply at a distance of 10 to 50 miles from the coast they catch the greater part of the rainfall of the monsoon. Some of their peaks attain an elevation of from 5,000 to 8,000 feet. Though steep and stony, the hills are not broken, but covered generally with a stratum of earth, sustaining stately forests, particularly of bamboo, which is found nowhere else in equal perfection. The interior, between these two chains, consists chiefly of successive tablelands supported by the opposite ghats and by chains crossing from one to the other and dotted here and there with isolated and precipitous rock pinnacles, capped with the almost impregnable fortresses of more troubled times. The most southerly central tableland, with an elevation of from 1,000 to 3,000 feet, includes the whole of Mysore and extends over several of the Madras districts. There are again in the south various minor hill systems. The Nilgiris, which form the junction of the two main ranges, culminate in Doddabetta, at one time regarded as the highest peak in Southern India. There are also outlying spurs and masses of hills, of which the Shevaroy in Salem, the Anamalais in Coimbatore, and the Palni Hills in Madura are the most important. At the Palghat gap the Western Ghats fall to a height of 1,000 feet above sea level, by a break 25 miles wide through which runs the principal railroad of the south of India. They then resume their course at full level down to Cape Comorin, and immediately widen out into the highland tract that lies between Madura on the one side, and Malabar, Cochin and Travancore on the other, this highland is known as the Anamalais in the Coimbatore district and the Palnis in Madura. The hill tract here mentioned, higher than the Nilgiris in parts, and much more extensive, becomes narrower again opposite the Cumbum valley in Madura, and behind Tinnevely becomes only a mountain range between the two coasts with a restricted area. The Anaimudi mountain in the Anamalai range is now known to be the highest in Southern India, its summit being 8,837 feet above the level of the sea.

Rivers.—The three main rivers of the Presidency are the Gōdāvari, the Kistna and the Cauvery; all sacred in the eyes of the Hindu, and truly valuable by their services to irrigation and commerce. These rivers have the same uniform features. They rise in the Western Ghats, and run across the peninsula in a southeasterly direction. They drain rather than water the upper country through which they flow, and are comparatively valueless there either for navigation or irrigation. But they spread over alluvial deltas before they reach the sea, and at that stage become capable of being restrained and utilized by the engineer. The estimated basin area of the Gōdāvari is 112,000 square miles, and its length is 898 miles. The estimated basin area of the Kistna is 97,000 square miles, and its length is 800 miles. The estimated basin area of the Cauvery is 28,000 square miles, and its length is 472 miles. Each of these rivers has a large tributary system of its own. Other rivers on the east coast, of similar character but smaller dimensions, are the North and South Pennai or Pinakini (the southern being called Ponnaiyar), the Pālār, the Vellar, the Vaigai and the Tambraparni. The area of country drained by rivers running westward is only the narrow strip of territory between the Western Ghats and the sea. As a rule, the country slopes gradually from the eastern base of the western mountain chain down to the Coromandel coast, while the fall is sudden and precipitous on the western side of the mountains.

Climate.—The peculiar physical geography of the peninsula with a large mountain-chain running from north to south along its western boundary, is of importance in regard to climate and the productions of the various portions of the country. The western hills have the effect of arresting the lower strata of rain clouds brought up from the Indian Ocean by the periodical winds of the south-west monsoon, and of causing excessive rain precipitation on the narrow strip of coastline on the western side of the peninsula. Where the mountain range is of great height, as between Malabar and Coimbatore, the rain clouds are almost entirely diverted from the districts immediately below the mountains on the eastern side, and while the annual rainfall on the western side may be one hundred and fifty inches, not more than twenty-five inches are usually registered on the eastern side, immediately within the influence of the mountain ranges. Where the mountain chain is of lower elevation, the rain clouds pass over the hills, and rain is precipitated in uncertain and varying amount over the peninsula to the east of the ghats, but, except in the northern districts, where the rainy season approximates to that of Bengal, the heaviest rainfall of the southern portion of the eastern division of the peninsula occurs during the period of the north-east monsoon. During the continuance of this monsoon, the western ranges of mountains have a similar effect in arresting the rain clouds, so that at the season of the year when the Carnatic is visited by heavy rain, the western coast districts enjoy clear weather. The climate thus varies considerably in the different parts of the Presidency. The Nilgiri Hills enjoy the climate of the temperate zone, with a moderate rainfall, and a temperature rarely exceeding 80° F., and sometimes falling to freezing-point. On the Malabar coast, the south-west monsoon brings an excessive rainfall, reaching 150 inches in the year at certain places. The rain clouds hanging on the slope of the Western Ghats sometimes obscure the sun for months at a time. Along the eastern coast and on the central tablelands the rainfall is comparatively low, but the heat of the summer months is excessive. At Masulipatam the thermometer frequently rises to above 110° F. in the shade, and to 170° in the sun. Observations extending over a period of eighty-five years give an average of 19.03 inches of rain in the year at Madras City, but this is considerably above the mean of the east coast generally. In the district of Bellary the average annual rainfall does not exceed 23 inches, of which 14 inches are brought by the south-west monsoon across the ghats. The whole coast of the Bay of Bengal is liable to disastrous cyclones, which not only wreck the shipping in the roads, but have repeatedly overwhelmed the low-lying ports.

Productions.—To the physical barrier of the Western Ghats must be attributed not only the vast differences of climate, but also those of the nature of the productions, in the eastern and western divisions of the peninsula. In the former division the uncertainty and capricious character of the rainfall has taught the cultivators of the soil the necessity of making provision for the storage of water for irrigation purposes, and innumerable tanks or reservoirs scattered throughout the country are the result. On the western side of the mountains, however, the necessity for such works has never arisen. There the periodical rains fall with great regularity of time and quantity, and the earth produces so abundantly that, although in certain exceptional years there may be partial failures of crops, absolute agricultural distress as a result of bad seasons is quite unknown. Only three of the twenty-six mufassal districts of the Madras Presidency lie within the influence of the never-failing rains of the south-west monsoon. In the remaining twenty-three districts nature demands the assistance of art in the collection, storage, and distribution of the rain-supply. The chief staples of the Presidency are rice, cholam (a kind of maize), cumbu (a kind of millet), ragi and varagu amongst food-grains, gingelly amongst oil-seeds; and chillies, tobacco, sugarcane, plantains and betel leaf amongst garden crops. Cotton, which may be regarded as a special crop, has a cultivation almost equalling that of ragi. The ground-nut has been extensively cultivated in recent years. The trees most grown for their fruits are coconut, areca-nut, jack, tamarind and mango. Rice is a very important crop in all the districts of the Presidency along the East and West Coasts and in North Arcot and Trichinopoly. It accounts, on the average, for more than a fourth of the area under crop and produces a much heavier outturn, area for area, than most other grains. Cholam, of which there are several varieties grown on different soils and at different seasons, is chiefly raised in the Kistna, Guntur, Kurnool, Bellary, Anantapur, Cuddapah, Nellore, Coimbatore, Trichinopoly and Madura districts. Cumbu is a very important crop in Guntur, Salem, Coimbatore and Trichinopoly. Ragi is an important crop in Ganjam, Vizagapatam, North Arcot, Salem and Coimbatore. Coconut palms flourish most luxuriantly on the banks of the estuaries and backwaters or salt water lagoons of the western districts of Malabar and Kanara, and areca-nut palms in the valleys intersecting the lower slopes of the Western Ghats.

Pre-historic.—In any enumeration which may be made of the literature proper of this country, one capital defect must be obvious, that history finds in it no place. The legends of Indian mythology may be plausibly supposed to have a foundation in the story of some celebrated early kings or conquerors, but it is scarcely possible through the mist of fable even to conjecture anything respecting the real existence of these personages or the events connected with them. The Grecian Iliad and Odyssey are in comparison with Hindu legends plain and authentic chronicles. Indian chronology, like that of the Greeks, is divided into four ages, of which three are fabulous, and the first consists of nearly 2,000,000 years. Antiquarian research is only by degrees finding means of supplementing the deficiency caused by the absence of materials constructed or collected by normal methods. The earliest inhabitants of Southern India of whom any traces now remain were the pre-historic builders of the cairns, barrows, kistvæns, and dolmens found in many districts, the makers of the rude stone weapons discovered in considerable quantities on the tops of the rocky hills of the Deccan, and the authors of the more finished utensils and implements now in course of excavation at the wonderful burial-grounds which have recently been discovered in Adichanallur and other places in Tinnevely. Except that they may be declared to have passed from a Palæolithic, through a Neolithic, to an Iron age, little is known or can be conjectured regarding these ancient peoples. Presumably they were of the stock named Dravidian, which is distinguished from more northern ethnic families by its comparatively low stature, its dark skin, its high nasal index, and its use of the languages, so prominent in the Presidency, known as the Dravidian family.

Legends.—The great gulf which yawns between them and the earliest historical data is vaguely bridged by legends and traditions, such as the story of Rama's expedition through the Deccan and across Adam's Bridge to Ceylon in quest of his wife Sita (whom Ravana, the ten-headed king of that island, had carried off), or the many local puranas which remain in the keeping of the temple priests. Some of these legends have been held to refer to the great immigration of conquerors and settlers from Northern India which undoubtedly took place at an early period; but they are scarcely serious history, and not until the Muhammadans appear upon the scene is the literature of the country of any real value to the analyst. The gap is filled to some extent by the many inscriptions on stone which record gifts to temples, by coins and by grants of by-gone dynasties engraved on copper. The transcription and examination of these is now proceeding under expert supervision and in a systematic fashion, but the work has not yet proceeded far enough to enable any final account to be written of the early fortunes of the South of India.

Asoka, 250 B.C.—The earliest historical evidence is that furnished by the edicts of the Buddhist Emperor Asoka which have been discovered at Jaugada in Ganjam and at a village in Mysore close to the border of Bellary. These perhaps go to show that about 250 B.C. at least the northern half of the Presidency formed part of the Mauryan dominions.

*Pandya*s.—The south of it was divided between the Pandya of Madura, who governed the extreme south; the Cholas, who held the country north and east of them, and the Cheras (Keralas), who ruled the West Coast. At some period subsequent to Asoka, the dynasty of the Pallavas of Conjeeveram rose into prominence and extended its sway along the east coast as far north as Orissa.

Andhras.—In the north, Mauryans were succeeded by the Andhras. They were Buddhists, and by them were erected the splendid marble stupas at Amaravati and the other Buddhist buildings of which the ruins occur in Kistna and Guntur districts. Their curious leaden coins are still found in some numbers in those parts.

*Chalukya*s.—About the fifth century after Christ the Chalukyas, who were immigrants from more northern parts, began to grow in importance in the Western Deccan. In the seventh century they divided into two branches, a Western and an Eastern. The latter conquered the Pallava kings of the Vengi country—the tract between the Kistna and Godavari rivers and south of Kalinga—and settled in that locality, while the former remained in its original home.

Kadambas.—Alongside it, in the south-west of the Deccan and the north of Mysore, the Kadambas, whose capital was at Bhavanas in North Kanara, now rose to power. They defeated the Pallavas of Conjeevaram and continually harassed the Western Chalukyas.

Rashtrakutas.—The latter were also vigorously opposed by the Rashtrakutas of Malkhed in the present Nizam's Dominions, who eventually overthrew them and were supreme in the Western Deccan from about A.D. 750 to 950.

Western Chalukyas.—At the end of this period the Western Chalukyas once more rose to prominence and maintained their position until A.D. 1189, when they were finally overthrown by two of their own feudatories, the Yadavas of Deogiri and the Hoysalas of Dorasamudra, the modern Helebid in Mysore.

Chola Expansion.—Meanwhile, in the south and the east, the Cholas of Tanjore were rapidly extending their boundaries. By 999 they acquired by conquest the whole of the coast possessions of the Eastern Chalukyas. They had already subverted both the Pallavas and the Pandyas, annexing the dominions of the former and controlling the destinies of the latter. These events form the first great landmark in the history of Southern India. But the Chola expansion westwards was checked by the Hoysalas, and towards the end of the twelfth century their territory in the north was taken from them by the Ganapathis of Warrangal (Orangal).

The Mussalman Invasion.—Thus at the end of the thirteenth century the three greatest dynasties of Southern India were the Hoysalas, the Cholas and the Pandyas. At the beginning of the 14th century, however, a new power—the Mussalmans of Delhi—appeared suddenly upon the scene. In 1303 the ruling king of the Khilji dynasty of Delhi sent his first expedition into the Deccan; and seven years later, a date which makes the second landmark in the history of Southern India, the armies of his general, Malik Kafur, swept like a torrent down the peninsula. The Yadavas, Hoysalas, Ganapathis, Cholas and Pandyas were in turn defeated and suppressed.

Anarchy followed over the whole south—Mussalman Governors, representatives of the old ruling families, and local chiefs struggling for supremacy, until out of the confusion rose the kingdom of Vijayanagar, which from its capital at Hampi in the Bellary district for the next two centuries and a half checked the southward expansion of Muhammadan power.

The Vijayanagar Empire.—The rise of this dynasty was dramatically rapid. The several Hindu chieftains everywhere admitted its sovereignty, the more willingly in that the only alternative was a despotism of Mussalmans; and from chiefs its rulers quickly grew into kings, and from kings into emperors. Within a century and a half from the foundation of the capital at Vijayanagar they governed the whole of the peninsula from the Kistna to Cape Comorin. The empire reached the height of its power under Krishna Deva (1509–1530), the greatest of monarchs, contemporary with Henry VIII of England.

Its Downfall.—The chief opponents of Vijayanagar had been the Sultans of the Bhamini dynasty, founded in 1347 by a rebellious subordinate of Delhi, whose capital was at Gulbarga in what is now the Nizam's Dominions. This line crumbled to pieces at the end of the fifteenth century and was followed by five separate Mussalman kingdoms. For many years the mutual jealousies and animosities of these rendered it easy for the Vijayanagar kings to play off one of them against the other, but at length they combined, and in 1565 at the great battle of Talikota, the third historical landmark, they utterly defeated the Hindu forces and followed up their victory by razing the city of Vijayanagar to the ground and forcing its king to flee. The empire never recovered from the blow. One by one its local governors threw off their allegiance, and established themselves as independent rulers, and Southern India passed through a second period of anarchy, during which all local powers fell in many places into the hands of small chieftains called Naiks or Poligars who usually harassed their subjects mercilessly.

The Mussalman Expansion—The only governors of the fallen empire who established themselves in any permanency were the Naiks of Madura, and the suzerainty of the rest of the country fell gradually into the hands of the Sultans of Bijapur and Golconda. The former marched upon the country directly south of the Tungabhadra river and the latter took a line further to the eastward. By the middle of the seventeenth century the Bijapur Sultans had possessed themselves of most of the Carnatic which lay above the Ghats and of much territory below.

The Marathas—It was under this dynasty that the Marathas first came into prominence. Serving first as military vassals, they eventually, in 1616, revolted openly against them and under the famous Sivaji established their independence.

Aurangzeb.—In 1686 Aurangzeb, the Mughal emperor of Delhi, marched South to reduce Bijapur and Golconda, and to crush the growing power of the Marathas. He took Bijapur in that year and Golconda in the next, and the territories which had been won by these two kingdoms from the Hindus thus became a portion of the Mughal empire. But with the Marathas he was less successful. He seized Sivaji's son, Sambhaji, and put him to death in 1689; but the power of the race increased rather than declined, and they levied tribute throughout the Deccan and in other parts of the South as well, and do not disappear from Madras history until the beginning of the nineteenth century.

The Nizam—In 1724 Asaf Jah, the viceroy whom the Mughal emperor had appointed to govern his conquests in the South and who bore the title of Nizam-ul-mulk, threw off all real allegiance to his suzerain and made himself virtually independent. He and his successors are known in history as the Nizams or Subadars of the Deccan, and their chief subordinate in the South was the Nawab of the Carnatic, otherwise called the Nawab of Arcot.

Haidar Ali—Meanwhile the Hindu kingdom of Mysore, which had arisen from small beginnings on the ruins of the Vijayanagar empire, had become more and more powerful, owing largely to the exploits of a soldier of fortune in its army named Haidar Ali. By methods which were none too scrupulous, he rapidly gained supreme authority in the kingdom, and in 1761 he usurped its throne and began with more energy than ever to extend its possessions.

European Powers—In the middle of the eighteenth century, therefore, the native powers in the south which had to be reckoned with were the Mussalmans under the Nizam, Mysore under Haidar Ali, and the Marathas. Meanwhile however, various European powers had begun to establish a footing within its limits.

The Portuguese—The Portuguese were the first nation to form a settlement there. By the beginning of the sixteenth century they had occupied Calicut and Goa on the West Coast. Vasco da Gama, the pioneer of maritime adventure, had visited that part of the country as early as 1498. For a century they prospered; but they were feebly supported at home after the union of Portugal with Spain, and eventually fell before the progress of the Dutch.

The Dutch—From the beginning of the seventeenth century the Dutch, who had long been powerful in the Eastern Archipelago, settled at Pulicat, Sadras, and other places along the East and West Coasts. They rapidly ousted the Portuguese, but their ideas were commercial rather than imperial, the remoteness of their headquarters at Batavia hampered them, and they soon dropped out of the race.

The French—Another European nation attracted by the wealth of the East was the French. Their original settlement had been in Madagascar. This they abandoned in 1672 in favour of Maunius and Bourbon. Later they came on to India, and in 1674 François Martin founded and fortified the town of Pondicherry, which has since been the French headquarters in the peninsula. In 1712 the famous Duplex succeeded to the governorship of the place, and rendered it the one European settlement in the south which was capable of offering any real resistance to the English East India Company.

The English—The earliest settlements of the English within the Presidency were at Nizampatam and Masulipatam, at which places Captain Hippon of the ship Globe landed in 1611 and founded factories.* Five years later, settlements were planted on the West Coast at Cranganur and Calcut by the permission of the Zamorin. In 1619 another settlement was effected at Pulicat, but the jealousies of the Dutch compelled its abandonment. In 1625, two years after the massacre of the English by the Dutch at Amboyna, the Company's agents at Bantam in Java despatched a vessel to Armagon in the present Nellore District and set up a small trading establishment there.

Foundation of Madras—In 1639, owing partly to the annoyances caused to the Company's officers at Masulipatam by the subordinates of the Sultan of Golconda, within whose territories that place lay, and partly to the desire to possess a factory nearer to the real centres of the weaving and dyeing industries of the country, Francis Day, the chief official of Armagon, sought for and obtained through a subordinate of the last representative of the old Vijayanagar dynasty, who was then living at Chandragiri in North Arcot, the grant of the land on which Fort St George now stands. A small fort was at once erected, and two years later the place became the Company's headquarters on the Coromandel Coast. In 1653 Fort St George was raised to the rank of a Presidency, independent of Bantam, and in 1658 the factories in Bengal were placed under its orders. In 1690 the Company purchased from the Marathas the land on which Fort St David, near Cuddalore, now stands, and at the end of the century there were also English factories within the present limits of the Madras Presidency at Porto Novo, Madappalam, Vizagapatam, Anjengo, Tellicherry and Calcut.

Struggle with the French—Up to 1740 the Company's agents had managed to keep themselves clear of the wars between the various native governments which were going on around them, and free from serious trouble with the other Europeans who had stations in the South. But in 1741 the War of the Austrian Succession lit the first flame of a conflict between them and the French, which lasted until the capture of Pondicherry in 1761, followed by the Peace of Paris in 1763.

Madras taken and restored.—The first notable event in this contest was the capture of Madras by La Bourdonnais in 1746. Under the orders of Duplex, who was then in command of the French possessions, the Governor and the chief merchants were taken prisoners to Pondicherry. Fort St. David became for the time the Company's headquarters in the South. Madras was, however, restored to the English under the treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle in 1749, and the Company set themselves vigorously to work to render it more defensible than it had been at the time of the French attack.

Wars of the Native Powers—Peace being declared between the two nations, the forces which each of them had collected in the South engaged on opposite sides in the struggles between the native powers. Each espoused the cause of a different claimant for the Nawabship of the Carnatic, and each supported its own candidate for the office of Nizam of the Deccan. The stirring details of the severe conflicts which ensued fill many pages in the histories of the period, and concern themselves with the exploits of many Englishmen—Clive and Eyre Coote among the number—whose names will ever be famous.

War with France—In 1757 news reached India that war had again broken out in Europe between England and France and the forces of the two nations in the South were once more at each other's throats. The advantage at first lay with the French. They captured successively the English Forts of Vizagapatam, Fort St David and Devikottai (which last had been granted to the Company by the Marathas of Tanjore) and in 1758 they besieged Madras. Here, however, they were unsuccessful and eventually withdrew and meanwhile Col. Ford, who had been despatched by Clive from Bengal to the Northern Circars, had signally defeated them at Condore and captured Masulipatam. This victory resulted in the cession to the Company of a considerable tract round about the latter town which led eventually, after many vicissitudes, to the whole of the Northern Circars being granted to the British by the Mughal emperor in 1765. Further south the struggle culminated in the battle of Wandiwash in which Eyre Coote utterly routed the French under Lally. Gingee, Arcot and other minor French settlements fell in quick succession, and in May 1760, the English were in a position to attack Pondicherry itself. Lally called in the help of Haidar Ali of Mysore, but events in his own territory prevented the latter from taking any important part in the contest. Pondicherry surrendered in January, 1761. With the other French possessions, it was restored by the Peace of Paris in 1763, but the power of the French in Southern India was never again formidable, and it was thus in the Madras Presidency that the question was decided which of the European nations should be supreme in India.

Operations against Haidar Ali.—We have now reached the middle of the 18th century, when, as has been said, the native powers which had to be reckoned with were the Mussulmans under the Nizam of the Deccan and the Nawab of the Carnatic, Mysore under Haidar Ali, and the Marathas. The only European force of any consequence was that of the English, and between these four the struggle for the possession of the peninsula now lay. The Nizam and the Marathas invited the English to assist them in clipping the wings of Haidar who was encroaching upon their territories. Haidar, however, bought off both Mussulmans and Marathas, and then made a descent upon the English possessions in the Carnatic. Fighting followed on both coasts of the peninsula, but the operations were indecisive and peace was eventually concluded in 1769 by a treaty based on a mutual restitution of conquests.

The First Mysore War.—In 1780 broke out the next war with Haidar, who was again befriended by both the Mussulmans and the Marathas. He descended upon the plains of the Carnatic in July of that year, burning crops and devastating villages, so that a cordon of blackened desert was formed all round the town of Madras, from Pulicat on the north to Pondicherry on the south and extending 50 miles inland.

Tippu Sultan.—Warren Hastings, then Governor-General of Bengal, despatched Sir Eyre Coote to Madras with reinforcements. His ability soon caused the tide of fortune to return, but age had sapped his old energy and it was not until after three years of severe fighting in every part of the peninsula that peace was at length made in 1784. As before the basis of the treaty was a mutual restoration of conquests. Haidar Ali had died during the operations in 1782, and was succeeded by his son, Tippu Sultan, a man in every way his inferior.

The Second Mysore War.—Six years later war once more ensued with Mysore, Tippu having provoked hostilities by raiding the native state of Travancore, which was in alliance with the British. Lord Cornwallis, the Governor-General, commanded the forces in the field in person, and this time the British were assisted by the Nizam and the Marathas. After two years' fighting, Seringapatam, the Mysore capital, was besieged; and thereupon Tippu, in 1792, agreed to cede to the allies one half of his territories, and to pay an indemnity of three crores and fifty lakhs of rupees. The British share of the territory thus ceded included the country round Dindigul and the districts of Salem and Malabar

The Third Mysore War.—Tippu then began to intrigue to draw to his own side the allies of the British, and even sent an embassy to Mauritius to invoke the aid of the French. Lord Mornington, now Governor-General, realized the danger to British supremacy in India which such action involved, and came south to deal with the situation. The Nizam and the Marathas again joined the British. Tippu, after a feeble resistance in the field, retired to Seringapatam. The fortress was stormed on May 4th, 1799, and Tippu's body was found among the slain. A representative of the Hindu dynasty, whose rights had been usurped by Haidar in 1761, was placed upon the throne of Mysore proper, and the rest of Tippu's territories were divided between the allies. The share of the British included Kanara, Coimbatore, and Wynad.

Ceded Districts.—In the same year, 1799, the Maratha Raja of the principality at Tanjore, in return for aid received in gaining the throne, executed a treaty resigning the administration of his kingdom to the Company in consideration of an annual payment. In 1800 the Nizam ceded to the Company, in return for a subsidiary force to be established in his dominions, all the territories he had acquired from Mysore at the partitions of 1792 and 1799. These tracts included the present districts of Bellary, Anantapur, Cuddapah, and part of Kurnool, which are still known as the "Ceded Districts." When Seringapatam fell in 1799 a treasonable correspondence had been discovered between Tippu and the Nawab of the Carnatic who was nominally the ally of the Company. In consequence, after many negotiations, a treaty was concluded with the Nawab in 1801, under which he resigned the government of his country to the Company, but retained the titular dignity and received a considerable stipend. The existing representative of the family bears the title of Prince of Arcot and has the position of the first native nobleman of Madras.

The Company had thus obtained possession of the whole of the present Madras Presidency from Cape Comorin to the Northern Circars, except a part of the Kurnool District, the Danish station of Tranquebar, the existing French settlements at Pondicherry and other places, and the territories of the five native states still in subordination to the Madras Government, the history of which will be found in the separate articles regarding them.

In 1839 internal mismanagement and treacherous intrigue on the part of the Nawab of Kurnool led to the annexation of his country. Tranquebar was purchased from the Danes in 1845. In 1862, the district of North Kanara was transferred to Bombay. Since then no alterations of importance in the limits of the Presidency have occurred.

The Poligars.—The territories thus rapidly acquired at the end of the 18th and beginning of the 19th century were in most cases reduced to order with little trouble. The Poligars in the Ceded Districts had to be suppressed by an armed force, and the turbulence of those in the extreme south necessitated more than one regular campaign. In the Northern Circars the hill chiefs gave trouble as late as 1836.

Northern Circars.—The districts of Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Godavari, Kistna and Guntur are known as the "Northern Circars." Prior to 1859 and 1860 these Circars consisted of five districts, but in that year the three districts of Rajahmundry, Masulipatam and Guntur were divided to form the Godavari and Kistna districts, with effect from 1st October 1904; the latter have been again split up into three districts, known as Godavari, Kistna and Guntur. To the first have been added the Nagur, Albakachherla taluks of the Sironcha Tahsil of the Chandu district in the Central Provinces and to the last, the Ongole taluk which belonged to the Nellore district. The northern districts were formerly under the Nizam's Government, and in that time the divisions were as follows: Guntur, Condapilly, Ellore, Rajahmundry and Chicacole. They came finally into British possession in the year 1823, by the payment to the Nizam's Government of Rs. 11,66,666 in lieu of an annual tribute. When these districts fell into the hands of the East India Company they consisted chiefly of large estates, held by renters or zamindars, of lands called "Havelly," which were the old demesnes, or private estates, of former rulers, and of tracts near the principal towns which had been resumed by the Muhammadan Governors of the districts, and appropriated for the support of their numerous bands of soldiers and public establishments. For some years prior to 1855-56 these Northern Circars were under the charge of a separate Commissioner, but each district had then also its own revenue and judicial establishments. The appointment of Commissioner of the Northern Circars was abolished in June 1856.

The Carnatic—The part of the Presidency, usually known as the Carnatic, appears to have been originally formed of three divisions, namely, Northern, extending from the river Pennar to the river Gundegama, and consisting of a portion of the Nellore district, Central, extending from the Coleroon to the Pennar river, and containing a portion of Trichinopoly, Chingleput, North Arcot, South Arcot, Madras and Nellore districts, and Southern, consisting of a portion of the Trichinopoly and the whole of Tanjore, Tinnevely and Madura districts. These districts came into the possession of the British between the years 1799 and 1801.

Jaghire—In the year 1859-60 the two districts of Madras Town and Chingleput were amalgamated into a single district, the collection of Sea Customs revenue being separately provided for. In the year 1870 the Chingleput district was again divided as before, leaving the administration of the Madras Town district in the hands of the Sea Customs Collector. The Chingleput district was obtained from the Nawab of Arcot in 1763 in return for services rendered to him and his father by the Company. The grant was confirmed by the Great Mughal in 1765, and for a long time the district was known as the "Jaghire" of the East India Company. The site of the Town of Madras was obtained in the year 1610, by a grant from the descendants of the Vijayanagar rulers, subsequently confirmed by the Mughal Government.

Ceded Districts—The districts of Bellary and Cuddapah were ceded to the English by the Nizam in the year 1800 for the maintenance, in perpetuity, of a body of troops known as the Hyderabad Subsidiary Force, and as payment for troops furnished during the Mysore wars. The territories so made over are still known as the Ceded Districts.

Kurnool District—In 1800 the rights of sovereignty exercised by the Nizam over the Kurnool country as Subadar of the Deccan became vested in the East India Company. The Nizam, in the treaty of partition, gave over to the British all his possessions south of the Tungabhadra and Krishna rivers below their junction. At this time the ruler of the Kurnool country paid a yearly tribute of one lakh of rupees to the Nizam. In 1839 the Kurnool district, through the rebellion of the then ruler of the country, was placed under British administration.

Salem and Coimbatore—The districts of Salem and Coimbatore came into British possession, the former in 1792 by the treaty of Seringapatam, and the latter in 1799 after the final defeat of Tippu and the partition of his territory between the British, the Nizam and the legitimate successor to the Mysore Government—the Maharajah of Mysore.

The Nilgiri Hills, formerly a taluk of the Coimbatore district, were constituted a separate district under Act I of 1868.

Malabar and Kanara—The two districts of Malabar and Kanara, on the western side of the Ghats, fell into the possession of the British in 1792 and 1799, respectively. Kanara was in 1859 divided into North and South Kanara for administrative purposes, and in 1860 North Kanara was transferred, for convenience of administration, from the Madras to the Bombay Presidency. The taluk of Comdapor which formerly belonged to North Kanara, is now attached to South Kanara.

Summary of Acquisitions.—The following is a brief summary of all the territorial acquisitions made in the south. As stated already, a trading settlement was established at Masulipatam in 1611 and in 1639 and in 1690 Fort St. George and Fort St. David were built at Madras and Texanapatam, respectively, with the permission of the ruling Hindu princes. The fort of Tellicherry in Malabar was similarly established by the Bombay Government in 1683. The first footing in Tanjore was gained in 1749 by the capture of Devakottai which was afterwards ceded on condition that the English desisted from helping a rival claimant to the throne. Muzapha Jang and Salabat Jang had ceded Masulipatam and portions of the Northern Circars to the French, but, on the capture of Masulipatam by the English in 1759, the influence of the French was broken, and the town of Masulipatam and a considerable tract of the surrounding territory were made over to the English. In 1765 sanads ceding the whole of the Northern Circars were obtained direct from the Padshah of Delhi, but the Madras Government thought it more politic to obtain the consent of the Nizam also, and in 1768 the five Circars of Ellore, Chicacole, Rajahmundry, Mustafanagar, and Multuzanagar or Ganjpur were ceded by treaty, on the English agreeing to pay an annual subsidy of nine lakhs, and to furnish military assistance when required. The Dutch settlements of Pulicat, Sadras and Negapatam were captured for the second and last time in 1795, and ceded by the series of treaties closing the Napoleonic wars. The earlier wars with Haidar and Tippu were concluded with a peace on the basis of mutual restitution of territory, but by the treaty of 1792 the districts of Malabar and Salem and the Dindigul division of Madura were acquired by the English, and on the partition of Tippu's territory in 1799 the districts of Kanara and Combatore fell to the share of the British Government. During the wars of the eighteenth century the English more than once interfered in the disputes between the Raja of Tanjore and the Nawab of the Carnatic, and in 1778 a treaty was concluded by which Nagore and 277 villages were ceded to the Company. The internal affairs of the Tanjore kingdom continued to go from bad to worse, and, after a turbulent period of disputed succession, the rightful claimant to the throne, on being put into power in 1799, executed a treaty resigning the administration of the kingdom into the hands of the British on the understanding that he would receive a provision of one lakh of pagodas and one-fifth of the net revenues. The titular dignity became extinct in 1855 through failure of male heirs. In 1800 a new treaty was entered into with the Nizam by which a considerable increase was made in the British subsidiary force, on account of which the Nizam ceded all the territories he had acquired by the Mysore treaties of 1792 and 1799 together with the taluk of Adoni and all other taluks situated to the south of the rivers Tungabhadra and Kistna. These are known by the name of the Ceded Districts, and comprise the provinces of Bellary, Anantapur and Cuddapah. The English having in all the earlier wars of the peninsula supported the cause of Muhammad Ali, Nawab of the Carnatic, and having in fact secured him both the original possession of his kingdom and the power of retaining it, the revenues of the Carnatic were looked to for the defrayal of the expenses of the wars, and with this view the present district of Chingleput, then known as the jaghire, was made over to the Company in 1763. This was rented to the Nawab for some time, but in 1780 the British Government took the management into their own hands. As new wars arose fresh agreements were made, and a series of treaties were executed culminating in that of 1792, three years before the death of Muhammad Ali and the accession of Umdat-ul-Umra, by which the Nawab agreed to pay a large subsidy, and, in order to secure punctual payment the English were authorized to collect tribute direct from a large number of the Pologars or local chieftains. In the event of the balance not being paid, the English were further authorized to assume the management of certain specified districts. In accordance with this treaty tribute was collected throughout a great part of the Tinnevely and Madura districts, and in 1795 the Company assumed the entire management of the Ramnad district. On the fall of Srīngapatnam in 1799 it was discovered that both Muhammad Ali and Umdat-ul-Umra had been carrying on a treasonable correspondence with Mysore and the treaty of 1792 having thus been intruded the British Government resolved to assume the entire management of the Carnatic, and proposed a treaty for the purpose. Umdat-ul-Umra having died before arrangements were concluded, and his reputed son Ali Husain having rejected the terms offered him, another grandson of Muhammad Ali named Azim-ud-Daula was declared his successor, and an arrangement was entered into on the 31st July 1801, by which he resigned the Government of the country into the hands of the British, retaining the titular dignity and receiving a liberal stipend. The effect of this treaty was to bring under British rule the whole of the country from the Northern Circars to Cape Comorin, with the exception of the French settlements of Pondicherry and Karikal and the Danish settlement of Tranquebar. The titular dignity of Nawab of the Carnatic was continued until 1855 when there was a failure of direct heirs. The present representative of the family bears the title of Prince of Arcot, and has the position of the first Muhammadan nobleman of the Presidency. In 1838 internal mismanagement and suspicion of treasonable intrigue on the part of the Nawab of Kurnool led to the occupation of his territory by an armed force and to its subsequent annexation. Tranquebar was ceded by the Danes in 1845. The district of North Kanara was transferred from this Presidency to the Bombay Presidency in 1862.

The Last Century.—Since the beginning of the nineteenth century, Madras has known no regular war, but occasional disturbances have called for measures of military repression. The Pologars or local chieftains in the south long adhered to their independence after their country was ceded to the British. On the West Coast, the religious fanaticism of the Mappillas has more than once led to bloodshed, until 1921, when the propensity received a stimulus from agitators from outside the district, the outbreaks were generally of an isolated and sporadic nature, those immediately concerned invariably preferred death to capture, and more frequent outrages were only prevented by the removal from Malabar of many of the persons most likely to disturb the peace. In the north the tribes occupying the hills which till recently formed part of the districts of Ganjam and Vizagapatam have only in comparatively recent times been brought under a stable form of government and taught to respect the forces of law and order, and the events of 1922 have shown that they may still be excited to rebellion. In 1836, the zamindar of Goomsur in Ganjam was attacked by Government on account of the rebellious conduct of the chief. An inquiry then instituted revealed the wide prevalence among the Khonds of human sacrifice under the name of "mitchah". The practice was subsequently suppressed by a special agency. In 1879 the country known by the name of Rampā, then in the Gōdāvarī district, was the scene of disturbances which it took a considerable body of troops nearly two years to put down. Troops again had to be called out in 1882 when the Hindus and Muhammadans of Salem came into collision in connexion with a question of religious processions. In the extreme south the long-standing resentment of the Maravas against the pretensions of the Shanars—a caste whose hereditary profession was toddy-drawing—to a higher social and religious position, broke out into what were known as the Anti-Shanar riots in 1899, when the town of Sivakasi was looted and burned by five thousand Maravas and other villages were attacked with some loss of life. Military aid had to be called in to restore peace and a punitive police force was stationed in the area of the disturbance for some years.

Recent Events.—The first few years of the present century were uneventful apart from a few local riots due to religious or lacious disputes, but in 1906 the political unrest which had developed in other parts of India spread to Madras and, fanned by inflammatory speeches, exhibited itself in the next two or three years in strikes and riots, the most serious of which took the form of an attack by a large mob on the European club at Cocanada in 1907 and the guilting of public offices and assaults on Government officers at Tinnevely and Tuticorin in 1908. These ebullitions of mob violence were shortlived, but the anarchical movement continued to attract volaries whose vanity was flattered by a section of the public press, and culminated in June 1911 in the murder of Mr. R. W. d'E. Ashe, the Collector of Tinnevely, by one of these volaries who immediately afterwards shot himself. The investigations which ensued showed that there had been a widespread conspiracy; one of those prominently concerned received a long sentence of imprisonment and others were driven into forced inactivity.

Madras and the Great War.—The outbreak of the Great War in 1914 was accompanied by manifestations of loyalty from all classes and creeds. The chiefs and notables of the Presidency laid their resources at the disposal of His Majesty and the Madras War Fund, instituted at the instance of His Excellency the Governor, received subscriptions amounting to Rs. 27 lakhs in the first ten months and finally reached Rs. 74·63 lakhs by the 31st March 1919. The fund was principally devoted to the equipment and maintenance of the hospital ship "Madras" and the river hospital ship "Sikkim," but it was also used to purchase horses and to provide a number of motor cyclists and a corps of gardeners who were despatched to Mesopotamia. In addition to these activities the Ladies' depot maintained a continuous supply of comforts to the troops serving in the East and considerable sums were contributed to the Imperial Relief Fund and other special funds. As the war went on and the need for men became greater, a regular recruiting agency was organized and finally the Presidency contributed 32,718 combatants and 28,895 non-combatants to the Indian Army. The decay of the military tradition in Madras rendered the awakening of the old martial spirit which led the armies of Cornwallis and Wellesley no easy task, but the final result was satisfactory and the men served with credit in various theatres of the war and more especially in Mesopotamia.

"Emden."—In September 1914 the German raider "Emden" bombarded Madras which was thus the only part of India directly attacked by the enemy. The bombardment caused considerable panic at the time and it was not till the next year that confidence was fully restored. In other respects the Presidency was affected by the war in much the same way as the rest of India, possibly to rather a less extent than more martial and industrial provinces. The restrictions on trade and shipping, coupled with an unfavourable season in 1918 and the inevitable rise in prices, led to a certain amount of real distress and some rioting. At the same time there was a fresh outbreak of Shanar-Maravar ill-feeling in the neighbourhood of Kamudi in the Ramnad district which necessitated a fresh imposition of punitive police. The dislocation of trade was naturally enormous and there has yet been no real recovery, but mention must be made of the very large Government transactions during the war on account of the purchase of tanned hides by the War Office. A very large proportion of the British Army was shod with Madras leather.

Home Rule Agitation.—The development of the political situation since the beginning of the war has been most remarkable. The year 1916 saw the beginnings of a new Home Rule agitation accompanied by organized efforts to stir up ill-will against the Government and the European community and to work on the feelings of the student population. Steps to counter these efforts were followed in 1917 by an unprecedented outbreak of violent and provocative language on the part of the extremist party which led to action under both the Press Act of 1910 and the Defence of India Act. The excesses of the extremists, however, eventually roused opposition and in some measure led to the organization of the non-Brahman party and its subsequent rise to power. A split occurred between the Muhammadan and Hindu elements in the Home Rule party and its subsequent energies were directed to an attempt at a labour organization on political lines. It was in August of this year—1917—that the now famous pronouncement of the Secretary of State was made as to the development of India on self-governing lines, and the Viceroy and Mr. Montagu paid their visit to the Presidency in an atmosphere which was generally characterised by an unprecedented degree of political disturbance and mutual recriminations. The year 1918 saw the end of the war and the continuance of the agitation with much violent speaking and writing, which occasioned frequent resort to the penalties provided by the Press Act of 1910. Early in the next year the Hindu position turned on the protest against the Rowlatt Bills.

Jallianwallah Bagh—In March 1919 occurred the disturbances in the Punjab which necessitated the proclamation of Martial law followed by the commission of inquiry into its administration. The action of General Dyer at Jallianwallah Bagh and the atrocities alleged to have accompanied the suppression of the disturbances have formed the stock in trade of the extremist orator ever since. On the other hand the peace terms to be imposed on Turkey caused some anxiety as to the attitude of the Muhammadan population, and though their leaders, with one or two notorious exceptions, represented their views at the time with great moderation, the question of the guardianship of the Holy places and the temporal power of the Khalif has since formed the war cry of the Khilafat agitation. The more moderate elements of the Home Rule party adopted a more reasonable and constitutional attitude after the introduction of the Government of India Act which inaugurated the Reforms, but the more extreme members, both Hindu and Muhammadan, remained irreconcilable and united under the leadership of M. K. Gandhi and the Indian National Congress in pursuing the policy which came to be known by the name of Non-co-operation. The party which adopted this creed refused to listen to the gracious message of His Majesty the King to the people of India on the passing of the Reforms Act at the end of 1919 and devoted all its efforts to boycotting the elections to the new Councils which took place in 1920. They induced or compelled a few persons to resign their titles and to abstain from voting at the elections, but on the whole their efforts were unsuccessful and the percentage of electors who recorded their votes surpassed expectations.

The Non-Brahman Party—The result of the elections was a decisive victory for the non-Brahman party and a Ministry was eventually formed of three non-Brahmans. The new Legislative Council was inaugurated when His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught visited Madras in January 1921. It is no exaggeration to say that no Government could have been faced with greater difficulties on its accession to power. In addition to the financial stringency, which was partly a legacy of the war and the necessity which the rise in prices imposed of increasing salaries all round, and partly a result of the settlement by which this Presidency has to contribute a very large proportion of its revenues to the Central Government, the new Government were met and hampered at every turn by the malicious activities of the non-co-operators. Among the principal items in their programme, the boycott of Government schools and courts of law met with only a little temporary enthusiasm and had no practical effect; the attempted boycotting of foreign cloth may have accentuated the position brought about by bad trade conditions; but the chief effect of the methods by which they professed to promote temperance was a very serious reduction of the public revenue without appreciable diminution in the consumption of drink. In spite of lip service to the principle of "non-violence," they did not hesitate to employ intimidation and actual physical compulsion to prevent bidding at the auctions of licences and to keep customers away from the shops, and similar methods were employed to bring about the suspension of all business on set occasions when haitals were proclaimed. In the direction of the exploitation of labour for political ends their efforts culminated in a series of very serious disorders in the city of Madras from July to September 1921, in the course of which the police were compelled to open fire on several occasions; and troops had to be called in to assist them, and other forms taken by the movement were the encouragement of defiance to the Forest regulations, which led to bloodshed on more than one occasion, and a definite campaign for the non-payment of taxes and civil disobedience, which was actually attempted on a large scale in the Guntur district at the beginning of 1922.

The Māppilla Rebellion.—The crowning achievement of the Non-co operation and Khilafat agitation in this Presidency was the Māppilla rebellion of 1921. The Māppillas of South Malabar are well known for their fanaticism and their liability to periodical outbursts and they obviously provided the most inflammable of materials to the agitator who dwelt on alleged insults to their religion. There were signs of trouble early in the year, but firm action on the part of the District officers checked the agitation and produced an outward appearance of quietness; but at the beginning of August 1921 the police came into conflict with a crowd of Mappillas in attempting to arrest an offender and were compelled to give up the attempt. Reinforcements were collected, including a detachment of troops, and on August 20th a force of police and military proceeded to Tirurangadi to arrest the ringleaders of the movement. This action was the signal for a general rising all over the Ernad and Walluvanad taluks of the district. The force at Tirurangadi was attacked by enormous mobs of Mappillas and two European officers—one in the police and the other in the Leinster Regiment—were killed. The railway line was torn up in many places, road communications were blocked and public offices were attacked and looted. Military reinforcements were hurried to the spot and a small garrison which had been cut off at Malappuram, the centre of the rebellion area, was relieved at the end of August after a severe engagement at a place called Pukkottur, in which, after five hours' fighting, over 100 of the rebels must have been killed. Another British police officer was killed in this engagement and several men were wounded. Almost from the beginning the rising definitely assumed the form of fanatical attacks on all non-Muhammadans; the Hindus were the chief sufferers, many being murdered and others forcibly converted to Muhammadanism. The rebels adopted guerilla methods of warfare and over a full brigade of regular troops including detachments of the Leinster, Suffolk and Dorset Regiments, two Gurkha Battalions, a Garhwali and a Burma Battalion and a specially raised force of 700 military police had to be employed before the rebellion was finally suppressed. Twenty-four policemen were killed and 29 wounded and 26 of the Military were killed and 108 wounded in the course of the operations; Martial Law which was proclaimed on the 26th August 1921 was withdrawn on 24th February 1922, but it was not until August of that year that the last of the rebel leaders was accounted for. In the magnitude of the operations the rebellion surpassed all modern experience in the Madras Presidency; and it has naturally left behind it a bitterness of feeling and a number of problems which it will take many years to assuage and to solve. A most distressing occurrence which took place on 19th November 1921 was the death by asphyxiation of 70 Mappilla prisoners in the train, while they were being conveyed from the disturbed area to Bellary jail. The incident was made the subject of a special committee of inquiry on whose report the Government of India passed orders in September 1922.

Such were the circumstances in which the Reforms were started in the Madras Presidency and it is a tribute to the sound commonsense of the more responsible elements who found themselves in the Legislative Council that they were able to vindicate, to the extent to which they did, the value and the dignity of constitutional Government. It must of course be remembered that in spite of the virulence of the agitation, the large majority of the agricultural population of the Presidency remained entirely unaffected, at any rate until 1921. In that year, it is true, there were indications of a generally diminished respect for the law, but the movement subsided after the arrest and conviction of Gandhi in March 1922 and the calmness with which this action was received seems to show that the people were tired of the tyranny which had been exercised in his name.

Current Events—The first important event of the year was the visit of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who landed at Madras on the 13th January and left on the 18th, after an arduous round of official and private functions, including visits to the Legislative Council and the University. His Royal Highness was received with enthusiasm wherever he went, and though the non-co-operating faction, in their endeavours to secure a hartal, succeeded in arousing a spirit of hooliganism among some of the lower classes in the city on the day of his arrival and in causing a considerable amount of annoyance to law-abiding citizens and damage to tram-cars and private property, the disturbance was suppressed in a few hours; and there was no further interference with the celebrations. The Legislative Council experienced a year of particular difficulty owing to the financial shortage, one main cause of which was the very large reduction in the excise revenue as a result of the activities of the non-co-operators. To meet this, drastic economies were made, covering a total sum of

Rs. 71 lakhs and Bills were introduced for increasing the revenue under the heads of Stamps, Court Fees and Village Officers Cesses, the estimates under the first two heads amounting to Rs. 70 lakhs and under the last to Rs. 10½ lakhs. The Council accepted the first two proposals, but rejected the third. The budget, which on first introduction provided for a deficit of Rs. 22.48 lakhs showed at the close of the discussions a deficit of Rs. 42.05 lakhs, the main reason for which was the Council's decision to add to the salaries of the village officers, while rejecting the proposals to levy cesses to meet the bill. At the beginning of the year the Mappilla rebellion, though most of its force had been spent, had not been finally suppressed. Operations against the Mappillas were pursued vigorously and by the 24th February it was found possible to withdraw Martial Law, some of the troops had left the district before that date and others were removed as time went on, but military assistance was needed until the end of May, and the battalion at Cannanore had to be indentured on again in September to garrison the posts of the special police who were sent to the Agency. It was not till August that the Konnaia Tangal, the last of the important leaders, was arrested. The place of the Martial Law Ordinance was taken by the Malabar (Restoration of Order) Ordinance, under which the special criminal courts, instituted to deal with cases arising out of the rebellion were retained and power was given to the civil authorities to make regulations for the maintenance of order. This was succeeded in August by the Malabar (Completion of Trials) Ordinance which retained the courts for the trial of offenders who had been arrested and were awaiting trial at the time of the expiry of the Restoration of Order Ordinance. The number of offenders to be dealt with was very large, and in view of the possibility that all the cases arising out of the rebellion would not be disposed of by the 24th February 1923, when the last Ordinance expires, and also to provide for the performance of residuary functions, the Legislative Council in December passed a Bill which, on receipt of the assent of the Governor and the Governor-General, will come into force as the Malabar (Completion of Trials) Act. Meanwhile the process of reconstruction has been going on. Private bodies, and especially the Servants of India Society, have taken an active part in relieving the necessities of suiters and the Government have disbursed nearly 10 lakhs of rupees in loans. It was for a long time difficult to persuade the Hindu inhabitants, and especially the large landholders, of the affected area to trust themselves in the villages from which they had fled, but confidence was gradually restored, over the greater part of the area the crops were sown in good time; and a favourable monsoon had brought a bumper harvest. There were at no time pronounced signs of distress and by the end of the year conditions were becoming normal.

Non-co-operation.—In some other parts of the Presidency the non-co-operation movement appeared, early in the year, to have obtained a hold over a section of the population. There was a definite and widespread refusal to pay the land-tax in the Guntur district in January and February, with threatenings of civil disobedience of a similar kind in a few other districts. Rigorous action on the part of the local officers, the quartering of additional police on the worst affected areas and, in Guntur, the presence of a company of infantry, a few armoured cars and a small detachment of His Excellency the Governor's Body-guard had a good effect. The revenue in Guntur was collected before the end of March and elsewhere at the normal times; and after the arrest of Gandhi the political atmosphere cleared very considerably, though the Government and their officers continued to be subjected to malicious and often scurrilous vilification, and proceedings had to be instituted against individual agitators. In spite of some appearance of excitement in a few places during the visit of what was called the "Civil Disobedience Enquiry Committee," the improvement was maintained throughout the rest of the year; and the majority of the persons arrested in connexion with the non-co-operation movement have now been released.

Rampa Disturbance.—In the latter part of August an outbreak occurred in the Gudum hills, which were formerly a part of the Vizagapatam district and are now attached to the Rampa sub division of the Agency division. A man named Alluri Sirama Razu, a native of the Kistna district, who has been living in these hills for the past year or two and had established a reputation for sanctity, gathered a band of local malcontents, and raided three police stations, securing 26 carbines and a large quantity of ammunition. His followers, whose numbers were believed at one time to have reached 200, had, in addition, other arms varying from sporting guns to bows and arrows, and taking advantage of their superior mobility and knowledge of the country, which consists of steep jungle-covered hills, entirely baffled the local police. Their leader proclaimed himself king and declared war on the Government, but except for attacks on the police, confined his depredations to the commandeering of food for his band and—no doubt partly because he was regarded as a saint—received more assistance from the villagers than did the police. The latter were ambushed more than once and on one occasion sustained a severe reverse, two promising young police officers—Messrs. Scott Coward and Hayter—and two constables being killed, two other men wounded, and six .303 rifles taken by the rebels. It was not till a considerable body of the special police from Malabar had been brought to the Agency that any impression was made on the rebellion. In the first week in December, however, two detachments of the Malabar police succeeded in getting up with the gang and forcing two engagements in which 13 rebels were killed and 5 captured. Sirama Razu and his two lieutenants escaped and the gang scattered or went into hiding and all trace of them was lost till the end of the year.

Madras City.

Descriptive.—The capital of the Madras Presidency and the third largest town in the Indian Empire is built in a straggling fashion on a strip of land 9 miles long, from 2 to 4 miles wide, and 27 square miles in extent, on the shore of the Bay of Bengal in $13^{\circ} 4' N.$ and $80^{\circ} 15' E.$ The site is low-lying and almost dead level, its highest point being only 22 feet above the sea, and it is intersected by two languid streams, the odoriferous Cooum and the Adyar, of which the former enters the sea immediately south of Fort St. George, in the centre of the city, and the latter near the southern boundary. Neither of them carries enough water to keep a clear channel, and except in the rains they both form salt lagoons separated from the sea by narrow ridges of sand.

George town.—The commercial centre of the city is called Black Town (officially changed to Georgetown in 1906) which lies immediately behind the harbour and the two or three streets of European banks and Mercantile offices which there face the sea, and is more thickly populated than any other part. Triplicane, the chief Muhammadan quarter, and Purasawalkam and Vepery, where the greater number of the Eurasians reside, come next in density. All these lie in the middle of the city, but they are separated from one another by ample open spaces which will never be built over. Chief of these spaces is the Island, the city's principal parade and recreation ground, which is surrounded by the two arms of the Cooum river, and forms part of an extensive fire zone which the military authorities have reserved round the Fort. Next in importance comes the People's Park, begun in 1839 during Sir Charles Trevelyan's Governorship, which consists of ornamental grounds with a considerable zoological collection. The Napier Park lying between Mount Road and Clintondripet, and the Robinson Park, north of George Town, are also due to the initiative of Governors of the Presidency—namely, Lord Napier (1866–72) and Sir William Robinson (1875). Next to the Napier Park come the extensive grounds of Government House, and the open space round the group of public buildings which face the sea south of the Cooum. All these serve as lungs to the crowded centre of the city. Of the surrounding fringe the most thickly peopled area is that immediately north of George Town, and its population will probably continue to increase rapidly, as it lies close to the busy quarter.

The European Quarters.—The principal European quarters are in the west and south of the fringe, in Egmore, Chetput, Kilpauk, Nungunbakam, Teynampel and in the strip of land on the north bank of the Adyar river. Here are the fine houses built by the merchant princes and the servants of John Company at the end of the eighteenth and the beginning of the nineteenth century, when officials were still allowed to trade. Many, such as Brodie Castle, Doveton House, Gambier's Gardens, still bear the names of the authors, their being all of these are built of brick cased with shell-lime plaster (chunam), and are designed on very generous lines. Thezananas attached to some of them bear witness to the social customs of the period. Modern residences are planned on a more lowly scale and employ red brick.

These quarters of the City are served by handsome thoroughfares. Chief among them is Mount Road, running from the Wallajah Gate of the Fort across the Island, past Government House, the Madras Club, St. George's Cathedral, and the Horticultural Gardens, thence beside the bank of the Long Tank, over the Adyar by the Marmalong Bridge (built in 1726 by Petrus Uscan, the most notable of the Armenians of old Madras) to the Governor's country residence at Guindy and the cantonment of St. Thomas' Mount, 9 miles from the Fort. Nearly parallel to it, the shorter Mowbray's Road, with its fine banian avenue, leads to the Adyar Club, built by Mowbray, the first Accountant-General, and at St. George's Cathedral it is crossed by the Cathedral Road and the Nungumbaukam High Road. The latter of these runs up to the once fashionable quarter on the Poonamallee Road, while the former leads eastwards to the Marina, a broad esplanade, built in the Governorship of Sir M E Grant Duff, which runs along the sea front from the High Court to the suburb of St. Thome, and has the makings of one of the finest thoroughfares in India.

Public buildings.—The public buildings of Madras are more than usually handsome, but this again is a fact which the stranger is not likely to perceive immediately, for they are scattered about in a manner that robs them of all collective effect. The Post and Telegraph Office and the new Bank of Madras building are naturally near the harbour and the mercantile centre of the city, and so are the High Court and its appendage the Law College. The Fort, the zone reserved round it, and the Coom sewer have, however, prevented the erection of other public buildings near these facing the sea, so that the next collection of them is more than a mile away on the Marina south of the Coom mouth. This group consists of the Senate House, the beautiful office of the Board of Revenue (formerly the palace of the Nawabs of Arcot), and the Presidency College. Hidden in various isolated sites throughout the city are many other fine buildings. Government House, the Banqueting Hall, built by the second Lord Clive in 1802, and containing portraits of many Governors of Madras, the Museum and Commemorative Library, the nucleus of which was the old Pantheon; St. George's Cathedral, Ionic in style and finished with the polished plaster-work that resembles marble; the Memorial Hall, erected by public subscription to commemorate the exemption of Madras from the horrors of the Mutiny; and others, which, seen singly, fail to arouse enthusiasm, but grouped together or more favourably situated would make an impressive collection.

The earlier public buildings, of which the Banqueting Hall and the Cathedral are instances, were built of brick cased with plaster moulded into detail copied from the Italian and other European Schools. Since the introduction of granite from Cuddapah and North Arcot in 1861, local architecture has, however, been slowly working towards an adaptation of the Hindu Saracenic, and the High Court, the Law College and the Bank of Madras are built in this style, in red brick and grey granite. The latest building material is the beautiful brown stone from Nellore, close grained yet easily worked, of which the Young Men's Christian Association building on the Esplanade is made.

Fort St. George.—Fort St. George was commenced in February 1610 by Mr. Francis Day; originally it consisted of a factory and other buildings surrounded by a wall with four bastions, the whole being about 100 yards square. In 1643 it was garrisoned by 100 men, the number being reduced a few years later to 26. The "White Town," which grew up around the fort, was gradually walled in and defended by bastions and batteries. It measured about 600 yards from east to west. Immediately to the north, on what is now the Lighthouse Esplanade, was the Black Town, which was also in its turn walled in and defended. Between 1670 and 1680 some effort was made to improve and strengthen the position—a necessity forced on the Company by the successive retirement and encroachment of the sea, by the presence of the French at Saint Thome, and by the threatening advance of Sivaji. Saint Mary's, the first English Church in India, was commenced in 1678 and finished in 1680. In 1702 the fort was blockaded for three months by Nawab Daud Khan. In 1740, Mr Joseph Smith, the Engineer, submitted a scheme for making the fort defensible and for doubling its enclosed area. Practically nothing had been done, however, when Labourdonnais attacked the place and took it after a short bombardment in 1746. When, three years later, the English re-entered the fort, they found it little changed, though a glacis had been made on the north and south faces and half the Black Town had been destroyed. The distinguished scientist and author Benjamin Robins was now deputed as Engineer-General to complete the enlargement of the fort, he adopted Mr Smith's plans and, though he died in 1752, his designs were carried out by Messrs. Brohier and Call. Work was commenced in 1755 and for two years 4,000 labourers were continuously employed. The river was diverted from its course, and the old bed filled up. The south wall was prolonged across the old bed and three new western bastions, connected by curtains, were built on what had been part of the Island. The fort was thus converted from a quadrangle into a half decagon, of which the gorge was closed by the seaface, while the internal area was doubled. Thus when the French returned in 1758 under Lally, the place, although far from perfect, was fit for Pigot and Lawrence to defend. Immediately after the siege the remainder of old Black Town was demolished to provide a clear field of fire, and the suburbs of Mulhalpetta and Peddanaikpetta gradually developed into Black Town which, in 1769, was walled along its northern and western faces. In the meantime the defensive works of Fort St George were continued under Major Call and Colonel Ross till, in 1787, the fortress was completed very much as it now stands. Within it are nearly all the Government Offices—Secretariat and the Council Chamber, the military head-quarters, Arsenal and Barracks. The Arsenal contains many trophies of the wars in which the Madras Army has been engaged. In St. Mary's Church are buried the Missionary Schwartz, Sir Thomas Munro, Sir Henry Ward, Lord Pigot and Lord Hobart. The grave-stones of the old cemetery which occupied the site of the present Law College were with two exceptions removed after the siege of 1758–59 to St. Mary's Church, where they now form a pavement round the building. The two stones still on the original site are those of Elihu Yale, son of Governor Yale, who founded Yale College in the United States; and of Mr Powney of the Civil Service. Among the most interesting of the tombstones on the pavement is that of Agent Harry Greenhill, who died at Madras, 4th January 1659. In the Parade square in front of the Secretariat there stood, until recent years, a statue of Lord Cornwallis, Governor-General. The statue is now in the Connemara Library having been removed there in the year 1906 as the sea air was affecting the marble.

Government House, Madras—In 1681 a "Garden-house" was completed for the use of the Governor on the site now occupied by the General Hospital and Medical College. That house was destroyed by Labourdonnais when he occupied Madras in 1746. In 1753 a new garden-house in Triplicane was acquired from the executors of Mr Luis de Medeiros. The house was a large one with a frontage of about 130 feet and stood in a rectangular compound laid down in the Italian style about 400 yards long from east to west and 85 yards wide. That house was the nucleus of the present Government House. At the time spoken of, the roads which now bound the Park did not exist. The Triplicane High Road ran north without deviation up to the Government House Bridge and passed within 50 yards of the House, that is, through the present compound. Additions were made to the compound and the Park from time to time. In 1758 the Government House was occupied by the French Count de Lally when besieging Madras. He pulled down its verandahs, destroyed private houses near it and burned the village of Chepauk.

The house was put in order again in 1762 and was much improved between 1786 and 1789 when Sir Archibald Campbell was the Governor. The second Lord Clive, however, found it inadequate, either as a residence or as a place for holding State entertainments. Extensive alterations and improvements in the house were carried out under his auspices between 1800 and 1802, and the Banqueting Hall, which stands by the side of the main house, was formally opened in 1802.

The compound was extended to the beach by including part of the Chepauk Gardens which had lately been taken over from the Nawab of the Carnatic. The present Government House has a frontage of 250 feet. The Park is 70 acres in extent

Government House, Gundy.—Sir Thomas Munro wrote a Minute in 1821 pointing out that the original Governor's House in the Fort having been taken up as Secretariat Offices, the Garden House (in Triplicane) had become the Town House (the present Government House at Madras). He considered, therefore, that the Governor should have, as heretofore, a country residence, and proposed the acquisition of Gundy Lodge. The Government approved of the proposal and the property was acquired with some additional land. The building was improved and added to in 1822. Further additions to the building have been made from time to time and more land has been acquired for the Park.

The Council Chamber.—Prior to 1910 the Council of the Governor of Fort St. George held their meetings in a room in the present Secretariat Buildings. The enlargement of the Legislative Council in that year made a new Council Chamber necessary and the present building was erected on the eastern side of the Secretariat. The further enlargement of the Council now made has rendered still more accommodation necessary and this has been provided by adding a second storey to the buildings of 1910. The black pillars in the building are of historical interest. In the thirties of the eighteenth century, Governor Pitt constructed a handsome colonnade from the Fort square to the sea-gate roofed over and lined with 32 pillars of black Pallavaram gneiss. When the French captured Madras in 1746 they carried off these columns to Pondicherry. There they remained until 1761, in which year the British stormed the place and restored the pillars to their former position in Pitt's Arcade. The best preserved of these columns were added to the New Council Chamber when it was built in 1910 and have been retained in the present structure.

Statues.—The chief statues of Madras are those of Her Majesty the late Queen-Empress, near the Senate House; of King Edward VII, opposite the Mount Road entrance to Government House; of His Imperial Majesty King George V. near the Pachaiyappa's College, of Lord Cornwallis, in the Connemara Library, of Sir Thomas Munro, on the Island, of General Neill, of Mutiny fame, opposite the Madras Club, of Lord Ripon near the Round Tannah, of Justice Sir T. Muttuswami Ayyar, in the High Court; of Mr Powell in the Presidency College; of the Rev. Dr. Miller on the Esplanade, opposite the Christian College, of Justice Boddam, north of Willington Bridge and of Sir V. Krishna-swamy Ayyar, on the Marina near the Senate House. The inscriptions on these statues are given below.

1. Queen Victoria.—Victoria, Queen Empress of India. This statue is erected in token of his loyalty, respect and admiration of Her Majesty's many virtues by her faithful subject Rajah Goday Narain Guputtee Rao of Sree Godav family, Vizagapatam, unveiled by the Right Honorable the Lord Connemara, Governor of Fort St George, June 20, 1887, presented to the City of Madras in commemoration of Her Majesty's Jubilee

2. King Edward VII.—Presented to the City of Madras by Rao Bahadur Lodd Krishnadas Balmukundas, unveiled by His Excellency Lord Amphill, G.C.I.E., Governor of Madras, 8th April 1908

3. King George V.—This Statue of His Majesty King George V, Emperor of India, was presented to the City of Madras by Govindoss Chathoorbhoojadosh, A.D. 1914.

4. Lord Cornwallis.—This statue is erected by a general vote at the joint expense of the principal inhabitants of Madras and Military servants of the East India Company belonging to the Presidency of Fort St. George, as a grateful testimony of the high sense they entertain of the conduct and actions of the most noble the Marquis Cornwallis, during the time he held the high Office of Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of all the Forces in India.

5. Sir Thomas Munro—Munro Statue. Major-General Sir Thomas Munro, Bart., K.C.B., Governor of Madras, 1820–1827. Born 27th May 1761. Died 6th July 1827.

6. Brigadier-General Neill—James George Smith Neill, C.B., Aide-de-Camp to the Queen, Lieutenant-Colonel of the Madras Fusiliers, Brigadier-General in India. A brave, resolute, self-reliant soldier. Universally acknowledged as the first who stemmed the torrent of rebellion in Bengal. He fell gloriously at the relief of Lucknow, 25th September 1857. Age 47.

Erected by public subscription, 1860.

7. Marquess of Ripon—The most Honorable George Frederick Samuel Marquess of Ripon, K.G., 1827–1909. Secretary of State for War, 1863–1866; Secretary of State for India, 1866, Lord President of the Council, 1868–1873, First High Joint Commissioner to the United States, 1871, Viceroy of India, 1880–1884, First Lord of the Admiralty, 1886, Secretary of State for the Colonies, 1892–1895, Lord Privy Seal, 1906–1908, Grand Master of the Freemasons of England, 1870–1874; Lord Lieutenant of the North Riding of Yorkshire, 1879–1906, Chairman of the West Riding County Council, 1889–1892; Chancellor of the University of Leeds, 1904–1909, Mayor of Ripon, 1895–1896.

8. Sir T. Mutthuswami Ayyar.—Tiruvannamur Mutthuswami Ayyar, K.C.I.E., Judge of the High Court, 1878–1895.

9. E. B. Powell—Eyre Burton Powell, M.A., C.S.I., the First Principal of this College and afterwards Director of Public Instruction. Erected by many Rajas, Zamindars, former Pupils and Friends, to mark their respect for his character and their grateful appreciation of his services in the cause of higher education for more than 30 years.

10. Dr William Miller.—William Miller, LL.D., D.D., C.I.E., Principal, Madras Christian College. Erected by public subscription, A.D. 1901. "A Missionary Teacher, known alike for his piety and public zeal, whose services in the cause of higher education are probably unsurpassed in India"—Lord Napier in the House of Lords. Unveiled by His Excellency Lord Amphil, G.C.I.E., Governor of Madras, 1st January 1901.

11. Justice Boddam—This statue was erected by public subscription in honour of Hungerford Tudor Boddam, one of His Majesty's Judges of the High Court of Judicature at Madras and in memory of the unselfish and public-spirited services rendered by him in organizing and maintaining various institutions for the public good. This statue was unveiled by His Excellency Sir Arthur Lawley, K.C.M.G., G.C.I.E., Governor of Madras, on the 25th October 1911.

12. Sir V. Krishnaswami Ayyar.—V. Krishnaswami Ayyar, C.S.I., Member, Madras Executive Council. Born 1863. Died 1911. Erected by public subscription.

Churches—The Churches of Madras deserve more space than can be accorded them. The foundation-stone of the Luz Church bears the date 1516 and the oldest European inscription in India. The St. Thome Cathedral contains a series of memorials to Portuguese pioneers, beginning in 1537. St. Mary's Church in the Fort, consecrated in 1680, is the oldest Protestant place of worship in India, and contains the graves of Governor Nicholas Morse, a great grandson of Oliver Cromwell and the man who capitulated to LaBourdonnais in 1746, of Lord Pigot, who defended the Fort against Lally in 1759, and was afterwards deposed and imprisoned by his own Council; of the famous Schwartz, missionary and statesman of Sir Thomas Munro, who died of cholera while on a farewell tour in his beloved Ceded Districts in 1827; and of many others who have made Madras history. The Roman Catholic Cathedral in Armenian Street was erected in 1776 by the Capuchins; and about the same time the Armenians, then a wealthy and influential community, built their church in the same street. St. Mark's, Blacktown, was consecrated in 1804, St. George's Cathedral in 1815, and St. Andrew's (the Scotch Kirk) in 1821. The two last were designed by the Civil Architect, Major De Havilland.

The principal Hindu temples are those dedicated to Vishnu and Siva respectively in Triplicane and Mylapore; and the chief mosque is that in Triplicane.

Climate, Temperature and Rainfall.—The climate of Madras has been described with considerable accuracy as three months hot and nine months hotter. The cooler months are never cold, the mean temperature of December and January being 76°; but the heat in the summer does not approach that of Northern India, the mean for May and June being the moderate figure of 90°. The mean for the year is 83°. The annual rainfall, based on figures for eighty-five years, averages 49 inches of which 29½ inches are received during the north east monsoon from October to December and 15 inches, from June to September in the south-west monsoon. The heaviest recorded fall during this period was 88 inches in 1827, and the smallest 18 inches in 1832, the year before the Guntur famine.

Cyclones—Like other places on the Bay of Bengal, Madras is liable to severe cyclones. In October 1687, a storm raged for five days and drove ashore two ships lying in the roads. In 1721 another storm swept four ships from their moorings and wrecked one of them. On October 3, 1716, when La Bourdonnais' fleet was in the roads after the capture of the town, a cyclone sank three of his ships and two prizes, while four others either lost or cut away their masts and 1,200 men were drowned. In 1782 more than 100 native craft which had come to Madras with rice to feed the thousands who had flocked into the town to escape Haidar's horsemens were wrecked and a terrible famine followed. Other cyclones occurred in 1811, 1818, 1820, 1836, 1843 and 1846. In the first of these, ninety country vessels went down at their anchors, and the surf broke in 9 fathoms of water 4 miles from the shore. In the last, the Observatory anemometer broke at a registered pressure of 40 lb. to the square foot, and one of the massive masonry pillars on the Elphinstone Bridge was blown over. In 1853, 1858, 1863, 1864 and 1865, other cyclones visited the place. The most destructive of all happened in May 1872. The wind pressure was 53 lb to the square foot. The shipping in the roads did not receive sufficient notice to put out to sea, and between 6 and 11 A.M. nine English vessels, with an aggregate tonnage of 6,700 tons, and twenty native craft were driven ashore, though owing to the use of the rocket apparatus only nineteen lives were lost. In 1874 another cyclone visited Madras, but this time the ships put to sea in time and escaped. In 1881 there was another visitation which did considerable damage at the Harbour and in November 1916 there was yet another cyclone which was the last.

The Observatory—Besides the educational and medical institutions described below, Madras possesses a large number of scientific, charitable and social institutions and societies. Chief among those devoted to science are the Observatory and the Museum. The Observatory was the first established by Europeans in the East. Its nucleus was a collection of instruments formed by a scientific member of Council, William Petrie, and presented by him to the public service when he left India in 1787. The present building was erected in 1792, Sir Charles Oakeley, who was keenly interested in such matters, being then Governor. John Goldingham was the first astronomer, holding the post till 1830, and he and his successors notably T. G. Taylor, F.R.S. (1830-48), Captain W. S. Jacob of the Bombay Engineers (1849-59) and N. R. Pogson (1861-91), have done much work of permanent value in astronomical annals. The Observatory contains among its instruments a large equatorial and an efficient transit circle. The Meteorological department in connexion with it was established in 1867, and was brought under the Government of India in 1874. In 1899, the Madras Observatory was transferred to the Government of India, the astronomer became the Director of the Observatories at Kodaikanal and Madras, and the latter institution was put under the immediate charge of a Deputy Director, who is also the Meteorological Reporter to Government. Its work is now chiefly confined to meridian observations for determining the time, and the maintenance of the time service, which is effected by the daily transmission to the Central Telegraph Office at Madras and thence automatically throughout India, of a signal marking the moment at which standard time is 1 P.M. Special observations are also made for the issue of storm-warnings, and the daily weather report for the Presidency is compiled from telegraphic information received from the various recording stations.

The Museum.—The Museum was founded in 1851. Its nucleus was a collection of geological specimens presented by the Madras Literary Society and the duplicates of the articles sent to the Great Exhibition of 1851 in Hyde Park. In 1855 subordinate museums were established in five different districts; but they were not successful, and in 1861 all but that at Rajahmundry were closed and many of the articles in them were transferred to Madras. In 1855 a Zoological garden was connected with the Madras Museum, but this was transferred to the People's Park in 1863. In recent years, under Mr Thurston's care, the Museum has been very greatly developed. The policy adopted has been to render it a popular illustrated guide to the natural history (animal, vegetable and mineral), arts, archaeology, ethnology and economic resources of the Presidency, and that it is appreciated by the public is sufficiently shown by the fact that it is visited annually by more than 400,000 persons. Among the most valuable objects in the archaeological section are the sculptured marbles from the railing of the Buddhist stupa at Amaravati in Guntur district, the date of which is about the end of the second century A.D.; and a fragment which is supposed to be part of one of Buddha's bones, as it was found (at Bhattiprolu in the same district) in a rock-crystal casket enclosed in an outer stone case, inscribed with the statement that it was made to contain relics of Buddha. The collection of arms and armour from the Arsenal in the Fort and the Tanjore Palace, the pre-historic antiquities, and the numismatic collection, which is specially rich in coins of the various native dynasties of Southern India and of the various European Companies which have held sway there, are other notable possessions of this institution. Attached to the Museum is the Connemara Public Library, which was opened in 1896, contains more than 10,000 standard works, and is used by about 14,000 persons annually; and a theatre, capable of seating 100, provided with a stage adapted for lectures, conferences and charitable entertainments by amateurs.

The Harbour.—The serious disadvantage of the absence of any natural harbour at a port where the silt is continual has been met by the construction of a screw-pile pier and a harbour of masonry. The pier was completed in 1862. The harbour was begun in 1876 and by September 1881, was nearly completed. It consisted of two parallel masonry breakwaters, each 500 yards distant from the pier, running out at right angles to the shore for 1,200 yards, into 7½ fathoms of water, and then bending towards one another so as to leave an entrance in the centre of the east side 550 feet wide. The space thus enclosed was calculated to hold nine steamers of from 3,000 to 7,000 tons. On November 12, 1881, a cyclone occurred, which, besides minor damage, washed away half a mile of the breakwaters, threw the two top courses of concrete blocks into the harbour, hurled over two of the Titan cranes used on the works, lowered and spread out the rubble base of the breakwaters, and washed away 1½ miles of construction railway.

In 1883 a committee of English experts reported on the best method of completing the work, and in 1884 operations were recommenced. The harbour was completed in 1896 on practically the original design, except that the width of the entrance was reduced to 500 feet. The total cost from first to last was 126 lakhs. Since then, however, it has silted up considerably; and after much discussion in India and England, the entrance on the east was closed as it was rapidly shallowing and another at the north-east corner was opened. This work was begun in 1905 and finished in 1911 resulting, except on a few occasions, in a smooth water harbour throughout the year. A portion of the sheltering arm with the lighthouse and a 5,000-ton concrete-filled caisson at its extremity, were washed away by a cyclone on 22nd November 1916. The restoration of the damaged portion of the sheltering arm is in progress, the delay in its completion being caused by the difficulty in obtaining materials during the war.

The first experimental quay, viz., the South Quay, where vessels could lie alongside and discharge or load cargo, was completed in 1912. This quay, as well as the quays created by the closing of the eastern entrance and the construction of the sheltering arm, having proved a success, the construction of a line of quays, 3,000 feet in extent along the western foreshore of the harbour, costing Rs. 30,00,000, was begun in 1911 and finished in 1918. This 3,000 feet of quavage, known as Nos. I, II, III and IV West Quays, is becoming increasingly popular with steamers for the speedy, safe and economical working of cargo. The partial destruction and reconstruction of the original harbour, the closing of the eastern entrance and the opening of a new entrance with its protecting arm, the damage caused by the cyclone of 1916 and the construction of quays and their attendant transit sheds, warehouses and yards, have enormously increased the cost of the harbour, which now stands at Rs. 3,35,00,000. The harbour is under the control of the Madras Port Trust, which consists of a Chairman and fourteen Trustees. The light, on the main tower of the High Court building, is a double-flash white light visible 20 miles in clear weather.

Aquarium.—This institution situated on the seaward side of the Marina, opposite the Presidency College, is perhaps the most popular resort in Madras. In its 10 large wall tanks and numerous table aquaria, is a collection of local fishes of variety in colouring and form unequalled in any other aquarium in the world.

To Mr Edgar Thurston, then Superintendent of the Museum, is due the credit for the inception of the scheme. In 1919 it was transferred to the Fisheries Department when steps were taken by the then Director, Mr. James Hoinell, to increase its attractiveness. Electric light and fans were introduced and the exhibits reorganized and extended. The results were extremely gratifying, the attendance rising within a year from 96,957 to 168,517; all these paid for admission. The institution is fully self-supporting. In 1921-22 the revenue amounted to Rs. 9,111 as against upkeep charges of Rs. 4,795. For the benefit of visitors, guide books in English and in Tamil are provided (1 anna each) and recently a set of very beautiful picture post-cards of Madras Fishes from original sketches by Miss D L Hoinell has been published (6 annas a set).

The Aquarium Hall measures 50 feet in length by 36 feet in width. The two short sides are occupied by 10 large wall tanks, each 7 feet long by 4 feet from back to front and 3 feet in depth on the centre of the room is an ornamental freshwater pond, sunk in the floor with a central fountain. Tables carrying small rectangular glass-sided aquaria are disposed about the room wherever they can be conveniently disposed, while the two end walls are utilized for the display of typical collections of preserved specimens illustrative of the range of marine animals available in the zoological supply section of the Fisheries Department for educational purposes. Admission is 1 anna from 7-30 A.M. to 5-30 P.M., 4 annas from 5-30 to 7 P.M. The last Monday in each month is reserved as a gosha day, when ladies only are admitted, a special staff of women attendants being on duty on that day.

Peoples of the Madras Presidency.

General Statistics.

The population of the Madras Presidency including the feudatory states according to the census of 1921 is 42,794,155. This is an increase of 923,995 over the population of 1911 or 2·2 per cent. This is the lowest rate of increase since the census of 1881, as shown by the following table —

Population at each Census since 1871.

		Population.			Variation since last census	Decennial variation per cent of population.
		Persons	Males.	Females.
1871	...	31,636,276	15,893,962	15,742,314
1881	...	31,181,940	15,426,698	15,755,242	- 454,336	- 1·6
1891	...	36,064,408	17,828,017	18,236,361	+ 4,882,468	+ 15·7
1901	...	34,653,558	19,054,012	19,599,546	+ 2,589,150	+ 7·2
1911	...	41,870,160	20,606,008	21,264,152	+ 3,216,602	+ 8·3
1921	...	42,794,155	21,100,158	21,693,997	+ 923,995	+ 2·2

In the distribution of population by natural divisions the Tamil country has a distinct numerical superiority over any other part of the Presidency. Nine districts now contain a population over 2,000,000 each as against only six in 1911. The average population of a British district is 1,567,370; of a British taluk, 173,226. The mean density of population of the Presidency as a whole is 297 persons to the square mile which is almost identical with the density of Japan. Of the greater Provinces of India, Madras stands fourth in point of density of population, the figures for Bengal being 579, for United Provinces 414 and for Bihar and Orissa 310 to the square mile. The proportion of the population of this Presidency who live in towns is very low in comparison with the proportion of urban population shown by the industrial countries of Europe. The number per mille who live in towns was 118 in 1911 and 124 at the last census whereas in England and Wales it was 781 in 1911. In Bombay the number is 211 per mille and Madras is second only to Bombay among the greater Provinces of India in this respect. 87·6 per cent of the population are in villages. In the distribution of population according to religion it will be found that 89 out of every hundred persons in Madras are Hindus, 7 are Muhammadans, 3 are Christians and 1 is an Animist. During the last census decade, Hindus have increased by 1·9 per cent, Muhammadans by 3·7 per cent and Christians by 14·2 per cent, the increase of the population as a whole being by 2·2 per cent. The population of each of these communities is given below :—

Hindu	37,511,012
Musalman	2,840,488
Christian	1,361,484

Sex.

Of the people of Madras at the last census, 21,100,158 were males and 21,693,997 were females. There was thus an excess of 593,839 females over males. The number of females to 1,000 males at each successive census was as shown below

Number of females to 1,000 males.

1881	1,021
1891	1,023
1901	1,029
1911	1,032
1921	1,028

From 1881 to 1911 there was a steady rise in the proportion of females, but during the last census decade there has been a slight set back, the proportion having fallen from 1,032 to 1,028.

Marriage.

Of the 42,794,155 persons enumerated in Madras 19,307,770 were returned as unmarried, 18,465,667 as married and 5,020,718 as widowed. Among the unmarried there were 722 females for every 1,000 males 42.5 per cent of the males and 43.8 of the females are married and 4.4 and 18.9 per cent respectively are widowed. The high proportion of widows found in Madras is due of course to the custom which in certain castes forbids the re-marriage of widows. A striking feature of the marriage statistics is the early age at which marriage takes place. It is said according to a computation made somewhere near 1880 that in Western Europe only one male in 2,147 was married and one female in 142 of the population below the age of 20. In the Madras Presidency, 3.6 per cent of the male, and 19 per cent of the female population below that age are married. Of the number of males aged 5 to 10, 1 per cent is married, of those aged 10 to 15, 3 per cent and of those aged 15 to 20, 13 per cent. Of the females between 5 to 10 years of age, one in twenty-four is married, between 10 and 15, about one in five is married and between 15 and 20, more than three in five. In the whole of the Madras Presidency there are 20,869 wives under 5 years of age, 123,472 between 5 and 10 years of age; 537,206 between 10 and 15 years of age, and 1,176,063 between 15 and 20 years of age

Birth-rate and Death-rate.

The birth-rates and death-rates for the Presidency as a whole during the last 10 years are given below :—

		Birth- rate per mille.	Death- rate per mille.
1911	...	30.4	23.1
1912	...	30.9	24.3
1913	...	32.2	21.4
1914	...	33.5	24.9
1915	...	31.2	22.0
1916	...	32.5	21.9
1917	...	32.4	26.2
1918	...	28.9	43.1
1919	...	25.5	27.2
1920	...	28.4	21.8

The average birth and death rates per mille during the decade ending 1920 in each of the principal Provinces of India are noted below :—

Province	Birth- rate	Death- rate.
Assam	32.3	31.3
Bengal	32.8	31.1
Bihar and Orissa	38.8	35.2
Bombay	34.2	36.9
Burma	33.5	27.6
Central Provinces	45.5	41.2
Delhi	48.1	43.0
Madras	30.7	23.6
North West Frontier Province	32.8	30.3
Punjab	43.8	36.6
United Provinces	42.2	40.2

Among the causes that have contributed to the lowness of the birth and death-rates of Madras compared with the rates reported in other Provinces of India are said to be (1) the smaller proportion of married women at reproductive ages (2) a great excess of deaths of women at these ages and (3) a constant flow of emigration on the part of males at these ages. The death-rate per thousand of male and female children under one year of age has averaged 218.6 and 186 respectively during the decade 1911 to 1921.

Languages.

Madras is pre-eminently the Presidency of the Dravidian languages. Of every 1,000 inhabitants of Madras, 924 speak a Dravidian language. The number of persons speaking the more important languages and the percentage of it to the total population are given below:—

Languages.	Number.	Percentage.
Tamil ...	17,151,344	41
Telugu ...	16,101,728	37.7
Malayalam...	3,226,256	7.5
Oriya ...	1,573,942	3.7
Kanarese ...	1,490,647	3.5
Hindustani...	989,281	2.3

Literacy.

For purposes of Census statistics a person who can write a letter and read the answer to it is classed as literate. Judged by this standard, we have 3,667,737 literates in the Presidency out of a total population of 42,794,155. The figure is larger by 537,487 than that shown in the 1911 census, and it represents an increase of 13 per mille. Among the men the increase has been from 138 to 152 per mille, and among women 13 to 21 per mille. Only 86 in every thousand of the people, 152 men and 21 women in every thousand of each sex, can read and write. Madras ranks third among the bigger provinces of India in point of literacy, following Burma and Bengal.

Among territorial groups of the Presidency, the Agency, as might be expected, is by far the most backward, while the West Coast division is so far ahead in female literacy, although a little behind the East Coast South division in male literacy, that its total figure for both sexes heads the list.

It is noteworthy that literacy in English has increased at a greater rate than literacy in the Vernaculars, the actual figures being 170 and 20 per mille of males and females respectively, as against 121 and 13 in 1911.

Castes and Communities.

For Census purposes caste is defined as an "endogamous group or collection of groups bearing a common name and having a traditional occupation, who are so linked together by these and other ties, such as the tradition of a common origin and the possession of the same tutelary deity, and the same social status, and ceremonial observances and family priests, that they regard themselves and are regarded by others, as forming a single homogeneous community." As a rule, a caste contains several endogamous groups or sub-castes. There are over 380 castes in the Madras Presidency, each caste again having several subdivisions. Of the Hindu population, Brahmans number 1,463,232 or 3.9 per cent and the Depressed classes 6,372,074 or 16.9 per cent. The number returned as Europeans or of allied races has fallen since 1911 from 14,905 to 10,836, and the number returned as Anglo-Indians from 26,023 in 1911 to 23,492 in 1921.

Houses.

The Census figures show that there is now, roughly, one house for every five persons in the Presidency. The total shows an increase of 6.3 per cent over the 1911 figure, whereas the population has risen by only 2.2 per cent. In the towns alone there is an improvement of 11.7 per cent, and, as it is in the urban areas that overcrowding is most prevalent and most pernicious, the figure seems to point to an improved standard of living.

Migration.

The statistics of immigration and emigration furnish some interesting facts. Although complete returns have not been received from all the countries to which Madras is wont to migrate, the available figures show that 917,000 Madras-born persons were enumerated in other Provinces of India and 814,000 in countries outside India. On the other hand, only 210,000 of the present inhabitants of Madras were born elsewhere. It appears then that, on the balance of immigration and emigration, Madras has lost over 1½ millions of her population. About half of the immigrants come from the bordering Native States, while over half of the emigrants from Madras have made their way to these same States. Ceylon absorbs 55 per cent of the overseas emigrants, and the Federated Malay States follow with about 20 per cent. The vast majority of these persons are of the coolie classes

Infirmities.

The table below shows the number of deaf-mutes and lepers, of the insane and the blind in the Censuses of 1911 and 1921 —

Infirmities.	No. of afflicted in
	1921	1911
Insane . . .	8,689	8,107
Deaf-mutes . . .	21,687	32,190
Blind . . .	37,162	33,982
Lepers . . .	15,753	16,858

The outstanding feature of the table is the great fall in the number of deaf-mutes which is rather difficult of explanation.

Occupations.

Of every 100 persons in Madras, 71 are engaged in agriculture, 13 in industries (including mines and transport), 6 in trade and 10 in all other occupations. The proportion of actual workers to dependants in every hundred persons is 49 to 51. There has been practically no change in the occupations of the people during the last decade. Trade has, if any thing, decreased and agriculture has correspondingly grown. The following table giving the number of agriculturists of different types—landlord, tenant and labourer will be of interest.—

Distribution of every 1,000 Agricultural workers.

Description	1921.	1911	1901.
Non-cultivating land-owners	49	23	19
Cultivating land-owners.	381	126	184
Non-cultivating tenants	28	4	1
Cultivating tenants . . .	225	207	151
Farm servants . . .	109	340	345
Field labourers . . .	208

It will be noticed that there is a tendency for the cultivating landlord and the labourer to lose ground to the cultivating tenant and the non-cultivating landlord or tenant. The steady decrease during the last twenty years in the numbers of the field labourers is a reflection of the great boom in emigration. A striking feature of the 1921 census is the almost universal reduction in the number of women workers

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Christian Missions.

Protestant Missions.

Nearly two hundred and twenty years ago in 1706, Bartholomew Ziegenbalg and his comrade Plutschau arrived in Tranquebar. They were the first Protestant missionaries in India as well as the pioneers of Protestant missionary work in South India. They used the pen and the printing press, as well as the school and preaching, in order to proclaim Christianity, and Ziegenbalg's translation of the Holy Scriptures into Tamil was a monument of earnest and eager scholarship. Christian Friedrich Schwartz reached Tranquebar in 1750. He became so well known and so deeply revered for his scholarship and character that Haider Ali accepted him as an envoy from the Governor of Fort St. George in 1778.

Ringeltaube began the great work of the London Missionary Society in Travancore in 1806. The first two clergymen of the Church of England who went out to India as missionaries of the Church Missionary Society arrived in Madras in 1814. The Wesleyan Methodist Missionary Society began its work in Madras in 1817. Spaulding and Hoisington founded the American Madura Mission in 1834. In the same year the Basel Mission began the career of usefulness on the West Coast which lasted till it was reorganized after the war.

Dr. and Mrs. Day sailed from America in 1835 to found the American Baptist Mission in the Telugu districts. In 1836 and in 1837 the Scotch Missions in Madras were established.

In 1919 forty missions were at work in the Madras Presidency, Hyderabad, Travancore, Mysore and Cochin, with a total Christian community of over one million. These Missions carry on 7,536 educational institutions of all grades, from the Christian College in Madras, with which the name of Dr. William Miller is always identified, to humble village schools. In 1919 there were 814,116 pupils in these institutions. Since the great famine of 1877-78, which afflicted the Madras Presidency, the Mysore and the Deccan, these Missions have established many orphanages and industrial schools.

In recent years medical missionary work has been largely developed and the Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Madanapalle opened in 1912, and the Union Medical School at Vellore are conspicuous examples of enlightened Christian philanthropy.

In 1890 there were in India 559,000 Protestant Christians. Of these 66 per cent or 368,940 were to be found in the Madras Presidency. In 1911 the Protestant Community of the Madras Presidency excluding the Native States is given in the Census return as 479,944 while the Census Report for 1921 gives this community in the Madras Presidency exclusive of Native States as 590,066. There are, therefore, at the present time more Protestant Christians in the Madras Presidency than there were in the whole of India in 1890.

Young Men's Christian Association in South India.

In South India Trivandrum was the first city to organize a regular Association in 1873. The object of this was said to be "the spiritual and mental improvement of its members and of the non-Christians around." This was the first Y.M.C.A. in India in which the emphasis was upon work by and for Indian young men. From 1880 until 1890 Associations were started throughout South India. At the first National Convention held in Madras, February 1891, there were seventeen Associations reporting, all except two being from South India, and the first Indian National Council was organised at that time with its headquarters in Madras. The latest statistics available of the Association work in South India show the following:—

Associations	96
Members	6,681
Full-time Secretaries	32
Total annual cost of the work-about
Rs. 2,25,000.

Contributed locally about Rs. 75,000.

The Associations in South India may be divided into three classes—1 City. 2. Rural. 3. Army.

1 City.—City Associations are found in the following cities and large towns throughout the Presidency:—

Bangalore, Hyderabad, Madras, Coimbatore, Calicut, Madras, Ootacamund, Palamcottah, Trivandrum, Kottayam, Kunnankulam, Pudukottah, Trichinopoly, Alleppey, Nagercoil.

The total membership of these Associations is about 3,000 and 15 full-time Secretaries are employed in them. The work of the city Associations covers a wide variety of activities.

2 Rural work.—The rural work may be further subdivided into two classes, (a) Local, (b) National (a). The local rural Associations are small Associations, similar in type to the city Associations but much more restricted and rural in their activities. As far as we can tell there are approximately 80 Associations of this type with 3,500 members. These local rural Associations are all worked by voluntary Secretaries

(b) The National Rural work is conducted by Secretaries appointed and paid by the National Council and has a very direct bearing upon the economic side of rural life. It aims at an intensive work of rural reconstruction.

3. Army.—In South India Army branches are conducted in the following centres—Trimulgherry, Bangalore, Wellington. Wellington Association has an auxiliary branch at Malapuram.

Some noteworthy features of the work of the Y.M.C.A. in South India during the past year are the following:—

1. The organisation of relief work for refugees of all classes in Malabar in connexion with the rebellion and the establishment of reconstruction work among the distressed people in the interior.

2. The development of a strong physical training work through the Physical Secretary in Madras in co-operation with the Government.

3. The arrangements for Dr. Rabindranath Tagore's lectures in Madras and helping in raising funds for his Visvabharati.

4. The publication of a new series of Tamil books aiming at making available the rich heritage of Tamil culture to all educated men in the Tamil land. The series is called "The Heritage of the Tamil Series,"

The Association stands for the development of an all-round Indian manhood, utilizing all that is good in the culture of the past and fitting the young man in both life and character for the duties of citizenship among a free people.

Roman Catholic Missions.

The Madras Presidency, the first home of Christianity in the country, has always held its place as the province which contains the largest number of Christians in India. Christianity preached by the Apostle St. Thomas and by St. Francis Xavier has secured in this province not only the largest number of converts but converts from every class of society—Brahmans, Sudras, and depressed classes. Catholicism, which holds the first place in numbers of all the forms of Christianity in India, does so pre-eminently in the Madras Presidency. The total population of Catholics in the Madras Presidency (inclusive of the Native States of Hyderabad, Mysore, Travancore, Cochin and French possessions) is according to the Catholic Directory about 1,800,000 which is about three-fourths of the Catholic population of all India. Every decennial census has shown an increase of 10–14 per cent. The progress of the Catholic Church in the Madras Presidency is also shown by the steady growth in the number of the clergy (about 1,300 Europeans and Indians, the Syrian Churches in Malabar being manned altogether by Indian Priests), by the number of educational institutions (every diocese maintains primary schools in every large parish, some dioceses like Madras, Pondicherry, Kumbakonam, Mylapore, Kottayam, Changanacherry maintaining large secondary schools, while others in addition to secondary schools maintain an University College, like St. Joseph's College, Trichinopoly, teaching up to the Honours standard of the Madras University, Mangalore, Bangalore, Trichur Chenganacherry, etc). Seminaries for the training of secular priests are to be found in Cochin, Mysore, Pondicherry, Ernakulam, Mangalore, Verapoly, Quilon, etc., and for Regulars in Cochin, Trichinopoly and Vizagapatam. A large number of religious orders are working in the Presidency of whom the best known are the Jesuits of Trichinopoly and Mangalore. Some municipal hospitals are staffed by Sisters of Charity as at Cuddalore, Vizagapatam, etc

3. The Right Rev. M. Despatures, D.D., Bishop of Mysore.

Vicar-General—The Very Rev. E. Studer.

Mysore was erected into a Vicariate in 1850 having been separated from the Vicariate Apostolic of Pondicherry in 1845 and was constituted a Diocese under the Hierarchy in September 1886.

V ECCLESIASTICAL PROVINCE OF VERAPOLY.

Metropolitan—The Most Rev. Angel Mary Perez Cecilia, O.C.D., Archbishop of Verapoly.

Secretary—The Rev. Alexander Lenthaparambil.

The first Carmelite missionaries who, in 1657, came to Malabar, were sent by Pope Alexander VII with orders to reconcile the St. Thomas' Christians with their Archbishop, Francis Garcia, S.J., and to unite them again with the Catholic Church.

Though they failed in the first object of their mission they succeeded in the second. Rome being informed of their partial success decided to charge the Carmelites with the spiritual care of the Syrians. When the Dutch had conquered Cochin and expelled the Portuguese Missionaries, the Carmelites were also entrusted with the spiritual care of the Latin Christians living in Dutch territory, the others remaining under the Government of Portuguese Bishops. Since 1701 a great part of the Syrian Catholics were under the jurisdiction of the Archbishop of Cranganore or the Vicar-General of Cranganore, appointed by the Archbishop of Goa. As long as the Goanese jurisdiction lasted the Government of the Syrians was in perpetual fluctuation, the churches freely passing from one jurisdiction to the other.

On 1st September 1856, by the Bull Humanae Salutis Auctor, the former Diocese of Cochin was restored, with 34 Latin churches taken from Verapoly and some others from Quilon. Shortly after by a Brief, May 25th, 1887, Quod iam pridem the Syrians were exempted from the jurisdiction of the Archbishop of Verapoly and divided into two Vicariates Apostolic, the Northern of Trichur being entrusted to Bishop Medlycott, the Southern of Kottayam to Bishop Charles Lavigne, S.J. By the decree of July 28th, 1890, these Vicariates were split into three, viz., Changanacherry, Ernakulam and Trichur under the Government of Indian Bishops of the Syrian rite.

Suffragan.

The Right Reverend Aloysius Maria Benziger, O.C.D., Bishop of Quilon
Vicar-General—The Rt. Rev. Fr. Bernardine, O.C.D.

This diocese was formerly part of the Old Cochim Diocese, united to the Vicariate Apostolic of Malabar (Verapoly). Its separation was provisionally executed 12th May 1845 and finally confirmed as a separate Vicariate Apostolic on 15th March 1853. Erected as an Episcopal See, 1st September 1886

Archbishop of Verapoly and of the Bishop of Cochim, erected the former into two Vicariates Apostolic, one for Northern and the other for Southern Malabar, and styled them respectively Trichur and Kottayam.

Again, Pope Leo XIII, in accordance with the repeated prayers of the Syrian Catholic Christians of Malabar granted them three Bishops of their own rite and nationality, and thus, by the Brief Quæ Rei Sacre of 28th July 1896, three Vicariates Apostolic were erected for them, namely, Trichur, Ernakulam and Changanacherry, which are not under the Ecclesiastical Province of Verapoly.

Finally His Holiness Pope Pius X by the Brief In universi Christiani of 29th August 1911 restored the Vicariate Apostolic of Kottayam Pro gente suddistica, i.e. for that section of the Syro-Malabar Christians, who are known as "Suddists," i.e., descendants of the fourth century emigrant Syrians; and the Vicariate comprises all the churches and chapels of the Suddist Syrians on the Malabar Coast.

VI. SACRED CONGREGATION FOR ORIENTAL CHURCHES.

The Church in Malabar was governed by the Syro-Chaldean Bishops till the end of the 16th century. But the Portuguese authorities in India in 1600 substituted Latin Bishops for this Church. The administration of Latin Bishops over the Syrian Christians of Malabar and their different rites occasioned, during the last three centuries, much discontent and dissension. As a result of these dissensions, towards the end of the 18th century, Jacobitism was introduced in Malabar and it still remains in force; its followers were henceforth known as "Jacobite Syrians."

The Catholics of the Syro-Malabar rite remained under the jurisdiction of Verapoly and Cranganore, until Pope Leo XIII separated the Churches of the Syrian rite on the Malabar Coast, from those of Latin dioceses, and leaving the latter under the jurisdiction of the

The University of Madras was founded under the Act of Incorporation XXVII of 1857, passed by the Legislative Council of India, which received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 5th September of that year. It was originally a purely examining body admitting to its examinations students from affiliated colleges and was modelled after the then existing University of London. As a result of the Commission appointed by the Government of India in 1902 to examine the working of the Universities under that system, the Universities Act of 1901 was passed with the intention of re-organizing the government of the University and of enlarging its functions in matters of University teaching and of supervision over affiliated colleges. Under this Act and the portions of the Act of Incorporation unrepealed, the government of the University is vested in the Chancellor (the Governor of Fort St. George), the Vice-Chancellor nominated by the Chancellor and a Senate consisting of 80 Fellows nominated by the Chancellor, 10 Fellows elected by Faculties and 10

* Since writing the above the new Madras University Act, 1923, has come into force; and the Senate and the Syndicate constituted under the Indian Universities Act, 1904, have gone out of office, and the Rev. E. M. Macphail, M.A., D.D., C.B.E., has been appointed a full-time Vice-Chancellor. Until the authorities under the new Act are constituted, the Vice-Chancellor has been invested with special administrative powers.

Fellows elected by Registered Graduates. The Senate is the Body Corporate of the University. The executive government is vested in the Syndicate elected by the Senate from among its members. The enquiry into University conditions in India conducted by the Calcutta University Commission has resulted in the re-organization of more than one Indian University, and the University of Madras is shortly to be reconstructed under a new Act passed in 1923 by the Madras Legislative Council and shortly to come into force.

The University of Madras has no direct control over High School education in the Presidency, but recognizes for University purposes the High Schools under the control of the Department of Education. The University courses begin at the conclusion of the High School course with the Intermediate course in Arts and Science extending over two years, which is a qualification for admission to the degree courses in Arts and Science and to the courses for professional degrees.

The following are the numbers of colleges affiliated to the University of Madras—

The Madras Text-Book Committee.

The Committee has been appointed to take into consideration such books as may be submitted to it by the Director of Public Instruction and to advise him in regard to their suitability as text-books for the several classes and forms in recognized schools and to advise the Educational Department as to the steps to be taken for the preparation and publication of new text-books when necessary.

The Committee consists of not more than forty members (exclusive of the President) appointed by the Director of Public Instruction and holding office for three years. The Director of Public Instruction will be ex-officio President and one of the members the Secretary. Sub-Committees are appointed to deal with different subjects and languages.

The Committee will ordinarily meet twice a year at the office of the Director of Public Instruction on the 2nd Wednesdays in March and October, respectively. Sub-Committees will meet at such times as their respective chairmen may consider necessary.

Books coming to the Secretary from the Director will be sent by him to two members of the Sub-Committee concerned and on receipt of their opinions will be transmitted together with such opinions to the Chairman of the Sub-Committee. Before the Committee meets the Chairmen of Sub-Committees will convene a meeting of the members of the Sub-Committees and present to them the books which have been dealt with. The Chairmen of Sub-Committees will present books (with opinions thereon) to the Text-Book Committee.

The Committee does not attempt to prescribe particular text-books but provides a list of books in the different subjects from which the school authorities may exercise their discretion in selecting.

As a condition of recognition and of receiving grants-in-aid, schools are required to use only text-books which are included in the authorized list of text-books. A list of text-books authorized by the Director of Public Instruction and approved by the Text-Book Committee will be published in the Fort St. George Gazette twice a year, in March and October, as soon after the biennial meeting of the Committee as possible.

Government Provident Fund for Teachers in non-Pensionable Service.

The scheme will be introduced from 1st April 1923.

Admission to the Fund—The scheme is compulsory on all certificated teachers, pundits, munshis, instructors, librarians and clerks whose pay is not less than Rs. 20 per mensem, employed in all recognized educational institutions under private management, whether aided or unaided Elementary and secondary certificated teachers and others mentioned above holding a policy in a Life Assurance Company (so long as the policy remains in force and appears to Government to be satisfactory) or engaged by an institution which has a provident fund of its own accepted by the Director of Public Instruction, certificated teachers employed as teacher-managers and teachers belonging to a religious order are, however, exempted from the operation of this scheme. No one who is less than 20 years of age will be admitted to the fund; the account of every subscriber will be closed when he attains the age of sixty.

Contributions to the Fund (a) by subscriber: $6\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of his substantive pay; (b) by the management of the school: a sum equal to half the contribution of the subscriber payable into the subscriber's account along with his own deposit every month, (c) by Government: a single lump sum equal to $\frac{1}{2}$ of the amount standing at the subscriber's credit payable at the time he retires or, for accepted reasons, withdraws his deposit.

Interest—Three per cent per annum or such higher rate as may, from time to time, be determined for deposits in Post Office Savings Banks.

Management of the Fund—By means of the Post Office Savings Bank system. The contribution to the fund due from the subscribers will be deducted from their salaries when they are disbursed each month and deposited together with that of the management in a Post Office Savings Bank.

Withdrawal of the Fund is permitted ordinarily on the death or complete retirement of the subscriber. A subscriber, however, who is invalided or disabled for no fault of his, or who resigns his post with due notice before the end of the sixth year from his admission to the scheme or whose services are dispensed with for no fault of his, may, with the sanction of the District Educational Officer, receive the whole deposit and the Government contribution. A subscriber who is dismissed or removed from service will receive only his own deposit and the interest thereon, the contribution of the management and of the Government being withheld at the discretion of the District Educational Officer.

Government Scholarships.

Scholarships (Indian).

Arts.

(1) Tenable in Colleges.—43 scholarships of the monthly value of Rs. 9 each per mensem are awarded annually to students in the 1st Year University Class in recognized Colleges in this Presidency and these scholarships are continued in future years till the holders thereof complete their course of study either Pass or Honours, the value of the scholarship being raised to Rs. 14 each per mensem when held in the B.A. classes

5 scholarships of the monthly value of Rs. 14 each are awarded annually to students in the third University Class (who have not had the benefit of Government scholarships in the Intermediate classes) to be continued in future years till the holders thereof complete their course of study either Pass or Honours

(2) Tenable in Secondary Schools.—234 scholarships of Rs. 3 each per mensem commencing from Form I, 55 scholarships of Rs. 6 each per mensem commencing from Form IV. In the award of these scholarships the claims of those sections of the community who are most in need of aid will be considered, preference being given to Adi-Dravidas, Muhammadans, Oriyas and members of other backward classes.

(3) Tenable in Higher Elementary Schools for Boys.—24 scholarships of the monthly value of Rs. 2 each in VI standard to be continued in VII and VIII standards and raised to Rs. 2-8-0 and Rs. 3, respectively.

(4) For Girls.—(a) 36 scholarships of the monthly value of Rs. 2 each in VI standard to be continued in VII and VIII standards and raised to Rs. 2-8-0 and Rs. 3, respectively; (b) 36 scholarships of the monthly value of Rs. 3 each in forms I to III and Rs. 6 each in forms IV to VI.

(5) For Hindu and Muhammadan Widows.—63 scholarships in standards IV and V and in forms I to VI, the value of the scholarships ranging between Rs. 4 and Rs. 12 each per mensem.

(6) Special Scholarships.—(a) For Muhammadans—16 scholarships to Mappillas, Labbais, Dudekulas and Jonogans in secondary schools, value ranging between Rs. 3 and Rs. 6 each per mensem; 83 scholarships to Muhammadans of all classes in secondary schools, between Rs. 3 and Rs. 6 each and 5 in college classes, value ranging between Rs. 9 and Rs. 14; 220 scholarships for Mappilla boys of Walavanad and Ernad taluks in elementary schools, value ranging between Re 1 and Rs. 1-8-0 each per mensem, 20 scholarships of Rs. 2 each tenable in the special commercial class attached to the Government Commercial School, Calicut; 50 scholarships for Mappilla girls in elementary schools, value ranging between Re 1 and Rs. 3 per mensem.

(b) For Adi-Dravidas and Adi-Andhras—27 scholarships in higher elementary schools, value ranging between Rs. 2 and Rs. 3 each per mensem; 16 in secondary schools, between Rs. 3 and Rs. 6 each; 16 fee-remissions

(c) For Criminal Tribes—203 scholarships in elementary schools and preparatory classes of secondary schools to hill tribes, value ranging between As. 8 and Rs. 3 per mensem.

Industrial.

Sixty scholarships of the value of Rs. 1-8-0 each per mensem (raised to Rs. 2, 3, 5 and 7-8-0 during the second, third, fourth and fifth years of training respectively) tenable for 5 years are awarded annually to pupils learning a trade or profession in recognized industrial schools or to selected apprentices (boys or girls) serving properly arranged apprenticeships. The aim of these scholarships is to encourage deserving apprentices and pupils to complete their whole apprenticeship or period of training at one institution or workshop and so to some extent check the present tendency of apprentices to move from workshop to workshop in search of a few annas increase in wages to the detriment of their training.

Conditions of award.—Scholarships will ordinarily be granted to members of the artisan castes and to others whose families are already in the trade. Candidates must not be over 17 years of age (Muhammadan candidates, over 19) at the commencement of apprenticeship and must have at least passed V Class of the primary grade.

The scholarships are awarded by the Director of Industries, Madras, to whom applications should be submitted in prescribed form, by the Head of the institution in which a candidate is studying or intends to study or his manager or employee, within such date as will be notified in Part I-B of the Fort St. George Gazette.

Technical.

(1) Tenable in the Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore—A maximum number of 15 scholarships of the value of Rs 60 each per mensem tenable normally for two years (in special cases, extended for a 3rd year) are awarded to graduates in Chemistry (preferably to Honours graduates and to men with post-graduate training) of the Madras Presidency for the study of General and Applied Chemistry, Bio-Chemistry and Electro-Technology. As vacancies in the sanctioned number of scholarships occur from time to time, the Director of Industries will, by notification in the Fort St. George Gazette, invite applications from qualified candidates.

(2) Tenable in the Victoria Jubilee Technical Institute, Bombay—Subject to there being places at the Institute, the Government awards annually six scholarships of the value of Rs 60 each per mensem tenable by natives of this Presidency for a period of four years for the study of Textile Manufacture, Technical and Applied Chemistry or Sanitary Engineering and Plumbing. Candidates should be at least holders of SSLCs., but the admission to the Department of Technical and Applied Chemistry will be conditional upon their having completed the 1 year Arts course in an University. Particulars regarding the conditions of award and the latest date by which applications should be submitted will be notified by the Director of Industries in the Fort St. George Gazette every year.

Scholarships (Foreign).

The following State scholarships have been sanctioned for study abroad:—

Arts

(1) University scholarships.—Two scholarships (of the value of £250 each per annum when held in a college at Oxford or Cambridge, and of £200 otherwise) tenable for 3 years in the United Kingdom and, as a general rule, at the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge, are awarded annually for the purposes of general study by the Universities of India by rotation in the following sequence: Calcutta, Bombay, 1921; Allahabad, Madras, 1922; Punjab, Patna, 1923 and so on. These scholarships have been provincialized.

Candidates must be statutory natives of India, must be between 22 and 25 years of age according to the conditions of study obtaining in the Indian Universities in the subject selected by the candidate and must possess a degree of an Indian University.

(2) Oriental Languages scholarships.—Two scholarships (of the value of £250 each per annum when held in a college at Oxford or Cambridge and of £200 otherwise) tenable for 2 years in Europe are awarded annually for the purposes of acquiring the critical and scientific methods of Western scholarship to statutory natives of India. The scholarships are open to well-qualified students with a genuine taste for oriental studies and to those already employed as professors of Sanskrit and Arabic in India. The scholarships are awarded one for Sanskrit and one for Arabic and 2 for Sanskrit in each alternate year.

(3) Domiciled Community scholarship.—(a) for males—one scholarship (of the value of £250 per annum when held in a college at Oxford or Cambridge and otherwise £200) tenable for 3 or 4 years in the United Kingdom or, with special sanction, in foreign countries, is awarded annually for the purposes of general study to a European or Anglo-Indian male student who is a native of India. The candidate must be over 18 and under 21 years of age on the 31st March of the year in which he applies for the scholarship and must have passed the European High School Examination or preferably taken the degree of an Indian University. In making the selection due regard is paid to the claims of each province to participate in its turn in the scheme.

(b) for females—one scholarship (of the value of £200 per annum) tenable from 3 to 5 years in the United Kingdom or, with special sanction in foreign countries, is awarded annually for educational (including domestic science, art, music, etc.) or medical training to a European or Anglo-Indian female student who is a native of India. The candidate must possess the degree of an Indian University (for music, the highest certificate in music obtainable in India and a pass in the European High School or an equivalent examination).

(4) Scholarship for Indian women.—One scholarship (of the value of £200 per annum) tenable from 3 to 5 years in the United Kingdom or, with special sanction, in foreign countries is awarded annually for the study of medicine usually and occasionally for other educational or professional courses to an Indian female student who is also a statutory native of India. The candidate must possess the degree of an Indian University or some professional qualifications.

Technical.

(1) Four State Technical Scholarships tenable at any one time by natives of the Madras Presidency which used to be paid out of Imperial funds have, under the Reforms, been provincialized. The Government of Madras have instituted 4 additional technical scholarships for study abroad payable from Provincial funds. These scholarships are of the annual value of £200 plus a bonus of £40 and are tenable in Europe. The period for which they are tenable is ordinarily not less than two or more than five years. Candidates should be natives of this Presidency, physically fit to undergo a course of life and study abroad and should not be more than 25 years of age. Applications for scholarships will ordinarily be considered only from candidates who have already interested themselves practically in some industry and who are desirous of improving their knowledge of that industry by further study abroad. As vacancies in the sanctioned number of scholarships occur, the Director of Industries, Madras, will, by notification in the Fort St George Gazette, invite applications from qualified candidates.

(2) Veterinary.—Scholarships of the value of £250 per annum, in addition to the cost of fees, tenable ordinarily for 4 years at a Veterinary College in the United Kingdom for the purpose of enabling young men to gain a Veterinary Diploma and thereby render themselves eligible for appointment to the Imperial branch of the I.C.V.D., are awarded by the Government of India from time to time. Candidates must be born and domiciled in India, must be above 19 and under 23 years of age and possess an Honours Degree in Science of an Indian University. Applications should be addressed to the Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Revenue and Agriculture, Simla, within such date as will be notified from time to time.

(3) Metallurgy.—In pursuance of a resolution moved and carried in the Legislative Assembly in February 1922, recommending large expenditure by the Government of India on the education and training abroad of Indian and Anglo-Indian youths in various technical subjects, the Government of India have decided to award a scholarship of the value of £200 a year plus a bonus of £40 tenable in England for 3 years for the study of Metallurgy. Candidates must be between 21 and 25 years of age and must possess at least a BSc degree in Chemistry and Physics and a sound knowledge in Mathematics. Applications should be addressed to the Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Industries, Delhi, within such date as will be notified.

Rules governing the levy of fees in State Medical Institutions in the Madras City.

I. DEFINITIONS.

1 For the purposes of these rules.

(a) The term "Government servant" means a Government servant who is entitled to free medical attendance under any orders of Government in force for the time being, and includes a relation of a Government servant who is similarly entitled to free medical attendance.

(b) The expression "Salary" shall be interpreted according to the definition given in article 38 of the Civil Service Regulations

(c) A "well-to-do person" is a person who is in receipt of an annual income or salary of Rs. 1,200 or more, or who is a member of the family of such a person and actually dependent on him.

II. OUT-PATIENTS

2 (1) There shall be no charge for medical advice given to out-patients at State Medical Institutions. Such advice shall be given to all Government servants irrespective of salary and to persons who are not well-to-do.

(2) Well-to-do persons shall not be given medical advice as out-patients except in cases of emergency. If they require the services of a medical officer, they are at liberty to make private arrangements with him for their treatment at his residence or at their own homes.

(3) The decision as to whether a person is entitled in accordance with these rules to receive free medical advice shall be a matter for the medical officer in attendance, who may refuse medical advice or may in case of doubt require the production of satisfactory evidence.

Medicine.

3 All persons with an income not exceeding Rs 30 per mensem shall be given medicines free of charge

All other out-patients shall be required to pay annas 2 for medicines on each occasion

III. IN-PATIENTS.

General Wards.

4 In-patients whose income is less than Rs. 50 per mensem shall be treated free in general wards. They will also be given free diet.

5 Persons whose income is Rs 50 per mensem and over and who are admitted as in-patients in general wards shall pay nursing and dieting charges if they are private persons, and shall be subject to hospital stoppages if they are Government servants, at the rate of 4 annas a day if their income is less than Rs. 100 a month, with an additional 4 annas for each Rs 50 of income up to Rs. 200. Persons drawing Rs. 200 a month and above will be charged Rs. 1-4-0 a day. A charge of the same amount will be made in each case for medical advice or operation except in the case of Government servants. But for a major operation or confinement persons with an income exceeding Rs 400 per mensem shall be charged an enhanced fee subject to a maximum of Rs. 45. The charge shall in no case exceed a moiety of the patient's salary or income as calculated under rule 7.

Special Wards

6. The scale of charges for in-patients in special wards shall be as follows —

Details.	Daily charge for medical advice or minor operations, for all patients other than Government servants	Daily scale of nursing charges for patients adopting						Major operations (Maximum)	Confinements (Maximum).
		European dietary and customs			Indian dietary and customs

Over Rs. 2,250	15 0 0	18 12 0	12 8 0	500 0 0	350 0 0

IV. GENERAL.

7. In the case of officials and other persons on fixed stipends the charges will be calculated on the actual salary drawn during the period of treatment in hospital. In other cases the charges will be calculated on the average income received during the twelve months preceding admission into the hospital by the patient or by the head of the family.

8. For children of twelve years of age and less half the rates of nursing and dieting charges will be charged. When two or more children of the same person are in hospital at the same time the total charge shall not exceed the daily rate payable by the head of the family.

9. For special nursing an extra fee of Rs 2 per day for each nurse will be levied.

10. The fees given in the table above for major operations and confinements will be regarded as maximum. The medical officer in charge of the case and, if he is associated with a surgeon, then such medical officer jointly with the surgeon who performs the operation or attends the confinement, should determine the fee to be charged subject to the prescribed maximum for the operation, regard being had to its nature and gravity. A similar discretion may be exercised in regard to confinements.

11. All charges levied under the foregoing rules shall be credited in full to the Government.

12. These rules do not apply to the Lunatic Asylum, Madras.

General Hospitals and Dispensaries in the Madras City.

Government General Hospital.

(General Hospital Road, Madras.)

The sick poor of all races and castes treated free either as in-patients or out-patients but for those who can afford to pay hospital stoppages, the rates of fees levied are as given on page 184. There are 435 beds. There are special arrangements for the treatment of Dental, Ear, Nose and Throat diseases, an X-ray department, and a special department for venereal and urinary diseases. There is a Fund known as the "General Hospital Patients' Aid Fund" the interest accruing from which is utilized for the benefit of indigent patients in the General Hospital. There is a training school for nurses named the Madras Government Hospital's Training School for Nurses attached to the Hospital and rules regarding admission, etc., can be had from the Matron Superintendent, Government General Hospital, Madras. The General Hospital, Madras, originated as an amalgamation of two formerly existing hospitals, viz, the "Garrison Hospital" and the "Old Naval Hospital." It was used as a Military Garrison Hospital but sick sailors of Her Majesty's Fleet and of the Honourable East India Company's Ships were also treated there. In course of time the building was reconstructed and a portion was allotted to the troops in the Fort and this was subsequently styled as Station Hospital. Later on a block for infectious diseases was built and also a new out-patient dispensary. It has undergone several modifications in its structure and since 1899 the whole block of building became a purely civil institution.

Lunatic Asylums.

Government Lunatic Asylum.

(Lococks Gardens, Kilpauk.)

Lunatic patients admitted to the Asylum are of two classes (1) Voluntary Boarders, (2) Patients admitted under reception order. A voluntary boarder is a patient who suffers from some mental disorder and wishes to enter the Asylum for treatment. Such a patient must apply to the Superintendent for a form, which he (the patient) is required to fill up, sign and have countersigned by two official visitors before he can enter the Asylum as a voluntary patient. To secure the admission of a patient by his relative, the relative is required to fill in the form of reception order and present it to a first-class magistrate of the district or division in which the patient resides, together with two medical certificates in the prescribed form, signed respectively by the Gazetted Medical Officer and by a recognized Medical Practitioner who must have examined the patient separately within the previous 7 days. Two more documents are also necessary, one a form filled up and signed by the magistrate after his inquiry into the case and the other an engagement in writing from the petitioner or some other person for the payment of the cost of the maintenance of the lunatic in the Asylum. But before applying for the reception of a patient to the Asylum, inquiry should be made as to whether accommodation is available. If in possession of means, voluntary boarders are required to pay at the rates laid down in the Asylum rules. Destitutes are admitted free; the rates at which patients are admitted are graded according to income; in the case of poor patients with families dependent on them, a reduction of charges will be made, voluntary boarders may leave the Asylum at any time, on giving the Superintendent 24 hours' notice in writing and patients admitted under reception order can be removed by the relative who petitioned for their admission on making an application in writing to the Superintendent who will give permission at his discretion; friends or relatives permitted to visit patients on Saturdays between 2 and 4 p.m. generally, further information regarding rules of admission and the charges levied can be had from the Superintendent, Lunatic Asylum, Madras, accommodation available for 749 inmates of all classes (male and female); as a part of the treatment and with the object of improving their mental state there exists a recreation hall; out-door games such as football and badminton is indulged in by as many of the patients who are capable of playing. Superintendent: Lt-Col. Diwan Ganpat Rai, I.M.S., Deputy Superintendent J. A. Hart, First-class Military Assistant Surgeon; Assistant Surgeon D. Raghava Rao, I.M.S.; Sub-Assistant Surgeon V. Krishnan Nayar.

Visiting time, all days except Tuesday, between 4 and 6 p.m.; 170 beds, 60 for cataract and glaucoma cases, 22 for septic cases, 10 for children and 78 for other cases, the total number includes 12 beds separately provided for caste Hindus; all eye diseases and disease bearing a causative relation to particular eye affections specially treated, indigent in and out-patients treated free, supplied also with cataract glasses at Government cost, in necessitous cases, indigent patients paid railway fare from the Hospital Poor fund for return home. There is the Elliot School of Ophthalmology for the training of medical students and post graduates. Particular care should be taken by the public in having the eyes operated for cataract which should not be allowed to be performed by Vaidis and Hakims as it fails in 79 cases out of every 100 and frequently results in permanent and incurable blindness. (A note on the subject can be had from the Superintendent, Ophthalmic Hospital, Madras.) Superintendent Major R. E. Wright, M.D., I.M.S., Assistant Superintendent K. Koman Nayar, I.M.S., Resident Medical Officer Major H. C. Craggs, I.M.D.; First Class Military Assistant Surgeon: C. G. Taylor, I.M.D.

Rabies.

The Pasteur Institute of Southern India.

(Coonoor.)

Treatment is given to all persons, bitten by animals suspected to have been rabid, to prevent in those persons the subsequent onset of hydrophobia from which there is no recovery. It consists in the injection beneath the skin once daily for a period of 14 days of anti-rabic vaccine prepared at the institute and is free of charge, but those who are able to afford it are expected to give a donation to the Institute. Indigent patients are provided with quarters, blankets and cooking pots and batta for their maintenance. Their wounds and minor maladies also receive adequate attention. The antirabic vaccine is now being issued to all Government Headquarters Hospitals, so it is no longer necessary for persons requiring antirabic treatment to travel to Coonoor, for they can obtain the same treatment at the Headquarters Hospitals of their respective districts as they would get at Coonoor. Those who desire to do so can still obtain treatment at Coonoor if they pay their own way. Rs 10 is charged by the Institute for each course of treatment issued to Headquarters Hospitals. Those who can afford it will pay for their vaccine. In the case of indigent persons the cost will be debited to provincial or local funds. The staff of the Institute devote the remainder of their time to medical research work in the well-equipped laboratories of the Institute. The resources of the Institute have, from time to time, been put at the disposal of officers working with grants from the Indian Research Fund Association. At present Lt. Col. R. McCarrison, I.M.S., is in charge of the Deficiency Diseases Enquiry. Director: Lieut. Col. J. W. Cornwall, I.M.S., Assistant Director: Military Assistant Surgeon H. M. La Frenais, I.M.D., Sub-Assistant Surgeons: S. Sitarama Sastri and M. Raman Nambiyar.

This ancient and famous library which is described by Dr. Burnell "to be perhaps the largest and most important in the world" and which Dr Bhuler says "contains a great many useful and a number of very rare or nearly unique books many of which are quite unknown or procurable only with great trouble and expense was till recently the private property of the Rajas of Tanjore to which the public had only limited access. It is now a free public library under the charge of the Government of Madras Sanskrit manuscripts and books on palm leaf and paper form the conspicuous feature of this library Dr Burnell describes them as the result of perhaps 300 years' collections, firstly, by the Nayaks of Tanjore, secondly, after about 1675, by the Mahratta Princes. The manuscripts are of very different value and come from very different sources. Some of the palm leaf manuscripts belong to the earlier period but the greater part were collected at Benares by the Raja Santaji about fifty years ago (about 1830). The rest are recent Nagari copies of manuscripts in South Indian character. These manuscripts are in eleven distinct alphabets being from all parts of India. It is difficult to give their correct number as each of several manuscripts to which a single number has been given, is on closer examination found to contain more than one work on the same or different subjects by the same or different authors. It may, however, be roughly estimated that they are about 20,000 in number.

There are also a number of books and manuscripts in almost all the Indian and European languages and on almost all branches of human knowledge. Special mention should be made of the books and manuscripts in Telugu, Tamil, Marathi and English on account of their number and importance.

No correct and complete printed catalogue exists of any section of the library except of the comparatively small number of books in French, Latin, Greek and Italian of which a catalogue has been printed and published in 1920 after the committee appointed by Government took charge.

Dr Burnell's catalogue which he calls "A classified Index to the Sanskrit Manuscripts in the Palace at Tanjore," a work of great research and labour is however not complete even as regards the Sanskrit portion of the library. About 4,000 manuscripts appear to have been omitted by him.

The following note appears in the Encyclopædia Britannica [Ninth Edition, Volume 14, page 533] about this library "Perhaps the most remarkable Library in India is that of the Raja of Tanjore, which dates from the end of the 16th or beginning of the 17th century when Tanjore was under the rule of the Telugu Nayaks who collected Sanskrit Manuscripts written in Telugu character. In the 18th century the Mahrattas conquered the country and since that date the library increased but slowly. By far the greater portion of the store was acquired by Sarfoji Raja during a visit to Benares in 1820-30. His successor Sivaji added a few but of inferior value. There are now about 18,000 manuscripts written in Devanagari, Nandinagiri, Telugu, Kannada, Grantha, Malayalam, Bengali, Panjabi, or Kashmiri and Urdu 8,000 are on palm leaves. Dr Burnell's printed catalogue describes 12,375 articles."

Passport Regulations.

The following are the chief regulations governing the issue of British Indian passports:—

1. British Indian passports are issued only to—

- (a) British subjects by birth,
- (b) Wives and widows of such persons;
- (c) Persons holding Imperial certificates of naturalization, or local certificates of naturalization issued in one of His Majesty's Self-Governing Dominions or Colonies or India,
- (d) British-born widows or divorced wives of aliens who have resumed their British nationality,
- (e) Persons holding separate passports, who having been born abroad, derive their British nationality from the naturalization of their father and do not fall under (a);
- (f) British subjects by annexation of territory; and
- (g) British-protected persons.

Married, as also divorced, women who are British subjects derive their British nationality from that of their husbands, irrespective of the nationality they possessed before marriage

2. Applications for Indian passports must be made in the prescribed form, and submitted either direct or through the local authority—

- (a) in the case of a resident in British India, to the Local Government or Local Administration concerned,
- (b) in the case of a resident in a Native State, to the Agent to the Governor-General or Political Resident concerned

In this Presidency passports to all British subjects, Indian or European, and subjects of Native States in subordinate alliance with the British Government intending to travel to places outside the Indian Empire are issued by the Secretary to Government, Law Department. During the absence of this officer at Ootacamund along with the Governor's Camp, however, the Collector of Madras is authorized to issue passports

3. All persons applying for British Indian passports are required to complete a declaration on the prescribed form (Form "A").

4. The declaration, including the personal description, must be completed by the applicant in his or her own handwriting and signed in the spaces provided. Provision is made for the inclusion in the declaration of the wife of the applicant and his minor children under the age of 16, if they are accompanying him or residing with him abroad, and if it is desired that they should be included in his passport. Minor children under 16 may also be included, on similar conditions, in the passport of their mother, if she holds a separate passport, or in the passport of some other responsible person officially in charge of them. All other persons must apply for separate passports, and fill in separate declarations

5. In the case of persons deriving their British nationality from a husband, father, or paternal grandfather born within His Majesty's dominions, the particulars of the place and date of birth of such husband, father, or paternal grandfather must be given in the body of the declaration, as well as those of the applicant's own place and date of birth. The latter particulars only, however, will appear on the passport itself.

6. Wives (including divorced wives) and widows of British subjects must in all cases give their own maiden surname, and if twice married, the surname of their former husband also.

7. Where application is made for a joint passport to include husband and wife, the body of the application must be completed and signed by the husband who must state that he is accompanied by his wife, as indicated in the margin of the form. The wife must complete and sign her personal description, giving her maiden surname as provided for in paragraph 6. She must also give the place and date of her own birth as provided for in paragraph 5, but need not repeat the particulars of the date and place of her husband's birth, since these already appear on the form.

8. In the case of minor children under the age of 16 accompanying their parents or guardians, the names, ages and sexes should be given in the space provided at the bottom of the margin of the form.

9. For children under the age of 16 who require separate passports a declaration is required from their parent or guardian on the prescribed form (Form "B").

10. In the case of naturalized British subjects, or of persons deriving their British nationality from the naturalization of their husband or father, full particulars of the certificate of naturalization should be given in the body of the form, i.e., the place and date of its issue, and its serial number. In the case of persons who were themselves naturalized as British subjects, the certificate of naturalization should, as a rule, be produced. In the case of persons deriving their British nationality from the naturalization of their husband, father or mother, the certificate, or failing that, an official copy of it, should, as far as possible, be forwarded with the application.

11. The subsidiary declaration or recommendation shown below the declaration to be made by the applicant must be completed and signed by a Political officer, Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, Police officer not below the rank of Superintendent, or Notary Public resident in India.

12. To the completed form of application must be attached duplicate unmounted photographs (size approximately two and three-quarters by two inches) of the applicant, and, if she is included in the application, of his wife. One copy of each photograph should be certified on the back by the person who recommends the application.

13. The fee for the issue of a passport is Rs. 3.

Passport fees are collected by means of court fee labels affixed to the applications for the grant, renewal or endorsement of passports.

14. A passport is valid for two years from the date of issue, and is renewable for four further periods of two years, unless all available space on it is covered.

15. When there is no further space available on the passport for endorsements or visas a new passport must be obtained. Additional sheets should in no circumstances be attached.

16. Any person already in possession of a passport must first surrender his old passport before being furnished with a new one. Where a new passport is required owing to all the available space on the old one being filled, and the old passport still bears valid foreign visas, the old passport should not be cancelled, but should be attached to the new one.

17. British subjects and British-protected persons applying for the renewal of their passports should complete the prescribed form of application (Form "E").

18. The fee for the renewal of a passport is Rs. 1-8-0. for each period of two years for which the passport is renewed.

19. British Indian passports are available for travelling to the country or countries only for which they have been endorsed by a competent British authority.

20. As a general rule, a passport intended for purposes of travel should be made available, at the time of issue, for any countries to which or through which the holder is likely to travel during the two years for which the passport is available when first made out, and the countries should be specifically named. During that period no further endorsement by a British authority is required for subsequent journeys to the countries for which the passport has been made available.

21 Where application is made for the validity of a passport to be extended to a further country or countries beyond those for which it is originally made available, and where no special restrictions in regard to any of the countries concerned prohibit such an extension, a further endorsement may be made accordingly.

22 In the case of tourists, students or merchants desiring to visit any of the dominions for the purpose of pleasure or commerce including temporary residence for the purpose of education, British Indian passports should, as a general rule, be made available by endorsement at the time of issue for travel within the British Empire, whether the traveller intends to use it for the purposes of immediate travel or not.

British Visas for Aliens.

1. British visas for aliens are of two types—

(a) The transit visa, good for one or more direct journeys through British territory undertaken for the sole purpose of reaching the territory of another State.

(b) The non-transit visa, good for any number of journeys to British territory for any legitimate purpose during the period of its validity.

2. Both visas are valid for one year unless their validity is specially limited to a shorter period, except that in the case of the transit visa, the period of its validity cannot exceed that of the validity of the visa of the country of ultimate destination.

3 The fees ordinarily charged for British visas granted to aliens are (a) for the transit visa Rupee 1 and (b) for the non-transit visa Rs. 7. In the case of American passports the fees are Rs. 3-8 and Rs. 35 respectively.

4. Applications for British visas on foreign passports should be made through the Foreign Consuls concerned to the Secretary to Government, Law Department.

Postal and Telegraph Information.

Business Hours of the Post Office.

At every post office the hours during which postal business is transacted with the public, and the times at which mails are delivered and closed, are conspicuously notified. The public business hours are fixed with regard to local convenience and all work at the post office window or counter is stopped precisely at the latest hour fixed. The business hours are generally as follows on days which are not Post Office holidays.

For references and inquiries	From 7 to 8 a.m. and from noon to 5 p.m.
„ sale of postage stamps and postal stationery.	At any time at which the post office is open to the public.
„ registration	From 7 to 8 a.m. and from noon to 5 p.m. unless otherwise notified.
„ insurance
„ posting parcels
„ posting value-payable articles
„ granting certificate of posting ...	On Saturdays the closing time will be 3 p.m.
„ issue of money orders	From 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. unless otherwise notified
„ savings bank business
„ sale and payment of British postal orders.	On Saturdays the closing time will be 1 p.m.
„ issue and payment of telegraphic money orders.	At any time at which work is going on in the post office between the hours of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m., or such longer hours as may be notified locally.
„ receiving telegrams for despatch.	At any time when telegraphic money orders may be issued, or during telegraph business hours in standard time.

Exception.—Registered and insured articles will be accepted up to 5 P.M. on Saturdays if the prescribed late fee is paid.

At combined post and telegraph offices, the receipt of telegraphic money orders for issue and of telegrams for despatch is subject to the following conditions:—

(i) Telegraphic money orders and telegrams, whether ordinary or express, are accepted on the understanding that, if the telegraph office of despatch or the telegraph office of destination is closed at the time the telegraphic money order or telegram is accepted, the telegraphic money order or telegram will not be transmitted by wire until both the offices are open.

(ii) An express telegram or an express telegraphic money order will, however be accepted on payment of late fees for transmission during the hours when the office at which it is handed in or the office to which it is addressed, or an intermediate office through which it must pass is closed, provided the attention of the closed office or offices concerned can be gained. The late fees will be at the rate of one rupee for each closed office which is required to deal with the telegram or telegraphic money order. If the same sender presents, or causes to be presented, several telegrams, or telegraphic money orders together for despatch at an office which is closed, a single late fee only is payable in respect of that office and in addition a single late fee is payable for each closed intermediate office or office of destination. If the attention of a closed office cannot be gained the late fee collected for that office will be refunded, but no refund will be made of the late fee for an office which has already dealt with the late fee telegram or telegrams or telegraphic money orders as the case may be.

Post Office Holidays.

New Year's Day.
Good Friday
The King's Birthday.
Christmas Day.
All Sundays are Post Office, and also Telegraph holidays

In addition the following days are also observed as Post Office holidays in the Madras Presidency —

Pongal.
Ramzan.
Bakrid.
Telugu New Year's Day.
Tamil New Year's Day
Mahalaya Amavasya.
Bara-Wafat

With the following exceptions no business is done with the public on Post Office holidays —

- (1) Postage stamps and postal stationery are always sold to the public on the day on which the weekly mail for Europe is closed.
- (2) Express telegraphic money orders are paid on every day of the year.
- (3) Express telegraphic money orders for issue and express telegrams for despatch are received on every day of the year and ordinary telegrams are received on Post Office holidays which are not also Telegraph holidays

Late Letters.

At any post office authorized to levy a late letter fee, an article of the letter post will be received at the post office window after the mail has been closed for despatch by that mail if presented in the prescribed time and if stamped with both the postage due and the amount of the late fee. In the case of official articles the late fee should be paid by service stamps.

Except in the Presidency towns, where the amount of the late letter fee is locally notified, the late fee is ordinarily half an anna for unregistered articles other than parcels and two annas for registered articles of the letter mail, and, unless the Postmaster-General otherwise directs, the "prescribed time" extends to within 15 minutes of the actual despatch of the mail.

Letters or other articles intended to be registered or insured articles intended to be sent as "value-payable" or with regard to which "certificates of posting" are required, must be presented at the post office at least half an hour before the time fixed for the closing of any particular mail, if it is intended that they should be forwarded by that mail.

RE-DIRECTION.

A postal article which cannot be delivered by the post office to which it is addressed owing to the addressee being elsewhere, may be re-directed free of charge to another post office for delivery to him, provided it has not been opened, and (if registered) has been returned to postman at place of delivery, and (if unregistered) returned to postman or re-posted at place of delivery. Persons changing their residence should furnish the post office, both at the place which they are leaving and at the place to which they are going, with written instructions regarding disposal of articles received to their address.

REGISTRATION.

Letters, post cards, books and pattern packets, parcels and newspapers prepaid with postage at newspaper rates of postage when sent as value-payable articles may be registered. Registration is obligatory in case of parcels exceeding 440 tolas, insured parcels, articles containing postage or other stamps, hundi bank notes, cheques, etc. (Articles requiring registration, on which registration fee has not been prepaid, will be charged on delivery with double registration fee.)

Manner of registration—Article for registration must be presented at the post office window and the receipt taken.

Delivery—Articles will be delivered to addressee or his agent on signing a receipt in prescribed form which will be presented by the postman who delivers.

Compensation.—Post Office is not responsible for loss or damage; as act of grace and not of right, compensation up to Rs. 25 may be given for loss or damage not caused by any fault or negligence of sender, if claimed within 3 months of date of posting in case of loss of articles and within 1 month of date of delivery in case of loss or of damage to contents.

Acknowledgment fee.—One anna, in addition to postage and registration fee paid by means of postage stamps affixed to article when posting.

Registration fee.—For any article: 2 annas in addition to postage.

INSURANCE.

Insurance fees—(In addition to postage and registration fee.)

When the value insured does not exceed Rs. 50 ... 1 anna.

Every additional Rs. 50 or fraction thereof ... 1 anna.
For partially insured articles ... $\frac{1}{2}$ above rate.

Prepayment of all charges on insured articles compulsory.

Acknowledgment—Free (Note: sender may himself fill up the form of acknowledgment to be signed by addressee. Forms are obtainable at post office free.)

Insurance is of two kinds, complete and partial. Complete insurance covers all risks in course of transmission by post. Partial insurance covers all risks in course of transmission by post in British territory, and all risks, except those arising out of highway robbery, in course of transmission by post in such Indian State territory as is specified in this behalf.

Insurance is compulsory in case of letters or parcels containing coin, bullion, articles of gold or silver, precious stones, jewellery and currency notes.

Packing—Letters must be enclosed in strong covers (preferably registration envelopes sold at all post offices) and sealed with wax bearing a private mark in such a way that they cannot be opened without either breaking the seals or leaving obvious traces of violation. Parcels must be carefully and substantially packed and sealed likewise.

Size—Should not be so small or so covered with writing or sealing wax on address side, that post office labels cannot be affixed.

Manner of insuring.—Amount for which sender wishes to insure should be written clearly in words and figures on cover. Sender's name and address should be written in lower left hand corner of cover. Articles for insuring should be presented at post office window and receipt taken.

Delivery.—An article insured for Rs. 250 or any sum less than Rs. 250 will be delivered in the ordinary manner. An article insured for more than Rs. 250 will be delivered only at the post office window, intimation of arrival being sent by the post office to the addressee. The addressee of an insured article (or his agent) must sign in ink both the receipt and acknowledgment relating thereto unless the outward appearance of the cover gives rise to suspicion of tampering. In such case he should arrange to open the article at the post office, in the presence of the postmaster and to have its contents entered in an inventory which will be prepared in duplicate, and must be signed by the addressee. One copy of the signed inventory will be forwarded by the post office to the sender with the unsigned acknowledgment attached to it.

NOTE.—When an insured article issued for delivery is not accepted by the addressee it will not be sent out a second time, an intimation of its arrival will be made over to him and the article will be delivered at the post office on presentation of the intimation with the receipt and acknowledgment duly signed. If the addressee of an insured article, after an intimation of its arrival has been delivered, omits to take delivery of the article within the time specified in the intimation, it will be returned to the sender.

Compensation.—Sender is entitled to compensation not exceeding the amount for which the article was insured, provided that such compensation does not exceed actual value of article or of any of its contents lost, or amount of damage caused, provided also that such loss or damage was not caused by sender's fault or negligence and compensation is claimed within 3 months of date of posting.

Non-compliance with conditions.—articles will not be insured.

VALUE-PAYABLE ARTICLES.

Fees.—Amount specified for remittance to sender—

Not exceeding Rs. 10	... 2 annas.
Exceeding Rs. 10 but not exceeding Rs. 25	... 4 annas.
Exceeding Rs. 25...	... 4 annas for every complete sum of Rs. 25, and 4 annas for the remainder, provided that, if the remainder does not exceed Rs. 10, the charge for it will be only 2 annas.

NOTE.—Prepayment of fees is compulsory in case of V.P. articles to United Kingdom; additional posting fee of 2 annas for V.P. articles to United Kingdom.

Amount so specified should not exceed Rs. 1,000, except in case of articles addressed to a department of Government or a District, Local or Municipal Board, and should not include fraction of an anna.

V.P. Articles.—Registered parcels, registered letters, registered book packets and newspapers prepaid with postage at newspaper rates of postage, also the following articles to the countries mentioned (amount specified for remittance to sender should not exceed Rs. 400, in case of United Kingdom, and Rs. 600 in other cases):

United Kingdom.—Registered parcels.

Ceylon.—Registered parcels, registered letters, registered book-packets and newspapers prepaid with postage at newspaper rates of postage and with registration fee.

Iraq, Portuguese India, the Seychelles, the Somaliland Protectorate and the Straits Settlements.—Registered parcels, registered letters and registered book-packets.

V P Articles may also be insured.

Manner of posting.—Article must be presented at the post office window, and the prescribed form (obtainable gratis) specifying amount of remittance to sender filled up. Letters "V P." or in case of V P. articles to United Kingdom the word "Reimbursement" must be written on the left hand top corner of the face of the article followed by an entry, in figures and words, of the amount of remittance to sender. Left hand bottom corner must bear sender's name and full address.

Manner of delivery.—(1) If the amount to be recovered on a value-payable article exceeds Rs. 25 an intimation of its arrival will be sent by the office of destination to the addressee. Such articles will be delivered at the post office on payment of the amount entered in the form of receipt on the reverse of the intimation, and on presentation at the post office of the intimation with the receipt on the reverse duly signed.

- (2) If the amount to be recovered on a value-payable article does not exceed Rs 25, the article will be delivered by the postman at the addressee's residence on payment of the amount recoverable, and on the addressee signing the receipt on the reverse of the intimation presented with the article.

Payment to sender.—Amount recoverable from addressee is remittance to sender plus V P fees. When the amount is recovered remittance due to sender is remitted by M O. If the addressee refuses or omits to take delivery of the article within the time specified in the notice it will be returned to sender and V P. charges recovered from him.

The Post and Telegraph Guide contains list of Post and Telegraph offices, and the hours during which telegrams are accepted are noted against each. There are two classes of telegrams, namely, "Ordinary" and "Express." Express telegrams have precedence over ordinary telegrams in transmission and are delivered by messengers at any time during day and night if the office is open. Ordinary telegrams are not accepted on Sundays and the four principal holidays, and are not dealt with by telegraph offices between 9 p.m. and 8 a.m. daily. An express telegram will be accepted on payment of late fees (given above) for transmission during the hours when the office of issue or the office of delivery or an intermediate office through which it must pass is closed. Railway telegraph offices also accept telegrams during the hours for which they are open for railway business.

Reply-paid Telegrams—If the sender of a telegram wishes to prepay a reply, he must write "Reply paid" and the amount in the space provided on the form and a reply form will then be delivered to the addressee who can use it for a message at any time within 2 months.

Registration of Address.—Abbreviated addresses may be registered for Rs 10 yearly and Rs 5 half-yearly.

Press Telegrams—to be accepted at Press rates, must be addressed to a newspaper or a news agency which has been registered by the Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs.

Telephone.

The Madras Telephone Company, Limited.

Telegraphic Address. "Oakenpin, Madras"

A local company styled "The Madras Telephone Company" has recently been formed and has acquired the business formerly carried on in Madras by the Oriental Telephone & Electric Co., Ltd. The authorized Capital of the new Company is Rs. 50,00,000. The unrestricted dividends of the Company are limited under agreement with the Government to 12½ per cent on the paid-up Capital, and any sums available for distribution in excess of this percentage are divisible among the subscribers, the Government and members of the Company. The dividend, however, is cumulative to the extent of 8 per cent per annum.

A type of telephone service which has become very popular for large offices, banks, etc., is that known as the "Private Branch Exchange." This consists of a switchboard with two or more lines connecting with the main exchange and a number of extension lines radiating to various departments. Not only does this permit departments to speak to other subscribers on the main exchange, but it also permits invaluable inter-departmental connections. The number of these Private Branch Exchanges is comparatively large and this comprehensive type of service is much appreciated.

The Company's Exchange is connected with the Government Telephone Exchange at Madras by means of junctions.

The Company is planning to build an entirely new exchange in Madras as speedily as possible and has acquired a site for that purpose on the China Bazaar Road. The new exchange will be equipped with a modern Common Battery Switchboard with all the latest developments embodied therein.

Current Tariff Rates.

For Exchange Telephone Service—	Per quarter. RS. A.	Rental for Extension Lines will be—	Per quarter. RS. A.

To residential premises within 4 miles radius of Exchange	62 8	(b) For each additional 100 yards or less	7 8
For lines beyond 4 miles radius from the Exchange, extra mileage will be charged as follows—		(c) For each Extension Line connecting separate buildings occupied by the same subscriber—
For each quarter mile of route or part thereof	5 0	1. Within 220 yards, external wiring	25 0
For lines exceeding 2 miles of extra mileage, special rates will apply and these may be ascertained on application.		2. From 221 yards to 440 yards.	32 8
		3. From 441 yards to 660 yards	40 0
		4. From 661 yards to 880 yards	47 8

NOTE.—If underground cable is involved, the above rates will not apply, but special quotations will be given.

The rental for an External Extension circuit exceeding 880 yards in length is calculated specially and may be ascertained on application.

Rental for Private Lines—

These will be quoted for specially and rates may be ascertained on application.

Telephones in Madras City.

In the year 1922 there were 1,941 telephones in service in the Madras City, a ratio of one telephone to every 271 inhabitants. In the United Kingdom, taken as a whole, there is one telephone to every 47 inhabitants; in the United States of America there is one to every 8 inhabitants and in India one to every 8,455 inhabitants.

Public Services.

Abstract of the Rules of Recruitment.

PUBLIC SERVICE NOTIFICATION.

(Revised up to the 31st March 1922.)

EDUCATIONAL QUALIFICATIONS FOR ADMISSION TO THE PUBLIC SERVICE

NOTE (1).—The rules contained in this notification shall in no wise affect the promotion of persons who, on the 30th June 1894, held permanent appointments in the Government service provided that their promotion to posts carrying a salary of more than Rs 20 was not already barred by any rules previously in force, or that they have passed the Middle School Examination in the first class and are otherwise deemed fit for such further promotion.

Persons who have passed the Matriculation Examination of the Bombay University and who held permanent appointments in the Government service on the 31st July 1913 are eligible for promotion to posts carrying a salary of more than Rs 20 provided that they are otherwise qualified.

NOTE (2).—Expressions such as “ministerial officer,” “pay,” “salary,” “superior service” and “inferior service,” which occur in the Civil Service Regulations are used in this notification in the sense in which they are used in the Civil Service Regulations.

NOTE (3).—For the purposes of this notification progressive salaries shall be calculated at the maximum pay of the appointment.

NOTE (4).—These rules apply, unless otherwise expressly provided, to all appointments, whether pensionable or non-pensionable, temporary or acting.

GENERAL EDUCATIONAL QUALIFICATIONS

1 Subject to the provisions of articles 2 and 4 no person shall be eligible for appointment to any post in the superior service the sanctioned pay of which is Rs 20 per mensem or more [the maximum pay being taken as the standard in the case of appointments on progressive scale as required by note (3) supra], unless—

(1) he is a graduate, or

(2) he has obtained a completed secondary school-leaving certificate issued under the authority of Government, or

NOTE (1).—For the purposes of this article the secondary school-leaving certificates issued by the States of Travancore, Cochin, Mysore and Hyderabad will be treated as equivalent to the secondary school-leaving certificate of the Government of Madras.

NOTE (ii).—The certificates of pupils who take Sanskrit or any classical or foreign languages under group ‘C’ will not be considered incomplete because they contain no entry under vernacular composition and translation in group ‘A’.

(3) he passed the Matriculation Examination of the University of Madras prior to 1910 or the Madras Upper Secondary Examination with English as his first language, or NOTE.—Persons who produce satisfactory evidence that they were pupils in the sixth form of a recognized school in 1909 and passed the Matriculation Examination of the University of Madras in 1911, 1912 or 1913 will also be considered to be eligible under clause (3).

(4) he produces evidence that he has attended for three years a high school situated outside the jurisdiction of the Department of Public Instruction in Madras but recognized by the University of Madras and has passed the Matriculation Examination of the University of Madras, or

(5) he has passed any of the examinations accepted by Government for the purpose of this notification, namely,—

(1) The late Higher Examination for Women.

(2) The Oxford or Cambridge Senior Local Examinations (in the case of students who pass those examinations outside the limits of India and Ceylon).

(3) The Matriculation Examination of the London University.

(4) The School Final Examination of the Allahabad University.

(5) The entrance or the Matriculation Examination of the Calcutta University.

(6) The Senior Commercial Examination of the London Chamber of Commerce.

(7) The School Final Examination of the Bombay Presidency.

(8) The High School Examination for Europeans under the Code of Regulations for European Schools

(9) The Matriculation Examination of the Allahabad University

(10) The Matriculation Examination of the Punjab University

(11) The School Final Examination of Burma

(12) The Matriculation Examination of the Patna University

The cases of persons who have passed other examinations of a similar character may be referred for the special orders of Government

Persons not being natives of India who have passed no public examination and natives of India who have not attended any secondary school will be eligible if they satisfy Government that they have received an education at least up to the standard of the late Upper Secondary Examination or the Matriculation Examination.

In the case of candidates presenting school-leaving certificates, heads of departments and others making appointments are expected to see that preference is given to those who hold the best certificates

NOTE—This article does not preclude the promotion to or confirmation in appointments carrying pay of Rs 20 per mensem of persons who prior to the 6th August 1917—

(a) were holding permanent appointments in superior service, or
(b) for not less than two years had acted in permanent appointments carrying pay of Rs 20 per mensem or held temporary appointments on that pay

2. (1) The persons specified in column A of the table below in respect of the appointments therein specified are ex-empted, and

The entrance examination will be in the following subjects —

(a) Dictation

(b) English Composition.

(c) Arithmetic

The Examiner of Local Fund Accounts will keep a list of the successful candidates arranged in order of merit and the selection of clerks for appointment will be made from such list, due regard being paid to communal representation.

The time and place of the examination will be advertised by the Examiner of Local Fund Accounts in the local newspapers for the information of intending candidates

An entrance fee of Rs. 3 will be levied from each candidate.

Indian Civil Service.

METHODS OF RECRUITMENT.

(1) Open competitive examination in London;

(2) Separate competitive examination in India,

(3) Nomination in India;

(4) Promotion from the Provincial Civil Service,

(5) Appointment from the Bar.

Open Competitive Examination in London.—This examination will be the main channel of entry to the service and will be open to all. (For regulations, see below)

Separate Competitive Examination in India—This will be the main source of Indian recruitment. Of the recruits selected in India for the service (exclusive of those promoted from the Provincial Service or directly appointed from the Bar) at least 67 per cent will be obtained through this examination. (For regulations, see below.)

Nomination in India.—Nomination is provided for in order to secure to some extent representation of the various provinces and communities in India, and will not, of necessity take place every year but only when the results of the competitive examination in India fail to give the representation required. The following procedure will be adopted: when the number of vacancies to be filled in India in any year by direct recruitment (i.e., exclusive of promotions from the Provincial Service and appointments from the Bar) has been settled, 67 per cent of these will be announced as open for competition. If the distribution of successes in the examination turns out to be such as will meet the requirements of the various provinces and communities, nomination will be unnecessary. The vacancies held in reserve will be filled as far as possible by selection from among the candidates who sat for the competitive examination and attained a certain qualifying standard. Failing this, they will be filled by nomination.

Promotion from the Provincial Service.—Officers so promoted, though they cannot be admitted to the Indian Civil Service itself, will take rank with the Indian Civil Officers, have the same opportunities of promotion as those who have been directly recruited and be eligible for all posts on the Indian Civil Service Cadre.

Appointments from the Bar.—Local Governments already have the power to appoint persons who are not members of the Provincial Service up to one-fourth of the total number of listed posts. This power will be utilized by them as an experimental measure to appoint District Judges direct from the Bar. It is hoped ultimately to fill not less than 40 posts in this way, should qualified men be available. Members of the Bar will, however, be appointed to posts in excess of 25 per cent of the total number of such appointments, only as new posts are created. Should the experiment prove successful, the full number, i.e., 40, will eventually be made available for persons from the Bar. For the purposes of these appointments, Vakils and Advocates of High Courts and Pleaders of Chief Courts will be eligible as well as Barristers.

Salary.—(a) Inferior Scale—Rs. 450—50—800—100—1,100 (11th year)—efficiency bar—1,200 (12th year)—1,300 (13th and 14th years)—1,350 (15th and 16th years)

(b) Superior Scale—Rs. 1,000 (5th year or earlier)—50—1,200—75—1,500—100—2,000—50—2,250 (23rd year and after)

COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION IN INDIA.

The examination will be held annually in India in January and February.

The maximum number of candidates to be admitted to the examination may, at the discretion of the Governor-General in Council, be limited to 200. If the number of applicants exceeds 200 and a limitation is decided upon, it will be effected by Quota Committees.

Of the candidates to be admitted, if limitation is decided upon, the number to be drawn from each of the areas specified in the first column of the annexed table must not exceed that specified in the corresponding entry of the second column thereof; such number is referred to as "the provincial quota".

Assam	5
Bengal	33
Bihar and Orissa	22
The Bombay Presidency	25
Burma	15
The Madras Presidency and Coorg	33
Punjab, N.W. Frontier Provinces and Delhi	25
The United Provinces and Ajmer-Merwara	30

If limitation is decided upon and in any area the number of applicants exceeds the provincial quota, the Local Government will appoint a committee called the Quota Committee which will select the provincial quota for its area from among the qualified applicants.

A person desiring to be admitted to the examination must apply, in his handwriting in the prescribed form within such date as will be notified, to the Chief

Secretary of the Governor's province which coincides with, or is included in, that area in which his parents reside at the time of the application, or have previously resided for a period of not less than three years, or in which he has himself resided for a like period.

Persons resident in a State in India should apply through their Durbars to the Chief Secretary of that province in which they wish to serve, or of the province included in the area in which they wish to serve.

Applications from candidates of this Presidency should be addressed to the Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George, Madras, within such date as will, from time to time, be notified in the Fort St. George Gazette.

(1) A candidate must be either a British subject or a ruler or subject of a State in India in respect of whom the Governor-General in Council has made a declaration under section 96-A of the Government of India Act. If the candidate (being a British subject) or his father or his mother was not born within His Majesty's Dominions and allegiance, the father must, at the time of the candidate's birth, have been a British subject, the subject of a State in India, and if alive, must be, or if dead, must have continued to be until his death, a British subject or a subject of such State.

(2) He must have attained the age of 21 and must not have attained the age of 23 on the 1st of August of the year in which the examination is held.

Provided that any person who has joined, since 4th August 1914, the Army or Navy or Royal Marines or the Royal Air Force, or has rendered since that date actual Military Service in the Special Reserve or Territorial Force, Royal Naval Reserve, or Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, may deduct from his actual age at the time of the examination, the actual period of such service, if it has not exceeded three months; one year, if the actual period of service has exceeded three months.

The same concession may also be granted, at the discretion of the Governor-General in Council, to those who have been employed during the same period in connexion with the armed forces of the Crown at Home or abroad, giving their whole time and under obligation to serve for the duration of the war or until their discharge.

(3) He must be free from disease or bodily infirmity, (4) must be of good moral character; (5) must hold a degree of a University incorporated by law in British India or of the Mysore University, or the Senior diploma of the Mayo College, Ajmere.

A candidate must pay a fee of Rs. 5 with his application and a candidate chosen for admission to the examination must pay a further fee of Rs. 100.

A list of competitors will be made out in order of their proficiency as disclosed by the aggregate marks finally awarded to each competitor, and in that order, so many competitors, up to the determined number of appointments will be designated to be selected candidates for the Indian Civil Service.

Copies of the regulations, syllabus and application form may be had on application to the Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras, Fort St. George.

OPEN COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION IN LONDON

The examination for admission to the Indian Civil Service will be held annually in London in July and August.

Applications in the hand-writing of the candidates on the prescribed form should be addressed to the Secretary, Civil Service Commission, 6 Burlington Gardens, London, W.1, so as to reach him on or before the 1st of June of the year in which the examination is held.

A candidate must hold a degree of a British or Indian University.

The new age limits for the Indian Civil Service open competition in London, viz., 21 to 23 on the 1st of August of the year of competition, will come into force for the open competition to be held in 1925, for the open competitions to be held in 1923 and 1924 the age limits will be 21 to 24 on the 1st of August of the year of competition, these years (with 1922) constituting a transition period from the old to the new age limits.

A candidate who is a Native of India must obtain a certificate of age and qualification under Government of India Notification No. 1114 of 12th September 1918, signed, should he be a resident in British India, by the Secretary to the Government of the Province or the Commissioner of the division within which his family resides, or, should he reside in a Native State, by the highest political officer accredited to the State in which his family resides. Other qualifications required of candidates are the same as those for the Indian Examination.

Should the evidence upon the above points be prima facie satisfactory to the Civil Service Commissioners, the candidate, on payment of the prescribed fee (£8), will be admitted to the examination.

Selection of competitors to the determined number of appointments is made in the same way as in the case of the Indian examination.

The officer from whom copies of regulations, syllabus and application form can be had will be notified in the Fort St George Gazette from time to time.

PROBATION

Candidates selected at the Indian and London examinations will be on probation at one of the Universities or other institutions in the United Kingdom approved for the purpose by the Secretary of State for India, for a period of—(i) one or two years as will be decided by the Secretary of State for those selected at the London examination, (2 years for all candidates selected at the 1925 and subsequent examinations, and for a proportion of younger candidates selected at the 1922, 1923 and 1924 examinations), (ii) two years for those selected at the Indian examination. Those possessing an Indian domicile will be given an allowance of £350 and others £300 a year. One-year probationers will be required to pass the 'Final Examination' at the end of the year, and two-year probationers the 'Intermediate' and 'Final Examinations' at the end of the first and second years.

Indian Medical Service.

Since the open competitive examination held in July, 1915, for admission to the Indian Medical Service, no similar examination has been held during the war, but such appointments as were required to meet the absolutely indispensable needs of the Service have been made by nomination by the Secretary of State. A similar Committee has been appointed in India to investigate applications and to forward recommendations to the Secretary of State. In view of the present abnormal conditions this method of recruitment will continue to be in force until further notice. To assist him in making appointments, the Secretary of State for India has appointed a Selection Committee who will summon and interview such applicants as may appear to be prima facie suitable, and make recommendations for appointment. Applications from officers serving with the forces of the Crown must be submitted through their Commanding Officers. Applications from Europeans and Indians in Europe should be addressed to the Secretary, Military Department, India Office, Whitehall, London, S.W. 1. Other applications should be addressed to the Director-General, Indian Medical Service, India.

The following regulations are those in force at the present time and are subject to any alterations that may be determined on—

Every candidate must be a British subject of European or East Indian descent, and his father must, at the time of the candidate's birth, have been either a British subject born within His Majesty's allegiance, or a person to whom a certificate of naturalization had been granted, or a subject of a State in India, and such father must still be, or have continued to be till his death, a British subject or a subject of such a State in India. Provided that a subject of any State in India in respect of whom the Governor-General in Council has made a declaration under section 96-A of the Government of India Act, 1915, as amended by section 3 of the Government of India (Amendment) Act, 1916, may be considered eligible.

Candidates must be over 21 and under 32 years of age at the time of application, must possess a qualification registrable in Great Britain and Ireland under the Medical Acts in force at the time of his appointment and must be free from all organic disease, and from constitutional weakness, or other disability likely to unfit him for military service in India and in the opinion of the Secretary of State for India in Council, in all respects, suitable to hold a Commission in the Indian Medical Service. The physical fitness of candidates is determined by a Board of Medical Officers.

Preference will be given to candidates who are or have been serving with His Majesty's Forces.

They must subscribe and send to the Secretary, Military Department, India Office Whitehall, a declaration according to the prescribed form, accompanied by the following documents—

A simultaneous examination will be held at important centres of prima facie suitable candidates, who will then be interviewed by the Board

A list of successful candidates will be made out in the order of their proficiency and in that order appointments will be made to vacancies as they occur

Survey of India.

DIRECT APPOINTMENTS.

(a) Class I Service.—Direct appointments to this class of the Survey of India are made by the Government of India as vacancies occur from amongst candidates nominated by the Surveyor-General and with the exception of a Civilian Mathematical adviser, are open to officers of the Royal Engineers and the Indian Army whose applications are forwarded to the Surveyor-General through the Military Secretary, Army Headquarters, India

(b) Class II Service.—Recruitment is usually made every alternate year and notifications giving particulars necessary for candidates will be published in the Gazettes and leading newspapers when recruitment is to be made

Candidates must be natives of India, must be over 18 and under 23 years of age on the 1st of August of the year of recruitment and must have passed the B.A. or B.Sc. examination of an Indian University or the Final High Standard examination under the Code of Regulations for European Schools or possess the S.S.L.C. of any Province (with Mathematics as optional) or the Cambridge Senior Local, the Oxford Senior Local Pass Certificates, etc

Selected candidates will be interviewed in June by a Board of officers. Final selection will be made by the Surveyor-General who will nominate candidates for the competitive examination in August.

The competitive examination will include Mathematics (algebra up to Binomial Theorem, geometry—Euclid first four and sixth books; plane trigonometry, mensuration, and logarithms) and drawing (freehand, geometrical and map). Successful candidates will be appointed in the order of passing up to the number of probationary appointments and be required to join the Survey of India about 1st October

They will be on probation for three years receiving salary at the rate of Rs 150, Rs 175 and Rs 200 per mensem during the first, second and third years respectively and will, on confirmation, be designated Extra Assistant Superintendents and draw pay at the rate of Rs 250 per mensem rising by biennial increments of Rs 40 to Rs. 650 (where there is an efficiency bar) and thereafter rising by two triennial increments of Rs. 50 to a maximum of Rs. 800. The service also includes 10 posts of Deputy Superintendents, promotion to which is governed by selection

Applications (on prescribed form to be obtained from the Surveyor-General's Office), countersigned by the Magistrate of candidate's district or town, should be submitted on or before 15th May to the Officer-in-charge, Surveyor-General's Office, 13 Wood Street, Calcutta, accompanied by certificates as to age, character, education, health, etc, and by specimens of drawing

(c) Upper Subordinate Service.—Recruitment is usually made every alternate year and notification giving particulars necessary to applicants will be published in the Gazettes and leading newspapers some time before such recruitment

Candidates must be natives of India, must be over 18 and under 22 years of age on 1st July of the year of recruitment and must have passed the Intermediate examination of an Indian University or its equivalent (Mathematics being one of the subjects), or (in the case of Europeans or Anglo-Indians) the Final or High Standard Examination under the Code of Regulations for European Schools, or hold the Upper Subordinate certificates of a Civil Engineering College.

The selected candidates will be medically examined and, if found fit, will be required to join the Survey of India about 1st October.

They will be on probation for two years with a salary of Rs 60 per mensem and will, on permanent appointment, be designated Sub-Assistant Superintendents and draw pay at the rate of Rs 100 per mensem rising by biennial increments of Rs. 12 to Rs 148, thence rising by biennial increments of Rs. 15 to Rs. 208

(where there is an efficiency bar), thereafter rising by further biennial increments to Rs. 300. Above this scale there will be 6 posts on Rs. 350 and 3 on Rs 400 which will be filled by selection.

Applications (on prescribed form to be obtained from the Surveyor-General's Office), countersigned by a Gazetted Officer of Government, should be submitted on or before July 1 to the Officer-in-charge, Surveyor-General's Office, 13 Wood Street, Calcutta, accompanied by certificates of age, character and education.

Telegraph Department.

(a) ENGINEERING BRANCH (SUPERIOR ESTABLISHMENT).

(1) Officers for the Imperial Service are recruited and appointed in England by the Secretary of State for India as vacancies occur

(2) Officers for the Provincial Service are recruited in India and appointed by the Government of India as vacancies occur on the nomination of the Director-General either direct by selection from the graduates in the Engineering classes of any College in India which gives a suitable and adequate training in electrical engineering, or by the promotion of selected subordinates. (Approximately one-half of the Superior staff of the Engineering Branch will be recruited from England, one-fourth in India, and the remaining one-fourth by promotion from the subordinate ranks)

The following method will be observed in selecting candidates for nomination to the Government of India for direct appointment in India to the Superior establishment of the Engineering Branch of the Telegraph Department. The Director-General will maintain lists of those colleges and institutions at which, in the opinion of the various Directors of Public Instruction, students of the requisite qualifications can be trained; when a vacancy is about to occur, the Principals of these schools will be requested to nominate, after consulting the local Government concerned, the most promising student who is desirous of appointment to the Telegraph Service and to submit direct to the Director-General an application for appointment from the selected candidate, accompanied by the necessary certificates of birth and medical fitness. The applications will be carefully considered by the Chief Engineer, Telegraphs, who will select, for interview by the Local Director of Telegraph Engineering, the most promising candidates, and from these the final selection will be made by the Director-General after examining the reports of the Directors of the Telegraph Engineering.

NOTE.—Only statutory natives of India are eligible for appointment in India to the Superior Establishment of the Engineering Branch of the Telegraph Department.

Pay of the Superior Engineering Establishment.

(i) Junior Scale.—Rs 300–50–150 (4th and 5th yrs.)—50–550 (7th and 8th yrs.)—50–900 (15th yr.) plus technical allowance of Rs. 75 per mensem plus overseas allowance of Rs. 150 during the first 7 years and Rs 200 from 8th year onwards

(ii) Senior Scale.—Rs 550 (4th and 5th yrs.)—50–650 (7th and 8th yrs.)—50–950 (14th and 15th yrs.)—50–1,200 (20th and 21st yrs.)—1,250 (22nd and 23rd yrs.)—1,300 (24th yr. and after) plus technical allowance of Rs. 75 per mensem plus overseas allowance of Rs. 150 from 4th to 7th year, Rs. 200 from 8th to 11th year and Rs. 250 from 12th year onwards.

NOTE.—(a) The Technical allowance is admissible to all officers recruited in Europe, whether Europeans or Indians. The overseas allowance will be admissible only to officers of non-Indian domicile, subject to the proviso that Indians recruited in England up to and including the year 1924 will receive this allowance. Both the allowances will be reckoned as pay for all purposes of the Civil Service Regulations.

(b) Pay on the junior scale will be drawn by officers holding charges of less importance than a divisional charge but no such officer will be allowed to draw more than the pay of the 9th year of service on the junior scale unless he is reported to be fully qualified for the charge of a division. Pay on the senior scale will be drawn by the officers holding charges of not less importance than the charge of a division.

(iii) Directors.—Rs. 1,750-100-2,150

(iv) Chief Engineer.—Rs. 2,750-125-3,000.

(b) TRAFFIC BRANCH (SUPERIOR ESTABLISHMENT).

Officers for this branch are recruited as far as possible from the upper subordinate and subordinate staff of the department selected at any stage of their service. The Director-General is, however, at liberty to make direct appointments to the Superior Traffic Branch from outside the ranks of the signalling establishment at any position in the scale which may be considered suitable. Ordinarily these outsiders would be appointed on probation One-fourth of the vacancies in the second division of the Superior Traffic Branch will be filled by selection from amongst Telegraph Masters, Supervisors and Telegraphists irrespective of seniority. Candidates must be physically fit, thoroughly competent and must exhibit tact and capacity for control.

Candidates who possess these qualifications and are considered best fitted for the branch will be nominated by the Postmasters-General and selections will be made by the Director-General according to requirements. Selected candidates will be employed in any short leave vacancy that may occur in the Superior Traffic Branch in the Circle concerned and their capabilities will be tested and their fitness proved before confirmation. The selected candidates will not be confirmed in their appointments until they have justified their selection in every way.

Selections from the rank of Deputy Superintendents will be made by the Director-General when filling the remaining three-fourths of the vacancies in the second division of the Superior Traffic Branch.

Pay of Officers in the Superior Traffic Branch.

(i) Superior Traffic Branch, Second Division (36 officers)—Rs. 350-20-550-30-700

(ii) Superior Traffic Branch, First Division (14 officers)—Rs. 800-60-1,400.

(iii) Deputy Director-General, Telegraph Traffic. Rs. 1,750-100-2,150.

NOTE.—Officers of the Superior Traffic Branch are recruited as far as possible from the upper subordinate and subordinate staff.

Indian Civil Veterinary Department.

Appointments are made by the Secretary of State for India as vacancies occur.

Candidates must not ordinarily be over 30 years of age, must satisfy a Medical Board of their physical fitness and must possess a diploma from the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons.

Appointments will be made on probation for three years.

Salary.—Rs. 350-50-550 (5th and 6th years)—50-650 (8th year)—efficiency bar—700 (9th year)—50-800 (11th and 12th years)—50-1,250 (21st year and after).

Railways in India.

One of the special features of the Indian Railway is the diversity of conditions that prevails in the relation of the State to the various lines in respect of ownership and control. Of the important lines situated in British India or in which the Government of India is interested, three (the North-Western, Eastern Bengal and Oudh and Rohilkhand Railways) are owned and worked by the State; eight (the East Indian, Great Indian Peninsula, Bombay, Baroda and Central India, Madras and Southern Mahratta, Assam-Bengal, Bengal-Nagpur, South Indian and Burma) are owned by the State but worked on its behalf by companies enjoying a guarantee of interest from the Government; three important lines (the Bengal and North-Western, Rohilkhand and Kumaon and Southern Punjab) and many of less importance are the property of private companies, some being worked by the owning companies and some by the State or by the companies that work

State-owned systems; several minor lines are the property of District Boards or enjoy a guarantee of interest granted by such Boards. The Government of India, however, exercises, under the Indian Railways Act, 1890, and under the provisions of contracts detailed control of all Railways in British India, the greater number of the powers for control being vested in the Railway Board consisting of a President and two members with a Secretariat establishment.

Open Mileage.—The total length of Indian Railways open for traffic on 31st March 1922 was 37,266 miles. During the financial year 1921-22, 125 miles of new lines were opened. A number of lines, many of them of short lengths and of local interest (total length 979 miles), were under construction.

The table below shows the contribution to open mileage represented by each succeeding Viceregal administration.

Name of Viceroy	Period.	Miles opened.
Marquis of Dalhousie	1853-1855	169
Earl of Canning	1856-1861	1,418
Earl of Elgin	1862-1863	920
Lord Lawrence	1864-1868	1,501
Earl of Mayo	1869-1871	1,066
Lord Northbrook	1872-1875	1,467
Lord Lytton	1876-1880	2,621
Marquis of Ripon	1881-1884	2,469
Earl of Dufferin and Ava	1885-1888	2,945
Marquis of Lansdowne	1889-1893	3,928
Earl of Elgin	1894-1898	3,536
Lord Curzon	1899-1905	6,255
Earl of Minto	1906-1910	3,805
Lord Hardinge	1911-1915-16	3,733
Lord Chelmsford	1916-17-1920-21	1,196
Total	...	37,029

Capital Expenditure—The total capital expenditure incurred on the construction of all railways in India up to the end of March 1922 amounted to Rs. 656'06 crores of which Rs. 506'12 crores represented outlay charged to funds raised by the State. The outlay during the year 1921-22 was Rs. 25'78 crores. Quinquennial Programme. It has been decided by the Legislative Assembly on the advice of the Railway Finance Committee to spend a sum of Rs. 150 crores on the rehabilitation of railways in the five years 1922-27 and all railways have been called upon to prepare five years' programmes. For the first time railway administrations have been placed in a position to plan ahead and to carry out their programmes with a full assurance of financial support.

Working Expenses.—There has been a further rise in the working expenses of railways in the year 1921-22. In the year 1913-14 immediately preceding the war the expenses were in the neighbourhood of 52 per cent. of earnings, while they have now reached 76 per cent., the increase over last year's proportion being no less than 10·68 per cent.

Railway Earnings.—The total gross earnings of all the railways in India during the year 1921-22 amounted to about Rs. 92·89 crores against Rs. 91·98 crores in 1920-21. The share of the Imperial Government in this respect was Rs. 81·87 crores, the balance being distributed among other proprietors, viz., Provincial Governments (Rs. 0·02 crore), District Boards (Rs. 0·25 crore), Indian States (Rs. 3·46 crores) and private companies (Rs. 7·29 crores).

The amount actually realised or gross receipts from State-owned railways amounted to Rs. 81·69 crores, working expenses Rs. 65·67 crores, net receipts Rs. 16 crores representing a return of 2·75 per cent on the total capital against 4·71 per cent in the previous year and 5·58 per cent. in 1913-14.

Railway Materials.—The value of materials excluding coal, coke, etc., purchased by Indian Railways in 1921-22 reached the record total of Rs. 38·61 crores which represents an advance of Rs. 8·35 crores beyond last year. Something over two-thirds of the expenditure (Rs. 27·88 crores) is represented by materials of foreign origin and the rest (Rs. 10·73 crores) indigenous materials. Of the imported total nearly half (Rs. 13·66 crores) is represented by the one item Rolling Stock.

Railway Staff.—The total number of railway employees at the close of the year 1921-22 was 754,478 of which 6,858 were Europeans, 11,831 Anglo-Indians and 735,789 Indians. The following table shows the variations in the number of each of these classes in the last 10 years.

Year				Europeans.	Anglo-Indians.	Indians.	Total.
1912	7,850	10,066	571,506	589,422
1913-14	7,986	10,437	614,882	633,305
1914-15	7,641	10,349	582,493	600,483
1915-16	7,274	10,412	607,919	625,605
1916-17	6,907	10,425	619,202	636,534
1917-18	6,802	10,239	636,967	654,008
1918-19	6,702	10,450	667,824	684,976
1919-20	6,943	10,866	695,269	713,078
1920-21	7,281	11,940	729,789	749,010
1921-22	6,858	11,831	735,789	754,478

Accidents.—The total number of persons who lost their lives as a result of railway accidents during the year showed a slight increase, being 3,121 against 3,016 in the previous year. The number of persons injured was 3,069 in 1921-22 against 3,039 in 1920-21.

The total number of serious accidents to trains during the year was 539 against 469 in 1920-21, the occurrence of a number of accidents due to deliberate train wrecking being a serious feature of the year.

The Chief Railways in Madras.

I.—THE MADRAS AND SOUTHERN MAHRATTA RAILWAY.

The Madras Railway was the third of the original railways constructed as experimental lines under the old form of guarantee. The Madras Guaranteed Railway Company's contract having expired in 1907, the lines owned by that company were purchased by the Secretary of State and in 1908 the then existing Madras Railway (with the exception of the Jalarpet-Mangalore section) together with the metre gauge sections of the South Indian Railway from Katpadi to Gudur and Pakala to Dharmavaram was made over to the Southern Mahratta Railway Company for working, the enlarged Company being styled the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Company.

Main provisions of contract—(a) Land is provided by the Government at the cost of capital; (b) interest in sterling at 3½ per cent per annum is guaranteed on the nominal amount of Capital Stock of the Company, (c) money for capital expenditure is provided by the Secretary of State by advances or issue of debentures, etc.; (d) surplus profit after payment of rebate to the South Indian Railway, etc., and repayment to Secretary of State of interest on debentures advanced by him, is divided by the Secretary of State and the Company in the proportion of their respective shares of Capital (viz., Secretary of State, £11½ millions, Company, £5 millions), (e) the Government (to which belong the Railway and all its appurtenances) may determine the contract on 31st December 1937 or on 31st Dec in any succeeding fifth year from that date. Upon the termination of the contract the company are to give Government the possession of the Railway and the Government are to pay the Company a sum equal to its share capital, viz. £5 millions.

II.—THE SOUTH INDIAN RAILWAY.

The line formerly owned and worked by the late Great Southern India and the Carnatic Railway Companies were amalgamated in 1874 under the title of the South Indian Railway which in 1891 was purchased by the State and handed over for working to the existing South Indian Railway Company.

Main provisions of contract.—(a) Land is provided by the Government at the cost of Capital, (b) guarantee of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent interest in sterling on the Company's share capital of £1 million; (c) the net profit will be applied to the payment to Government of interest at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent per annum on Government Capital, etc., and the surplus is divisible between Government and Company in the proportion of the capital contributed by them respectively; (d) the Railway and all its appurtenances are the property of Government who may determine the contract on 31st December 1945 or at the end of any succeeding 5th year. On expiration or determination of contract the Government are to take possession of the Railway and all its appliances repaying the Company at par its capital of £1 million.

Vehicular Rules and Fares

Madras Motor Vehicles Rules, 1923.

(Under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, VIII of 1914.)

These rules come into force on 1st April 1923 and extend to the whole of the Madras Presidency

Registration.—No motor vehicle should be used in a public place unless it has been registered. Motor vehicles which have been registered in other Provinces and in Native States such as Travancore, Cochin, Mysore, Pudukkottai, Hyderabad, etc., are exempted from further registration in the Madras Presidency.

Registering Authority.—Application for registration with particulars regarding the vehicle to be registered and the name and address of the owner, etc., should be made in the prescribed form to the Commissioner of Police in the City of Madras and to the respective District Superintendents of Police in the districts. Any change of address of the owner or transfer of ownership of the vehicle should at once be reported to the registering authority.

Fees.—Rs. 4 for motor cycles below 3½ h.p., Rs. 8 for all other motor cycles and motor cycles with side-cars, Rs. 16 for other motor vehicles; Rs. 32 for heavy motor vehicles which would be renewed annually on payment of Rs. 16. Motor vehicles which are let or hired for hire should be registered afresh on payment of Rs. 16 irrespective of any other permit granted to them, which may be renewed annually on payment of Rs. 8. Fee for duplicate copies of the registration certificates is half the original registration fee.

“Motor cycle” means a two, three or four-wheeled motor vehicle, fitted with a seat or seats, but without a carriage body (which includes a side-car) and weighing not more than five cwt.

A separate number is assigned to each registered motor vehicle, which, preceded by the distinguishing letter or letters prescribed for registering authorities, such as “M.C.” for Madras City, “S” for Salem, etc., must be shown clearly in a prominent position both in front and rear of the motor vehicle, whenever it is in a public place. Every person driving a motor vehicle must obey directions of Police officers in charge of the regulation of traffic in public places, must drive in accordance with the rules of the road and keep within speed limits. Every vehicle must have a horn or whistle capable of giving sufficient warning of the approach of the vehicle. In Madras the horn must be of a single note and sirens or whistles are not allowed. No driver of a motor cycle should carry a passenger thereon or tow any other cyclist thereby within the Madras City and District Municipalities. No motor vehicle must be driven half an hour after sunset and half an hour before sunrise unless it has three lighted lamps of suitable illumination, 2 attached on either side of the front, exhibiting a white light in the direction in which the vehicle is proceeding, and a third at the back of the vehicle exhibiting a red light in the reverse direction and a white light at right angles to the red, so as to render the register number of the car distinguishable from a reasonable distance. Provided that, in the case of a motor cycle, one white head light and one red rear light or a reflector capable of reflecting a red light from any light carried on another vehicle approaching from behind is sufficient and that, in the case of a side-car, a white light on the extreme end of the side-car should also be carried to show the breadth of the vehicle.

MOTOR VEHICLES LET OR ON HIRE.

These must possess special permits granted by the Commissioner of Police in the City of Madras and the District

Magistrate elsewhere and must be registered annually. In addition to the special permits, vehicles which are intended to be let or to ply for hire in areas under the control of local boards must obtain such licences from the Presidents of the District Boards concerned as may be prescribed under the Madras Local Boards Act from time to time.

HEAVY MOTOR VEHICLES (i.e., exceeding 2 tons in weight, unladen).

Must be registered annually and the registered weight of the vehicle, the registered axle-weight of each axle and the highest rate of speed must be painted or plainly written, the speed on the left hand side, and the weights on the right. The axle-weight of any axle of a heavy motor vehicle used in a public place must not exceed the registered axle-weight; the axle-weight of any axle must not exceed 8 tons and the sum of axle-weights of all axles must not exceed 12 tons. Speed must not exceed 7 miles an hour, it must not exceed 5 miles if the registered weight of the vehicle exceeds 3 tons, or the weight of any axle exceeds 3 tons, or a trailer is attached to it. If, however, the tyres are pneumatic or of soft elastic material, the speed may not exceed 12 miles an hour where registered weight of any axle does not exceed 6 tons, 7 miles an hour where such registered weight exceeds 6 tons. Trailers hauled by heavy motor vehicles must satisfy conditions laid down for the latter, must have brakes and must have a person on each competent to apply the brake. More than 3 trailers must not at a time be hauled by a motor vehicle.

DRIVING LICENCES.

Driving licences are granted by the Commissioner of Police in the Madras City and the District Superintendents of Police in the mufassal, on the applicant for licence satisfying the licensing authority as to his ability to drive the class or classes of motor vehicle mentioned in the application, without danger to the public safety. Fee for the grant of a new licence and the renewal of a licence already granted is Rs. 5 and Rs. 3 respectively. Licences presented after the period of expiry cannot be renewed and fresh licences only should be taken out on payment of Rs. 5. Licences granted or renewed will be in force for 1 year from the date of issue and be valid throughout the Madras Presidency. Holders of licences granted in provinces other than Madras are not required during the currency of such licences to take out fresh licences to drive in the Madras Presidency.

Madras Motor Cab Rules, 1921.

(Under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, VIII of 1914)

A "motor-cab" or "taxi-cab" means a motor vehicle which is let or plies for hire within the municipal limits of the City of Madras and which has seating accommodation for not more than 7 passengers including the driver and which does not exceed 2 tons in weight when unladen.

Such of the motor vehicles rules as are not inconsistent with these rules apply to motor vehicles let or plying for hire.

No motor vehicle should be let or plied for hire within the municipal limits of the City of Madras without an owner's permit or be driven by any person not holding a driver's permit. The permits are granted by the Commissioner of Police, Madras, and are valid from the date of issue till the end of the succeeding March, the fee for the owner's permit being Rs. 5 and for the driver's permit Rs. 2.

The licensing authority will fix the number of persons and weight of luggage which a motor-cab may carry. Every part of a motor-cab should be kept in proper condition and repair. Every motor-cab should be fitted with a taxi-meter of an approved style to indicate to the hirer the fare chargeable and every such taxi-meter will be sealed.

with the seal of the Commissioner of Police.

An indicator or flag with the words "for hire" painted on it should be so attached to the taxi-meter that it will be vertical when the taxi-meter is out of action. The vertical position of the indicator will show that the vehicle is available for hire, when no driver should, without reasonable excuse, refuse to accept a fare. The driver should proceed to the destination named by the hirer by the shortest and quickest route in the absence of reasonable cause to the contrary.

The following are the prescribed rates of fare and no driver or owner of a motor-cab should demand more:—

(a) between 6 a.m. and 10 p.m.—

	RS.	A.	P.
For the first mile.	0	10	0
For every subsequent 1/5 mile	0	2	0

(b) between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.—

	RS.	A.	P.
For the first mile.	0	12	0

NOTE.—The above rates apply when a motor vehicle is used by four or any less number of persons.

RS. A. P.

Detention—Day or night, for every 4 minutes. 0 2 0

For luggage or goods weighing 20 lb. 0 2 0

(Goods or luggage to the weight of 100 lb. may be carried free in the place of each passenger short of the prescribed maximum)

No charge for the distance from the cab-stand or garage to the place required, if the distance is less than 500 yards. Detention charge should not commence till 10 minutes after arrival at the required place. No charge for returning from place of discharge to the stand or garage if within municipal limits; if discharged outside municipal limits, 8 annas per mile or part of a mile up to municipal limits.

NOTE.—Nothing in the above rules prevents the owner of a motor vehicle from entering into a contract to let his motor vehicle for not less than a full day or for trips of more than 10 miles beyond the municipal limits of the Madras City at charges agreed upon between him and the hirer.

Madras Hackney Carriage Act, V of 1911.

(Main Provisions.)

"Hackney carriage" means any wheeled vehicle drawn or pushed by a man or horse, bullock or other animal and used for the conveyance of any person, which stands or plies for hire by the hour or day or according to distance.

Registration.—Every hackney carriage must be registered annually by the Commissioner of Police, who will grant a licence containing the register number of the carriage, its description, the number of passengers it is licensed to carry, etc. Hackney carriages are registered in three classes, namely, first, second and third.

Fees for Licence.

RS. A. P.

(a) For every four-wheeled carriage drawn by two or more horses licensed to carry more than six passengers	3	0	0
(b) For every other four-wheeled carriage drawn by two horses	2	0	0
(c) For every other four-wheeled carriage drawn by one horse or by bullocks	1	0
(d) For every two-wheeled carriage drawn by one horse	0	8	0
(e) For every two-wheeled carriage drawn by one or more bullocks	0	4
(f) For every rickshaw, perambulator or other carriage drawn or pushed by a man	0	4

Fares.—The table below shows the rates of authorized fares. No owner or driver of a hackney carriage may demand more, nor any back fare for the return of the carriage from the place at which it was discharged. Contract to accept a lower fare is, however, valid. An abstract of the distances and fares printed in enamelled plates should be fixed conspicuously in every hackney carriage.

The driver of every hackney carriage must drive it to any place named by the hirer which is not more than 3 miles from the place of hiring in the case of vehicles of the description specified in clause (f) under Fees for Licence, above, and 6 miles in the case of any other vehicle. Any person hiring a hackney carriage is entitled to the exclusive use of it provided he pays the prescribed fare. No other person may be admitted without his consent.

Luggage.—A small box or hand bag (not exceeding 24 × 15 × 9 inches) and a bundle of bedding or rugs may be carried free in all classes of carriage, provided that no rickshaw be compelled to take more than 20 lb. of luggage. For every other article of luggage, a charge not exceeding 2 annas may be levied.

Rates of Fares.

(Under the Madras Hackney Carriages Act, V of 1911)

Fares may be paid according to distance or time at the option of the hirer to be expressed at the commencement of the hiring, if not otherwise expressed, they are to be paid according to time

These fares have received the sanction of the Government of Madras in G.O. No 552, Law (Judicial), dated 10th June 1921.
(Copies of list of fares and table of distances between stations in the Madras City are on sale at the Government Press, Mount Road, Madras, for 4 annas a copy.)

Weights and Measures.

As will be found from the table below, the weights and measures in use in this Presidency are of bewildering variety. They vary from district to district even as they vary from province to province. It has been long under consideration to standardize the weights and measures in use in India, and various special steps had at different times been taken in different parts of India for that purpose. In 1913 the Government of India appointed a committee to consider the whole problem once again. The committee reported in favour of a uniform system of weights to be adopted in India based on 180 Grain-Tola. The Government of India while approving the general principles of the report have left it to the Local Governments to take such action as they may think desirable in regard to the standardization of weights and measures, subject to the restriction imposed by section 80-A (3) (f) of the Government of India Act read with item 29 of part II of the first schedule to the Devolution Rules. The Board of Revenue which has been consulted on the subject is opposed to the introduction of legislation at present for the purpose of standardizing dry and liquid measures of capacity in this Presidency having regard to the present condition of political atmosphere. As regards standards of length and area the Board considers that no action is called for as the types recommended by the Weights and Measures Committee are already practically in force in this Presidency.

The Government generally agree with the Board that legislation is not desirable at present. They however consider that public opinion should be educated in favour of the railway system of weights, by publicity work, by adoption in school curricula and by other suitable measures. The Director of Public Instruction has been requested accordingly to include instruction in the railway system of weights—one maund = 40 seers, 1 seer = 80 tolas—in the syllabus of arithmetic for schools. The Board of Revenue has also been requested to take steps to maintain standard weights at the Presidency town and at important trade centres.

Avoirdupois Weight.

- 27·34375 grains = 1 drachm.
- 16 drachms = 1 ounce
- 16 ounces = 1 pound.
- 14 pounds = 1 stone.
- 28 pounds = 1 quarter.
- 4 quarters = 1 hundredweight.
- 20 hundredweights = 1 ton.

Imperial Railway Weight.

- 10 tolas = 1 chittack.
- 8 chittacks = 1 seer.
- 40 seers = 1 maund.
- 1 tola = weight of one rupee = 180 grains.

- 1 Ry. seer = 2·057 lb.
- 1 Ry. maund = 82·28 lb.

Madras Weight.

- 3 tolas = 1 palam.
- 8 palams = 1 seer
- 5 seers = 1 viss.
- 8 visses = 1 maund.
- 20 maunds = 1 candy.

The table used by European merchants in Madras is slightly different from the above and is as follows:—

- 1 palam = 1½ oz. avoirdupois.
- 40 palams = 1 viss = 3½ lb.

- 8 visses = 1 maund = 25 lb.
 20 maunds = 1 candy or baram = 500 lb.
 Butcher's seer = 24 palams = 30 oz.
 1 pound = $1\frac{3}{4}$ seers
 = $12\frac{3}{4}$ palams
 1 ton = $89\frac{1}{2}$ maunds.
 = $4\frac{1}{2}$ candies.
 = 2,240 pounds

Imperial Measures of Capacity.

- 5 fluid ounces of water = 1 gill.
 4 gills = 1 pint.
 2 pints = 1 quart
 4 quarts = 1 gallon.
 2 gallons = 1 peck.
 4 pecks = 1 bushel.
 8 bushels = 1 quarter.
 A gallon contains 277·463 cubic inches and equals 10 lb. of distilled water 62° F.
 6·25 gallons = 1 cubic foot.
 1 gallon = ·16 cubic foot.
 1 fluid ounce pure water weighs 1 oz. avoirdupois.
 "A pint of pure water weighs a pound and a quarter."
 One bushel = 8 gallons = 20·48 M. measures

Madras Measures of Capacity.

These are extremely variable, and only a few of the most widely known are given.

- 8 ollocks = 1 Madras measure pukka or padi.
 8 Madras measures = 1 marakkal.
 1 marakkal = $\frac{1}{2}$ cubic foot = 500 fluid oz.

The type Madras measure is 108 inches cubic capacity, contains 62·5 fluid ounces and is usually 4·5 inches in diameter and 6·75 inches deep.

In Madras and Saidapet it is struck, elsewhere it is heaped.

The seer when used as a measure is about 80 tolas, but varies with the commodity that is being used.

Imperial Linear Measure.

- 3 barley corns = 1 inch.
 12 inches = 1 foot.
 3 feet = 1 yard.
 $5\frac{1}{2}$ yards = 1 pole.
 40 poles = 1 furlong.
 8 furlongs = 1 mile
 3 miles = 1 league

The chain used for measuring land is 4 poles or 22 yards and consists of 100 links, each link being $\frac{25}{100}$ yd or 7·92 inches long.

- 10,000 sq. links = 1 sq. chain.
 100,000 sq. links or 10 sq. chains = 1 acre.

A quarter anna is 1 inch in diameter.

A fathom = 2 yards.

A hand (for measuring animals) = 4 inches.

Imperial Square Measure.

- 144 sq. inches = 1 sq. foot.
 9 sq. feet = 1 sq. yard.
 $30\frac{1}{4}$ sq. yards = 1 sq. pole.
 40 sq. poles = 1 rood.
 4 roods = 1 acre.
 640 acres = 1 sq. mile.
 43,560 sq. feet = 1 acre.
 4,840 sq. yards = 1 acre.
 10 sq. chains = 1 acre.

The acre is universally used in revenue accounts, though different districts still use their local land measures. It is divided into cents, each $\frac{1}{100}$ part of an acre.

An acre has roughly four equal sides of 70 yards (208·71 feet).

Imperial Cubic Measure.

- 1,728 cubic inches = 1 cubic foot.
 27 cubic feet = 1 cubic yard.

Local Weights and Measures.

Anantapur

Weights.

- 21 tolas (or $\frac{1}{114}$ of an oz) = 1 seer.
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ seers = 1 sava seer.
 2 sava seers = 1 adi seer (3 seers).
 2 adi seers = 1 panch seer (6 seers).
 12 seers = 1 dhadiyam.
 4 dhadiyams = 1 maund (25.92 lb.).
 Ara seer = $\frac{1}{2}$ seer.
 Pavu = $\frac{1}{4}$ seer.
 Ara pavu = $\frac{1}{8}$ seer.
 Chattack = $\frac{1}{16}$ seer.

A seer of gold or silver weighs, as elsewhere, 24 tolas.

Gram Measure

1 seer = 88 tolas weight of second sort rice heaped, divided into ara, pavu, etc., as before

The next largest measure above the seer is the muntha whose capacity differs from taluk to taluk.

- 16 munthas = 1 thumu.
 20 thumus = 1 puttī.

The thumu and the puttī are as inconstant in value as the muntha itself.

Liquid Measure

The gram seer is used for milk buttermilk and curd. Oil and ghee are generally sold by weight.

Arcot, North

Weights.

- 3 tolas = 1 palam.
 8 palams = 1 seer (kaccha).
 5 seers = 1 viss
 2 visses = 1 dhadiyam.
 4 dhadiyams = 1 maund.
 20 maunds = 1 candy.

The pukka seer of Chittoor and Vellore is 72 tolas.

Measures.

- 8 padis = 1 marakkal or toom.
 12 marakkals = 1 kalam.
 400 marakkals = 1 garce.
 40 kalams = 1 candy.

The toom or marakkal differs in different places of the district.

Milk, curds and buttermilk are sold by measure.

Ghee, oils and honey are sold by measure as well as by weight.

Land Measure.

- 1 kole or rod = 24 feet.
 1 square kole = 576 square feet =
 1 kuzhi (Tamil) or gunta (Telugu).
 100 kuzhis or guntas = 1 kani =
 57,600 square feet = 1.32 acres. Same as cawny of Tanjore.

Arcot, South.

Weights.

- 3 tolas = 1 palam.
 8 palams = 1 seer.
 40 palams (5 seers) = 1 viss.
 50 palams = 1 tuk.

12 palams and a fraction (varying in different localities) = 1 rattal (for indigo).

The "French" pound is .5 kilo. The groundnut candy is 240 kilos = 529.2 lb.

In the Salt Factories.

- 80 tolas = 1 seer.
 40 seers = 1 Indian maund
 120 maunds = 1 garce (439 tons).

Gram Measure.

132 tolas of rice = 1 heaped Madras measure.

2 Madras measures = 1 marakkal.

The marakkal however varies in size in different taluks though at all places 12 marakkals = 1 kalam and 24 kalam are generally held equal to a cartload. Near Palur, a kalam = 36 Madras measures and 12 kalam go to the cartload.

Liquid Measure.

Usually as fractions and multiples of a Madras measure, ghee and oil are retailed by weight by the seer and palam above.

Arrack is sold by gallons and drams.

Linear Measure.

1) angulas (thumb's breadths) = 1 jan (span).

12 angulas = 1 adi (foot)

18 " = 1 molam (cubit, length from elbow to tip of middle finger)

2 molams = 1 gaja (yard)

2 gajas = 1 mar (distance between tips of the two middle fingers measured across the chest with the arms horizontal).

Land Measure.

24 feet = 1 kole (rod).

1 square kole (576 sq. ft.) = 1 kuli.

100 kulis = 1 kam (1.32 acres).

Bellary.

Weights.

Same as Anantapur.

Gram Measure.

1 seer = 84 tolas weight of a mixture of the 9 grains known as navadhanya, which seems = 86 tolas weight of paddy divided into ara, pavu, etc.

The multiples of this seer differ in different taluks. In Bellary taluk a putt is weights 2,560 seers.

Liquid Measure.

Same as Anantapur.

Chingleput.

1 gundu of firewood = 56 lb

8 ollocks = 1 M.M.

4 M M = 1 Tiruvellur jodu

Coimbatore.

8 rupees wt. = 1 palam.

15 palams = 1 viss.

8 visses = 1 maund.

10 maunds = 1 pothy.

20 maunds = 1 baram.

12 tulams = 1 pothy.

A palam of 3 rupees is used for drugs.

2 M.M. = 1 vallam

33 vallams = 1 selagai

There are a number of local measures which are gradually being replaced by the standard M M

The Coimbatore vallam is larger than the standard one and 30 only go to the selagai

1 maund of jaggery = 26 lb.

When firewood is sold by the ton, the maund is often taken at 28 lb., i.e., 80th of a ton

Cuddapah.

32 M M = 1 thumu

20 thumus = 1 putt.

Ganjam.

Weights.

80 tolas = 1 seer

5 seers = 1 viss

8 visses = 1 maund

8 maunds = 1 candy.

For gingelly, castor, coconut-oil and ghee, 1 seer = 22 tolas.

For onions, garlic, saffron, tamarind, potatoes and silk, 1 seer = 24 tolas.

For chilies 1 seer = 105 tolas.

For vegetables, etc., 1 seer = 180 tolas.

For camphor, spices, 1 viss = 118 tolas

Land Measure.

- 4 seers of rice and other grains = 1 thumu.
 16 seers = 1 nowtie (cent).
 20 nowties = 1 bharanam.
 100 nowties = 1 acre.

Godavari.Weights.

- 2 pampus = 1 yebulam.
 2 yebulams = 1 padalam.
 2 padalams = 1 viss (5 seers or 120 tolas).
 2 visses = 1 yettedu.
 4 yettedus = 1 maund (or 25 lb).
 20 maunds = 1 putti (or candy).
 Fuel is sold by the following table—
 5 maunds = 1 kavadi
 4 kavadis = 1 putti
 1 putti dry jungle wood = 500 lb.
 1 putti green jungle wood = 612 lb.
 1 putti of jaggery = 50½ lb

Gram Measure.

- 5 tolas weight of rice = 1 gidda.
 4 giddas = 1 sola.
 2 solas = 1 manika or seer (holds 80 tolas weight of rice)
 2 manikas = 1 adda.
 2 addas = 1 kuncham (320 tolas weight of rice)
 20 kunchams = 1 yedumu or kavadi.
 2 yedumus = 1 pandum
 2 pandumus = 1 palle putti (80 kunchams).
 7½ palle puttis = 1 garce (garisa of 600 kunchams or 192,000 tolas weight of rice).
 1 bag or busta of paddy = 166 lb.

Linear Measurement.

- 1 nulu = $\frac{1}{8}$ inch.
 2 nulu = 1 pathika.

Land Measure (popular).

- 1 kuncham = 10 cents.
 1 yedum = 2 acres.
 1 pandum = 4 acres.

Kanara, South.MANGALORE.Weights.*

- 2½ tolas = 1 seer.

100 gulis = 1 cawny = 57,600 sq. ft.
or 1 322 acres
1 balla = 3.82 acres = 166,464 sq. ft.
60 × 40 feet or 2,400 sq. ft. = 1 manai or house site.

Measures.

- 2 ollocks = 1 ullock.
8 ollocks = 1 padi or measure.
8 measures = 1 marakkal.
5 marakkals = 1 para
400 marakkals = 1 garisa.
50 jodis (i.e., double measures or 100 Madras measures) = 1 palla.

Weights.

- 3 rupees weight (tola) = 1 palam.
8 palams = 1 seer
5 seers (3½ rattal) = 1 viss
50 palams (1½ viss) = 1 tuk.
8 visses = 1 maund.
20 maunds = 1 bharam or candy.

Salem.Measures.

- 2½ M. M. = 1 vallam.
40 vallams = 1 kandagam
The vallam varies up to 3 M.M.

Weights.

The tuku is used, but varies from 1½ visses to 2½ visses according to the commodity.

- 2½ tukus = 1 thulam.
16 thulams = 1 sattai.
In Namakkal, 16 vallams = 1 moda.
6 modas = 1 podi.

Tanjore and Trichinopoly.Weights.

- 16 pies = 1 palam or 3 tolas.
8 palams = 1 seer.
5 seers = 1 viss.
8 visses = 1 maund.
20 maunds = 1 candy.

Hides and leather are weighed in terms of a rattal of 1½ seers.

Vegetables, tamarind, etc., in terms of thukku or edai of 6½ seers.

Measures.

- 2 padis = 1 marakkal.
12 marakkals = 1 kalam.
2 kalams = 1 somai (load).
5 somais = 1 urai.
4 urais = 1 bandy load
120 coconuts = 1 somai or load 40 marakkals of onions = 1 podi or pack.
32 palams of oil (vegetable) = 1 sombu
16 sombus = 1 adam.

A small padi, of which four go to the marakkal, is still largely used by the ryot. A seer, one-fifth of a padi, is used for measuring milk, etc. The kalam itself varies from taluk to taluk.

Land Measure.

- 144 sq. ft. = 1 kuli.
100 kulis = 1 ma
3 ma's = 1 acre.
4 ma's = 1 kani
20 ma's = 1 veli (6 $\frac{2}{3}$ acres).

Tinnevely.Weights.

- 53½ rupees weight = 1 palam.
144 palams = 1 tulam (100 palams =
1 tulam in the south).
12 tulams = 1 pothu.
2 pothus = 1 candy (500 lb.)
1 tulam = 20½ lb
16 tulams = 1 podi in Ramnad district.
12 tulams = 1 podi of seed.
16 tulams = 1 podi of Kappas—in cotton tracts north of Sattur.
72 palams = 1 edai in cotton tract.
25 palams = 1 edai in the south.
20 palams = 1 edai in Sivilliputtur taluk of Ramnad district.
4½ palams = 1 seer (Rs. 25 weight).

In the cotton tracts in the south 1 edai is equivalent to 10½ lb.

Weights used for weighing Gold and Silver

- 20 manchadis = 1 kalanji.
 $\frac{1}{8}$ kalanji = 1 varagan edai.
 $3\frac{1}{8}$ varagan edai = 1 rupee weight = 1 tola.

Grain Measure.

- 2 half mahanis = 1 mahan ($\frac{1}{16}$ measure).
 2 mahanis = 1 ollock ($\frac{1}{2}$ Madras measure).
 2 ollocks = 1 ullock ($\frac{1}{2}$ Madras measure).
 2 ullocks = $\frac{1}{2}$ Madras measure.
 4 ullocks = 1 nali (1 Madras measure).
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ seers = 1 Madras measure.
 96 Madras measures = 1 kottai (Koilpatti tract).
 112 Madras measures = 1 kottai (in Tinnevely).
 120 Madras measures = 1 kottai (Ramnad district).
 4 Madras measures = 1 marakkal.
 48 Madras measures = 1 kalam.
 In some parts of Ramnad—
 3 Madras measures = 1 marakkal.
 90 Madras measures = 1 kottai.

*Land Measurement.WET LAND.

- 8 seer padi = 1 marakkal (nearly 8 cents).
 '1 marakkals = 1 kola (163 cents)

DRY LAND

- 21 kurukkams is the area which can be ploughed by one pair in a day.
 8 kurukkams = 1 sangili.
 or—
 3 Madras measures = 1 marakkal.
 30 marakkals = 1 kottai.
 12 marakkals = 1 acre.

Vizagapatam.Weights.

- 2 chatakas = 1 nantak = $1\frac{1}{2}$ oz.
 8 nantaks = 1 seer = 10 oz.
 5 seers = 1 visam or viss = $3\frac{1}{4}$ lb.
 8 visams = 1 manugu or maund = 25 lb.

- 8 manugus = 1 kantlam = 200 lb.
 20 manugus = 1 putti or candy = 500 lb.

The following table is also used side by side with the first—2 yebalams = 1 padalam = $1\frac{1}{2}$ lb.
 2 padalams = 1 visam = 3 lb.
 8 visams = 1 manugu = $2\frac{1}{2}$ lb.
 8 manugus = 1 kantlam = 192 lb.
 20 manugus = 1 candy = 480 lb.

Grain and Liquid Measures.

- 4 giddas = 1 sola.
 2 solas = 1 tavva = $2\frac{1}{2}$ pints.
 2 tavvas = 1 adda or manika = $\frac{1}{2}$ pints.
 4 addas = 1 kuncham = 17 pints.
 20 kunchams = 1 buri putti (in Kondakerla firka).
 80 kunchams = 1 pedde putti (in rest of taluk).
 600 kunchams = 1 garisu (garce).

Other Weights and Measures.Cotton.

- 1 skein = 120 yards.
 7 skeins = 1 hank.
 18 hanks = 1 spindle.
 The number of hanks to 1 lb. = "counts."

Angular Measure.

- 60 seconds (") = 1 minute (').
 60 minutes = 1 degree (°).
 90 degrees = 1 right angle.

METRICAL SYSTEM*Linear Measure.*

- 10 millimetres = 1 centimetre.
 10 centimetres = 1 decimetre.
 10 decimetres = 1 metre.
 10 metres = 1 decametre.
 10 decametres = 1 hectometre.
 10 hectometres = 1 kilometre.
 10 kilometres = 1 myriametre.
 1 millimetre = 0.039370 inch.
 1 metre = 3.28084 feet.
 1 kilometre = .62137 mile.

Square Measure.

- 1 hectare = 1 square hectometre = 2.4711 acres.

Weights.

1 gramme = 0.3527 oz. (Avoirdupois).

1 kilogramme = 2.2046 lb. (Avoirdupois).

Dry Fluid Measure.

1 litre = 0.2198 gallons.

The metrical system is based on the metre which is the ten millionth part of the quadrant of a terrestrial meridian. The litre is the cube of the tenth part of the metre, and the weight of a litre of distilled water at its greatest density is a kilogramme.

Banking.

The Imperial Bank of India.

The formation on the 27th January 1921 of the Imperial Bank of India by amalgamation of the three Presidency Banks of Bengal, Bombay and Madras is an event of great importance in the history of Indian banking. The agreement between the Government of India and the Imperial Bank has resulted in important changes in the control of Government balances, in the resource operations of Government and in the movement of funds throughout the country.

The idea of a Central Banking establishment for British India was mooted as early as 1836, and was the subject of a minute by Mr James Wilson, when Finance Member, in 1859. Again, in 1867, Mr Dickson, the well-known Secretary of the Bank of Bengal submitted detailed proposals for an amalgamation of the three Presidency Banks. On various later occasions the matter was brought forward without result and it was discussed by the Chamberlain Commission on Indian Finance and Currency in 1913. The present scheme which has come to fruition was however the result of a rapprochement on the part of the Banks themselves as a result of the experience gained during the war and the realization of the desirability of strengthening and extending the Banking system in India.

The history of the Presidency Banks in their relationship with Government, of which a clear and detailed description will be found in Sir James Brunyate's "An account of the Presidency Banks," falls into three well-defined stages. Prior to 1862 the Presidency Banks had the right of note issue, but were directly controlled by Government and the scope of their business was restricted by their charters. The second period was from 1862 to 1876. In 1862 the Banks were deprived of the right of note issue, though by their agreements of that year they were authorized to transact the paper currency business as agents of Government. As compensation for the loss of their right of issue, they were given the use of the Government balances and the management of the treasury work at the Presidency towns and at their branches. The old statutory limitations on their business were at the same time greatly relaxed, though the Government's power of control remained unchanged. In 1866 the agreements were revised and the paper currency business was removed from their control and placed under the direct management of Government. The third period dates from the Presidency Banks Act of 1876 by which nearly all the most important limitations of the earlier period were reimposed. Put very briefly, the principal restrictions imposed by this Act prohibited the Banks from conducting foreign exchange business, from borrowing or receiving deposits payable out of India, and from lending for a longer period than six months, or upon mortgage or on the security of immovable property or upon promissory notes bearing less than two independent names or upon goods, unless the goods or the title to them were deposited with the bank as security. At the same time Government abandoned direct interference in the management, ceasing to appoint official directors and disposing of their shares in the Banks. The Banks no longer enjoyed the full use of the Government balances. Reserve Treasuries were constituted at the Presidency towns into which the surplus revenues were drawn and the balances left at the disposal of the Banks were strictly limited.

This system continued with only minor modifications until the present year. During the war, however, the policy was deliberately adopted of reducing the amount of balances held in the Reserve Treasuries and leaving much larger balances with the Headquarters of the Presidency Banks in order to assist the money market.

We now come to the Imperial Bank of India Act (XLVII of 1920). Under the new Act, the control of the Bank is entrusted to a Central Board of Governors with Local Boards at Calcutta, Bombay and Madras and such other places as the Central Board, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may determine. The Central Board of Governors consists of—

(a) Managing Governors, not exceeding two in number, appointed by the Governor-General in Council on recommendation by the Central Board;

(b) the Presidents, Vice-Presidents and Secretaries of the Local Boards;

(c) the Controller of the Currency, or other officer nominated by the Governor-General in Council, and

(d) not more than four non-officials nominated by the Governor-General in Council.

Representatives of any new Local Boards, which may be constituted, may be added at the discretion of the Central Board.

The Controller of the Currency and the Secretaries of the Local Boards are entitled to attend the meetings of the Central Board but not to vote. Under the agreement with Government, however, which will be referred to later, the Governor-General in Council is entitled to issue instructions to the Bank in respect of any matter which in his opinion vitally affects his financial policy or the safety of the Government balances, and if the Controller of the Currency or such other officer of Government as may be nominated by the Governor-General in Council to be a Governor of the Central Board shall give notice in writing to the Managing Governors that he considers that any action proposed to be taken by the Bank will be detrimental to the Government as affecting the matters aforesaid, such action shall not be taken without the approval in writing of the Governor-General in Council. Under the Imperial Bank of India Act provision is made for the increase of the capital of the Bank. The capital of the three Presidency Banks consisted of 3½ crores of rupees in shares of Rs 500 each, fully subscribed. The additional capital authorized is 7½ crores in shares of Rs. 500 each of which Rs 125 has been called up, making the present capital of the Bank Rs 11½ crores, of which Rs. 5,62,50,000 will, on completion of the first call on the new shares, have been paid up. The reserve fund of the Bank is 3 crores 45 lakhs and on the 28th January 1921, the first balance sheet showed the Government balance at Rs 7,96,50,000, other deposits at Rs 76,43,40,000 and cash Rs 27,04,85,000 with a percentage of cash to liabilities of 31.94.

The Imperial Bank of India Act follows the Presidency Banks Act of 1876 in defining absolutely the class of business in which the Bank may engage, though the older limitations are modified in some minor points. It permits for the first time the constitution of a London Office and the borrowing of money in England for the purpose of the Bank's business upon the security of assets of the Bank, but not the opening of cash credits, keeping cash accounts or receiving deposits in London except from former customers of the Presidency Banks. The Act provides for an agreement between the Bank and the Secretary of State, and this agreement, which was signed on the 27th January 1921 and is for a period of ten years determinable thereafter by either party with one year's notice, provides, inter alia, for the following important matters:—

(1) All the general banking business of the Government of India is to be carried out by the Imperial Bank.

(2) The Bank will hold all the Treasury balances at Headquarters and at its branches. This involves the abolition of the Reserve Treasury system.

(3) Within five years the Bank undertakes to open 100 new branches, of which the Government of India may determine the location of one in four. It may be mentioned here that the branches and agencies of the three Presidency Banks prior to the date of amalgamation numbered 69, including the Colombo branch of the Bank of Madras. The Bank of Bengal had no branches prior to the proposal to transfer Government business to the Bank in 1861-62, but no less than 18 branches were established before 1868.

(4) The management of the Public Debt will continue to be conducted by the Bank for a specified remuneration.

(5) The Bank is entitled to transfer its funds through Currency free of charge, and Government will discontinue the issue of currency transfers or supply bills to the public between any two places in which a Local Head Office or a branch of the Imperial Bank is situated. The Bank in return undertakes to give the public every facility for the transfer of money between its Local Headquarters and branches at rates not exceeding such rates as the Controller of the Currency may by special or general direction approve.

The maximum rates approved by the Controller of the Currency, which are uniform throughout India and Burma, for all telegraphic transfers or drafts issued by the Bank are as follows:—

For amounts of Rs. 10,000 and over, 1 anna per cent;

For amount of Rs. 1,000 and over but less than Rs. 10,000, 2 annas per cent.

For amounts less than Rs. 1,000, the rates will be at the discretion of the Bank.

At the same time the opportunity was taken to bring the rates for Government currency transfers and supply bills into line with the rates approved for the Bank, the rates previously having ranged from 1 to 2 annas between treasuries in the same province and from 2 to 4 annas between a treasury in one province and a Currency Office or treasury in another province.

Those who are interested in this important development of Indian banking will find a well-informed article on the Imperial Bank of India in the Economic Journal of June 1921 from the pen of Mr. H F. Howard. The concluding paragraph of Mr. Howard's article is extracted below.

"It will no doubt be observed that the sphere and functions of the Imperial Bank of India do not coincide with those of a Central Bank under the strict definition of such an institution in countries where a highly developed banking system and a central discount market are in being. In such conditions the ideal to be followed in framing the constitution of a Central Bank is admittedly mainly that of a banker's bank, entrusted with the powers of the note issue, in addition to other Government business, but in various other respects strictly limited in its functions. But, as I trust, I have shown, conditions in India have been such as to necessitate evolution on other lines. The problem to be met differs, for example, widely from that which faced the framers of the Federal Reserve system in the United States, where many thousands of banks were already in existence and where it remained merely to shape the keystone to fit the arch. In India the complete foundations have still to be properly laid and we have to build up from the base.

"It would be premature also to attempt to forecast the lines which banking development in India will now follow. As has been seen, the policy with regard to the administration of the note issue and of the London remittance business of the Government has been left for future decision. It is probable that, in the event, advance will, as elsewhere, continue to be guided by the forces of natural evolution and shaped by the customs and traditions which the new bank may be expected, as time goes on, to bring into being."

Chambers of Commerce.

The Madras Chamber of Commerce.

(Founded in 1856)

Objects—The Madras Chamber of Commerce is formed with a view to watch over and protect the interests of trade, to receive and collect information on all matters of mercantile interest bearing upon the removal of grievances and the promotion of the common good; to communicate with authorities and with individual parties thereupon, to receive references on matters of custom or usage in doubt or dispute, deciding on the same and recording the decision made for future reference, and to form by that and other means a code of practice whereby the transactions of business by all engaged in it may be simplified and facilitated.

Summary of rules.—All merchants and other persons of British nationality engaged or interested in the general trade, commerce or manufactures of the Madras Presidency are eligible for membership; but persons of British nationality belonging to a foreign firm are regarded as foreign and are eligible only for Associate Membership. Any assistant signing a Firm, or signing per procurator for a Firm, is eligible for election as a member. Members who, during their absence from Madras, pay the regular subscription may be represented in the Chamber by their Powers-of-Attorney, as Honorary Members, subject to ballot, provided that such representative is himself of British nationality and is not employed by an alien firm. Honorary Members thus elected are entitled to vote and exercise all the privileges of ordinary members.

Merchants and other persons of alien nationality engaged or interested in the general trade, commerce or manufactures of the Madras Presidency after being duly proposed and seconded may be elected as Associate Members of the Chamber on payment of a monthly subscription of Rs 30 paid monthly. Associate Members are not entitled to vote and exercise the privileges of ordinary members. They are, however, entitled to attend and speak, but not to vote, at any Ordinary Meeting of the Chamber and on the invitation of the Chairman or Vice-Chairman may attend under like conditions any Special Meeting of the Chamber or Ordinary or Special Meeting of the Committee. The privileges accorded to an Associate Member may be withdrawn at any time by a majority of votes recorded at a Special General Meeting of the Chamber without any reason being assigned.

Persons desirous of joining the Chamber should be proposed by one member and seconded by another and notice of same should be entered in the ballot book. The names and designation of persons desirous of joining the Chamber with the names of proposers and seconders should be intimated to Members of the Chamber at least 7 clear days before the ballot takes place. The election will be by ballot on such day as the Committee for the time being may appoint. A ballot will not be valid unless a minimum of 15 votes are recorded and one negative vote in five shall exclude from membership. Voting by proxy is not allowed, nor by Members whose subscriptions are in arrear.

The power of expulsion of Members is reserved to the Chamber, to be decided by ballot by a majority at a Special General Meeting convened for that purpose. The executive duties of the Chamber are conducted by the Chairman with the assistance of a Committee, and all matters of importance are referred for the decision of the general body of subscribers, who are called together as often as is necessary by the Chairman, but not less frequently than once a month. Five Members will form a quorum.

Every Member on election has to pay an entrance fee of Rs. 100, provided that Banks, Corporate Bodies and Mercantile firms may be represented on the Chamber by one or more Members, and shall be liable for an entrance fee of Rs. 100 once in ten years for each.

The subscription of Members shall not exceed Rs. 300 per annum, payable quarterly in advance, subject to reduction from time to time in accordance with the state of the Chamber's finances. Absentees in Europe to pay no subscription. Members and Associate Members temporarily absent from Madras to pay Re. 1 per month.

The price of all publications issued by the Chamber is doubled to those persons who are not represented on the Chamber, or who are not subscribing Members or Associate Members, provided that firms whose representatives on the Chamber are all out of India may secure the continuance of its privileges by a subscription of Re. 1 per month.

A Secretary is appointed by a majority of Members in such way as the Committee for the time being may direct; and it is the duty of such Secretary to keep the records and accounts of the Chamber, to collect subscriptions, to conduct correspondence, and to act generally under the directions of the Committee.

At the Annual General Meeting which will be in the month of December, a Committee of not less than five Members, the Chairman and Vice-Chairman being ex-officio Members, will be elected to assist the Chairman in the disposal of the business of the Chamber. The representatives of the Chamber on the Legislative Council of the Governor of Madras are also ex-officio Members of the Committee during their term of office. Not more than one Member of a firm may serve on, or be voted for, by the same voter for the Committee.

At the Annual General Meeting an Imports Sub-Committee, Exports Sub-

Committee and a Skins and Hides Sub-Committee are elected, the Sub-Committees each to consist of not less than three Members, and not more than one Member of a firm to serve on, or be voted for, by the same voter for the same Sub-Committee.

Special General Meetings may be convened on the requisition of the Chairman or of any three Members of the Chamber, not being Members of the same firm, notice of the subject of discussion to be given in the requisition calling the Meeting.

Persons of distinguished position, Members of other Chambers of Commerce and kindred Associations, and Government and other officials interested in the general trade commerce, or manufactures of Madras, after being duly proposed and seconded, may be elected Honorary Members of the Chamber without payment of entrance donation, or subscription on election. The election is made by ballot, a majority of two-thirds of the recorded votes being necessary to secure election. Honorary Members are not entitled to vote and exercise the privileges of Ordinary Members, but they are entitled to attend and speak, but not to vote, at any Ordinary Meeting of the Chamber and, on the invitation of the Chairman, or Vice-Chairman, may attend under like conditions any Special Meeting of the Chamber, or Ordinary or Special Meeting of the Committee.

Mufassal Chambers of Commerce and any recognized Association or Corporate Body engaged in, or interested in the general trade, commerce or manufactures of the Madras Presidency are eligible as Members. Any such Chamber or Association so elected is entitled, in the person of its Chairman, or any of its individual Members, to exercise all the privileges of ordinary Members, and have the right of one vote. Any Member of an affiliated Chamber or Association has the privilege of attending all meetings of the Chamber with a right of entering into the discussions, but one Member only of each affiliated Chamber or Association has power to vote.

The Chamber undertakes arbitrations and surveys, the granting of Certificates of origin, and the registration of trade marks. The rules for the last named are given below —

Rules for the Registration of Trade-Marks.

(As amended in March 1920.)

The following rules for the Registration of trade-marks, tickets, etc., in its Trade-Mark Register have been adopted by the Madras Chamber of Commerce:—

- (1) That each firm represented on the Chamber shall pay an entrance fee of Rs. 10, and be entitled to register an unlimited number of tickets or marks.
- (2) That non-members of the Chamber shall pay a fee of Rs. 10 for each application for registration, and that in the event of a ticket or mark not being accepted for registration the sum of Rs. 5 shall be refunded.
- (3) That before any ticket or mark is registered it shall be circulated to all members of the Chamber resident in Madras, after which the Chamber at its next monthly meeting shall decide whether or no the tickets or mark shall be accepted for registration and no reason shall be assigned for that decision.
- (4) That no trade-mark or ticket shall be registered on behalf of an Indian firm trading under a European name.
- (5) That registration is merely evidence of the date of registration by the Chamber and cannot secure any right which the parties registering have not at law.
- (6) That the Register shall be open to the inspection of any person not a Member of the Chamber on payment of a fee of Re. 1

Publications.—The following publications are issued by the Chamber.—Madras Price Current and Market Report, Tonnage Schedule and Madras Landing Charges and Harbour Dues Schedule.

The Southern India Chamber of Commerce.

(Indian Chamber Buildings, North Beach, Madras)

Objects—The objects of the Chamber are those usual for such bodies, viz., the promotion of trade, especially in the Madras Presidency, and the interests of members. Special objects are stated to be—

“To maintain a library of books and publications of commercial interest, so as to diffuse commercial information and knowledge amongst its members.”

“To establish Museums of commercial products or organize exhibitions, either on behalf of the Chamber or in co-operation with others.”

Like the Madras Chamber of Commerce, the Southern India Chamber also undertakes arbitrations and surveys and the registration of trade-marks. The rules for the latter will be given below.

Members—There are two classes of members, permanent and honorary.

Permanent Members.—Merchants, bankers, shipowners, tradesmen, representatives of commercial, railway and insurance companies, brokers, persons and firms engaged in commerce or trade, agriculture, mining, manufacture, and joint stock companies or other corporations, and associations for any purpose or object connected with commerce or trade, agriculture, mining, manufacture or persons, engaged in or connected with science, may be elected as permanent members of the Chamber. Any firm, joint stock company or other corporation eligible for election as a permanent member may become a permanent member in their conventional or corporate name.

Any permanent member may withdraw from the Chamber by giving two calendar months' notice in writing to the Secretary of his intention so to do and, upon the expiration of the notice, such member shall cease to be a member.

The subscription of permanent members carrying on business in Madras is Rs. 24 per annum, payable half-yearly in advance and that of permanent members carrying on business elsewhere than in Madras is Rs. 10 per annum, payable in advance. There is also an entrance fee of Rs. 12 payable on admission.

Honorary Members—Honorary members are not required to subscribe to the funds of the Chamber.

Officials and others indirectly connected with the trade, commerce or manufactures in the Madras Presidency, or who may have rendered distinguished service to the interest represented by the Chamber, may be elected honorary members by the Committee, without any ballot, upon the proposal of any two permanent members of the Chamber.

Strangers visiting the Presidency may also be admitted by the Committee as honorary members for a period not exceeding two months on the proposal of any permanent member of the Chamber.

Honorary members are entitled to receive the last published report of the Chamber and to attend and speak but not to vote at any General Meeting held during their membership, and may, upon the invitation of the President, any one of the Vice-Presidents or Chairman, as the case may be, attend under the like conditions any meeting of the Committee or of any Department Committee or Sub-Committee.

Officers—A President, two Vice-Presidents, one or two Secretaries and 24 ordinary members of the Committee, excluding the President, and two Vice-Presidents. They are elected at each Annual General Meeting. Under the Madras Port Trust Amendment Act, 1915, the Chamber was accorded the right of electing two representatives to the Madras Port Trust. The Chamber also enjoys the right of electing a representative to the Madras Legislative Council and two Councillors to the Madras Corporation.

Rules for the Registration of Trade-Marks.

The following rules for the registration of trade-marks, tickets, etc., have been adopted by the Southern India Chamber of Commerce—

(1) That members of the Chamber be charged a fee of Rupees three for each mark or ticket registered.

(2) That non-members be charged a fee of Rupees EIGHT for each mark or ticket registered.

(3) That each application for registration be circulated to all the members of the Committee of the Chamber.

(4) That a member of the Committee who objects to registration shall state the grounds of his objection.

(5) That the Committee, at a meeting, shall finally dispose of every application.

(6) That when an application is rejected, half the amount of the fee paid by the applicant shall be returned.

(7) That the Chamber's Register of trade-marks, tickets, etc., shall be open to the inspection of any person not a member of the Chamber on payment of a fee of Rupee one.

The Employers' Federation of Southern India.

Objects of the Federation—The aim of the Federation is to encourage and promote better feeling between employer and employee, to encourage the payment of fair rates of wages, to collect and classify facts and statistics, to fix points of custom, to adopt forms of contract, to obtain the removal of grievances, to arbitrate on matters of dispute, to communicate with public authorities or kindred Associations, to encourage and secure united action among employers, generally to promote and protect the mutual interests of employers and employees and specially to safeguard the interests of employers against misguided and unfair action by employees and to do all such other lawful things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects or any of them.

Membership—All persons employing upwards of 100 employees are eligible to join the Federation on payment of the annual subscription in advance and on signing a copy of the Rules and Regulations. The word "persons" shall include Partnerships, Associations, Corporations or Companies, but a separate subscription is payable for each Partnership, Association, Corporation or Company represented even if such representation be by one and the same person.

The word "employees" shall include Labour, Maistries, Foremen and Clerical Staff.

Admission to Membership is by ballot in the form agreed upon from time to time.

Any member wishing to retire from the Federation should give two calendar months' notice in writing to the Secretary and on retiring will cease to have any interest or claim on the funds of the Federation. A retiring member is bound to discharge all his obligations and undertakings to the Federation during and until the expiry of the current year.

Subscription—At each Annual General Meeting the rate of subscription to be paid by the Membres of the Federation for the next ensuing year is determined by resolution. For the first year the subscription is at the rate of Rs 10 per 100 of employees or part of a 100 with a minimum of Rs. 25 and a maximum of Rs. 500, except that the Planters of Southern India may pay a combined annual subscription of Rs. 250 only, through their Central Association, the United Planters' Association of Southern India. For purposes of voting this joint subscription will count as one subscription only.

Management.—The affairs and funds of the Federation are managed by a Committee of a Chairman and five Members who are elected annually by ballot at a General Meeting to be held not later than the month of March in each year. Votes for the chair will count as votes for the Committee. The Secretary of the Madras Chambers of Commerce is ex-officio Secretary of the Federation and the business of the Federation is carried on by the staff of the Madras Chamber of Commerce in return for such remuneration as may be agreed upon from time to time between the Committee of the Federation and the Committee of the Chamber.

Funds—The Committee for the time being will have the control of the funds of the Federation and pay all necessary expenses and generally manage its affairs. The Committee may advance money either by way of loan or gift to any Member of the Federation to assist him in defending or filing a law suit or carrying on an arbitration, if, in their opinion, the principles involved in the said suit or arbitration affect the interests of the employers as a body. Provided always, that no one sum exceeding Rs 1,000 shall be advanced by way of loan or gift by the Committee without the sanction of a majority of the Members present at a General Meeting to be called to sanction such gift or loan.

Meetings—The Committee may at any time call a General Meeting of the Members of the Federation when it appears to them necessary to do so. Any 5 Members may by a requisition addressed to the Committee require them to call a General Meeting of Members and the Committee on receipt of such requisition shall call a Meeting at the earliest convenient date. Any such requisition shall express the object of the Meeting proposed to be called. One-fourth of the Members of the Federation shall be held to be a sufficient quorum to form any General Meeting when due notice of the intention to hold such meeting has been given. Each person (as defined above) being a Member of the Federation may be represented at any Meeting of Members by a partner or individual duly authorized.

Every subscription shall carry one vote.

All questions coming before a General Meeting shall be decided by a three-fourths majority of the votes of the Members present at that Meeting and such votes shall be accepted as the vote of the Federation.

All other articles not enumerated, in bales or cases	50 "

Rule.—The articles mentioned in the margin are to be measured before shipment at the Press, Godown, or on the Beach, at the option of the shipper and the measurement is to be entered on the face of the Bill of Lading. In measuring, the callipers are to take in the rope, or iron hoop on one side of the bale, and leave it out on the other. Half inches are to be given and taken alternately. Ten bales per cent, as a maximum, are to be measured, moiety to be chosen by the shipper and moiety by the ship; and, in the event of any dispute arising, the bales are to be measured by a Surveyor to be appointed by the Chamber of Commerce. The Surveyor's decision to be final, and his fee to be Rs 5, one-half to be borne by each party. All other goods to be measured at the port of discharge.

Cost of Living in Madras.

Statistics prepared for the Publicity Bureau with regard to prices in Madras in December 1922 showed an increase in the cost of living over that in July 1914 of 68·67 per cent and in the cost of food alone of 59·73 per cent. The figures for January 1922 are 71 per cent and 63 per cent respectively. The figures for six preceding months are as follows:—

Month	Cost of living.	Food only.
December 1921	74 per cent.	68 per cent
November 1921	76 "	70 "
October 1921	82 "	...
September 1921	79 "	...
August 1921	75 "	...
July 1921	70 "	...

Note —These figures of the cost of living were calculated in the same manner as by the Labour Department of Bombay.

Income-tax Act, 1922.

The new Income-tax Act came into force with effect from April 1st 1922. The object of amending the Act was to consolidate the law relating to Income-tax and Super-tax, to improve the phraseology and arrangement of the old Act where necessary and to remove doubts, ambiguities and anomalies. It was not the intention of Government in amending the Act either to sacrifice any revenue or to increase the revenue from Income-tax and Super-tax except in so far as the latter result might follow from improvements in the machinery of administration.

The new Act provides for the following departmental organization. There is a central controlling body for the whole of India called the Board of Inland Revenue [section 5 (1) (a)]. In each province there is a Commissioner [section 5 (3)] appointed by the Governor-General in Council who takes the place of the Chief Commissioner in Madras and is not as the latter was a Member of the Board of Revenue. Ultimately the Commissioner will merely supervise the general administration of the Department, make references to the High Court and exercise powers of Review and will only exercise appellate powers in special cases. Under the Commissioner there will be Assistant Commissioners, each exercising appellate powers, and supervising the working of the Act under the control of the Commissioner, in a group of Districts, while the assessments will be made by Officers called Income-tax Officers, of whom one or more will be appointed for a district or a group of districts.

During the transitional stage which will last perhaps four or five years, the Commissioner will continue to exercise appellate powers as at present, except where whole-time Assistant Commissioners have been appointed and the Commissioner's appellate powers transferred to them, and the appellate and assessing authorities now existing will continue to exercise the same powers as at present in districts to which whole-time Income-tax Officers have not been appointed.

The Income-tax reorganization scheme has so far been introduced in the Madras, Chingleput, Trichinopoly, Madura, Ramnad and Tinnevely districts. Two whole-time Assistant Commissioners (one for the Central Range and the other for the Southern Range) and 9 Income-tax Officers (8 for Madras and Chingleput districts, 1 for Trichinopoly, 2 for Madura, 2 for Ramnad and 1 for Tinnevely) have been appointed. In all these districts the officers of the Revenue Department have been relieved of income-tax work.

The work of assessment in the Madras district is distributed amongst the Assistant Commissioner and the First and Second Income-tax officers as follows —

The Assistant Commissioner assesses incomes exceeding Rs. 25,000 and certain other incomes below that sum. The First Income-tax officer assesses other non-salary cases. The Second income-tax officer assesses salaries. The Third Income-tax officer makes all assessments relating to Chingleput district.

The Assistant Commissioner, Central Range, disposes of appeals against assessments made by the First, Second and Third Income-tax officers. Appeals against assessments made by the Assistant Commissioner lie to the Commissioner of Income-tax.

The Assistant Commissioner, Southern Range, disposes of appeals against assessments made in 1922-23 by officers subordinate to the District Collectors of Trichinopoly, Madura, Ramnad and Tinnevely and also appeals against assessments made by the present Income-tax officers of these districts. All returns and other communications relating to Income-tax matters in the Madras district should be addressed to the Assistant Commissioner of Income-tax, Old High Court Buildings, North Beach Road, Madras. Appeals against assessments made by the Assistant Commissioner, Madras, or by Collectors of other districts, revision petitions and communications regarding the administration of the Act generally should be addressed to the Commissioner of Income-tax, Madras.

The new Act is a consolidated Act dealing with both Income-tax and Super-tax. The provisions relating to Super-tax will be found in Chapter IX of the Act.

The rates of tax are not embodied as hitherto in a Schedule appended to the Act, but will be fixed annually by an Act of the Legislature as in England (section 3). The rates for the year 1923-24 are given below.

The adjustment system is abolished. The assessment hereafter will be made strictly on the income of the previous year.

In future an individual's share of the income of an undivided Hindu family of which he is a member will not be taken into account for Income-tax or Super-tax in determining either the rate at which he should be taxed or the amount to which that rate should be applied.

There is no provision for the composition of tax under the new Act. Compositions entered into under the old Act will remain in force for the period for which they were originally made but no further compositions will be made.

Issue of Certificates for Auditing.

With the introduction of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, the necessity for creating a class of auditors qualified to audit the accounts of companies arose, and as this class of men had yet to be brought into being, certificates were issued under certain conditions, mostly for short periods, as a temporary expedient, to persons who desired to take to the profession of auditing either as a primary or secondary occupation in life. Later, with the object of providing facilities for the study of, and training in, higher accountancy, an Institute of Commerce was established in Madras. It was also decided that the Sydenham College of Commerce and Economics, Bombay, should be utilized as a central examining body for candidates studying in the institution and for those who desired to enter this profession. Two years after the opening of the institute rules were promulgated prescribing the qualifications which would render candidates eligible for the grant by Government of certificates for auditing. Under them permanent unrestricted certificates could be granted only to holders of the Government diploma in Accountancy granted by the Government of Bombay and restricted certificates to those already holding temporary certificates. In 1921 the Government being satisfied that a sufficient number of qualified men had come into the field resolved to put a stop to the tentative arrangement made to meet the needs of companies during the transition period. As in the meanwhile some of the persons who had been granted temporary certificates had seriously taken to auditing as a profession, the Government took stock of the total number of companies to be served and the number of auditors that were necessary for their audit and issued restricted certificates without any restriction as to time to certain men who were considered competent by long experience and who had become full-time auditors and in several cases commanded a large practice. The system of issuing fresh certificates to unqualified men has been stopped for the last two years.

Law and Practice affecting Trade.

Merchandise Marks.

Importers into India, especially from countries other than the United Kingdom, would do well to make themselves acquainted with the law and regulations relating to merchandise marks. The following summary of the regulations in force does not claim to be exhaustive. For those seeking more complete information a reference is suggested to the Merchandise Marks Manual which is published under the authority of the Government of India and obtainable of all agents for the sale of Indian Government publications.

Infringements or offences may be classified conveniently under four heads—

- (1) Counterfeit trade marks,
- (2) Trade descriptions that are false in respect of the country of origin,
- (3) Trade descriptions that are false in other respects, and
- (4) Lengths not properly stamped on piece-goods.

(1) Counterfeit trade marks.—The provisions regarding counterfeit trade marks do not cover general get up but do extend to other marks or combination of marks, the imitation of which is reasonably calculated to lead persons to believe that the goods are the manufacture of some person other than they really are, e.g., piece-goods are identified in the bazaar by their labels or by the manufacturer's or importer's number impressed upon them or the merchandise of a particular firm may be known by the firm's name or initials which form no part of the trade mark. These provisions are intended not only to protect manufacturers against piracy, but the general public from being supplied with goods of inferior or unknown quality under cover of a well known brand. If notice of such infringement is given beforehand by the aggrieved party to the Customs authorities, the goods on arrival are detained, if there is reasonable justification, pending (1) execution of an indemnity bond within 24 hours and (2) institution of proper legal proceedings within a month. Bona fide applications made in the absence of definite information for a watch or possible infringements are usually granted for a period of 3 months renewable on reasonable grounds. But formal registration of marks, etc., by Customs officers is prohibited. If in the course of the ordinary Customs examination an infringement is discovered, intimation is sent to the person whose mark is infringed to enable him to proceed as indicated above, but the goods are released if he fails to take preliminary action within a period of 4 days.

(2) Trade description: false in respect of country of origin.—It is not necessary to mark the country of origin on any goods imported into India, except where the goods bear some other mark or indication which is held under the regulations to constitute a false trade description with regard to origin, in the absence of any counter-indication of the real country of origin, e.g., Scotch whisky or Jamaica rum, if the produce of Holland. Similarly cognac and sherry require respectively the specific counter-indications 'Not made in France,' 'Not made in Spain,' if not the produce of those countries. The commonest class of cases falling under this description is where the goods bear a mark or label with English words (most frequently the words 'trade mark'), the use of the English language being taken to indicate that the goods are the product of the United Kingdom or British India, and therefore to constitute a false trade description unless corrected by a definite indication of the country of origin (such as 'Made in France') or an indication negating the implication to be drawn from the use of the English language, such as 'Made Abroad', 'Not made in the United Kingdom or British India,' 'Foreign Made' or 'Foreign Produce.' When the name used is the name of a place in the United Kingdom or British India a counter-indication is required, e.g., the word 'Boston' requires, in the case of American goods, the counter-indication U.S.A., but 'Made in New York or Philadelphia' does not. The use of the English language on foreign made goods is admissible as part of the goods themselves, e.g., the word 'Stamps' or 'Photographs' on albums but not expressions such as 'A present for a good boy' or 'Superior quality.' A consignment of spelter bearing the words 'Extra pure' on the top of the slab, without counter-indication of country of origin, viz., Japan, which was stamped on the reverse with a rubber stamp, was held liable to penalty.

In the case of goods made or produced in a foreign country, the trade description indicative of origin in the United Kingdom or British India which has been corrected by the use of such an expression as 'Made Abroad' may still be false, if it also suggests that the goods were manufactured in a foreign country other than the actual country of origin (e.g., scents made in Japan bearing the word 'parfumerie'). The counter-indication, which should be such as to negative both these implications, must either specify the actual country of origin or must run 'Not made in United Kingdom or British India or X' (X being the other foreign country in which the goods might wrongly be supposed to have been manufactured). Similarly the use in a trade description of the language of one foreign country on goods produced in another requires counter-indication of the latter.

When the misleading words or marks consist of what is or purports to be the name or trade mark of a manufacturer, dealer or trader in the United Kingdom or British India, a specific and distinct counter-indication of the country of origin is necessary, e.g., pen-holders of German manufacture bearing the name of a British Indian trader without the country of origin were ordered to be reshipped. Initials are not however treated as names requiring a counter-indication unless they are likely to suggest the name of a British manufacturer, and an exception is made in the case of coverings or labels made in a foreign country but bearing the name of a British Indian manufacturer or dealer who has imported the coverings or labels for his own goods. Goods made or produced in a foreign country but bearing the name or trade mark of a British Indian dealer or a trade description consisting of Indian vernaculars or numerals or pictorial representations such as Indian deities or emblems must bear a counter-indication which is however waived in the case of goods manufactured in the United Kingdom unless in the latter case there is good ground for considering that the marking conveys the impression of Indian origin. A penalty was imposed in lieu of correct stamping on safety matches made in Sweden bearing the word Om in Bengali but without any indication of the country of origin.

Dhoots of English manufacture with the words Bande Mataram in Bengali woven along the whole borders with the word "Manchester" stamped in Bengali only in one place were confiscated subject to redemption and reshipment on payment of a penalty and this decision was upheld in appeal.

It is important to note that whenever an indication of the country of origin is required under the regulations, such indication should be (1) in the same language and character as the name or trade mark or trade description, (2) sufficiently conspicuous and indelible and (3) should be repeated for each application of the mark or description in such a manner that it cannot be removed afterwards.

3. Other false trade descriptions.—Other false trade descriptions are frequently found on goods in respect of (a) their number, quantity, measure, gauge or weight, or (b) the material of which they are composed.

The cases under (a) usually affect (1) woollen and cotton goods in respect, of their measure, size or weight, and (2) packages, boxes or cartons bearing incorrect indications in respect of the quantities contained in them.

Paper wrappers of cotton braids each containing twelve skeins were marked '6 grs. yards' implying that each skein was 72 yds long whereas the actual length of the braids varied from 44 to 51 yards. Deletion of the misleading marking was ordered under penalty.

Offences under (b) are held to be committed when the trade description suggests that the article is made of a material superior in quality and value than it really is and as such is likely to deceive the buyer. Iron nails described as 'brass nails' were passed on penalty and deletion of the word 'brass'.

A large number of cases under this head occur in connexion with consignments of white zinc, white and red lead, linseed oil and turpentine which are very frequently imported adulterated. The general rule is that when the percentage of impurity exceeds 5 per cent (10 per cent in the case of turpentine) but not 50 per cent, a qualifying description such as 'adulterated' or 'reduced' is held to be sufficient, but if it exceeds 50 per cent the actual percentage should also be stated. Similarly it has been ruled that condensed milk containing less than 9 per cent of fat contravenes the regulations unless marked 'prepared from skimmed milk'.

4 Lengths not properly stamped on piece-goods—As a general rule the Merchandise Marks Act does not require goods to be stamped or marked, though it insists that any stamps or marks affixed should be correct, but by a special provision piece-goods which are ordinarily sold by length or by the piece must be correctly and properly stamped with the lengths in standard yards. The stamping must be in English numerals accompanied by the word 'yards,' abbreviation 'yds.' though marking in inches may be permitted on cloths of small dimensions and delicate make in accordance with the custom of the trade but in all cases it should be placed conspicuously on the fabric itself so as not to be ordinarily removable. For the purposes of this regulation, piece-goods are defined as including woollen piece-goods of all kinds and certain specified descriptions of cotton goods; the provisions however do not apply to any fabric which comes within the scope of the above definition but is ordinarily sold by the unit or with reference to the number. Pieces of mosquito netting imported without the lengths stamped on them were directed to be stamped under penalty or in the alternative with an enhanced penalty in lieu of stamping.

Registration of Trade Marks.

There is no recognized registration of trade marks in India. The majority of the Chambers of Commerce consider that the introduction under legislative enactment of such a system would seriously affect existing rights of user between firms in India and also between firms in India and abroad. Registration of new trade marks on payment of a fee is made by the Madras and South Indian Chambers of Commerce and as evidence of the date on which the mark or ticket was registered, may be useful in subsequent litigation, though it conveys no legal rights. The Bombay Mill Owners' Association keeps a register of all trade marks in use by members and has a special set of rules governing their registration to which all members upon election agree to conform, in view of the protection afforded by the Association to the trade marks and tickets used by them.

Registration of Partnerships.

The question whether the registration of business partnerships should be made compulsory has been frequently considered during the last half century. The absence of any such measure hampers materially the development of business between Indian firms and foreign constituents, and also restricts the grant of financial accommodation by European banks. In 1908 the Bengal and Bombay Chambers of Commerce prepared draft bills on the subject, but their proposals being unreconcilable the Government of India was not disposed to accept either as the basis for legislation. The main stumbling block to a practical solution of the problem is the joint family system. The Indian Industrial Commission* has recommended that Government of India should take an early opportunity of re-examining the whole question.

Registration of Business Names.

Closely allied to the question of registration of partnerships is that of registration of business names for which there is at present no provision of law in India. A movement to introduce legislation on the lines of the United Kingdom Registration of Business Names Act, 1916, has been initiated by the Madras and Bengal Chambers of Commerce and a draft bill prepared by the former body is now before the Government of India. The object of such legislation will be two-fold, viz., to identify alien interests and by compelling disclosure of assumed names to facilitate, by rendering more precise, commercial transactions. Action would not be aimed at Indians trading under assumed European names, though disclosure of real names would be desirable in the case of Europeans trading under assumed names. As in the case of partnership, difficulties are likely to arise in the enactment of any measure relating to business names out of the joint family system prevalent in India. The Indian Industrial Commission in the course of its sittings examined the question but the evidence placed before it did not justify it in making definite recommendations and the Government of India, as in the case of registration of partnerships, is unwilling to legislate until a general consensus of commercial opinion in favour of it is more clearly established.

* Report of the Indian Industrial Commission, paragraph 233.

The Patent Office.

The law and procedure in India for the protection of inventions and registration of designs closely follows that in the United Kingdom, the only difference of importance being that in the absence of any legal provision for the registration of trade marks, India cannot become a party to the International Convention for the protection of industrial property, under which certain rights of priority are obtainable in other countries.

The Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only (i.e., excluding Native States) and the validity of patents granted under it does not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions nor does it permit the registration of trade and property marks or names.

The officer who administers this Act is designated the Controller of Patents and Designs whose office is at 1, Council House Street, Calcutta, and all communications relating to applications for patents and the registration of designs should be addressed to him. The Patent Office Hand Book (price, one rupee) contains the Acts, Rules and Instructions.

The Patent Office does not undertake to give opinions on the interpretation of patent law or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement or to recommend any particular agent or assist in the disposal of inventions. Trade and property marks are not registered and there is no provision of law under which medicines are patentable in British India.

The Madras Stock Exchange.

9, POPHAM'S BROADWAY, MADRAS.

POST BOX No 217.

Telephone No. 265

Telegrams. "Exchange."

The Madras Stock Exchange was opened by His Excellency the Rt Hon ble Lord Willingdon, G.C.S.I., G.C.I.E., C.B.E., on 7th April 1920. Until then Madras had no such institution although Bombay had two exchanges, Ahmedabad had two and Calcutta one. Its membership is limited to gentlemen of position and standing. It endeavours to create a class of "certified Brokers" whom the investing public can safely trust in regard to transactions in all securities, small or large, private or public. The operations of the Exchange are mainly confined to local securities, but, pending further developments, transactions in outside securities are also permitted. Admission is at the discretion of the Board of Directors, the admission fee being Rs 1,000 of which Rs 500 is payable with application and the balance on election of the applicant to membership. Since its opening, great activity and interest are evinced in old and new limited companies. It is said that on an average about four to five lakhs worth of shares of limited companies are changing hands in the Exchange every month over and above large deals in Government securities.

The exchange has in all 100 members, about 30 of whom are working members who work their cards and have paid deposits of Rs 5,000 in addition to the admission fee of Rs 1,000. The annual subscription is Rs 100. The assets of the institution on 31st March 1922 amounted to Rs. 1,25,066. It is under consideration to equip the institution with a permanent building of its own.

By-laws passed by the Board of Directors during the Year 1920.

1. All members who work their cards in the exchange are required to deposit with the office of the Honorary Secretary security of Rs. 3,000 (three thousand) either in Government notes, Port Trust or Municipal Debentures or any other security approved by the Board before the 30th of September 1920

2 Following gentlemen are appointed members of Arbitration Board:—

- (1) Sheth Narayandas Girdhardas.
- (2) Mr L. M. Guyver.
- (3) One member to be elected by ballot by members before Monday, the 28th Sep. 1920.
- (4) Honorary Secretary—Ex-officio.

2. By-laws for the above Arbitration Board will be as follows:—

- (1) Quorum.—Two members present shall form a quorum
- (2) In case of differences a third member will be called and they between themselves will elect the chairman.
- (3) This Board will hear complaints put in writing by members and note down the reasons and their finding.
- (4) No member of the Arbitration Board will sit in the Board to decide the cases wherein he is directly or indirectly interested

(5) Fee.—Honorary Secretary will charge a fee of Rs 0—4—0 for each application.

(6) Appeal.—Appeal over this Board shall lie to the full Board on payment of fee of Rs. 5

3. Business done during the business hours of the Exchange and on the Exchange premises only will be considered as transaction within the Exchange and will then only be recognized by the Board as Exchange transaction.

4. A fee of Rs 25 (twenty-five) will be charged on all references made to the Board by a non-member against a member of this Exchange.

5. During the pendency of the appeal the decision of the Arbitration Board must be put into effect and then alone will the appeal be heard.

6. Two independent Directors with any Director whether sitting in Arbitration Board or not can give decision in appeal cases

7 The rental of rooms in the Exchange Hall will be Rs 12 instead of Rs 35 per mensem from the 1st of March 1921

By-laws passed by the Board of Directors during the Year 1921–22.

1. If a non-working member or his authorized clerk does any business in the Exchange premises during the Exchange business hours, he is liable to the jurisdiction of the Arbitration Board, Board of Directors and the Defaulters' Committee Further, if he or his authorized clerk is found working in the Exchange premises during Exchange business hours, the Honorary Secretary be and is hereby authorized to levy a penalty of Rs. 50 every time such business is found to be done

2 The Exchange recognises only one month's forward transactions to be opened on or after the 20th of every month for the next forward settlement, i.e., transactions for October settlement to be opened on or after the 20th August and so on.

3. For cash transactions, unless specified otherwise in the contract, delivery of transfer deed must be given on the day of the transaction or the next day and share certificate must be delivered on the 7th day after the delivery of the transfer deed against payment of amount.

4. The security of Rs 3,000 taken from each working member be increased to Rs 5,000

5 Henceforward no card will be transferred unless the applicant proposes to work the card and agrees to deposit whatever amount is fixed by the Board.

6. Every member is expected to report and complain for non-payment of his cash or forward settlement dues at the earliest, if possible on the very day on which the payment becomes due. In case he prefers or negligently postpones complaining, he will not be allowed to put it as a cross-claim against the subsequent dues of the other party in next settlement, but his claim will be considered separately. All claims of settlement of each month will be considered separately.

7 No member should stop payment of his creditor member for cash or forward settlement on grounds of he being paid by his debtor or his next party. The Defaulters' Committee is specially requested to take strict and prompt action for non-payment and it will declare such defaulting member a defaulter at once

8 Every member must make a regular complaint for non-payment of his cash or forward settlement dues at the earliest, if possible on the very day on which the payment becomes due. If he fails to make a regular complaint within fifteen days of the date on which the payment becomes due, the claim shall be considered time barred and no complaint shall be admitted for such claim.

Madras State Aid to Industries Act, 1922.

Preamble—Whereas it is expedient to give power to the Local Government to assist in the establishment and development of industries in the Presidency of Madras, and whereas the previous sanction of the Governor-General has been obtained under section 80-A of the Government of India Act to the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. Short title—(1) This Act may be called the Madras State Aid to Industries Act, 1922. It extends to the whole of the Presidency of Madras.

2. Director of Industries—The Local Government may appoint any officer or other person to perform all or any of the functions of the Director of Industries under this Act.

3. Board of Industries—(1) (a) There shall be constituted a Board of Industries consisting of not less than ten and not more than twelve members including the Chairman and the ex-officio members. Not more than three of the members shall be Government officials.

(b) One of the members shall be elected by the members for the time being of the Madras Chamber of Commerce; one by the members for the time being of the Southern India Chamber of Commerce; one by the members for the time being of the Madras Trades Association; and two by the members of the Madras Legislative Council. The election shall be conducted in such manner as may be prescribed. A return of the name of every person so elected shall be made to the Local Government by the Chairman of the Chamber or Association concerned and by the Secretary to the Legislative Council respectively, and such return shall be published in the Fort St. George Gazette.

(c) The Director of Industries, Madras, and the Secretary to the Government of Madras in the Finance Department shall be ex-officio members of the Board of Industries.

(2) The Chairman and the remaining members shall be appointed by the Local Government by notification in the Fort St. George Gazette, provided that if banking or mufassal interests and cottage industries are not represented by election, members so appointed shall include, as far as possible, persons who represent such interests or industries.

(3) The Board of Industries shall assist the Local Government in dealing with applications for the grant of State aid under this Act.

(4) No member shall vote on or take part in the discussion of any question coming up for consideration at a meeting of the Board of Industries if the question is one in which he has any direct or indirect pecuniary interest by himself or his partner or in which he is interested professionally on behalf of a client or as agent for any person other than the Government, a local authority or a Railway Company.

4. No aid except in accordance with the provisions of the Act—No aid shall be given by the Local Government to any industrial business or enterprise except in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

5. Industries to be aided—(1) The industries to which aid may be given under this Act shall be such as have an important bearing on the economic development of the country and shall be:

(a) new or nascent industries, or

(b) industries to be newly introduced into areas where such industries are undeveloped, or

(c) cottage industries.

(2) No such aid shall be given to any joint-stock company unless:

(a) the same is registered in India on a rupee capital, and

(b) the company confirms to such rules as may be made by the Local Government from time to time requiring that a minimum number or a proportion of the members or its board of management shall be Indians.

Provided further that every recipient of aid under this Act shall make such provision for the training of apprentices as the Local Government may, from time to time, prescribe.

(3) The decision of the Local Government as to whether the conditions of this section are fulfilled shall be final.

6. Method of giving State aid.—Subject to the provisions of this Act and of the rules framed thereunder, the Local Government shall have power to give aid to an industrial business or enterprise in one or more of the following ways:—

- (a) by granting a loan;
- (b) by guaranteeing a cash credit, overdraft or fixed advance with a bank;
- (c) by paying a subsidy for the conduct of research or for the purchase of machinery;
- (d) by subscribing for shares or debentures;
- (e) by guaranteeing a minimum return on part of the capital of a joint-stock company;
- (f) by making a grant on favourable terms of land, raw material, firewood or water, the property of the Local Government.

7. Delegation of the power given by section 6.—The Local Government may delegate the power to grant State aid under section 6, provided that no authority to whom such power is delegated shall be empowered to grant aid to any one industrial business or enterprise of an amount or of value exceeding Rs. 10,000.

8. (1) Application for State aid and procedure in dealing with applications.—Any person desiring to obtain a loan or other aid for any industrial business or enterprise shall make his application to the Director of Industries in such form and shall furnish such information concerning his business as may be prescribed.

(2) If the extent of the aid applied for exceeds Rs. 50,000 and in any other case in which he considers this procedure necessary, the Director of Industries shall publish a notice in the prescribed manner calling upon any person who objects to the grant of the aid applied for to state his objections at a time or place to be specified, and shall hear such objection and make such inquiry as may be necessary.

(3) Every application for aid shall be placed before the Board of Industries for advice.

(4) The Local Government may constitute district committees for the purpose of advising on applications for aid.

(5) No aid shall be granted under this Act if the Board by a unanimous resolution at a meeting advises the rejection of the application.

9. Grant of loans.—No loan shall be granted of an amount exceeding 50 per cent of the net value of the assets of the industrial business or enterprise after deducting existing encumbrances, such value to be ascertained by such person as may be appointed by the Local Government and in accordance with such rules as may be prescribed, for the purpose of this valuation the additional assets which may be created by the expenditure of the sums granted may be taken into account to such extent as may be prescribed.

10. Loans how secured.—Every loan granted under this Act shall be secured by a mortgage or floating charge upon the whole of the assets of the business or enterprise, subject to any encumbrances existing at the time of the grant, and by such collateral security, if any, as may be required by the Local Government, and shall bear interest payable on such dates and at such rates as the Local Government may determine.

11. Inspection and returns.—In any case in which a loan has been applied for under this Act, the applicant, and at any time during the currency of a loan that has been granted under it, the grantee, shall be bound—

(a) to comply with any general or special order of the Local Government relative to the inspection of the premises, buildings, or plant or stock in hand of the industrial business or enterprise,

(b) to permit the inspection of all accounts relative to the industrial business or enterprise;

(c) to furnish full returns of all products manufactured or sold both as regards description and quantity,

(d) to maintain such special accounts or to furnish such statements as the Local Government may from time to time require;

(e) to submit the accounts of the industrial business or enterprise to such audit as the Local Government may prescribe

12. Control of business, assisted—In any case in which a loan or loans is or are granted under this Act amounting to two lakhs of rupees or upwards, the Local Government shall, and in any other case may, by the appointment of Government directors or otherwise, take power to ensure such control over the conduct of the business or enterprise as shall suffice in their opinion to safeguard their interests.

13. Repayment of loans—(1) Every loan granted under this Act shall be made repayable by instalments within such period from the date of the actual advance of the loan, or when the loan is advanced in instalments from the date of payment of the last instalment, as may be fixed by the order granting the loan.

(2) The period fixed as aforesaid shall not exceed twenty years unless the Local Government shall, by general or by special order, extend the same.

14. Guaranteeing of loans by banks—No guarantee of a cash credit, overdraft or fixed advance with a bank shall be given except under the conditions prescribed in sections 9 to 12 in respect of loans.

15. Subscriptions for shares or debentures or guarantee of a minimum return on capital—The condition of subscription for shares and debentures by the Local Government or the guarantee of a minimum return on the capital of any industrial business or enterprise shall be that the business or enterprise shall be subject to the conditions of section 11 in respect of inspection and returns as well as of the provisions of section 12 in respect of Government control.

Provided (a) that for all shares subscribed by the Government there must be taken up and fully paid for not less than an equal number of shares,

(b) that for all capital on which a return is guaranteed by Government there shall be paid up not less than an equal amount of capital which carries no guarantee.

16. Subsidy by the Local Government—The condition of a grant of subsidy or of any payment under guarantee of a minimum return on the paid-up capital or of the grant of Government land, raw material, firewood or water on favourable terms, shall ordinarily be that an amount equal to the sum paid or to the value of the grant as fixed at the time when it is made shall be repaid to the Local Government at the close of a fixed term of years if within that term the industrial business or enterprise shall be shown to be paying interest or a dividend upon the capital invested in excess of such rate as the Local Government may fix.

No subsidy shall exceed 40 per cent of the cost of the research or of the cost of the machinery as the case may be.

17. Disposal of profits when condition of State aid is not fulfilled—No recipient of State aid shall pay any dividend or distribute or take any profits in excess of such percentage rate upon the amount of the capital of the industrial business or enterprise as the Government may fix from time to time until the conditions on which the State aid has been granted are fulfilled. The balance of the profits, after setting aside proper amounts for depreciation or obsolescence of plant and buildings, and for the payment of interest on debentures of loans, shall be carried to a reserve fund to be utilized in such manner as the Government may approve.

18. Methods of recovery of money due—(1) All moneys payable under this Act, including any interest chargeable thereon and costs, if any, incurred, if not paid when due, may be recovered from the person aided and his surety, if any, under the law for the time being in force as if they were arrears of land revenue

(2) When any sum due as aforesaid is paid by the surety or is recovered from him or out of his property under subsection (1), the Collector shall, on the application of the surety, so far as possible, recover the same from the person aided and pay the same to the surety

19 Power to make rules—(a) The Local Government may make rules to carry out all or any of the purposes of this Act not inconsistent therewith

(b) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, they may make rules regulating all or any of the following matters.—

(1) the classes of industrial businesses or enterprises to which and the purposes for which aid may be given,

(2) the constitution of the Board of Industries, the term of office of its members, the quorum at the Board's meetings, the method of arriving at its decisions, the appointment of its staff, the remuneration of its members and all other matters relative to the conduct of its business; and the constitution and functions of district committees,

(3) the delegation of the power to grant State aid under section 7,

(4) the manner of making applications for State aid and the information to be given in such applications, provided that no such rule shall require any applicant or grantee of aid to divulge any information relating to the technical details of any process or any patent owned by him;

(5) the manner of conducting inquiries and the matters to be specially inquired into in dealing with applications for State aid and the powers to be exercised by the Director of Industries conducting such inquiries;

(6) the mode of ascertaining the value of the assets of an industrial business or enterprise,

(7) the nature of the security to be taken for the due application of loans and grants and the rates of interest at which and the conditions under which loans or grants may be given, and the creation of a mortgage, floating charge or collateral security under section 10,

(8) the inspection of the premises, buildings, plant and stock on hand and the accounts of any industrial business or enterprise for which State aid has been granted,

(9) the mode of keeping and auditing the accounts and of furnishing returns of any industrial business or enterprise in respect of which State aid has been granted,

(10) the appointment and functions of Government directors or the prescribing of other methods of control of industrial businesses or enterprises in respect of which State aid has been granted;

(11) the application of profits in cases in which the conditions under which loans or grants have been made have not been fulfilled,

(12) the guaranteeing by the Local Government of cash credits, overdrafts or fixed advances by banks and the recognition of banks for this purpose,

(13) the fixing of the period for the repayment of loans and the conditions and dates of the repayment of subsidies and grants, and

(14) the recovery of any moneys due under this Act.

Provided that such rules are laid on the table of the Legislative Council and notified in the Fori St George Gazette one month after which they shall have the force of law unless amended by the Legislative Council within that period, or, if the Council is not sitting during that period, at its next meeting.

20 Powers of the Government as regards starting or conducting industries and giving aid of certain kinds—Nothing in this Act shall be held to debar the Government

(a) from starting or conducting industrial enterprises for experimental purposes or with a view to stimulate industrial development;

(b) from assisting an industrial business or enterprise by agreements to purchase on business terms the whole or a portion of the products of the same,

(c) from assisting an industrial business or enterprise by giving gratis or on favourable terms, the services of Government officials or experts either in the capacity of advisers or for a limited period not exceeding one year for starting or conducting such business or enterprise;

(d) from assisting an industrial business or enterprise in connexion with industrial education or the training of apprentices.

Rules under the State Aid to Industries Act.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 19 of the State Aid to Industries Act, 1922 (Act No. V of 1923), the Government are pleased to make the following rules :—

Rules.

SECTION 19 (a).

The notice, under section 8 (2) inviting objections to the grant of a loan or other aid under the Act shall be published by the Director of Industries in at least three consecutive issues of at least two daily newspapers published in Madras and in such mufassal newspapers as the Director of Industries thinks fit in the circumstances of each case and once in the Fort St. George Gazette. The notice shall specify the name and address of the applicant for the loan or other aid, the nature of the aid and the nature of the business or enterprise in respect of which the application is made. It shall state that any one desiring to make any objection to the loan or other aid may do so by presenting a statement of his objection in writing at the office of the Director of Industries within thirty days of the publication of the notice. The statement shall furnish details regarding the name, address and calling of the objector and grounds of objection. The Director shall hear the objections, if any, at such time and place as he may notify and place the objections before the Board of Industries with his opinion thereon.

2 The election of the members to represent the Madras Chamber of Commerce, the Southern India Chamber of Commerce and the Madras Trades Association under section 3 (1) (b) of the Act, shall be held at a meeting of the members of the Chamber or Association concerned, convened in accordance with the rules of such Chamber or Association.

3. The election of the members to represent the Madras Legislative Council shall be conducted in accordance with the regulations made by the President under Standing Order No. 77.

4. A joint Stock Company shall not be given aid under the Act unless at least one-third of the members of its Board of Management are Indians.

SECTION 19 (b) (2).

5 The Chairman of the Board of Industries shall hold office during the pleasure of Government and the members elected or appointed under sub-sections (1) (b) and (2) of section 3 shall hold office for a period of three years from the date of notification, but the local Government may at any time accept the resignation of any member.

6 The Government may declare that any member who has absented himself from three consecutive meetings of the Board or from India for three months has ceased to be a member and his office shall thereupon be deemed to be vacant. Any such member shall however be eligible for re-election or re-appointment.

7. Any vacancy in the office of a member shall be reported by the Chairman to the Chairman or President of the body concerned in the case of elected members and to the Government in the case of members appointed so that the vacancy may be filled up by fresh election or appointment as the case may be.

8. Every non-official member of the Board shall be entitled to a fee of Rs. 30 for each day of the meeting of the Board or of any committee of the Board attended by him. Such of the members as attend from mufassal shall also be entitled to travelling allowance at the rate of one first and one-third class ticket for each journey by rail to and from the place of meeting and mileage as for officers of Grade I, Annexure I to the Madras Travelling Allowance Rules. The Director of Industries shall be the Controlling officer for the above purposes under rule 3 of the Madras Travelling Allowance Rules.

9 The following procedure shall be observed with respect to the Proceedings of the Board. —

(1) The Board shall meet and shall make from time to time such arrangements with respect to the place, day, hour, notice, management and adjournment of its meetings, and generally with respect to the transaction of business, as it may think fit, subject to the following conditions; namely:—

- (a) the Chairman may, whenever he thinks fit, and shall, upon the written request of not less than four members, call a special meeting of the Board;
- (b) four members shall form a quorum and no business shall be transacted unless a quorum is present;
- (c) every meeting shall be presided over by the Chairman, if present, and during his absence, by such one of the members present as may be chosen by the meeting;
- (d) all questions shall be decided by a majority of votes of the members present the Chairman having a second or casting vote in all cases of equality of votes;
- (e) if a poll be demanded, the names of the members voting and the nature of their votes shall be recorded by the Chairman of the meeting;

(f) minutes shall be kept of the names of the members present and of the proceedings at each meeting in a book to be provided for the purpose, which shall be signed as soon as practicable by the Chairman of such meeting and shall be open to inspection by any member during office hours, and

(g) the Chairman may, with the consent of any meeting, adjourn it

(2) If there should not be sufficient business for holding a meeting, the Chairman may, to avoid delay and expense, ascertain the opinion of the members of the Board by circulation of papers; if desired by any member, he shall re-circulate the papers and unless on such re-circulation any member specially desires discussion the majority opinion thus ascertained shall be deemed to be the decision of the Board.

(3) The Board may co-opt an official or non-official to assist it in the discussion or elucidation of a particular subject or for the duration of a meeting. Co-opted members will not be entitled to vote, but shall be entitled to the fees and travelling allowances payable to members under rule 8.

(4) The Board may from time to time appoint a committee consisting of not less than three of its number to make a report to it on any particular matter that may be referred to it.

(5) An officer deputed by the Director of Industries from among his subordinates will act as Secretary to the Board.

(6) The Board may refer to a District Committee as hereinafter constituted for advice any application placed before it.

(7) District committees may be constituted whenever necessary.

(8) Such committees shall consist of not less than three nor more than five members. The members shall be appointed from time to time when occasions arise by Government on the advice of the Director of Industries in consultation with the District Collector. Their functions will be to advise on specific applications for aid under the Act when the Board or Director of Industries considers the assistance of such a committee necessary. No honorarium will be paid to members of such district committees, but travelling allowance will be paid on the scale provided in rule 8 supra and the Collector shall be the Controlling officer for the travelling allowance of members of such committees.

SECTION 19 (b) (4)

10 Every application for aid shall be made to the Director of Industries in the specified form and shall contain a declaration signed by the applicant that the statements made therein are true to the best of his information and belief. It shall also contain information on the following points:—

(a) the nature of the industrial concern for which aid is sought,

(b) the administrative, technical and executive staff existing or to be appointed with qualifications,

(c) the facilities available for development of the industry such as sources of raw materials, transport conveniences and marketing of the products, with estimate of anticipated profits,

(d) the nature of the processes to be employed,

(e) the total estimated cost of the undertaking,

(f) why the business cannot be financed without State assistance,

(g) the nature and extent of the aid applied for;

(h) the security for the aid, on this point information shall be furnished as to the financial resources of the applicant, the assets and revenues which will be available as security for the loan and particulars of any existing charges thereon and debts and as to the additional assets which may be created by the utilisation of the aid applied for. These particulars shall be supplemented by recent Balance Sheets and Profit and Loss Accounts where such exist certified by an auditor entitled to audit the accounts of companies under the Indian Companies Act. Information should also be furnished as to the collateral security offered in the event of the above being found insufficient,

(i) the period, if any, over which the payment of the loan or subsidy should be spread,

(j) the additional net income expected to be earned as a result of the proposed expenditure,

(k) if the applicant is a Joint Stock Company the application should be accompanied by a copy of the prospectus and memorandum and the Articles of Association with information as to the amount of capital actually subscribed and paid up, number of shares held by each of the Directors and their salary and fees and other perquisites and a list containing the names and descriptions of the Directors.

In the case of cottage industries or small concerns not using steam or other power, it will be sufficient if such information is given as is in the opinion of the Board or the Director of Industries necessary to permit of an estimate being made of the feasibility of the proposal, e.g. in the case of a small hand-weaving establishment, the number of operatives to be employed, the sources of raw materials, the number of hand looms, the cost price of materials, the selling price of the finished articles, the method of marketing the product, etc.

SECTION 19 (b) (6).

11 (i) The value of the assets of an applicant shall so far as they do not consist of money be taken to be:—

(a) in the case of fixed assets acquired by purchase for cash such as land, buildings, leaseholds, railway sidings, plant and machinery, development of property, trade marks and designs, etc., the price at which these assets were acquired, subject to proper deductions for wear and tear; such deductions shall be calculated in the case of buildings, machinery and plant at the rates fixed as allowable depreciation under section 10 (2) of the Income-tax Act of 1922, appreciable increase or decrease in the market value of the site, machinery and buildings may also be taken into consideration;

(b) in the case of fixed assets acquired by purchase otherwise than for cash, the value of the consideration at the time the assets were acquired,

(c) in the case of stores, spare gear or tools not taken into use, the cost price or price of replacement whichever is less,

(d) in the case of stores, spare gear and tools which have been used, but are still in stock, the cost price less a proper deduction for wear and tear,

(e) in the case of stock in trade, if of manufactured stock, the cost of manufacture or the market selling price whichever is less, if purchased stock, the cost price or price of replacement whichever is less,

(f) in the case of book debts, the nominal amount of those debts, but the debts shall be classed as good and doubtful and no account shall be taken of doubtful debts, all debts which shall have been due and recoverable for over two years shall be classed as doubtful,

(g) in the case of investments the market value of those investments on the day on which the valuation is made;

(h) in the case of any other assets which have not been acquired by purchase, the value of the assets at the time when they became assets of the business subject to proper deductions for wear and tear provided that no value shall be placed upon the good will, patents or secret processes of any business.

(ii) The value of the assets so far as they consist of money shall be all cash with bankers or on hand, the value of cash in other countries being taken at the rate of exchange ruling on the day on which the valuation is made.

(iii) The assets having been valued as above, all debts and liabilities of the business shall be deducted, other than accumulated profits and reserves, and the balance shall represent the net value of the surplus of assets and shall be the value of the business for the purposes of the Act.

12 The assets shall be valued by the Director or by a competent person or persons authorized in this behalf by the Local Government.

SECTION 19 (b) (7)

13 The interest charged on the loans advanced under the Act shall not be less than one-half per cent above the rate at which the Madras Government have last borrowed for the Provincial Loan Account.

14 Whenever a loan is granted under this Act to a person in respect of any industrial business or enterprise and is secured by a mortgage or floating charge upon the assets of such business or enterprise, the grantee of the loan shall be bound to put up at his place or places of business or enterprise a prominent sign-post containing the firm name of such business or enterprise with the addition of the words "State-aided" within brackets. Such notice when so displayed shall be deemed to signify that the business or enterprise is in receipt of a loan secured as provided by section 10 of the Act.

SECTION 19 (b) (8).

15 The recipient of any State aid under the Act shall be bound to permit the Director of Industries or any person deputed by him by general or special order in writing or any other person authorized in this behalf by the Local Government, to inspect the premises, buildings, plant, stock in hand and accounts of the industrial business or enterprise in respect of which the aid has been granted and to grant facilities for all or any of these purposes.

SECTION 19 (b) (9)

16 The accounts of any industrial business or enterprise in respect of which State aid has been granted shall be examined and audited at least once in every year by an auditor approved by Government and it shall be the duty of such auditor to outline the method on which the books of the particular industrial business or enterprise shall be kept.

17. A return shall be made once in every year certified by such auditor and the return shall show

(1) a full and complete statement of the assets and liabilities of the business,

(2) a valuation of the assets as prescribed by rule 11 above, and

(3) a working or manufacturing account showing—

(a) the outturn of the industrial business or enterprise with the cost per unit of such outturn, and

(b) the profit or the loss on the marketing of the products produced

SECTION 19 (b) (11).

18. In cases in which the conditions under which loans or grants have been made have not been fulfilled, no profit shall in any way be appropriated without the sanction of Government

SECTION (19) (b) (13)

19. Loans shall be repayable by fixed annual instalments in discharge of both principal and interest. The date of the payment of each annual instalment shall be fixed so as to coincide with the time of making out a balance sheet. Subject to the above conditions the Government shall have discretion to fix the date of payment of the first instalment. Provided that such instalment shall not be payable at an earlier date than one full year from the date of disbursement of the loan or of the last instalment of the loan.

20. Nothing in rule 19 shall prevent or debar a borrower from paying at any time a larger sum than the annual instalment or from discharging the whole loan in a single repayment.

There is economy in the use of the "Sparling" Patent Padlocks because of their lasting qualities and key protection. They can be had singly or made in suites (one key to pass all) or in master key sets. Mr. S. Robson, Principal, Prince of Wales' College, Jammu, writes: "I consider your locks by far the best on the market, bar none, and for material, workmanship and security by far the cheapest. Since I discovered the "Sparling" locks, I have used no other, and never intend to use anything else"

Rai Bahadur Jai Lal, Government Advocate, Lahore, writes. "I bought some locks from you in 1912-13 and they were very good. Please send me the following padlocks in sets with master keys:—

18	"Sparling"	Patent	Padlocks,	1	inch.
6	do.	do.	do	1½	inch
6	do.	do.	do	2	inch.

Private Entree List.

All officials in the Warrant of Precedence down to and including warrant No. 55 and officials holding the following appointments —

Collector of Chingleput Officer Commanding, Madras Area.
Officer Commanding Indian Infantry St.
Thomas' Mount
The Sheriff of Madras.

Chaplain to the Bishop of Madras
Honorary Aide-de-Camp to the Viceroy.
Do. do to the Governor.
The Director of Survey, Madras.

Non-Official Gentlemen and Ladies.

Roman Catholic Archbishop of Madras.
Roman Catholic Bishop of Mylapore.
Diwan Bahadur Sir S. Subrahmanya
Ayyar, K.C.I.E.

'Abd-ul-'alī Sahib, Khan Bahadur.
Mir Asad Ali Khan, Khan Bahadur.

To the following Native Chiefs, Maharajas, Rajas, Zamindars and Nawabs the privilege of the Entree will be accorded when in Madras :—

His Highness the Maharaja of Travancore, G.C.S.I., G.C.I.E.
His Highness the Maharaja of Cochun, G.C.I.E.
His Highness the Raja of Pudukkottai, G.C.I.E.
The Nawab of Banganapalle.
The Raja of Sandur.
The Zamorin of Calicut.
The Maharaja of Bobbili, G.C.I.E.
The Raja of Bobbili.
The Maharaja of Jeypore.
The Raja of Venkatagiri, K.C.I.E.
The Raja of Vizianagram.
The Raja of Kalahasti
The Maharaja of Pithapuram, C.B.E.
The Hon'ble The Raja of Panagal.
The Raja of Karvetnagar
The Raja of Ramnad
The Raja of Cannanore.

The Raja of Dharakota.
The Raja of Parlakimedi.
The Valiya Raja of Churakkal.
The Valiya Raja of Kadattanad.
The Valiya Raja of Palghat.
The Valiya Raja of Walavanad.
The Valiya Raja of Kottayam.
The Valiya Raja of Kurumbranad.
The Valiya Raja of Parapanad.
The Valiya Raja of Beypore.
Nawab Ghulam Muhammad Ghouse, Khan Bahadur.
The Hon'ble Raja V. Vasudeva Raja, C.I.E., Valiya Nambidi of Kollengode.
The Zamindar of Kurupam.
Raja Kizhakke Covilagam Manavedan Raja.
Srimant Raja Y. M. Prasada Nayudu, Zamindar of Devarakota.

Those appearing on the Private Entree list will be supplied with Private Entree cards for admission to Government House which will be issued with their invitations and they should drive up to the south-eastern door of the Banqueting Hall on occasions of Levees, Balls and Receptions.

Cards must be shown to the police on duty at Government House.

Officials entitled to the Private Entree at Calcutta or Bombay are granted the privilege at Madras, when passing through, or on temporary duty at the Presidency.

A copy of the list is furnished to the Commissioner of Police for guidance in the control of carriages on special occasions.

GOVERNMENT AT WORK.

Agricultural Department.

Budget allotment for 1922-23 Rs. 16,59,880.

Staff—Wherever the information has been readily available the number of members of the staff is given, divided into 6 classes as follows:—

Class I.—Number of officers drawing salaries of Rs. 1,000 and over (9),

Class II.—Number of officers drawing Rs. 500 and over but less than Rs. 1,000 (14)

Class III.—Number of officers drawing Rs. 250 and over but less than Rs. 500 (23).

Class IV.—Number of officers drawing Rs. 150 and over but less than Rs. 250 (78).

Class V.—Number of officers drawing less than Rs. 100 (304).

Class VI.—Number of menials (145). Of the officers 23 are in the Indian Agricultural service and 21 in the Provincial Service.

The Department reorganized.—After struggling for a quarter of a century with foreign implements and foreign seeds, the Madras Agricultural Department lapsed for over a space of fifteen years into a state of quiescence devoted mainly to statistics and agricultural enquiry. Under Lord Curzon's Government, the Department was re-organized and direct effort towards agricultural improvement was renewed, but the method of attack was entirely altered. Since that time the trained staff has been steadily improved in numbers and quality and in diversity of training, and work has been carried out very largely in the districts instead of at headquarters, so as to get into direct touch with the cultivators and to study their needs and capabilities. District farms have been opened in typical and important agricultural tracts in order to study local conditions and work has been concentrated on the ordinary staple crops of the Presidency, backed up by special plant breeding stations at the Central Farm, Coimbatore, where an Agricultural College was opened in 1908. This College is also a Research Institute and the staff of specialists has been gradually increased until every branch of agricultural science can now be adequately dealt with.

Specialists in the Department.—The Agricultural Chemist makes the analyses of soils, manures and plants needed by the farms, and carries out a great deal of research. Soil surveys have been made of the principal rice areas and many problems connected with soils, manures, sugar manufacture, etc., have been studied. The Botanical Section has shown such promise that various specialists, each dealing with one important crop, have been appointed. The Economic Botanist has devoted himself to the study of paddy, the ultimate object of his work being to improve the varieties of paddy in general cultivation, the test of improvement being an increased monetary return to the cultivator. Considerable progress has been made, and several new and promising strains have been produced and placed in the hands of the ryots. A second paddy breeding station has been opened in the Tanjore delta, and one in the Godavari-Kistna delta is contemplated. The Government Sugarcane Expert is an "All-India" appointment and the main object of his work is to raise new varieties of cane to suit North Indian requirements. So far, very little has been done in the way of producing an improved variety of thick canes for Madras or Bombay, but this work, as well as the study of varieties resistant to disease, will shortly be taken up. In 1920, a Cotton Specialist was appointed. Prior to this, much useful work had been done on cotton by circle officers. Improved strains of "Northerns" and "Westerns" have been produced and are now largely grown, while in the south similar work has been done with "Tinnevellys." The importance of this work at the present time, when Indian mills are endeavouring to spin higher counts, cannot be over-estimated. Cambodia cotton is also being studied. Quite recently a specialist to deal with millets was appointed. The pests and diseases of crops are dealt with by the Mycological and Entomological Sections which study the life histories of the various fungi and insects which damage our crops; in many cases they have introduced practical remedies. In this connexion the Madras Agricultural Pests and Diseases Act has been put into force to deal with the bud rot of palmyra palms, the stem and boll weevil of Cambodia cotton, and the black-headed caterpillar of coconut palm.

Live-stock Officer.—In 1911 a cattle survey of the Presidency was made and, as a direct consequence, a special Live-stock officer was appointed in 1916. He has undertaken the study of matters relating to animal husbandry, and a start has been made to improve the milk supply by cross-breeding between Ayrshire bulls and good milking cows of Indian breeds. At the same time pure herds of Indian cattle are being raised and graded up by selection. The improvement of the breed of buffaloes is also receiving attention.

Fruit Industry.—The possibility of growing fruits and potatoes in the hill districts is being investigated and several small fruit gardens and a potato farm have been established to study these problems.

Coconuts.—During the last few years the special study of coconuts has been taken up and considerable progress has already been made in the improvement of this important crop on the west coast.

Work of the Specialists.—The Specialists have their laboratories and plant breeding stations at the Research Institute at Combaratore, but this is only one link in a chain. Discoveries made there are first tried out on district farms and, when they have proved useful and practical, they are introduced to the ryots on demonstration farms and plots on their own lands. This is followed up by organized propaganda work in the districts as far as the strength of staff will allow. The staff is still limited and insufficient for the whole of the Presidency, and it has perforce to be concentrated on definite work in definite areas. Districts and crops to which the Department has not hitherto been sufficiently strong to devote constant and prolonged attention have been, and still remain, neglected. In carrying out the propaganda work attention has been paid solely to improvements well within the resources and powers of the local agriculturists, and instead of devoting attention to foreign implements, work has been concentrated on the improvement of local instruments and better makes of ploughs, cultivators, drills, and so on. These have been introduced and demonstrated on the ryots' own land. At the same time oil-engines and power pumps have been introduced with success, but the great progress which has been made in this direction lies to the credit of the Department of Industries rather than to that of Agriculture.

Agricultural Co-operative Societies.—The development of Agricultural Co-operative Societies for the purchase of manures and seeds, and the formation of seed unions have received attention, and co-operative methods of self-help generally are encouraged. The department works in close touch in these matters with the Registrar of Co-operative Societies. There are now 6,206 Agricultural Credit Societies in the Presidency with a total membership.

of 3,33,312. The movement of Agricultural Co-operation has spread widely among all castes, and it is especially gratifying to record an increase of over 30 per cent in the number of the Adi-Dravida members.

Agricultural Education.—Agricultural education has also been taken seriously in hand. At the Agricultural College an expert teaching staff of Imperial and Provincial Officers, including a Lecturing Botanist, a Chemist and a Professor of Agriculture, is maintained and students can take a practical course in agriculture lasting over two years. There is also an advanced course leading to an L. Ag. Quite recently the College has been affiliated to the University of Madras and the advanced course now leads to a B.Sc. degree in Agriculture. Two Agricultural Middle Schools have also been started as an experimental measure and night schools, and schools for the children of farm labourers, are run on the district farms.

District Work.—The main work of the department, however, is district work designed to get the knowledge amassed by the experts to the ryots themselves. The Presidency is now divided into eight circles each of which is in charge of a Deputy Director of Agriculture. In addition to these eight circles there is also a Deputy Director of Planting districts. Where the work is heavy the Deputy Director is assisted by an Assistant Director of Agriculture, and each circle has its quota of upper and lower subordinates who do the work of the farms and demonstrate improvements to the ryots. The work of the Deputy Director of Agriculture consists in experimenting at local agricultural stations with the staple crops of the locality, and in seeing that any useful results obtained from these experiments are disseminated among the agricultural population. He keeps in touch with the work which is being carried on at the Research Institute at Coimbatore by the various experts and sees that any results of this research which have a bearing on the improvement of local agriculture are brought to the notice of the ryots through the medium of his district staff. As a result of many years' experience the Department had built up a system which may be likened to a chain. At one end of this chain are the experts in their laboratories at Coimbatore linked up with the district staff of Deputy Directors, Assistant Directors, Farm Managers, and Agricultural Demonstrators, and at the other end of the chain is the ryot himself for whose benefit all the work is done. The man most closely in touch with the cultivator is the agricultural demonstrator, and a special feature has been made of demonstration work and on this the success of the department very largely depends.

Demonstration in Villages.—One of the methods adopted by the department, in order to spread the knowledge of the experts which it wishes the ryots to adopt, is that of actual demonstration in the villages. New processes, new strains, new implements, are put in the hands of local agricultural demonstrators and assistant demonstrators, each in charge of a certain number of villages and in close touch with the ryots. These demonstrators explain to the ryots the object of the improvement and induce them to give it a trial on their own lands. The work is undertaken on the ryot's own land with his consent and Government supply the seed, manure, or implement, as the case may be. A cultivation sheet is maintained showing a profit and loss account so that the ryot may see exactly the benefits to be obtained from the improvement which is being demonstrated, and in this account the ryot himself supplies all the figures relating to the cost of cultivation. This gives him a direct interest and incentive in the experiment undertaken on his land and keeps him in touch with the work from beginning to end. The number of demonstrators available for this work is necessarily limited at present, and in order that they may carry out the work efficiently, it is necessary to concentrate their efforts in a limited number of localities. Advantage is taken of cattle fairs, religious festivals, etc., to hold small agricultural exhibitions and give lectures illustrated with magic lanterns, and distribute departmental literature.

Agricultural Literature—A large amount of literature is published by the Department, bulletins dealing with major subjects and results of research work, leaflets dealing with agricultural improvements and the treatment of pests and diseases, a Year-Book, a Villagers' Calendar, and also a monthly digest of the work done by the Department. The leaflets and digests are published in English and the vernaculars and are distributed free.

Agricultural Statistics—Agricultural statistics were dealt with at one time by the Board of Revenue but are now transferred to the Director of Agriculture. The preparation of crop forecasts was transferred in 1912, as those published by the Board fell short of the truth by 20 to 30 per cent even in area. The next step was effected in 1917 when the compilation of appendices D and E to the season and crop report was entrusted to the Director as the yields published therein were found to be greatly under-estimated owing to the inherent pessimism of the village accountant. The final step was taken in June 1922, when the work relating to statistics of retail prices, weekly season reports, and the annual season and crop report was transferred. The entire work relating to agricultural statistics, with the exception of wholesale prices, is now done in the office of the Director of Agriculture. A statistical assistant to the Director was appointed in February 1921. The importance of statistics cannot be over-estimated. Government require fairly correct information about the state of the season and the area and yield of crops for administrative purposes, especially in times of famine. Accurate crop forecasts enable the trade to enter into forward contracts at a price fair to both parties. The changes in the economic condition of the people can be properly gauged only if there are reliable figures of prices.

Forecasting the area and yield of crops is not an easy task. The taluk returns are incomplete and inaccurate in varying degrees. The data of yield are inaccurate as it has to be estimated during the growing season of the crop. The reported figures have, therefore, to be carefully corrected in the light of the known reliability of the taluks and the information received from agricultural officers and the trade. Fairly satisfactory results have been achieved. The areas estimated in 1921-22 differed from the truth by less than one per cent in the case of the important crops and in no case by more than 3 per cent, the estimated yield of cotton in the same year differed from the commercial crop by only 2 per cent. The growing reliance placed by the trade on forecasts is shown by the increasing demand for them, not only from this Presidency, but also from other Presidencies. A weekly return showing the cotton received at mills and presses and exported by sea and rail has been published since April 1915. Its value has often been acknowledged by the trade. Madras is the only Province in India which has succeeded in obtaining fairly complete returns of the kind on a voluntary basis. Weekly reports on the season and prices, reviews on retail prices, fortnightly and monthly, and monthly reports on the area cultivated are now issued by the department in better form and with greater accuracy, and at less cost, than before. All the returns and reports are published not only in the gazettes but also in the newspapers for the information of the public. Crop forecasts and cotton press and mill returns are also sent to all those interested.

Progress made—Some of the main improvements which have been introduced by the Department, and which are being demonstrated and taught to the cultivators, are the following.—

- (1) The single planting of paddy and the use of thinly sown seed-beds.

- (2) The introduction of improved strains of sugarcane, paddy, cotton, ragi, cholam, groundnut, etc., either to increase the actual yield, or to be resistant to disease.

(3) The planting of sugarcane in lines to reduce the number of setts, and the drill sowing of cotton and other crops to reduce the seed rate and to facilitate inter-cultivation.

(4) The replacement of leaves from the forest areas by growing green dressings on the land itself, and the use of green dressings generally, especially to prevent salinity and soil erosion.

(5) The use of various indigenous manures, such as fish, bone-meal, and oil-cakes for different crops.

(6) The introduction of iron mills for crushing cane, and improved furnaces for boiling jaggery and turmeric

(7) The use of improved agricultural implements, such as ploughs of various kinds, cultivators, drills, etc.

(8) The preventive and curative methods of combating pests and diseases, such as soaking cholam seed in copper sulphate, and spraying

(9) The introduction of new rotations to improve the land, or increase the crops and profits

(10) The introduction of improved methods of planting and inter-cultivating coconuts, and profitably growing them on dry land hitherto uncultivated, and improved methods of making coconut jaggery

(11) The introduction of improved methods of making and storing cattle manure.

Many other agricultural improvements of a minor nature are also dealt with. The increase in the annual income of the ryot population in 1921-22 from such improvements which have got beyond the experimental stage was estimated at 2½ crores of rupees compared with a net expenditure in that year of about Rs. 10,00,000 on the Department.

Agricultural Advice.

People, when writing to the Agricultural Department for advice or assistance in any way, should invariably address their letters to the Deputy Director of Agriculture in charge of the circle in which they reside. These circles are as follows:—

I Circle, Cocanada —Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Godavari and the five northern taluks of Kistna, viz., Narasapur, Bhimavaram, Tanuku, Ellore and Yernagudem.

II Circle, Guntur.—Kistna (except the five northern taluks aforesaid), Guntur and Nellore

III Circle, Bellary —Kurnool, Bellary, Anantapur and Cuddapah.

IV Circle, St. Thomas' Mount—Chingleput, South Arcot, North Arcot and Chittoor

V Circle, Trichinopoly.—Trichinopoly and Tanjore.

VI Circle, Madura.—Madura, Ramnad and Tinnevely.

VII Circle, Tellicherry.—Malabar and South Kanara.

VIII Circle, Coimbatore —Salem, Coimbatore and the Nilgiris.

All inquiries about breeding and rearing of live-stock and the establishment of dairies should be addressed to the Deputy Director of Agriculture, Live-stock, Chempauk, Madras.

Agricultural Chemistry in Madras.

Modern agriculture is an art built upon a scientific foundation, the result of close collaboration between Chemists, Botanists, Bacteriologists and other scientists with the practical farmer. In consequence much is now known of the factors leading to fertility, improved strains of seeds have been evolved and methods devised for combating insect and other pests, with the result that the farmer is very much less at the mercy of accidental circumstances and though he is still unable to control climatic conditions, he can certainly minimise, to some extent, the loss involved when such conditions are unfavourable, and make the most of such facilities as he may possess.

Among the sciences which have contributed in this way to Agriculture that of Chemistry has from the beginning played an important part. It may therefore be of interest to describe briefly some of the problems which face the Agricultural Chemist in this country and the steps which are being taken to deal with these in the Madras Presidency. The chemical section of the Madras Agricultural Department consists of the Government Agricultural Chemist, two gazetted assistants and six other assistants with the necessary subordinate staff. The laboratories are situated at the Agricultural College, Coimbatore and are thoroughly well equipped both for advanced research and for routine analytical work. The problems under investigation have been many and varied and it will only be possible in the present article to consider briefly some of the more recent developments.

Soil surveys.—It is obvious that when land is continuously cropped there must be a constant drain on the supply of plant food present in such soil and unless this is replaced by the application of appropriate manures there will result a loss of fertility and the crop yield will diminish. Now this is a process which has been taking place over very large areas of the Madras Presidency and it was soon obvious that it was highly desirable to ascertain how far this loss of fertility had proceeded, what reserves of plant food were available and in short whether the soils of the Madras Presidency were producing the maximum crops of which they should be capable under proper management. It was impossible to do this for the whole of the Presidency and so it was decided in the first place to restrict the work to the most important crop, paddy, and to carry out soil surveys of the chief paddy areas. Such surveys have now been completed in the Guntur, Tanjore, Kistna and Godavari deltas, in the areas irrigated by the Periyar channel and the survey of Malabar has been commenced.

These surveys have yielded very striking results and shown in a very marked way how very deficient many of our Madras soils are and the large areas which demand immediate manurial treatment. In Guntur three-quarters of the delta is in immediate need of nitrogen and half the area, particularly the central portion of the delta and the coastal region, requires phosphoric acid. In Tanjore the situation in regard to nitrogen is practically the same while the deficiency in phosphoric acid is worse, practically the whole delta urgently requiring phosphates. In Kistna and Godavari the situation is somewhat better but about half of each area has been found deficient in either nitrogen or phosphoric acid or both. In Periyar again while there is generally a sufficient supply of nitrogen, the lack of available phosphoric acid is most striking over at least three-fourths of the district.

These surveys have therefore proved conclusively that enormous losses are taking place in crop production owing to the exhausted condition in which the soil has been allowed to fall, either through the ryot failing to appreciate the importance of manures or more usually through his inability to afford the present high cost of such manures.

Permanent manurial plots.—Loss of yield, however, is not the only injury which results from such conditions. On the Central Farm, Coimbatore, a series of Permanent Manurial Plots has been under observation for many years. Each plot is manured year after year with the same manure and compared against control plots which receive no manure at all. It has thus been possible to note the influence of particular manures both on the yield and on the quality of the crop. The results have shown very clearly that a deficiency of phosphate, such as has been shown above to occur in so many of our soils, in addition to depressing the yield also diminishes very seriously the feeding value of the crop so that the loss is two fold.

Manures.—The need for a wide expansion in the use of manures has thus been demonstrated beyond doubt. A moment's thought moreover will show that the necessity will continually become more pressing. Improved strains of seed are being evolved by the Botanical Department and distributed to the ryots. Such strains being high yielding varieties increase the rate at which plant food is removed from the soil and consequently will require more extensive manuring. These results make it quite clear that fresh sources of manures must be found in order that these may be available at a price which the ryot can afford. Two kinds of phosphatic manures are already fairly well known to the ryot namely bonemeal and superphosphate. The latter which is the most quick acting phosphatic manure is however costly, while the cost of bonemeal, which is a good manure for paddy though slower acting than super, is already rapidly increasing. The chemical section has therefore been endeavouring to find a means of utilising the deposits of mineral phosphate which exist in the Trichinopoly district. This kind of phosphate is unfortunately very insoluble and if used alone does not produce a very marked result. Efforts were made to overcome this by composting the finely ground mineral phosphate with organic manures for two or three months before applying the mixture to the soil, in the hope that the phosphate would be made more soluble. These experiments however were not a success and it has been found that the best way is to apply the powdered phosphate direct to the paddy soil together with large quantities of green manures. The latter decompose rapidly and help to dissolve the phosphate which is thus able to bring about its useful effect. Owing to the slowness with which the mineral phosphates dissolve, all its influence will not be seen in the year of application, a residual effect remaining which may be noticeable for three seasons. Instead of green manures, fish guano may be employed, this in itself contains about 8 per cent of phosphoric acid which becomes available with considerable rapidity in wet land.

Nitrogenous manures.—Investigations have also been carried out with nitrogenous manures and in particular with cyanamide or nitrolim. This is a manure which contains about 18 per cent of nitrogen and is prepared artificially, making use of the nitrogen of the air. If electrical power develops in India, its manufacture is likely to be extended to this country and it should be available at reasonable rates. At first the results attending its use were erratic. This was because the right methods of application were not used. The experiments made indicate that provided the manure is applied before sowing or transplanting and well incorporated in the soil there is little or no risk of bad result. Nitrolim should not be used, however, as a top dressing after the crop is in the ground or the young seedlings may be damaged. Used in the way indicated it has given very promising results on a number of crops tried on the small scale. The experiments are being repeated on the field scale at several of the Government Farms.

Waste—There is available in this Presidency a very large amount of waste material such as, for example, paddy husk, groundnut dusk, tobacco refuse and in some districts paddy straw. Recent experiments in Europe have shown that it is possible to ferment straw and prepare from it a manure closely resembling a well rotted farm yard manure. Endeavours have been made to utilize the waste products referred to above in a similar way and the results so far obtained with paddy straw have been distinctly encouraging though not yet entirely successful, the process requiring considerable modification in consequence of the very different climatic conditions prevailing in India. The investigation is proceeding and has been extended to other waste products such as prickly pear.

In addition to searching for new substances of manurial value much attention has been paid to the question of conserving the supply of manure already available. In the case of farm yard manure, it is well known that great loss amounting often to more than 50 per cent takes place in the manual value owing to faulty method of storage. A series of experiments has been drawn up and is being carried out on four of the Government Farms, whereby the different methods of storage will be definitely tested. On the results obtained it is hoped it will be possible to recommend a method suitable for general adoption and leading to very much less loss.

Manual requirements of crops—In the case of some crops the manual requirements have been but little studied. A case in point is the coconut tree. Work in the Government coconut station in South Kanara has, however, demonstrated that this tree responds well to manual treatment. The chemical section has therefore been engaged in an attempt to estimate the requirements of the tree by means of an elaborate analysis of the different parts of the tree—roots, stem, leaves, fruit, etc., at different stages of growth. Results of considerable interest have been obtained on which a manual programme has been based which is now being tested at the Kasaragod Experimental Station.

The problems so far discussed may all be brought together under the head of increased production. The chemical section has, however, been as well engaged in another line of work namely in improving the utilization of the crop as in the case of sugar production, or in the widening of markets as in the use of cholam as a substitute for barley in the manufacture of malt.

Improved jaggery.—Improved methods of jaggery manufacture have long been demonstrated by the Agricultural Department and it will only be necessary to refer here to the work done in connexion with coconut jaggery. On the west coast, coconut palms are tapped on an extensive scale for the production of jaggery, the manufacture being almost entirely in the hands of the tapper classes and therefore essentially a cottage industry.

The jaggery produced is, however, of very inferior quality though the coconut juice is, when freshly drawn, of exceptional purity. A simple form of sand filter was soon devised which solved all question of cleanliness. This, however, did not improve the bad colour or the keeping quality of the jaggery. These defects were eventually traced down to the excess of lime which is usually present. Lime is used in the collecting vessels to prevent fermentation and as the flow of juice is variable the amount used is generally excessive. It is impossible to dispense with the use of lime but a simple method was worked out for removing the excess before the juice is boiled. Coconut jaggery prepared in this way is of excellent colour and has greatly improved keeping qualities. The method is now being demonstrated in parts of South Kanara. At the same time the economics of the tapping industry have been under observation, a large number of trees of known history having been tapped for over a year and daily records maintained of both the yield and composition of the juice obtained.

Cholam malt.—At the present time the malt used in brewing or for the preparation of malted foods consists almost exclusively of barley malt. As, however, the supply of barley in Southern India is exceedingly limited, it was obviously desirable, if such industries were to be encouraged, to ascertain whether some other more commonly occurring grain might not be substituted for barley.

With this object in view comparative tests were carried out by the Chemical Department using rice, cholam, ragi, tenai, cumbu and maize. The results of this investigation soon showed that of these grains, cholam was by far the most suitable, being capable of yielding a malt of high diastatic power. In view of the encouraging nature of these results further work was at once instituted to ascertain the correct condition under which malting should be carried out with cholam, for it by no means followed that the same conditions which applied to barley would prove most suitable for cholam. These experiments have met with a very considerable amount of success and there is little doubt that a malt can readily be prepared from cholam suitable in every way for use in the preparation of malted foods. The utility of cholam malt for brewing purposes is, however, a more doubtful proposition, very definite properties being required in a malt designed for this purpose. Experiments are, however, continuing on this aspect of the question. The demonstration, however, that cholam malt can successfully be used in the preparation of malted foods which are so much in request at the present day, has aroused considerable interest and a very large number of enquiries have been received on the subject. Many of these enquiries indicate that there are persons willing to take up an enterprise of this kind in this country and provided such a manufacture were started on a small scale in the first place, expanding as the correct manufacturing conditions were ascertained, there seems little doubt successful results could be anticipated.

Analytical work.—In addition to the above lines of work which have been under investigation, reference may be made to the large amount of routine analytical work carried out by the Chemical Department. Soils, manures, waters and feeding stuffs are examined in large numbers for Government Departments and the general public. The Department undertakes, for example, all the analytical work for the United Planters' Association of South India, fees, however, being charged for such analyses. The majority of the samples received, however, are from the District Officers of the Agricultural Department who require information on which to advise ryots in manurial programmes or assistance in drawing up experiments on the District Farms. The fact that over 700 such samples were received for examination in the last twelve months indicates the extent to which the assistance of the Chemical section is requisitioned.

Sugarcane investigations in the Madras Presidency.

Fighting disease in the Godavari Delta.—The sugarcane crop attracted the serious attention of the Agricultural Department towards the end of the last century owing to the outbreak of a serious fungoid disease—red rot—in the Godavari delta. The attack was so serious and at the time the disease appeared so formidable, that the sugarcane area in that delta which was over 10,000 acres prior to 1895 dwindled to less than 4,000 acres in 1899-1900. In 1902 the Government of Madras rented out a 12 acre piece of land at Samalkota in the Godavari district to study this disease. As in many other sugarcane countries of the world, the easiest and most efficient method was soon found to be, the introduction into cultivation of new varieties resistant, if not immune, to the disease. The Samalkota work was thoroughly successful and in 1912 the sugarcane area in the delta rose to nearly 9,000 acres and that, with a variety better than the one previously under cultivation in the tract. The result of this work has been estimated at over 20 lakhs of rupees a year to the ryots.

Expansion of the sugarcane area in South Arcot.—About 1908 a similar situation was found to be rapidly developing in the district of South Arcot, the cane area that year sinking far below the usual average. Here, for a second time in the Presidency the introduction of a resistant variety proved to be the correct remedy; and today over 4,000 acres are under improved varieties of sugarcane in the district. For this achievement the Government Farm at Palur, with the valuable and whole-hearted co-operation of the Nellikuppam Factory, was largely responsible.

Sugarcane work in the West Coast districts.—By 1910-11 the possibilities of sugarcane growing and extension in the western districts of the Presidency, viz., Malabar and South Kanara attracted the attention of the Department. After preliminary trials at the Government Farm at Taliparamba, the Department decided to introduce and spread the cultivation of cane in the two districts, the sugarcane being practically a new crop in the district of Malabar. As a result of this work the sugarcane area in the two districts rose from 1,945 acres in 1911-13 to 3,700 acres, the present day figure, i.e., the area has nearly doubled itself.

Methods of cultivation.—Though the introduction of new varieties has easily been the most successful piece of work undertaken by the Department in the interests of the sugar industry of this Presidency, improvements in other directions have also received some attention as time and staff permitted.

As improvements in methods of cultivation, (1) the line method of planting as against the system of broadcasting originally in vogue, and (2) reduction in the number of sets planted to the acre deserve mention. The sowing of the crop in lines has been found to save labour and facilitate subsequent cultural operations resulting in a better crop. The saving effected in both the directions above mentioned has been estimated at from Rs. 60 to Rs. 80 to the acre.

The manuring of canes.—Experiments to determine the kind and quality of manure needed for growing a full crop of cane have been in progress in various Departmental stations but as yet no striking results have been obtained. Of late, fish guano has shown itself to be a very suitable manure for the growing of cane crops.

The milling of canes.—Perhaps few of us have come across the primitive and extremely inefficient stone mill used for the crushing of sugarcanes; but the wooden mill with its low efficiency and its screeching noise is within the memory of many of the older members of the present generation. The introduction of the iron mills with their increased efficiency has been the object of vigorous propaganda at the hands of the Agricultural Department, particularly in the district of South Kanara; and the wooden mill is deservedly becoming rare in our generation. Whereas with the old wooden mills we were losing in the megass, i.e., burning away as fuel as much as 37 per cent of the sugar raised at so much labour and expense, the loss with the iron mills is about 25 per cent. It is calculated that the iron mills have given back to us as much as 31,000 tons of jaggery for the whole Presidency.

Preparation of jaggery—the furnace.—The local jaggery making furnaces are often crude and unscientifically constructed resulting in considerable waste of fuel and irregular boiling of the juice. The ryots' boiling pan is, in certain places, a mere hole in the ground with no arrangements either for the full escape of the burnt gases or the convenient drawing out of the ashes from under the fire, factors which greatly impair the efficiency of the plant. The Department put out an improved plant "The Godavari Furnace" about the year 1910-11. Recently another plant, cheap to build and efficient in the working, has been introduced from the Central Provinces and is rapidly becoming popular under the name of the "Sindewahi Furnace." With this furnace the saving in fuel is estimated at about 30 per cent and already as many as over 3,000 acres of cane grown in this Presidency are dealt with by this furnace.

The indigenous methods of preparing the finished product, jaggery, are often crude and not always as cleanly as desirable. Rapid progress in methods of manufacture is, unfortunately, not possible because the local markets are not always very discriminating as to quality and at present the cleaner product does not fetch a correspondingly higher price. The Department has done its best in this direction and the Government Farm jaggery is eagerly sought for and occasionally fetches a higher price as well.

Sugarcane breeding.—Though all-Indian in nature, origin and in the matter of funds, the work of the Sugarcane-breeding station at Coimbatore deserves to be mentioned among sugarcane investigations carried on in this Presidency. This station aims at producing improved varieties of cane by raising sugarcanes from seed, instead of from cuttings as is ordinarily done by the cultivators. The method has proved such a great benefit to the industry in the other cane countries of the world, that, in certain of them, the growers and the factories between them find the money for the running of such stations. In India, the Government has to take the place of such agencies because of the smallness of the average holding and the poor equipment of the average cane grower. The station at Coimbatore is an attempt, by the Government of India, to do for Northern India, where there are large stretches of cane under cultivation, what has been done with such success in the other cane countries of the world. This station is at present in the thirteenth year of its existence and its productions are already proving useful in certain of the tracts in North India, some of the new Coimbatore canes yielding twice as much yield as the local canes. This station is at present concentrating all its attention on producing improved canes for Northern India because, it is there that the large

Indian sugarcane areas and factories are situated

In our Presidency the sugarcane crop occupies but 0.4 per cent of the cultivated area and has, in the past, received comparatively little attention at the hands of the Agricultural Department. In the words of the Indian Sugar Committee the Department "has made no efforts to promote the cultivation of cane, but, as far as its other activities permitted, has always been willing to give the cultivators all the assistance in its power." In spite of this limited attention, however, a recent official document places the money value of the improvements effected at an annual figure of Rs. 18 lakhs. These results, which but endorse the experience of the other sugarcane countries of the world as to the profitability of investing money on sugarcane investigations, would be an ample justification for devoting greater attention to this crop in the future. It is a very profitable crop for the ryot and supplies an important article of food.

The Agricultural Income of the Madras Presidency, Output for 1919-20.

[The following figures were supplied to the Publicity Bureau by the Agricultural Department of Madras. From them, Dr. Gilbert Slater (Publicity Officer, Madras, 1921-22) worked out that the Agricultural income of the Madras Presidency is Rs 112 per head per annum. The method of his calculation will be found explained below —]

Special attention may profitably be directed to the following observations and explanations:—

(1) With regard to the origin of the statement, at the meeting of the Board of Agriculture at Pusa in 1919 one of the chief subjects of discussion was the condition of agricultural statistics in India and the best means of improving them. Among the proposals agreed to was that it was desirable that each Provincial Department of Agriculture should enlist a special officer to deal with statistics. This suggestion was acted on by the Government of Madras and a Deputy Collector was appointed as Statistical Assistant to the Director of Agriculture on 22nd February 1921. Even before this, special attention had been paid to agricultural statistics by the then Director of Agriculture, Mr. G. A. D. Stuart, I.C.S.

(2) The reliability of the figures set out under different heads varies. Those given under column 2, acreage under different crops may be relied upon as being extremely accurate, the percentage of error being inappreciable. Nearly the same thing can be said for column 4 price per unit, except in those instances where instead of a price per unit of product, a figure is given for the money yield per acre. These figures are necessarily somewhat speculative. Figures under column 3 of estimated yield, are obtained by multiplying the estimated yield per acre for each district by the number of acres under the crop in that district and adding together district totals thus obtained. Great pains have been taken to get as accurate an estimate as possible for the average yield per acre but there is necessarily some doubt with regard to the amount for each district. It is however believed by the Department that errors of over-estimate and errors of under-estimate are about equally numerous so that they practically cancel one another. It is believed by the Department that the final error is small and certainly less than 5 per cent.

(3) One figure is of exceptionally speculative character. It will be noted that the estimated value of all the milk produced by over 82 lakhs of cows and cow buffaloes is only Rs 597 lakhs. This comes a little over Rs 7 per cow or cow buffalo per annum or between 3 and 4 pies per cow per day. It hardly seems credible that even allowing for a very large proportion of cows that at any given moment are producing no milk or none beyond what is taken by their calves, the average daily output of milk per cow should be so small that it would take three cows to produce one anna worth of milk per day. Nevertheless the Agricultural Department believes that this estimate is approximately correct.

(4) The total figure obtained, viz, Rs. 3,09,66,53,800 represents the estimated contribution of the industry of agriculture to the total income of the whole Presidency. It is to be noted that it is not an estimate of the total income of the agricultural classes, because it is obvious that the agriculturists themselves do not enjoy the whole of the income contributed by agriculture. A good deal for example falls into the pockets of the money lender.

(5) It is to be noted that a number of items of agricultural produce are not included. The biggest of these is straw. Straw is excluded together with cotton seed and horse gram because it is held that if these items were included the final total would in effect be counting them twice over. For these things are mainly used to feed animals whose labour is required to produce cereal and other crops. For the same reason manure is not included. The question is suggested for consideration whether it is right that these items should be excluded and also whether any items which are included ought to have been excluded for the same reason. Another item which is excluded, which is of considerable statistical importance, is the juice of the palmyra and other palms used for making toddy. The question is suggested for consideration whether this ought to be included, and if so how the price should be estimated. It is to be noted that no deduction has been made from the totals for human food-grains in order to allow for a part of the produce being used as fodder for animals. Statisticians in North India have made considerable deductions in estimates on this score but it is held that in South India grains grown for human food are not given to cattle. A number of minor items of agricultural produce are also left out on account of their relative unimportance, such as the milk of sheep and goats, eggs and poultry. These are omitted because they are not of much statistical importance and the value of them would be extremely difficult to estimate.

(6) With regard to the prices, they are the wholesale prices in the local markets, deduction being made to allow for the cost to the cultivator of bringing or sending his produce to the market. There is no allowance for waste. It may be urged that as a certain amount of produce is necessarily wasted between the time of the harvest being gathered and the grain or other produce actually reaching the consumer, that an allowance ought to be made on this head. On the other hand it may be replied that in passing from the harvest field to the consumer the produce is continually increasing in market value and if allowance were made for waste during this period allowance should also be made for increase in the market value

(7) Taking the agricultural contribution to the total income of the Madras Presidency, according to the above estimate at approximately Rs 310 crores the question is naturally suggested what is the total income in produce and services contributed by all other forms of work and industry. Some previous estimates, including the celebrated one to which Lord Curzon gave publicity in a speech on the Indian Budget, have proceeded on the assumption that for all India 50 per cent may be added to the income yielded by agriculture in order to get the total income. This estimate, though possibly a fair one for the whole of India, appears to be somewhat high for the Presidency of Madras and the suggestion has been made that 40 per cent should be added to the agricultural income in order to get the total income, because the number of people engaged in industries and occupations other than agriculture according to the census of 1911, was almost exactly 40 per cent of those engaged in agriculture. If this suggestion be adopted the conclusion would be reached that the total income may be estimated at Rs. 434 crores. As the population of the Madras Presidency, by the census of 1921, was 42,322,270, the average income on this assumption works out at Rs. 102 per head per annum. If, on the other hand, it is assumed that the non-agricultural contribution to the total income is 50 per cent of the agricultural contribution, the total income comes to Rs. 475 crores or Rs 112 per head per annum.

(8) The question may be asked how this estimate compares with other estimates which have been put in a more or less authoritative manner, and specially in comparison with Lord Curzon's estimate referred to above is inevitable. This was to the effect that the average income per head for all India towards the end of the last century was not less than Rs. 30 per head per annum and was growing. With regard to this comparison it has to be noted that a rupee had a very much higher purchasing value in the 19th century than it has at present. It is hard to say precisely in what measure the purchasing power of the rupee has diminished. It may be mentioned as a simple fact that in 1899 Rs. 30 would buy 800 lb of rice and in the year 1919-20 Rs 102 would buy only about 1,120 lb of rice. Hence if both the estimates are correct, and the average income for Madras were also the average income per head for all India it would follow that during the past twenty years there has been an increase of about 40 per cent in the average income if that average income be reckoned in rice. But other commodities have also to be taken into account, and therefore it is difficult to say precisely how large an increase of real income should be deducted from the two estimates assuming both to be correct, and taking Lord Curzon's estimate Rs 30 exactly instead of at something over Rs 30.

(9) Nevertheless, again assuming the accuracy of the above estimates and calculations they indicate that the average income of India has increased in the last 20 years in real values as well as in rupees. It is a well known fact that many public speakers and writers assert that India is continually becoming poorer. It is on the other hand generally admitted that the standard of living is rising and that there is a greatly increased demand for many things which used to be regarded as luxuries, and for better housing, more education and many of the other conveniences of life.

Civil and Criminal Justice.

The High Court.—The superior court for civil and criminal judicial work is the High Court at Madras. The High Court may consist of a Chief Justice and as many Judges, not exceeding 20, as His Majesty may from time to time think fit and appoint. At present, in addition to the Chief Justice, there are 11 puisne Judges. The Judges must be barristers of five years' standing or members of the Indian Civil Service of ten years' standing, who have exercised the powers of a District Judge or like powers for at least three years, or persons who have held judicial office not inferior to that of a subordinate Judge or a Judge of a Small Cause Court for five years or pleaders of the High Court of ten years' standing; one-third of the Judges, including the Chief Justice, must be barristers and one-third must be members of the Indian Civil Service. A Judge holds office during His Majesty's pleasure but has power to resign. The Governor in Council may make temporary arrangements if a vacancy occurs in the High Court. A High Court Bench may consist of one or more judges, a Full Bench being a bench of not less than three of the judges for the time being present as judges of the Court. The High Court has framed rules showing what class of work may be disposed of by the various Benches; certain matters may be disposed of by a judge in Chambers. A list showing the sittings of the various courts during the following week is published every Friday.

Administration of Criminal Law.—For the administration of criminal justice there are 25 Sessions Judges in the mufassal, the High Court being the Sessions Court in the Presidency town. Additional and Assistant Sessions Judges are sometimes appointed to assist courts in which the work is heavy. Sessions are held once a month at the headquarters of each judge, but once a quarter in the High Court. Magistrates are of three classes —first, second and third. The powers of a first-class magistrate are more extensive than those of a second-class magistrate, for instance, a first-class magistrate can pass a sentence of imprisonment for two years, while the longest terms for which second and third-class magistrates can pass sentences of imprisonment are six months and one month respectively. Village magistrates are not included in these three classes of magistrates; they may try persons charged with petty thefts when the value of the property stolen does not exceed one rupee and certain other cases of a trivial nature; they may sentence such persons if found guilty to be confined in the village choultry for a time not exceeding twelve hours. The Collector is always District Magistrate except in the Presidency town, where there are three stipendiary magistrates (including the Chief Presidency Magistrate). There are also four benches of Honorary Presidency Magistrates for the trial of petty cases. Divisional Officers are also Subdivisional Magistrates. These magistrates generally exercise all the powers of a first-class magistrate as well as certain other special powers. The bulk of the magisterial work, as far as the trial of original cases is concerned, is disposed of by second-class magistrates. In taluks where the work is light the Tahsildar and Sanshtadar—the head of the taluk office under the Tahsildar—exercise the powers of magistrates including the power to try cases and to commit accused persons for trial before the Sessions Court, but in other taluks Stationary Sub-Magistrates are appointed for this purpose. Tahsildars are magistrates of the second-class ex-officio and deputy tahsildars and sub-magistrates and taluk sarishtadars are magistrates of the third-class ex-officio. In important mufassal stations, retired Government officers with judicial experience are appointed Honorary Magistrates and exercise the ordinary and certain special powers of stipendiary first-class magistrates. Benches of magistrates are sometimes appointed in mufassal municipalities and other mufassal towns and villages with powers to try regularly cases under certain special laws, and with summary powers to dispose of certain other classes of petty cases. Special third-class magistrates, chiefly selected from among sub-registrars, are appointed to try such petty cases in mufassal towns and villages not within easy reach of a regular magistrate's court. District Magistrates rarely take cases on their own file. Divisional Magistrates dispose of cases triable by a first-class but not by a second-class magistrate and of other cases which are of special importance for any reason or in which it is probable that a heavier sentence should be awarded than a subordinate magistrate is competent to pronounce in view of the previous history of the accused or of the value of the property stolen, etc. The District and Divisional Magistrates closely supervise the work of subordinate magistrates. The judgments of Divisional Magistrates are perused by District Magistrates and Sessions Judges. District Magistrates and Sessions Judges transmit to the High Court copies of their judgments in certain cases. In three cantonments in the Presidency the station staff officers are appointed magistrates of the third-class and also cantonment magistrates under the Cantonment Act to try petty cases including breaches of cantonment rules.

Administration of Civil Law.—The administration of civil justice is carried on by 24 District Judges, 29 Subordinate Judges, two special Small Cause Judges and 144 District Munsifs. In addition there are at present on a temporary basis one District Judge, 19 Subordinate Judges, one Small Cause Judge and 23 District Munsifs. In the Presidency town there are a City Civil Court consisting of one judge and Small Cause Court consisting of a Chief Judge and two other judges. The heads of villages may be appointed village munsifs, with power to hear petty suits of a value not exceeding Rs. 50 (or, with the written consent of both parties, Rs. 200); or, alternatively, a panchayat court with similar powers may be constituted, in which case the village munsif ceases to exercise jurisdiction.

Criminal Justice.—On the 31st December 1921, there were in the Presidency 960 criminal courts including the High Court, as against 912 at the end of the previous calendar year. In addition, the Subordinate Judges of Guntur, Kurnool, Madura, Salem and Tinnevely exercised the powers of an Assistant Sessions Judge. A Special Martial Law Tribunal of three Judges sat from the 23rd September onwards to try cases arising out of the Mappilla rebellion; this tribunal (whose work is not included in the statistical tables) took cognizance of 123 cases involving 2,058 persons, disposed of 39 cases involving 558 persons, of whom 85 per cent, were convicted, and transferred 38 cases involving 522 persons to Special Magistrates under the Martial Law (Special Magistrates) Ordinance; the remainder of the cases were pending at the close of the year. The majority of these cases were of a grave nature such as waging war, murder, dacoity, etc. To deal with rebellion cases of minor importance, certain magistrates already serving in the Malabar district were invested with the powers of summary courts under the Martial Law Ordinance, including powers of punishment equivalent to those of a first-class magistrate. At the close of the year there were 95 Honorary Magistrates serving on the Madras City Benches, which worked throughout the year. New first-class Bench Courts were established in fourteen districts and with a few exceptions rendered useful assistance in relieving the stipendiary magistrates of some of their less serious cases. The number of Village Magistrates who exercised criminal jurisdiction was 3,153, an increase of two over the previous figure. The total number of criminal cases instituted fell from 318,476 to 295,620, the decrease being shared by most districts; the chief cause was probably an improvement in economic conditions. Appeals fell in number from 8,723 to 8,007, the average for the preceding five years was 9,324.

Jury system—The number of persons tried by jury was 1,629 as against 2,038 in 1920, the verdict of the jury was approved by the presiding Judge in the case of 1,585 persons and accepted in those of 11 more. Out of the cases referred to the High Court, the verdict of the jury was upheld in regard to 28 persons, modified in the case of 9 and reversed in regard to 19, of whom 11 had been found "guilty" and 8 "not guilty" by the jury. On the whole the system works satisfactorily. The number of persons tried with the aid of assessors was 2,556. In the case of 1,612 of these the Judge agreed with all the assessors, in the case of 318 he differed from one or more and in the case of 626 he differed from all the assessors.

Punishments—The total number of sentences passed during the year 1921 was 201,053, compared with 223,801 in 1920; of these, 99 were sentences of death, 217 of transportation, 10 of penal servitude, 22,560 of rigorous imprisonment, 3,772 of simple imprisonment, 12 of forfeiture of property, 173,562 of fine and 821 of whipping. The number of juvenile offenders was 2,247 boys and 678 girls, of whom more than half were found guilty of offences under the Forest Act. The number of sentences of imprisonment for 15 days or less was 4,903. The total amount of fines imposed fell from Rs. 1139 lakhs to Rs. 1083 lakhs, and the amount awarded in compensation fell also from Rs. 0.55 lakh to Rs. 0.34 lakh.

Civil litigation—The total number of suits instituted in the Presidency during 1921 was 496,214, a decrease of 189 from last year's figure. This total gives a proportion of one suit for every 85 persons of the Presidency population or one for every 31 persons in the case of the Presidency town alone, the corresponding figures for 1920 were 83 and 33. Malabar and Tanjore tried for the first place in the list of litigious districts, while, leaving out of account the Agency Division, Anantapur occupied the last place. Malabar, the most populous district, also showed the largest number of suits, and Anantapur again held the lowest place. The percentage of suits instituted in respect of money or movable property was 89.1 of the total number of suits, as against 87.8 in 1920; this class of suit gained at the expense of suits for immovable property and of suits instituted in Revenue Courts, which fell from 23,380 and 27,112 to 21,377 and 21,351, respectively. The total value of suits instituted in Courts, other than Village and Revenue Courts, rose from Rs. 1,205.27 lakhs, to Rs. 1,362.94 lakhs, and the average value again rose from Rs. 322 to Rs. 398. Apart from Revenue Courts, 21.19 per cent of the suits instituted were of the value of Rs. 20 or less against 28.32 per cent in the previous year, and 61.34 per cent of the suits were between the values of Rs. 20 and Rs. 500. The number of suits above Rs. 500 in value rose from 29,917 to 32,112. Suits triable by Village Courts, but filed before higher tribunals showed a decrease of about 25 per cent from the previous figure. In 77.68 per cent of the suits disposed of, the plaintiffs succeeded in obtaining the whole or part of the relief claimed by them, the corresponding figure for contested suits was 71.49 per cent. Appeals fell in number from 16,577 to 15,806.

The Progress of the Co-operative movement in the Madras Presidency.

Origin—In the Madras Presidency as in other parts of India, the co-operative movement started in 1901. Although the idea of co-operation had already become familiar to a number of people in India who took a special interest in the economic advancement of the ryot, it was only when Act X of 1904 was passed that it became possible to make organized attempts on co-operative lines to relieve the indebtedness of the rural population. In the small tabular statement at the end of this article will be found some of the most important figures illustrating the progress of the movement from 1904 up to date. The first five years ending 30th June 1909 were occupied mainly in laying sound and enduring foundations. In those earlier days it was necessary to proceed with great caution, partly because of the experimental nature of the work and the imperative necessity for avoiding any failure which might cause a serious set-back and partly because the people for whose benefit the movement was started were ignorant and sometimes suspicious. This meant that a great deal of patient propaganda work had to be undertaken. A glance at the statement will show that during the last three years, progress has been enormously accelerated. Although this is partly the natural result of the work of the previous years, it is due in very considerable measure to the reorganization and expansion of the department which was carried out in 1919-20 in deference to the wishes of the non-official members of the Legislative Council. There is no doubt that the resolution of the Legislative Council which led to this reorganization reflected the wishes of the people of the Presidency. For there was an insistent demand for the expansion of the movement, with which the departmental staff as it existed prior to the reorganization, was utterly unable to cope.

Spread of co-operation—The number of co-operative societies of all kinds in the Presidency on 30th June 1922, was 7,389 as compared with 3,676 on 30th June 1919. Of these, 6,206 are agricultural credit societies and 694 are non-agricultural credit societies. A feature of special importance in the development of the movement during the last 8 years is the growth, pari passu with the increase of the primary societies of a system under which they combine to form local unions for their own supervision. On the 30th June 1922, there were 209 local supervising unions as compared with 102 on 30th June 1919 and 7 on 30th June 1914. The total number of primary societies affiliated to local supervising unions on 30th June 1922, was 5,191. The amount which these societies spend on their own supervision, i.e., on non-official agency appointed and controlled by themselves, has now reached a figure which bears a very substantial ratio to the entire cost of the departmental staff. In the year ending 30th June 1922, the amount spent by societies on this account was 1.25 lakhs of rupees while the total amount spent by Government on the department was Rs. 5.86 lakhs. And this latter figure includes the amount spent by Government on the travelling allowance of Honorary Assistant Registrars and on the pay and travelling allowance of their peons. As the figures in the tabular statement show the development of non-official supervision has been extremely rapid. The amount spent under this head was only Rs. 1,949 in the year ending 30th June 1911, and Rs. 57,400 in the year ending 30th June 1919 while in the year ending 30th June 1922, the figure as stated above was 1.25 lakhs of rupees.

Villages covered.—Although the number of villages included in the area of operations of societies increased from 2,215 on 30th June 1914 to 5,665 on 30th June 1919 and 9,893 on 30th June 1922, the total number is still very small as compared with the number of villages in the Presidency (52,196) so that in spite of the amazing progress which has been made, it is no exaggeration to say that the movement has done little more than touch the fringe of the problem which the department set out in 1904 to solve.

Membership.—The increase in the membership has been very rapid particularly during the last three years, the number having risen from 100,537 on 30th June 1914 to 244,297 on 30th June 1919 and 461,002 on 30th June 1922. But even now the total number of members is only a very small proportion (less than 1.1 per cent) of the total population of the Presidency. So far as agricultural societies alone are concerned the members form only 0.9 per cent of the total rural population. Taking 5 as the average number in a family, only 5.5 per cent of the total population share in the benefits of Co-operation, and if we consider the rural population by itself, the percentage is only 4.5. This again indicates that in spite of all that has been done there is still an enormous field for further work.

Working capital.—Some idea of the rapid expansion of the movement may be formed from the figures of the working capital of all societies. This figure reached the enormous sum of 601.11 lakhs on 30th June 1922 as compared with 305.21 lakhs on 30th June 1919 and 123.21 lakhs on 30th June 1914. The paid-up share capital of all societies on 30th June 1922 was 79.86 lakhs as compared with 34.70 lakhs on 30th June 1919 and 11.75 lakhs on 30th June 1914. And the reserve fund of all societies is now 26.08 lakhs as compared with 14.65 lakhs at the close of the year 1918-19 and 6.19 lakhs on 30th June 1914.

Deposits.—The members of the primary societies had deposits at their credit in the societies amounting to Rs. 28.71 lakhs on 30th June 1922, as compared with Rs. 19.31 lakhs on 30th June 1919 and 6.24 lakhs on 30th June 1914. These figures represent the savings of a large number of comparatively poor men. But to estimate the result of the thrift side of the movement it is necessary to include also the share capital put in by members of primary societies, which is also to be regarded as a form of saving, mainly by poor men. The paid-up share capital of primary societies on 30th June 1922 was 50.52 lakhs of rupees, so that the total savings of members amounted on 30th June to Rs. 79.23 lakhs. Deposits held by individuals, both members and non-members, in co-operative societies of all kinds on 30th June 1922 was 206.18 lakhs of rupees. If from this figure we deduct 28.71 lakhs of rupees which represent deposits of members in primary societies alone, we arrive at 177.42 lakhs of rupees. Practically the whole of this large sum has been put in by comparatively small investors. In the case of the financing banks, the share capital held by individuals is also, for the most part, money invested by the same class of small investors. This amounted to Rs. 14.14 lakhs on 30th June 1922, so that the total amount of money put into the movement in the way of investments, mostly by small men, amounted on 30th June 1922 to 191.56 lakhs of rupees.

Loans.—Loans from financing banks outstanding against primary societies amounted on 30th June 1922 to 187.78 lakhs of rupees as compared with 100.97 lakhs on 30th June 1919, and 45.23 lakhs on 30th June 1914. These figures give some idea of the extent to which credit on reasonable terms has been made available through the co-operative movement to the ryots in the villages and the poorer people in the towns. But in order to form an adequate estimate of the benefit which the people of the Presidency have derived from the co-operative movement, it is necessary to consider the figures showing the total amount disbursed as loans to members of primary societies. Up to 30th June 1909 such loans amounted to 19.42 lakhs of rupees. By 30th June 1914, the figure had risen to 151.91 lakhs and by 30th June 1919 to 487.58 lakhs. Rapid as the increase was in the quinquennium ending 30th June 1919, the expansion in the three years ending 30th June 1922, is even more striking, the total amount disbursed up to the latter date being 954.82 lakhs. In other words credit facilities to the extent of 167.24 lakhs have been made available to members of primary societies during the last three years at reasonable rates of interest and on easy terms of repayment.

The cost to Government—As a result of the reorganization of the department mentioned above, the cost to Government of the total establishment rose from 2.26 lakhs in 1918-19 to 5.86 lakhs in 1921-22. These figures include as already indicated not merely the pay of the staff but also office contingencies travelling allowances, as also the travelling allowance of Honorary Assistant Registrars and the pay and travelling allowance of their peons. The total number of Honorary Assistant Registrars on 30th June 1922 was 61.

The cost to Government of the department in 1921-22 was only 33 per cent of the total Government expenditure for the year, while expenditure by Government on general education amounted to as much as 9 per cent. The expenditure on the Co-operative department seems very small in proportion to the great educative value of the movement to the people of the Presidency as a whole and more particularly to the rural population. Far enormous as the material benefits are which the co-operative movement has conferred, the results on the moral and educative side are of even higher value. It is far more important to build up the character of the individual—and this the co-operative movement is undoubtedly doing—than to teach the elements of reading, writing and arithmetic. Essential as the expansion of elementary education is, the progress of the co-operative movement is of no less importance for the general betterment of the people.

Benefits derived—So far as the material benefits which the movement has conferred on the population of the Presidency are concerned, some estimate may be based on the figures of the total loans to members of primary societies. Taking into account the period of these loans and the difference in the rate of interest charged by the sowcar and by the society, it is calculated that since the movement started, members have saved on their borrowings a sum which is certainly not less than two crores. And this does not by any means represent the entire benefit conferred on the poorer people by way of favourable rates of interest, for the existence of co-operative societies has undoubtedly been a powerful factor in reducing and controlling the rates charged by the sowcar. As a result, even those who borrow from the sowcar are indirectly benefited by the spread of co-operative societies and the aggregate saving to the poorer people on this account in the last 18 years must be enormous. Reference has already been made to the sums which may be regarded as the savings of members and as investments in the movement. These are considerable in themselves, but the value of the co-operative movement in inculcating ideas of thrift and businesslike habits is far greater than the mere figures would indicate. And the cost to Government of the department in 1921-22 was only 5.86 lakhs as compared with a working capital of 601.11 lakhs for all societies on 30th June 1922.

The need for further work—Great as are the results already achieved, the scope for further work is enormous. Even as compared with other provinces we have still a vast amount to do in order to bring the benefits of co-operation to all the people who are in urgent need of the help which co-operation alone can give.

Figures published by the Department of Statistics for the year 1921-22, show that in this Presidency the number of societies per 100,000 inhabitants is only 17.5 as compared with 45.1 in Burma, 45.0 in the Punjab and 35.7 in the Central Provinces and Berar. And if we turn to foreign countries, we find that while in this Presidency the number of members represents only about 1.1 per cent of the total population, in Germany the percentage is over 11 (i.e. in May 1921), in Italy where the condition of the peasant population is in many ways similar to that in India, there were 19,510 societies on 31st March 1921 or 54 societies to every 100,000 inhabitants.

And while there is still such a large unexplored field in this Presidency even in the matter of co-operative credit, the scope for expansion in regard to co-operative distribution and production is almost unlimited. In spite of several years of patient work, both by the department and by enthusiastic non-official co-operators, work on the non-credit side has scarcely yet passed the pioneer stages. On this side alone there is ample work for years to come for all the staff which Government can provide as well as for all the non-official co-operators who have the time and energy to devote to the extremely difficult problems which have still to be solved.

Budget allotment for the year 1922-23 Rs. 1,60,23,000 [includes Rs. 85,500 grants to the Madras University and excludes Rs. 1,36,000 expenditure in England]

* Staff.—Class I (21 + 1), Class II (46 + 4); Class III (55 + 23), Class IV (407 + 100); Class V (1,784 + 151), Class VI (853 + 105)

[NOTE.—The plus numbers refer to the Women's branch of the service.]

General system of public instruction.—Public instruction is controlled by the Educational Department of Government. The control which Government exercise over the University of Madras is very slight and consists chiefly in an annual audit of accounts and in the statutory rule whereby all changes in the by-laws of the University have to receive the sanction of the Governor in Council. Colleges may be affiliated to the University on compliance with certain regulations. Certain institutions are maintained and managed by Government directly; they include at present ten colleges for general education and nine colleges for special branches of education, of which four are not under the Educational Department, 36 secondary schools, 789 primary schools and 89 training schools for special education. Other institutions are aided by Government by money grants for various purposes on prescribed conditions. Government, local boards and municipalities make grants-in-aid to 362 and 22,839 schools, respectively, of the secondary and primary grade and to 201 other institutions under private management. Local boards and municipalities maintain in addition two colleges, 194 secondary schools and 9,708 elementary schools. Over these schools Government exercise considerable control by their scrutiny and sanction of the budgets of local bodies; the budget grants are made on the recommendation of the officers of the Educational Department. District boards and municipalities are subsidised by Government for the maintenance of secondary schools under their control, the net cost of those opened in 1918 and subsequent years being fully or partly met from Provincial funds. The Madras Elementary Education Act of 1920 requires taluk boards and municipalities to constitute "Elementary Education Funds" under their control and the budget estimates relating to such funds are subject to the approval of the local Government. The Government further grant secondary school-leaving certificates to pupils of recognized schools, i.e., schools which are managed in accordance with certain conditions laid down by Government. The Government notify from time to time the text-books which may be used in aided and recognized institutions. Scholarships are awarded annually by Government in recognized schools and colleges, some of them being reserved for females or members of the backward classes. In order to maintain a supply of competent teachers, Government maintain 89 training schools and 3 training colleges for teachers, grant stipends to a large number of their students and, after examination, issue teaching certificates; the staff of a recognized or aided school must consist of teachers holding such certificates or having some equivalent professional qualifications. There are 20 training schools for masters and 15 for mistresses under private (mission) management. Sex does not affect a candidate's eligibility to appear for the public and University examinations, and women can obtain degrees on the same terms as men; girls may, as a rule, attend the elementary schools for boys and there are secondary and elementary schools for girls only; 4 colleges for women are affiliated to the University.

The education of backward and indigent classes is specially encouraged by the maintenance of schools and the grant of assistance in money to schools for such classes under private management at increased rates and on conditions easier than those prescribed for ordinary schools. Technical education is promoted by the maintenance of technical colleges affiliated to the University, by a system of technical examinations, by the inclusion in the secondary school-leaving certificate scheme of technical subjects and by the award of scholarships to be held in technical schools and colleges. In elementary schools the pupils are usually taught in their own vernacular, but English is the medium of instruction and examination in the high school departments of all high schools except a few vernacular high schools for girls and in all colleges affiliated to the University. Physical education is practically compulsory in all recognized schools. Four classes for the training of physical training instructors are maintained, two by Government and two by aided high schools. The examination, for the higher grade teachers' certificates include questions on moral training. Religious instruction is not included in any of the prescribed courses of instruction, but while Government does not provide religious instruction in its own institutions with the exception of the Madrasa-i-Azam, teachers in recognized schools may impart religious instruction at any time provided that secular instruction is given for the prescribed number of hours.

The Educational department—The head of the Educational Department under Government is the Director of Public Instruction. The department is broadly divided into (a) the superior service and (b) the subordinate service. The former consists of the Indian Educational Service and the Madras Educational Service. The Indian Educational Service consists of 66 posts, 13 of which are included in the Women's Branch. These posts are filled by persons appointed in England or in India with the approval of the Secretary of State. The Madras Educational Service consists of 62 posts, 19 of which are included in the Women's Branch. These posts are filled by recruitment in India. There are also certain special posts, not included in the Indian Educational Service but recruited from England, and others not included in the Madras Educational Service to which appointments are made by the local Government. The pay of officers in the Indian Educational Service ranges from Rs 400 to Rs 1,750 per mensem, with allowances in special cases, while that of persons in the Women's Branch ranges from Rs 400 to Rs 1,050. In the Madras Educational Service the minimum and maximum pay are Rs 250 and Rs 800, and in the Women's Branch Rs 200 and Rs 500.

Progress in the last quinquennium.—The quinquennium 1916-17 to 1921-22 has been one of considerable progress in all branches of education. The chief events have been the creation of the Ministry for Education under the Government of India Act, the passing of the Elementary Education Act, the re-organization of the Imperial and Provincial services, the creation of two additional posts in the Indian Educational Service in the office of the Director of Public Instruction—one of an additional Deputy Director of Public Instruction and the other of the Deputy Directress,—the re-organization and expansion of the inspecting agencies, the introduction of the model school scheme and the increase in the number of Government colleges and schools.

General statistics—The total number of public institutions rose by 1,400 to 37,201 and their strength by 53,820 to 1,742,493 during the year, while the number of private institutions decreased from 3,927 with 111,177 pupils to 3,443 with 94,529 pupils. Classified according to management, out of a total of 40,647 schools and colleges, 10,894 were under public management, Government managing 948, municipal councils 1,108 and local boards 8,843. The remaining 29,753 were under private management, 23,322 being aided from public funds, 2,988 unaided and 3,443 indigenous and private schools. During the quinquennium, the total number of public institutions rose by 5,928 to 37,204, i.e., by 18.9 per cent, and their total strength by 208,442 to 1,742,493, i.e., by 13.6 per cent. Private institutions showed a decline of 27.8 per cent in number and of 25.5 per cent in strength. Taking public and private institutions together, the number of institutions and their strength rose by 12.8 per cent and 10.6 per cent, respectively, during the quinquennium. While the number of institutions under public management as well as those aided from public funds showed a steady increase, unaided institutions decreased considerably. The percentage of male scholars to the male population increased from 6.5 in 1916-17 to 7.0 in 1921-22 and the corresponding percentage for female scholars rose from 1.5 to 1.8, the percentage of the total number of scholars of both sexes, to the total population, rose from 4.0 to 4.3. All the districts except Tanjore and Trichinopoly showed an increase in the percentage of scholars to population.

Education of Adi-Dravidas and Adi-Andhras.—The number of institutions primarily intended for Adi-Dravidas rose during the quinquennium, from 5,691 to 8,035 and their strength from 158,593 to 2,90,68. The total number of pupils in all classes of institutions rose from 120,607 in 1916-17 to 157,113 in 1921-22, the number reading in secondary schools alone being 1,217 against 718 in the previous quinquennium. There were also six Adi-Dravida students reading in arts and professional colleges. The expenditure on Adi-Dravida and Adi-Andhra schools rose from Rs. 8.74 lakhs in 1916-17 to Rs. 12.96 lakhs in 1921-22, towards which public funds contributed Rs. 7.66 lakhs, fees Rs. 0.29 lakh and other sources Rs. 5.01 lakhs.

Aboriginal, hill and criminal tribes.—There were, in 1921-22, 515 schools in the Presidency for the boys of aboriginal, hill and criminal tribes with 19,116 pupils under instruction. The total expenditure on these schools rose from Rs. 0.59 lakh in 1916-17 to Rs. 1.12 lakhs in 1921-22, of which provincial funds contributed Rs. 0.83 lakh, local funds Rs. 0.07 lakh, and other sources Rs. 0.21 lakh.

Higher education by castes.—Up to the 31st December 1921, 720 graduates had proceeded to the degree of Master of Arts. The number on the rolls at present is 656, of whom 505 are Brahmans, 85 non-Brahmans, 53 Indian Christians, 5 Muhammadans, 7 Europeans and 1 a Jain. Of the 99 Masters of Laws on the rolls, 87 are Brahmans, 9 non-Brahmans, 2 Indian Christians and 1 a European. Of the 4,756 Bachelors of Laws, 3,177 are Brahmans, 994 non-Brahmans, 223 Indian Christians, 22 Europeans and 30 Muhammadans. Out of 779 Bachelors of Arts (honours), 544 are Brahmans, 151 non-Brahmans, 85 Indian Christians, 11 Europeans and 8 Muhammadans. The total number of Bachelors of Arts on the rolls is 18,109; of these, 12,042 are Brahmans, 3,888 non-Brahmans, 1,687 Indian Christians, 248 Europeans, 229 Muhammadans, 8 Parsees, 3 Jews and 4 Jains. Of the 229 Bachelors of Engineering, 172 are Brahmans, 24 non-Brahmans, 24 Indian Christians, 8 Europeans and 1 a Parsee. Out of the 2,183 Licentiates in Teaching, 1,590 are Brahmans, 225 non-Brahmans, 316 Indian Christians, 42 Europeans, 9 Muhammadans and 1 a Parsee. Out of the 547 Licentiates in Medicine and Surgery, 205 are Brahmans, 172 non-Brahmans, 92 Indian Christians, 62 Europeans, 9 Muhammadans and 7 Parsees, and of 263 Bachelors of Medicine and Surgery, 111 are Brahmans, 77 non-Brahmans, 48 Indian Christians, 22 Europeans, 3 Muhammadans, 1 a Parsee and 1 a Jew, out of 8 Bachelors of Sanitary Science, 6 are Brahmans and 2 non-Brahmans. There are only 15 Doctors of Medicine on the rolls of the University; of these 6 are Brahmans, 5 non-Brahmans, 3 Indian Christians and 1 a European.

Vocational Training in Schools.

The following is a summary of the progress of work done by Government during 1922-23 for promoting vocational education in this Presidency —

I Training of teachers—(a) Thirteen secondary-grade teachers completed their special training at the Teachers' College, Saidapet, and obtained the Manual Training Diploma

(b) A scheme for training 15 drawing masters as vocational instructors at the Teachers' College, Saidapet, in vocational subjects based on drawing such as engraving, wood carving, etc., has been sanctioned and the building is under construction. These classes will be opened on July 1, 1923, and will last for nine months, the teachers, when trained, will be available for teaching, drawing and vocational training in schools under the Department of Public Instruction.

(c) A scheme has been sanctioned for training ten selected Higher Elementary Grade teachers for a period of six months in modern methods of weaving at the Government Textile Institute, Georgetown, Madras. When trained, these teachers will be available for giving instruction in weaving on modern lines in schools under the control of the Director of Public Instruction.

(d) Agricultural classes have also been proposed to be attached to certain high schools in the Tamil, Telugu, West Coast and Kanarese districts; these classes, if sanctioned, will be a means of obtaining teachers trained in agriculture.

(e) A scheme for training and for increasing the number of Public Works Department apprentices is under consideration; certain of these apprentices may eventually, after training, become vocational instructors in schools under the Department of Public Instruction.

II Grants have been allotted during the year for the opening or developing of the following special classes in the institutions named under them —

(a) Manual Training "Woodwork and Mechanical Drawing"—

Government Training College, Rajahmundry.

Government Training School, Russellkonda

Government Training School, Guntur.

Government High School, Tiruvalur.

Government High School, Chittoor.

Further schemes for imparting vocational training are under consideration by Mr C R Porrett, Adviser to Government on vocational education. The subjects included in the scheme and the number of schools in which these subjects are proposed to be introduced are given below —

Headmasters of schools, Chairmen of Municipal Councils and others who are interested in vocational training should communicate with Mr. C R Porrett, Teachers' College, Saidapet, from whom details of schemes, costs, bulletins, etc., can be obtained.

Emigration.

Budget allotment for the Protector of Emigrants for 1922-23 : Rs 4300

Protector and Medical Inspector —The Collector of Madras and the Surgeon, First District, Rayapuram, attend to the duties of Protector and Medical Inspector of Emigrants. Since the abolition of indentured emigration to the British Colonies the Protector's and Medical Inspector's duties have been confined to the inspection of returned emigrants from the colonies and to the disposal of the estates of deceased emigrants. The work of the Colonial Emigration Agency was transferred to the Protector from 1st January 1919 owing to the abolition of the post of the Colonial Emigration Agent and his office. The post of the Protector of Emigrants was created in 1844 and the duties were attended to by the Master Attendant of the Marine Department till about the middle of July 1868, when this work was transferred to the Collector of Madras who was also the Collector of Sea Customs. Part of the salary of the Protector was originally met out of the funds of the West India Emigration Fee Fund till the end of March 1858, when it was ordered by the Government that it should be met from the ' Emigration Fee Fund " which was collected at the rate of one rupee for each emigrant leaving this presidency. This arrangement did not continue long. On the 27th January 1859 the Government of India ordered the revival of the original arrangement of debiting a part to the West India Emigration Fee Fund and part to the Colonial Government of Mauritius.

The Madras emigrant—Though a large number of Indians are averse, owing to religious scruples, to emigration to countries beyond the seas many have gone to distant colonies as labourers, shop-keepers or professional men. A large number of these have settled there. The chief cause of such emigration to foreign countries may be found in the economic conditions of the country and the rapid increase of its population. Most of the emigrants who have gone as coolies to the Tea, Sugar, Coffee and Rubber plantations of Ceylon, F.M.S. and S.S. and other British Colonies go from the Madras Presidency, which must be considered backward from the industrial point of view and where the available supply of labour exceeds the demand. Most of these emigrants belong to the depressed classes or backward communities. Being unable to find means of earning their livelihood in this province, they were driven to the necessity of going to neighbouring provinces, or to countries beyond the seas which afford better scope for employment and for a life of greater comfort for themselves and their families.

Internal and external emigration—Emigration may be classified under the two heads, viz, 'internal' and 'external'. Under the former head comes the emigration of labourers to Assam, the Agency tracts and other industrial, agricultural or mining centres in India itself. The Protector of Emigrants has no concern with this. The term external emigration refers to the departure of Indians by sea out of British India under an agreement to work for hire. This is also termed as colonial emigration and may be classified under the following heads.

1. (a) Emigration to Ceylon, (b) Emigration to F.M.S. and S.S. These are free and non-regulated and not under the control of the Protector of Emigrants.

2 Emigration to the British Colonies of Fiji, Guiana, Trinidad, Jamaica and Natal and Mauritius.

Emigration to Ceylon and F.M.S.—Emigration to Ceylon and F.M.S. is free and is not under the control of Government. Each of these colonies has its own agent in this Presidency and the work of recruitment and embarkation of coolies is done by him with the help of recruiters who are sent by such estates as require labour. There is a depot at Avadi under the control of the Emigration Agent at Madras. This is intended for the emigrants proceeding to F.M.S. and S.S. from the port of Madras. There is another depot at Negapatam for emigrants proceeding to the above colonies from the southern districts. It is under the charge of a Superintendent employed by the Colonial Government.

Emigration to Ceylon is conducted by the Labour Commissioner for Ceylon who has his office and depot at Trichinopoly. He is paid by the Planters' Association of Ceylon. As in the case of F.M.S. and S.S., he is assisted by a number of licensed recruiters.

The distinctive feature of the emigration to Ceylon and Malay States is the absence of any indenture or agreement by the coolies. The coolies on arriving at the colonies are free from debt and under no obligation to any recruiter or any labour employing agency. He is at liberty to choose his employer and he can leave the estate at a month's notice and take service in any other estate within the colony which suits him. Emigration to these two colonies is restricted to the Madras Presidency, but as stated above, the Protector of Emigrants has no concern with it at present.

Indentured emigration—Emigration to other British Colonies is restricted and controlled by the Government. Emigration to Mauritius was commenced in the year 1844 and that to Natal in 1860 under the orders of the Government.

of India Indentured emigration to the West Indies was started under the control of Government in the year 1864. The several legislative enactments on the subject of emigration, viz, statutes Nos 14 of 1839 and 15 of 1842, Act VII of 1871 and Act XXI of 1883 are, among others, the principal enactments dealing with this class of emigration. Under this system of emigration the labourers proceeded to distant colonies under an agreement to work in a particular estate for a specified period at a certain rate of wages previously fixed. Such agreements were attested by the Protector of Emigrants. The Protector with the help of a Medical Inspector supervised the work of the Emigration Agents who were in turn assisted by the recruiters licensed by the Protector. This system of emigration, otherwise called 'indentured emigration,' was resented by the Indian public on the ground that it placed the labourers at a great disadvantage and that the system almost resembled slavery. Consequently it was abolished from 1st April 1917 while the emigration to Natal was stopped from 1st July 1911.

Aided emigration—It has since been proposed to introduce a new system of emigration, viz., assisted or aided emigration the features of which are detailed below. Act VII of 1922 which is the latest legislative enactment on the subject in question was passed on the 10th March 1922 with the above object in view and the Act XXI of 1883 has been repealed by the New Act. Under the new scheme of emigration referred to above the Indian emigrant will arrive in the colony entirely free from debt including all liability for the cost of his introduction in the colony. He will be in no way restricted to service under any particular employer except that, for the first few months, for his own safety and protection, he chooses a particular employer. If he does not desire to continue there, he may apply to the Protector of Immigrants in that colony to find employment for him elsewhere. Under the new scheme indentures or agreements have been entirely done away with. The Government have reserved for themselves the right to declare the countries to which emigration is lawful. They have also provided sufficient safeguards to protect the interest of the emigrants in the colonies. A representative of the Government of India will also be appointed in each colony to advise and aid the immigrants. With regard to recruitment, licensed agents will be appointed and paid fixed salaries. This work will be supervised by Emigration Inspectors who will also be paid fixed salary by the Colonial Governments. Over them there will be an Emigration Commissioner who will be a colonial Civil Service Official. The local Government will appoint a Protector to supervise the emigration in each port in which the embarkation of emigrants is authorised by the Government.

Duties of the Protector—The chief duties assigned to the Protector of Emigrants under the new Act are (1) to protect all emigrants and aid them with his advice, (2) to see that as far as possible all the provisions of the Emigration Act and the rules made thereunder are complied with, (3) to inspect at the time of arrival to such extent and in such manner as the local Government may prescribe vessels bringing return emigrants to the port, of which he is protector, (4) to enquire into the treatment accorded to the return emigrants both during the voyage and during their residence in the colonies and to report thereon to the local Government, (5) to aid and advise the returned emigrants, as far as he reasonably can. The Protector will be assisted by a Medical Inspector. The new scheme of emigration has been introduced in this Presidency.

Fisheries Department.

Budget allotment for 1922-23 Rs. 3,18,600

* Staff.—Class I (1); Class II (1); Class III (2); Class IV (7); Class V (59); Class VI (39)

Aims—The aims which the Fisheries Department seeks to achieve are the following.

(1) To increase the food-supply of the people by developing both the marine and the fresh-water fisheries of the country to their utmost capacity

(2) To improve the material and moral conditions of the fisher community by introducing better methods and improved gear, by demonstration to them of the value of thrift, co-operation, education and temperance, and by gradual enlightenment to lead them by degrees to become happier men and better citizens.

(3) To introduce new fishery industries and to develop old ones

(4) To fight mosquito-borne diseases by the breeding and supply of larvicidal fishes into waters in malarial localities

(5) To popularize interest in the operations of the department and incidentally in marine and fresh-water biology by means of Public Aquariums, and the publication of popular zoological literature; also to facilitate the study of zoology throughout India by the provision of zoological specimens suitable for teaching purposes

(6) To carry on such scientific study of the bionomics of the food-fishes of the Presidency and of the animals on which they feed as its limited means will permit, bearing in mind that the department's resources must be utilized in the first instance for strictly practical and economic ends.

The practical working out of the above falls under one or other of the following main heads:—Fishery Development, Industries, Technical and Scientific Investigation, Education and Socio-economics

Fishery development—The two chief items under this head represent two of the out-standing successes of the department. They are the reorganization of the historic chank fisheries of the East Coast and the stocking schemes whereby our tanks and rivers are made to yield more abundantly. Both are highly profitable directly and these profits in good seasons usually enable a large proportion of the expenses of the department to be met without trenching on public funds. In other words "Fisheries" to a great extent has been a self-supporting department, able to pay its way. With the large and non-productive educational work now initiated, this favourable balance is not likely to be maintained.

The Chank Fisheries are peculiarly profitable. They are old and historic prerogatives of the Crown, worked directly by the Fisheries Department by means of volunteer labour, paid piece-work. The department provides many valuable facilities to the divers, free of cost, including towage to the fishing grounds, buoying of the bids, and provision of camping quarters, assistance which considerably increases their earnings and gives them comfort undreamed of in former days. In spite of higher prices paid to the fishermen the work of the department has resulted in largely increased catches and profits—

In 1917-18 these fisheries	Rs
gave a net profit of	... 39,278
In 1918-19 this rose to	... 67,580
In 1919-20	... 46,029

Since the 1919-20 season, owing to unfavourable markets and weather and to transient labour shortage, the profits have been less, viz—

1921-22	8,266

A drastic scheme of retrenchment and re-organization is now being put into operation and has been successful in overcoming the exceptional difficulties that beset this work during the previous two years.

The chank fisheries of Madras are worked off the coasts of the six southern maritime districts on the east coast. The most important are those of Tinnevely and Ramnad. The former yields from $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 lakhs of shells per annum, the latter, leased for fifteen years for the sum of Rs. 60,000 from the Raja of Ramnad, usually gives from $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs. The smaller fisheries of Tanjore, South Arcot, Chingleput and Nellore are leased by Government to contractors, who make their own arrangements with the fishermen, subject to certain rules. The two fisheries earned on departmentally are now as fully organized as present conditions permit. Their produce is sold in advance by tender on terms generally extending over three seasons. Fisheries Bulletin No. 7* is devoted to a monograph of the chank. A detailed account of the methods adopted to fish the shells is given; the exceedingly ancient and wonderfully interesting industry of chank bangle manufacture is also described and illustrated very fully, while the ethnological importance of the wealth of curious folklore centring round this sacred shell receives adequate attention.

The Pearl Fishery off the Tinnevely coast, which is intimately associated with the chank fishery, bulked largely in importance in ancient days. From causes still obscure, but probably connected with changes in the contour line of the coast, the pearl banks have been seldom productive in recent years. In common with the Ceylon Pearl Fisheries, no fishery has taken place since 1908, except a small one at Tondī in Palk Bay in 1914. Historical evidence shows that there have been similar long barren intervals in the past punctuated by an occasional fishery, hence the department inspects the banks periodically in order that when the pearl oysters do re-appear they may be properly watched and fished at the proper time. The result of the long continued observations of the Director of Fisheries shows that there is little or nothing to be done to obviate the recurrence of barren years. Science in this has been proved helpless in the face of the annually recurring monsoon. An inspection completed recently (April 1923) shows that a large number of the beds are at last populated with immense quantities of young pearl oysters, about 9 months old. An unusually large and profitable fishery should take place in 1925 or 1926 if nothing prevents these oysters coming to maturity.

The Fresh-water Fisheries administered by the department rank second only to the chank fisheries in regard to the handsome profit they return to Government. They show continuous yearly increase in the revenue obtained and there is every prospect that this satisfactory feature will continue concurrently with the extension of operations. These fisheries consist largely of waters in which the fishing revenues were assigned to district authorities years ago for local needs. The new owners did nothing to effect improvements, the fishery rents being sold for what they would fetch. The Fisheries Department has now initiated a scheme whereby irrigation tanks and other inland waters are surveyed district by district, and those found suitable are arranged in groups round centres where fish-breeding and rearing are carried on, and whence each year fry are removed in large numbers to reinforce the natural stock in the linked tanks. The fishing rights and revenues in these are being re-acquired gradually by Government, compensation being given on the average revenue of the preceding five years to the local authorities, who now have neither trouble nor risk in collecting this money. The profit made by Fisheries is the difference between the compensation thus paid and the revenue obtained from the fish sales after the working expenses of the annual restocking are deducted. The net profits on these inland fisheries during the last three years have been Rs. 20,573, Rs. 21,331 and Rs. 22,613, respectively. Within a short time from now the operations of this section will be enormously increased, for Government have agreed to the whole of the suitable tanks in the Presidency coming under the department's care eventually. In 1920 they approved of a detailed scheme for the organization of the most important tanks in the Nellore and Chingleput districts, whereby 135 tanks have come directly under the control of the department. The tanks of the Ganjam district have recently been surveyed and before long the whole Presidency will be covered and their inland fisheries set upon a suitable basis, provided the necessary funds can be spared.

To render successful this fish-stocking of inland waters, much patient research and experiment have been necessary; results have suffered from the lack of any estuarine and fresh-water research station. In spite of this, notable success has been achieved, particularly with the seihakendai (Etroplus suratensis) of the Madras neighbourhood, with the large indigenous carp, Calla calla, and with certain of the mullets. The life history of the first of these has been worked out in detail, and it is now being bred regularly and in large numbers in all three of the existing fish farms at Perambur, Sunkesula and Ippur. The value of scientific research is well demonstrated in respect of Etroplus; consistent success only resulted when the breeding habits had been ascertained; the secret of success lies in the provision of suitable stone-built breeding refuges where the eggs may be deposited safely in the manner peculiar to this species. This fish is found naturally in estuaries and tanks near the sea-coast. By the efforts of the department it has been acclimatized successfully to waters far inland; Sunkesula is 130 miles from the sea. Similarly with the catla carp. It is numerous in the Kistna, the Godavari and the rivers further north but, till some 50 years ago, the Kistna formed the southern limit of the distribution. Since the opening of the Cuddapah-Kurnool canal and the stocking of its reaches by the fisheries department with fry of this species, the catla has found its way into the river Pennar and is now very common in the Pennar-fed tanks in the Nellore district. Two years ago it was introduced into the great Madurantakam tank in the Chingleput district and this year large numbers were liberated in the Cauvery thereby extending its range still further south. Further extension will be made when the Chingleput Fort fish-farm is in operation.

Other useful acclimatization centres in the distribution of the fry of certain species of mullet from estuaries to inland waters. This is the most recent of the department's efforts in this direction. The results are very gratifying, for fry ranging in length from 2 to 5½ inches have been found to increase in inland tanks to 9 and 11 inches within a period of 10 months.

The successful stocking of the Nilgiri streams with rainbow trout from New Zealand is another demonstration of what is possible when these operations are skilfully conceived. When these streams were first administered by this department, they were, with the exception of some carp and small minnows, devoid of fish life; now they teem with trout bred at the hatchery at Avalanche.

Sea Fisheries.—The development of our sea fisheries by introducing improved boats and appliances has presented greater difficulty, largely due to the conservatism of the fisherfolk and the difficulty of getting satisfactory teachers and demonstrators. The introduction of methods, proved excellent in one locality, into another, where those that are indigenous are weaker in catching power, has been tried in Malabar, at Tuticorin, Madras and Negapatam. At none was there decided success. Supervision of actual operations on the fishing grounds has been hitherto in the hands of intelligent but otherwise uneducated men, as no educated Indian fishermen at present are available, the material being faulty and lacking in initiative, it is no wonder the results have been unsatisfactory in the main. Neither have these men been able to report intelligibly upon the conditions of the new waters they have worked in. With the recent placing of an order for an experimental sea-going launch to be devoted to the purpose of introducing and testing new methods, this vitally important problem will be attacked in a fresh direction with greater resources than in the past, and with greater concentration of effort. This fishing launch will be manned by an Indian crew who will be taught under the working direction of an experienced European master-fisherman able to report results and to vary the methods according to circumstances.

Industries.—Fish curing is an age-old industry in India, but the methods in use are generally primitive and susceptible of great improvement in regard to the flavour, appearance, cleanliness and keeping quality of the products. The chief indigenous method is to salt the fish usually for one night, followed by sun-drying. Long and patient endeavour to ascertain improvements in methods that are yet inexpensive to adopt has been made by the department, particularly at its Experimental Station at Tanur in Malabar. Here numerous and varied experiments have been conducted, with generally gratifying results. To enable the methods thus elaborated to be introduced to the notice of curers and to improve general conditions, particularly in regard to cleanliness and sanitation, six Government fish-curing yards were transferred temporarily from the Salt Department to "Fisheries" over two years ago. Progress in improvement has been slow owing both to the innate and ignorant conservatism of the curers and to factious opposition. With patience these obstacles are being overcome; even now there is a notable improvement in the cleanliness of the products of these yards.

Canning.—Experimental work was begun at Calicut in 1911, and transferred later to Chaliyam, 7 miles to the south. Complete success has been attained on the operative side, the quality of the goods packed being in the opinion of experts, equal to the best of similar European products. Notably is this the case in regard to the canning of sardines, mackerel and prawns; these constitute the bulk of the goods produced. The Indian oil sardine (Sardinella longiceps) at its best, is said to be fully equal to the true French sardine, which is in reality the young of the pilchard.

Oil and Guano Factories.—Prior to the experimental work of the Fisheries Department in 1908, the amount of Sardine oil produced on the West Coast was inconsiderable and of the worst possible quality. The usual method was to obtain the oil by the putrefaction of a mass of sardines contained in a worn out and filthy dug-out canoe. It was also a wasteful process, for the proteid and other residue were thrown into the sea. Similarly, when fertilizer was made from sardines, the ancient and accepted procedure was to spread the sardines on the sand of the open beach, and so dry them in the sun. This had two drawbacks—large quantities of valuable oil, of no manurial value, were wasted, and the product became so highly impregnated with sand that analysis not infrequently showed the resultant mass to contain as much as 40 per cent of this useless adulterant.

The experiments made by the department had unexampled and swift success. It was found that a simple and quite inexpensive plant could be devised to separate the oil and fertilizer effectively and profitably. The high quality of the oil and fertilizer ("fish guano" as it is now known technically) reacted favourably upon prices, and has rendered this new industry so profitable that literally hundreds of small factories have come into existence. In this case the demonstrations the department was able to give were so conclusive financially, that the small capitalists of the West Coast rushed to share in the big profits that were being made by those first in the field. At the close of the 1919-20 fishery year the number had reached the amazing total of 563. The estimate of their production for the same season was 24,000 tons of fish-guano valued at Rs. 100 per ton, the value of the oil manufactured being about Rs. 3,75,000—the two together amounting to 27½ lakhs—a very satisfactory result. A further advance has again been made during the past two years whereby it appears likely that much of the material now used as fertilizer will eventually be utilized more profitably as a feeding stuff for domestic animals. Success has already been obtained in producing high class fish-meals from all the common fishes found plentiful on the West Coast, particularly mackerel and sardines. Those who have tried these meals for cattle, pigs, dogs, and poultry speak highly of them when employed in proper proportions with a greater bulk of starchy foods. It now remains to produce them in larger quantities and to introduce them widely to the notice of the Indian public. In Europe and America the high nutritive value of these meals is recognized and the fish-meal trade there is assuming large and important proportions.

Beche-de-mer.—This minor industry, which consists of the curing of the thick body wall of a species of sea cucumber (Holothurian), had virtually died out some years ago when this department's attention was drawn to its decay. An investigation was made and experiments carried out as detailed in Report No. 4 of Fisheries Bulletin, Volume XI. It now constitutes an integral section of the department's operations in Palk Bay and affords a welcome addition to the income of the chank-divers of that locality. In 1919-20, the total dried production was 6,245 lbs. The whole of this eventually finds its way to Singapore and thence to China.

Technical and scientific investigation. Apart from researches directly connected with the industrial branch, investigations covering a wide field, and continuous since the beginning of operations, upon zoological and oceanographic subjects have been carried on to considerable extent. The department has published a large number of bulletins embodying the results of its investigations, the range of subject matter dealt with in them being varied and extensive, and not confined to purely technical subjects.

Education of the fisher-folk.—The department has a comprehensive scheme for the education and betterment of the fisher men. Up to now, it has opened 18 day and 9 night elementary schools for them. To provide teachers with qualifications specially suited to fisher school training an Institut. has been established at Calicut, where 36 stipendiary students are now undergoing training. There are 60 Fishermen's Co-operative Societies at work, the majority of them being thrift organisations engaged in loan operations.

Anti-Malarial operations.—These form a very valuable part of the work of the fisheries department, and consist of three separate phases, viz—

(a) The breeding and distribution of mosquito larvicidal fishes to municipalities and other bodies.

(b) The periodical stocking of pools in specially malarious localities with such larvicides.

(c) The conversion of mosquito-infested sheets of water into fish-breeding ponds which also serve the purpose of fry distribution centres for the stocking of irrigation tanks.

Cost of the Department.—The staff of the department consists of a Director, 2 Assistant Directors, a Superintendent of Pearl and Chank Fisheries, a Personal Assistant to the Director, 9 Sub-Assistants and a further subordinate staff of 44, exclusive of peons and temporary hands and the crews of the small fleet operated by the department.

The revenue of the department nearly balances expenditure. The figures for the past four years are as follows:

	Revenue.			Expenditure.
	RS.	A.	P.	RS.	A.	P.
1917-18 ..	2,26,830	2	5	2,20,049	7	2
1918-19 ..	2,77,145	0	11	2,35,118	12	11

Even though there is a small adverse balance, it must be borne in mind that the expenditure includes a large non-productive outlay for educational purposes.

Brief history of the Madras forests.—The area of forests under the administration of the Madras Forest Department is roughly about 20,000 square miles, scattered over the twenty-five districts into which the Madras Presidency is divided. In addition to this area there is also a considerable extent of forest belonging to the feudatory states, Travancore, Cochin and others or within the large zamindaris, Jeypore, Venkatarigiri for example, most of which is now administered by officers trained at Dehra Dun or Coimbatore.

In early days nearly the whole of the Madras Presidency must have been a forest-clad country, with cultivation confined to a narrow strip along the coast and to the sides of the great rivers. Even in historic times the proportion of forest to cultivated land was probably higher than in most parts of the peninsula. Madras escaped the invasion of nomadic tribes whose flocks and herds destroyed so large an area in Upper India, and owing to the mountainous and unhealthy character of so large a portion of it, the forests were left comparatively unpopulated.

During the early years of British occupation the Government, following the practice of Indian rulers, encouraged in every way the increase of cultivation at the expense of the forests and the boundaries of the latter were gradually pushed back towards the hills and mountains, to which they are now chiefly confined.

The hills had already been invaded by the aboriginal or semi-aboriginal tribes retreating under pressure of competition with the more civilized people of the plains and large areas of hill forest were devoted to a form of shifting cultivation, the principal feature of which is the felling and burning of the forest for the sake of a temporary crop on the otherwise uncultivable hill slopes. Such was the gradually increasing destruction of forest, that in the early part of the nineteenth century the British Government became seriously concerned with the lack of timber, especially teak, for ship-building and construction, and various spasmodic efforts were made to conserve the more valuable forests. But it was not until a good many years later, that the importance of forests from the general economic point of view began to be realized, not until the deputation of Sir Dietrich Brandis, the then Inspector-General of Forests, to report upon the subject, that any definite forest policy was established. Dr Brandis visited the Presidency in 1883 and, as the result of his detailed inspections, certain broad lines of treatment were recommended and have since been adopted, subject to such modifications as experience showed to be necessary.

The action of forests in raising the sub-soil water-level, in protecting the water-supply and preventing floods, and in mitigating the effects of intense heat was admitted; while their value as a permanent source of timber, fuel and cattle food to an agricultural population was also fully realized. The policy adopted was to conserve and as far as possible improve the forests, especially on mountain and hill slopes, where forest growth can exert its greatest influence on local economic conditions and to manage them both as a source of revenue to Government and for the general benefit of the agricultural population.

It was necessary at the start to introduce an Act, under which the selection and resettlement of the very large area of forest required to carry out this policy would be given a legal status. It was also necessary to introduce a staff of officers trained in European forestry to manage the area so selected on sylvicultural lines. Dr. Brandis' recommendations on these points were accepted and the introduction of the present Forest Department and of the technical management of the State forests may be said to date from 1884.

Reserved forests—At the present time the total area of finally settled and reserved forests in the Presidency amounts to about 19,000 square miles, to which may be added about 750 square miles of leased forests, under the more or less permanent control of Government and 400 square miles of forest in remote localities which remain to be finally settled and reserved.

The following data may be of interest in showing the progress of the work.—

* 137 leased forests.

Exploitation of the timber forests—The timber forests of the Presidency have been but lightly worked since the department was reorganized, chiefly because most of them were left in a very degraded condition by the heavy felling and subsequent want of protection which characterised the earlier forest operations, and partly because they were ill-provided with means of exploitation and the energies of the department were otherwise employed.

The following figures, which do not include the amount of timber sold standing in the forest to contractors, show the quantity of timber which has been put on the market.—

Years.	Cubic feet or	Tons approximately.
1895-96 ...	245,646	4,000
1905-06 ...	655,211	11,000
1915-16 ...	617,851	10,000
1921-22 ...	833,000	13,900

With reference to the enormous area of forest the yield is extremely small, and until really effective conservancy is obtained, annual forest fires in particular are prevented, and the forests generally opened out, there is no possibility of a large increase.

The supply of forest produce to the people.—The people's requirements in the matter of forest produce are many and varied. Small timber for building, furniture, carts and agricultural implements, firewood for household consumption, brick-making, sugarcane boiling and other purposes; leaves and branches for manuring their wet cultivation; bamboos for baskets, matting, roofing and water-carriers; honey, roots, tubers, fruits and many miscellaneous forest products for domestic use. Of all these demands, that for small timber and firewood is by far the most important. In the absence of any more practical method of supply during the early days of the department the permit-system was generally in vogue.

But this system and the other systems tried later were found to have many drawbacks.

The final solution was gradually found by the introduction of forest contractors who undertook the felling and conversion in the forest and sold to dealers in the town and villagers, and this system is now universally in force, provided forest contractors can be obtained except where sale prices have been unduly inflated, or it is desirable to provide the hill tribes with forest work to keep them out of mischief.

The supply of small timber and fuel still continues to be much less than the demand. The forests nearest to the markets have generally been more or less denuded and difficulties of transport cause the price of produce from the more distant forests to rise beyond the villagers' purse. The systematic and gradual improvement of the nearer forests and the opening up of the remoter forests are works on which the department will in future be deeply engaged. The following statistics indicate the progress of supply:—

Classification of forests—During the last few years the department has been engaged in a classification of the State forests as a first step to deciding on the general methods of future management. A special committee appointed in 1912 to consider the whole future treatment of village forests came to the conclusion that existing forest management was based on no clear objective and recommended a classification of the whole of the State forests to be followed by a clear enunciation of the method and object of treatment of each class of forest and of the agency by which it was to be managed.

In accordance with the Committee's recommendations the forests have now been classified, subject to revision in some cases, in the following manner—

Class I.—Seven thousand nine hundred and thirteen square miles of reserves to be preserved mainly for climatic purposes and for the protection of water sources.

Class II.—Six thousand four hundred and eighty-eight square miles of the more valuable forests from which together with those of Class I the bulk of the timber and fuel supply has to be met.

Class III.—Thirty seven square miles of fuel plantations

Class IV.—Three thousand one hundred and sixty-seven square miles of village forest, which are available for the supply of small timber and fuel as well as for grazing to the villages and in which limitation of both felling and of grazing must be enforced if they are not to steadily deteriorate.

Class V.—One thousand two hundred and eighteen square miles of village forest, which owing to want of protection in the past are now in a state from which they can hardly recover but are still valuable and with some little care should always remain so for grazing purposes during part of the year

Class VI.—Twenty-eight square miles of small isolated forests, so barren of growth and impossible of improvement that they are of no present or future value.

Under this classification classes I and II forests aggregating 14,401 square miles will always remain under the direct control of the department and will be managed on silvicultural principles for the control of water sources and for the supply of timber and fuel. Such of these forests as are adjacent to villages and cultivation will provide for the requirements of local village cattle but grazing will be subordinated to silvicultural considerations

Class III forests are mainly plantations which originated in the demand of towns and villages on the coast for fuel. They are now being sold. They have served the purpose of showing how plantations can be formed and worked at a profit, but their management detracts the attention of the department from the more important natural forests, and their future development can be left to private enterprise.

Classes IV and V forests, aggregating 4,385 square miles, are the true village forests, often small in area and more or less surrounded by cultivation. They are a very valuable asset in the economy of the agriculturist as they provide so many of his simple wants; but their management has always been difficult and chronic cause of friction between the people and the department. The ideal is ultimately to hand over the whole of these forests to be managed by the villagers for the general benefit of the village, but so difficult is it to foster the communal spirit and so indifferent is the ryot to the future if he can only provide for the present that the process can only be gradual.

Up to the present date it has been found possible to place about 535 square miles of forest under the control of forest panchayats. The experiment is still in its infancy and while in some cases the transfer has been followed by increased destruction and a retransfer to Government control has been necessary, in others there has been success in varying degree. The only hope of final success lies in a steadily applied pressure and a refusal to be discouraged. A new organization for the management of panchayats has now been formed to work directly under the Chief Conservator.

The Organization of the Forest Department—The department is divided into four main branches as follows:—

The Administrative Branch consisting in the first place of officers of the Imperial Forest Service recruited and trained in Europe and those promoted from the Madras Forest Service and holding the posts of Chief Conservator (1), Conservators (6) and of Deputy and Assistant Conservators (51) and secondly, of officers of the Madras Forest Service recruited in India and trained at the Dehra Dun Forest College, who hold 42 posts of Extra Assistant Conservators

The Executive Branch consisting of about 207 trained either at the Rangers' School at Dehra Dun or in later years at the Madras Forest College at Coimbatore.

The Protective Branch consisting of about 814 foresters and 2,598 forest guards who within recent years have been taught the elements of forest work at vernacular training schools established at local centres of forest work.

The Clerical Branch providing the managers, head clerks and office staffs for the various administrative and executive officers, as well as gumastas, depot clerks and others employed in connexion with forest exploitation.

The Imperial Service officers are recruited from graduates at English Universities who have to spend two years in special forest training, partly on the continent Europe of after taking their science degree

The Madras Forest Service is recruited from the more highly educated Indians and Anglo-Indians and its members are trained at Government's expense except in such cases as they are directly promoted from the executive branch.

For administrative purposes the Presidency is divided into six "circles" to each of which a Conservator is attached. He is the head of the Forest department within his circle and advisor to Government on all forest matters within it. Under him are the divisional forest officers who are Deputy or Assistant Conservators or members of the Madras Forest Service and have charge of the whole or part of the forests within a revenue district. The divisional forest area is divided into "ranges" in executive charge of Rangers while the ranges are divided into "beats" in charge of Foresters and forest guards responsible for the protection of the forests within them. In addition to the above permanent and pensionable grades of the forest service there is a large staff of quasi-permanent but non-pensionable subordinates, such as elephant and cattle men, plantation and forest watchers, gardeners and so forth.

At the head of the whole department is the Chief Conservator of Forests; and closely connected with all the activities of the department is the Collector who, as head of the district, exerts considerable influence and authority on all forest matters within it.

In accordance with the general policy of the Reforms, a non-official Forest Advisory Committee consisting of members of the Madras Legislative Council under the presidency of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Forest portfolio was appointed during the year.

The functions of the Committee are partly to keep the Government in touch with non-official opinion of the working of the Forest Department, and partly to provide a channel through which the motives which inspire the Government forest administration may be communicated to the general public. The Committee met on several occasions during the year, at which the resolutions to be brought forward on forest matters at the Legislative Council were discussed together with general questions of policy. In addition to this general Advisory Committee, a special committee was appointed consisting of three members of the Legislative Council in Coimbatore and of the local Conservator of Forests, to examine with the Chief Conservator of Forests various forest questions in that district.

The recommendations of this committee were accepted by Government and have since been given effect to. It is probable that similar local committees will be appointed from time to time as they serve a very useful purpose of bringing the officers of the Forest Department and the leaders of local public opinion into closer touch and understanding.

Development.—The Russellkonda Saw-Mill which was established to bring the timber from the Ghumsur Saw-Mill to market started work in April last, but owing to difficulties of training the local labour and general inexperience of this class of work, it has not yet reached its full working capacity. A sufficient stock of sawn material has been accumulated with which to get a foothold in the larger markets and the Managing Agents are hopeful of placing on the market considerable quantities of sawn material at an early date.

The Chenai Nair development scheme has progressed since the previous year. Roads and buildings and the siding at the Railway station are complete. Larger quantities of timber are being despatched to the Kolar Gold Fields. Local sales are being effected of both timber and firewood. The whole of this scheme has been under examination by a special officer from the Auditor-General's department who has drawn up a profit and loss and a capital account up to 31st March 1922 and has prescribed a system of commercial accounting to be adopted in future.

It remains now to take this scheme out of the ordinary routine of forest operations and to place it upon a commercial basis. The question is still under consideration by the Government.

During the last year the whole question of the future development of the timber resources of the Presidency was under close examination by Government and they have recently sanctioned proposals made by the Chief Conservator for the formation of a special Engineering and Utilization branch of the department. It is however accepted that forest development opens up such wide possibilities, introduce so many unknown factors, involves so large an expenditure of money and is so different from most of the work which the Forest Department has undertaken during the last 30 years, that it is inadvisable to proceed without obtaining the assistance of the best expert advice available. Until this advice is available and schemes can be put up to Government in a complete form both from the engineering, commercial and finance point of view, it is undesirable to attempt rapid progress.

The figures below are useful in showing what great scope for development really exists —

Budget allotment for the year 1922-23 Rs. 45,422

* Staff—Class I (Nil), Class II (1), Class III (Nil), Class IV (4), Class V (7); Class VI (56).

Origin.—The idea of opening a museum in Madras was suggested to the Government in 1843 by the Madras Literary Society and the Auxiliary of the Royal Asiatic Society. About the same time proposals were also submitted by General Cullen for the establishment of small museums in the various Collectorates to be placed under the care of the Collector, the Medical Officer and Engineer, in which specimens of local economic products would be exhibited. These suggestions were approved by the Court of Directors in 1846, and the Literary Society presented a small collection, consisting chiefly of geological specimens, to form the nucleus of the proposed Central Museum.

Central Museum.—The Central Museum was not, however, started till 1851, the year of the Great Exhibition, when a general collection was brought together in the College of Fort St. George, and the Government invited the co-operation of the public in its development. It was described as a museum of practical or economic geology and of natural history, and was placed in charge of Dr. Edward Balfour, then a Surgeon in the Madras Army.

In 1854 the Central Museum was moved from the Fort St. George to the situation which it now occupies in the Pantheon Road. The Pantheon or Old Assembly Room of Madras, the scene of balls, concerts and theatricals in bygone days, was adapted for its new function, and in course of time added to; at the present day only the central part of the ground floor of the old building marks the former Pantheon.

Local museums—Local museums were started, in 1855, at Bellary, Coimbatore, Cuddalore, Mangalore, Ootacamund and Rajahmundry. None of these seemed to have attained any importance and they had but a short existence, ultimately dying a natural death, chiefly from want of skilled supervision. In spite of the disappearance of the local museums, the Madras Museum was long known as the Central Museum.

The Madras Museum till 1885—Dr. Balfour, well known as the author of the "Encyclopaedia of India," a work which passed through several editions, was in charge of the museum during the first nine years of its existence. Dr. Balfour was succeeded by Capt. J. Mitchell, formerly in command of the Madras Mounted Police, who remained in charge till his death in 1872. Dr. George Bidie of the Madras Medical Department, was appointed in succession to Capt. Mitchell, and continued as Superintendent till the appointment of Mr. Thurston in 1885. Dr. Bidie who published numerous works chiefly on botany and numismatics, retired from India as Surgeon-General, Madras, in 1890.

Under Mr. Edgar Thurston.—Neither Dr. Balfour nor Dr. Bidie was permitted to devote the whole of his time to the work of the museum, but in 1885, while Sir M. E. Grant Duff was Governor of Madras, it was decided to appoint a full time Superintendent. Mr. Edgar Thurston, previously in charge of King's College Museum, London, was accordingly appointed and continued in charge till his retirement in July 1910. During his period of administration the museum had undergone great development in every direction, and in particular, the addition of the Connemara Public Library and the New Building in 1896, has greatly increased both the size and the scope of the institution. To his enthusiasm and discrimination the extent and the arrangement of the collection are due; in his writings, more particularly those relating to anthropology and numismatics he has left an enduring record of his work.

Dr Henderson—He was succeeded by Dr. J. R. Henderson, C.I.E., as permanent Superintendent in April 1910 who occupied the post with marked distinction and success until 1919. During his time the Archaeological gallery which was in disorder for want of space, underwent thorough re-organization into three different sections, Jain, Buddhist and Hindu. Numerous additions were made to the specimens from time to time, to accommodate which further extensions were made both to the old and new Buildings, thus developing the Economic Products, Prehistoric Arms and Ethnological galleries. A special feature of his administration was the introduction of descriptive labels which serve as useful guides to the visitors. He also extended the educational utility of the Museum by starting a system of demonstrations to teachers and students in the schools of the city which has since been continued. During his period, the Scientific staff was strengthened by the appointments of Zoological and Archaeological Assistants, as previously the Botanical Assistant was the only member of the staff available for scientific work.

Scope of the museum—As regards the scope of the museum, the exhibits were not, till Mr Thurston's time, restricted to the Madras Presidency or even to India. Mr Thurston, however, enunciated a definite policy in his first Annual Report and determined to devote his entire attention to the natural history, arts, ethnology, manufactures and raw products of Southern India, a policy which has since been steadily pursued, with the result that the museum now contains excellent collections representative of South India, for comparison with which small typical collections from other parts are being obtained as opportunity occurs.

Museum buildings—The museum consists of what are termed the Old and New Buildings, with the Connemara Public Library intervening. In the old building are housed the Zoological, Botanical, Archaeological and Economic sections. The new building contains the art, industrial and ethnological collections, also the Museum Theatre, hitherto chiefly used for amateur theatricals and concerts.

Visitors—The Museum is open daily, except on Fridays, from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., throughout the year, and admission is at all times free. The first Saturday of each month after 12 noon, is set apart as Gosha day, when only women and children are admitted, and the gallerists are in charge of women attendants. The total number of visitors in the year has averaged nearly 307,000 for the last five years. On the Hindu festivals of Dwadas and Kattu Pongal the Museum is visited by large crowds of visitors.

Demonstration and research—Every year the collections are enriched by new additions to the several departments. To this end the Superintendent and the Assistants proceed on tour to places of particular interest. The investigation and arrangement of the collections added to from time to time forms a large part of the daily work of the institution. This includes the preparation of detailed and descriptive catalogues of the exhibits, thus enhancing their value to the public. Demonstrations are also given to the teachers and students of secondary schools in the city by the Superintendent and the Assistants, thus imparting education through the medium of the exhibits and enhancing the educative value of the Museum. Facilities are also given to research students to work in the Museum on special lines of study in which they are interested.

* Staff—Class I (Nil), Class II (4), Class III (1), Class IV (12); Class V (1,534); Class VI (101).

History—The Government Press originated in the year 1831. Prior to that date Government printing, by the order of Lord Clive in 1800, was produced by the Madras Male Asylum Press, who also published, under special arrangements, an official and general newspaper called the "Government Gazette." In the year first mentioned the monopoly of the Asylum Press was terminated and Government printing was divided among various private firms. The Fort St. George Gazette Press was at the same time opened in the Government Office, Fort St. George, and the first number of the new Gazette issued on January 4th, 1832. In 1859 the press which had been maintained by the Board of Revenue to print their proceedings was amalgamated with the Fort St. George Gazette Press. A Commission for investigating public establishments then found that economy was shown by printing work in the Government Press, and from that date work was gradually withdrawn from private firms. Surplus work which could not be dealt with was in later years entrusted to the Male Asylum Press, which eventually amalgamated with the Lawrence Asylum. The year 1861 is notable for the introduction of a piece-work scale of pay for compositors, the Madras press being the first Government Press to introduce the system afterwards adopted by all the principal Government Presses in India. In 1868 a small branch press was formed at the Penitentiary, where 360 convicts are employed at present. Between 1855 and 1859 district presses were established to supplant manuscript copying at all Collectors' headquarters. District Gazettes were issued for the first time in 1856-57. Railway communications having been improved, and the printing of forms having been standardized and systematized, the convenience of the district presses diminished. Much of the printing work was ordered to be centralized in Madras, and the classes of matter published in the District Gazettes restricted. In 1917, as a measure of economy, twenty district presses were abolished, and their work transferred to the Madras Press. The Jail Presses at Vellore, Coimbatore and Cannanore are retained to employ convict labour, also the Collectorate Press at Ganjam, on account of its distance from Madras City and its singularity in the use of the Oriya vernacular. The Ootacamund Branch Press opened in 1905, works as a distinct press for the greater part of the year, and by a temporary transfer of establishment is enabled to deal with Secretariat work while Government are on the Hills. Up to the year 1888, the Government Press was located on the ground floor of the Government Office in the Fort, when more spacious accommodation was found in a portion of the old Mint Buildings vacated by the Army Clothing Depot. Owing to increasing congestion and the inconvenient arrangement of the Mint premises, plans for the construction of a new Government Central Press were prepared and approved in 1912. But about that time opportunity was afforded to acquire, at a cost of three lakhs of rupees, the plant and premises of the Lawrence Asylum Press in Mount Road, and this transaction was carried through in preference to the construction of a new building. To the Mount Road Branch thus established were transferred the sale depot for books and publications, the book-work printing and binding sections, with a portion of the forms work and District Gazettes to equalize the general pressure and flow of work in the various branches. In 1912 the Press started the manufacture of all rubber stamps required for Government offices. The introduction of the Reforms in 1920 brought very heavy work to the Press, especially in the vernacular sections, and about 15,500 pages of the first electoral rolls with all other printed election matter, was produced for the first general election. At the beginning of 1923 the Press was called upon to take over the major portion of the High Court printing, which, from 1862, had been in the hands of a private contractor. This necessitated the engagement of additional staff.

Present developments.—At the present time the Government Press with its branches in Madras City employs a staff of 1,655 men and in addition provides a task for 360 convicts. The Press occupies a floor space of 123,000 sq. feet, has its own mechanical and electrical engineering and carpentry shops, and a large well-equipped type foundry. The present value of the plant and machinery has been computed recently at over thirteen and a half lakhs of rupees, and comprises among main items over 800 tons of type and printing metal, 103 power printing machines, 40 hand-presses, 184 binding machines, 4 multiple magazine linotype machines, 45 electric motors, a 40 horse-power suction gas plant with engine and dynamo, 19 type casting machines including 8 high speed Foucher typesetters, 11,085 punches, 18,011 matrices, and 37 other machines.

Health and Medical Relief.

Public Health Department.

Budget allotment for 1922-23 Rs. 25,62,500.

* Staff.—Class I (2), Class II (4), Class III (9, of whom 8 are temporary); Class IV (30); Class V (189 of whom 43 are temporary), Class VI (161 of whom 5 are temporary).

Origin.—Since the year 1908, when the Government of India first made large grants in aid of sanitation, much progress has been made in improving the health conditions of the Presidency. The local and municipal Conferences held in the years 1920, 1921 and 1922 which have become a feature of public activity in this Presidency have served to focus and intensify the interest in sanitary affairs taken by officials as well as by the public generally. The demand for purer water, efficient drainage and other Sanitary improvement now makes itself constantly heard through the Press and the platform.

Public Health administration in Madras.—The public health administration in this Presidency is almost entirely vested in the various local bodies, viz., Municipalities, District Boards, Taluk Boards and Union Boards. The law affecting public health is to be found in the Local Boards Act, the District Municipalities Act, the Madras City Municipal A.t, the Towns Nuisances Act, the Epidemic Diseases Act and the Registration of Births and Deaths Act. These provide for the construction and maintenance of major sanitary works, such as water-supply and drainage, for all minor works such as markets, slaughter-houses for conservancy and lighting arrangements, for the training and employment of medical and sanitary officers and vaccinators for the control of epidemics, for the accurate registration of vital statistics and in short for all the numerous matters that go to make up sanitary administration in the Presidency.

Limitations—The progress of sanitary improvement is necessarily limited by the financial resources of these local bodies, which even when supplemented by Government grants, are of a limited and inelastic character and by the level of sanitary knowledge among the people, which can only be raised by vigorous propaganda work. Many of the provisions of sanitary law are therefore seldom enforced in practice, for example, those relating to the filling up of insanitary pools, the indiscriminate use of tanks for bathing, washing and drinking purposes, the use of open fields and river and tank bunds as latrines, and the removal of burial and burning grounds from the banks of rivers or the foreshore of tanks. For the same reason compulsory vaccination and compulsory registration of births and deaths are in force only in certain selected areas.

Sanitary staff in urban areas—The machinery employed for the sanitary administration of the Presidency has been considerably strengthened during the last two years and will be still further strengthened from 1st April 1923. Every Municipality has a certain number of Sanitary Inspectors under whose control and supervision a staff of scavengers and sweepers is employed. In ten Municipalities, the sanitary staff is directly under the control of a trained Health Officer who is responsible for the public health administration of the Municipality, and on whose initiative and practical common sense will depend the future permanent improvement of the towns. To advise them and keep in touch with the larger aspects of sanitary administration, three Assistant Directors of Public Health stationed at Waltair, Madras and Coimbatore respectively, are employed by Government and these officers are required to inspect the Municipalities in their charge periodically and advise the Municipal Councils on all matters connected with public health.

In rural areas.—In rural areas, chiefly from financial reasons, the sanitary system is not so well developed. Sanitary Inspectors are employed in some Union villages and a number of itinerating Sanitary Inspectors are employed by a few Taluk Boards and District Boards. As a rule, however, except the District Medical and Sanitary Officer, there is no qualified supervising officer to control their activities or to inaugurate and carry out new sanitary schemes. District Medical and Sanitary Officers obviously do not have sufficient time to give to this branch of their duties and some District Boards have in past years employed Sanitary Assistants. These have not been very successful and with the awakening consciousness of the people, the need for a thorough reorganization of public health administration in rural areas has been keenly felt.

New scheme.—Last year in the five districts of Vizagapatam, Kistna, Kurnool, Tanjore and Trichinopoly, a self-contained public health staff has been constituted experimentally under the control of a District Health Officer, who is a properly qualified medical officer with public health experience and qualifications. The District Sanitary Inspectors and District Deputy Inspectors of Vaccination who are also trained Sanitary Inspectors formed the District Health staff.

District Health officers—The duties of the District Health Officer and his staff are:—

- (a) to relieve District Medical and Sanitary Officer of all public health duties in the rural areas of his district.
- (b) the investigation and control of all outbreaks of communicable disease in rural areas.
- (c) the supervision of all vaccination and other protective inoculations hitherto attended to by a special staff.
- (d) the supervision of the registration of vital statistics which should thus be made more detailed and much more accurate than at present

(e) the drafting of plans and estimates for simple sanitary projects and taking steps to remedy defects in village drainage and water supplies.

(f) Propaganda. This would be a very important part of the activities of the health staff. Lantern lectures, Cinema lectures and demonstrations run more or less on American lines, should play an important part.

(g) In the event of outbreak of cholera, plague or malaria, the disinfection of watersupplies, etc., rat destruction and plague inoculation, mosquito-reduction and the distribution of quinine, would be undertaken by the Public Health staff

(h) Hookworm infestation and other such parasitic infection would be dealt with

(i) the staff would work in co-operation with the staffs of neighbouring districts, the interchange of notification of outbreak of infectious disease receiving attention at the earliest possible opportunity.

(j) in the event of the appearance of infectious disease of a serious nature, the most strenuous efforts would be made to localize the spread with the aid, when necessary, of the staffs of adjoining districts

Progress of the scheme—The experiment in the five districts mentioned above has worked successfully and Government have ordered that it should be introduced in every district except the Nilgiris from 1st April 1923. During the past two years Government have trained a number of Assistant Surgeons as Health Officers who will be posted to as District Health Officers and the new scheme detailed above is expected to improve matters very considerably. At the head of the Public Health Department is the Director of Public Health who is an I.M.S. officer with public health experience. As recently as 1914, the Public Health Department (Sanitary Department as it was then called) consisted of a Sanitary Commissioner (now Director of Public Health) and one

Deputy Sanitary Commissioner (now Assistant Director of Public Health) whose main duties were those of an Inspector of Vaccination. Later, two additional Deputy Sanitary Commissioners were sanctioned and the Presidency was divided into three ranges—Northern, Central and Southern, the headquarters of these being fixed at Waltair, Madras and Coimbatore respectively. In 1920, one of the three permanent Deputy Sanitary Commissioners was placed on special duty for the inspection and management of fairs and festivals in the Presidency and a fourth (temporary) Deputy Sanitary Commissioner was thus appointed to his place. The importance of the relation of accurate vital statistics to preventive medicine being recognized, a fifth Deputy Sanitary Commissioner was appointed to be in entire charge of this branch of the administration and to devote his whole time to the examination of vital statistics in different districts of the Presidency. Want of funds alone prevented the appointment of a sixth Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, who is essential to carry out special investigations in connexion with cholera, plague, malaria, small-pox, etc., and generally to make intensive enquiries regarding the epidemiology of preventable diseases throughout the Presidency.

Subordinate staff.—As regards the subordinate staff, for cholera work, Government have for some years maintained eight (three permanent and five temporary) cholera parties paid for from Provincial funds. Three of the temporary cholera parties went to form the five District Health parties. There is a separate staff of 106 Deputy Inspectors of Vaccination, all qualified Sanitary Inspectors, paid by Government who attend solely to vaccination work in the districts. In districts exposed to plague infection a staff of Plague Inspectors is employed at the cost partly of Government and partly of the local boards. After the introduction of the "Health Scheme", there will be no need for these separate staff. All will be combined in the District Health staff which will work under the supervision and control of the District Health Officer in the health scheme which has been introduced in every district from 1st April 1923

Director of Public Health—The Director of Public Health is the adviser to Government on all public health matters. Till very recently, he had no voice in the public health administration in the Madras City, but Government have now ordered that the Health Officer, Corporation of Madras should consult the Director of Public Health in all public health matters and obtain his advice.

Recruitment.—The department is entirely provincial in character and after the passing of the Reform Act is under the direct control of Government in the Ministry of Local Self-Government Department. Its personnel is composed partly of IMS officers and partly of others. Candidates for appointment as Assistant Directors of Public Health must have put in five years practical and approved service as First-class Health Officers and must obtain a British Diploma in Public Health before confirmation. The pay of the Director of Public Health and the Assistant Directors of Public Health are fixed as follows —

	RS.
Director of Public Health...	2,100-2,400
Assistant Directors of Public Health	600-1,200

Sanitary training—The training of the sanitary staff is a matter of great importance and classes for the training of Health Officers and of candidates for the B.S.Sc. degree of the Madras University are held annually in the Medical College. For Sanitary Inspectors' training, classes are held annually in the Medical College from July to December in Animal Physiology and Hygiene and in the Sanitary Engineer's office in Minor Sanitary Engineering. A class for the training of I class vaccinators is held at the King Institute, Guindy and practical training in vaccination is given to the men at the Corporation Vaccination depots in Madras. In addition, the Sanitary Inspectors are required to undergo every five years a revision course in advanced Hygiene and Minor Sanitary Engineering and must pass an examination after the course. This ensures that the Sanitary Inspectors' knowledge of Hygiene is kept up-to-date.

Medical relief by local bodies.—Under the existing laws and regulations in force in the Madras Presidency, medical relief is mainly a function of Local Boards and Municipalities, in the areas which come within the jurisdiction of these bodies.

Paragraph 44 of the Madras District Municipalities Act V of 1920 states that—

“That Municipal Council shall provide and maintain either from endowments or from the municipal funds or by grants-in-aid therefrom, in accordance with such rules as may from time to time be prescribed by the Governor in Council, a hospital or dispensary where the sick poor of the Municipality shall be entitled to receive medical and surgical advice and treatment free of charge, and the Council shall provide and maintain more than one such hospital or dispensary if the Governor in Council directs it to do so” and

Paragraph 112 of the Madras Local Boards Act XIV of 1920 states that—“The purposes to which the moneys received under this Act may be applied are—

* * *

The construction and maintenance of hospitals and dispensaries, etc.”

Hospitals classified—Medical aid in the Madras Presidency is in practice rendered by means of hospitals, dispensaries and special institutions which are of three main descriptions, viz.—

(1) those financed, staffed and controlled entirely by Government, these are mainly medical institutions in the City of Madras and hospitals at the head-quarter station of each district.

(2) those financed and controlled by Local Boards and Municipalities of the Presidency with medical staff lent to them by Government and with the aid of monetary grants and contributions paid to them by Government on certain fixed principles.

(3) Missionary institutions which are financially aided by Government, and Missionary institutions which work independently of Government help

The total number of Government, Local Fund, Municipal, Missionary aided and non-aided, and Railway hospitals and dispensaries, including those in Madras City, i.e., the total number of medical institutions of all descriptions which were at work in this Presidency on the 31st December 1921 was 742. The number of hospitals and dispensaries belonging to the above four categories was as follows—

Government institutions 78, Local Fund and Municipal 532, Missionary aided and non-aided 85, and Railway dispensaries 47. Out of the total of 742 hospitals and dispensaries, 43 were exclusively for the use of women and children. The total population of this Presidency according to the latest census returns is 20,870,749 males and 21,448,236 females. Excluding the institutions in Madras City which is naturally well served with hospitals and dispensaries, the extent of medical relief available in the several districts of the Madras Presidency with reference to area and population works out as follows—

Inadequacy of medical relief—These statistics prove that the number of medical institutions available for rendering medical aid to the population in the rural parts of the Presidency is very inadequate, especially so is this the case as regards the medical relief available for women and children who will not for obvious reasons resort to institutions in charge of male doctors. This inadequacy in the matter of medical relief has been fully recognized by Government who have for many years been endeavouring to increase the number of hospitals and dispensaries in the rural areas of this Presidency. In addition to supplying the trained medical staff for working the hospitals and dispensaries of this Presidency and maintaining a Central Medical Store Depot which stocks and supplies the drugs and equipment which are necessary for rendering medical aid, the Government have tried to stimulate the extension of medical relief by giving monetary grants to Local Bodies for opening new dispensaries, in places where there are none at present, the contributions being distributed on certain fixed principles laid down by Government, from time to time. The present financial crises brought about by the War has, however, handicapped Government in various directions, and it may not be possible for them to extend financial aid to Local Bodies to any great extent for some time. The Government, however, have under consideration a scheme by means of which the existing hospitals and dispensaries in the mufassal may be utilized to better advantage by the people. The medical subordinates in charge of dispensaries in rural areas who have not full-time work for a day will, under the scheme, be deputed to visit outlying villages, which have at present no medical aid at all. The existing hospitals and dispensaries will also under this scheme be redistributed so that there may be equalization of medical aid in rural areas. It is also the intention of Government, eventually to take over the administration of important hospitals at Taluk headquarters and make them into model institutions. It is further proposed to classify all the medical institutions into various categories, fix the staff and equipment which will be necessary for each class and give the Local Boards a fixed rate of contribution according to the class of dispensary which they maintain at each station. These arrangements will, it is hoped, improve the existing conditions of medical relief.

Medical aid in the Madras City.—As stated above, the Madras City being the headquarters of the Government is naturally very well served with medical institutions. There were in the Madras City during the year 1921, twenty-two medical institutions at work, of which four were intended for the treatment of the diseases of women and children. The above figures include ten dispensaries maintained by the Corporation of Madras which also contributed a sum of Rs. 28,824 towards the institutions run at Government expense. The Government General Hospital, the Government Rayapuram Hospital recently reconstructed and equipped on up-to-date lines, and the Government Royapetta Hospital are the three big hospitals for the treatment of general diseases; there are also special institutions at work in the City of Madras. The construction of the Government General Hospital, Madras, on modern lines on the Spur Tank has had to be indefinitely postponed on account of the present financial crisis. Meanwhile, the Government are endeavouring by effecting improvements, to bring the existing General Hospital up to the required standard. The other special institutions at work in the Madras City are the Government Maternity Hospital (including the Giffard School of Midwifery) acknowledged to be the finest hospital for Midwifery and Gynaecological treatment in the East, the Government Ophthalmic Hospital which is also second to none in India, and the Government Leper Asylum at Tondiarpet. The New Leper Asylum which the Government propose to construct outside the municipal limits will be on the principle of a leper colony and will adopt the new acknowledged methods of treating this disease. The Government also maintain a Lunatic Asylum (or what should now be termed a "Mental Hospital") in Madras and two other Government Lunatic Asylums, one in the north of the Presidency at Vizagapatam and the other in the West Coast at Calicut.

Two other modern institutions recently brought into operation are the Government Tuberculosis Hospital (for advanced case) at Royapetta and the Tuberculosis Institute for out-patients on the Spur Tank and the X-Ray Institute which is at present located within the Government General Hospital, Madras.

The Leper Asylum, Madras.—The number of patients treated for leprosy in the hospitals and dispensaries throughout the Presidency amounted to 9,436 in the year 1921, while the number of patients treated in the Leper Asylum, Madras, during the same year was 1,767. These figures, when compared with the total leper population of this Presidency as revealed in the Census report of 1921, show that only a small portion of the patients suffering from this fell disease seek medical aid in recognized institutions. A large majority of the sufferers live and move about absolutely without any control and recognized treatment. The Indian Leprosy Act, 1898, is not in operation in this Presidency and the Government and the Executive of the Presidency have at present no means by which they can restrict the movements of pauper lepers or compel them to undergo treatment in Leper Asylums.

This is a serious state of affairs which must be put an end to as early as possible by the provision of adequate accommodation for the treatment and housing of pauper lepers and by the introduction immediately after this has been done, of the Leper Act by means of which the Government will have power to segregate and treat people suffering from this disease.

Lunatic Asylums.—As stated above, the Government maintain three Lunatic Asylums, one at Madras, and two others in the mufassal at Vizagapatam and Calicut. The total accommodation available in the three asylums during the year 1922, was 1,058, while the daily average number of inmates at the three asylums during the same year was 967.46. The total number of inmates in the three asylums was 1,286. The Madras Asylum is the only asylum that provides accommodation for Europeans and Anglo-Indians—males and females—and also for Criminal Lunatics. The methods of treating mental diseases have undergone radical change during recent years and the asylums should now be properly designated "Mental Hospitals." The question of deputing a Medical Officer to England for special training in mental diseases is under the consideration of Government. With specially selected and trained officers in charge, the asylums will approximate more and more to Mental Hospitals of the modern type for the treatment of mental derangements of various types.

The Tuberculosis Out-patient Institute and Hospital.—These two institutions were opened in Madras in the years 1916 and 1921, respectively. The Out-patient Institute which is now in a new building at the Spur Tank site and is known as the King Edward VII Memorial Institute was originally managed by a Committee. It was taken over by Government with the endowment funds attached to it in the year 1921, and is now entirely a Government Institution. The In-patient Hospital was opened in Royapetta in 1921, and has 18 beds for males and 27 for females. These two institutions are in charge of a Specialist and have already proved their value to the public.

in the detection and treatment of early stages of the disease when it is most amenable to treatment and also in the treatment of advanced cases of the disease. Looking to the incidence of the disease which is more widespread than is generally suspected, the question arises whether control measures should not be adopted and the disease made notifiable. This means the provision of more accommodation for advanced cases of the disease and also the provision of sanatoria for the treatment of early types of the disease. The only Sanatorium now in existence in the Presidency, is the one at Madanapalle, in the Chittoor district, managed by the Union Mission Tuberculosis Sanatorium, which is doing excellent work in this direction.

X-Ray Institute—This is another very useful institution. Somewhere about the year 1900, an X-Ray Institute was started on a miniature scale in the operation theatre of the General Hospital. But since then, more modern outfits worked by power from the street mains have been obtained and now the Government General Hospital has good apparatus with which it is possible to produce really excellent results both as regards Radiography and treatment. In 1920 Major-General Sir G. G. Giffard, with a view to place this Presidency in the forefront in the matter of Radiography, secured the services of Captain T. W. Barnard who had been doing X-Ray work at the Colaba Hospital in Bombay. The Institute is at present almost a complete one and it is hoped that it will soon be able to deal effectively with that scourge of the world "Cancer" and be of use and profit to all who may come to it for treatment.

Budget allotment for 1922-23.—The total budget allotment for the year amounted to Rs 59,07,000. The budget submitted for sanction was cut down severely with the result that many improvements and new proposals had to be postponed for want of funds. The construction of new and up-to-date Headquarter Hospitals at Madura and Trichinopoly has had to be deferred owing to the financial stringency.

Hookworm—The active campaign against hookworm disease which was commenced in the Madras Presidency on the 7th April 1920, with the help of medical workers from the Rockefeller Foundation is doing most useful work. Since the campaign began, several different classes of community in different districts have been examined and treated. These examinations have conclusively shown that the hookworm incidence in the Presidency of Madras is enormously high and is especially so in the wet districts. The anti-hookworm campaign now working under the guidance of Dr. J. F. Kendrick is doing valuable work and an intensive educational anti-hookworm campaign has been sanctioned by Government and started since last April by Dr. Kendrick. It is hoped that the efforts made in this direction will go a great way in controlling the prevalence of this disease.

Classes I and II.—These include all institutions maintained by Provincial funds and under Government management. The fact that an institution possesses endowments or receives contributions from Local funds or private subscriptions should not be regarded as a reason for not classing it as "State" so long as Provincial and Imperial funds are practically responsible for all the charges connected with it. Class I—"Public" are State dispensaries which are open to the poorer classes of the public. Class II—are State dispensaries which serve only a special section of the public as indicated in the sub-classification attached.

Class III.—Local Fund dispensaries include all institutions which are vested in Local Boards or Municipalities or guaranteed or maintained by Local or Municipal funds. The fact that such an institution is aided by private subscriptions, or receives assistance from Government in the shape of part of the salary of the medical officer, grants of medicine, or otherwise, should not be regarded as a reason for not classing it as a Local Fund dispensary so long as its existence is practically dependent upon Local funds.

Class IV—Comprises institutions supported by private subscriptions or guarantee, but receiving aid from Government or Local funds.

Class V—Comprises institutions maintained entirely at the cost of private individuals or associations. The fact that Government supplies superior inspection or registers should not be regarded as a reason for not treating it as a private non-aided dispensary.

Class VI—Comprises all railway dispensaries whether maintained by State railways or others.

A—General institutions

B—Women and children's institutions.

Policy,

The Secretary of State's despatch.—The most important event of recent years, in connection with the policy to be adopted to further industrial development in India, was the receipt in the year 1919 of the Secretary of State's despatch signifying his general assent to several of the proposals made by the Indian Industrial Commission and supported by the Government of India. In this despatch the Secretary of State did not consider the numerous detailed recommendations made by the Commission, but confined his approval to a few cardinal points of principle. The Secretary of State's despatch marked a revolutionary change in policy, for he definitely accepted the two fundamental principles underlying the recommendations of the Commission ; first, that in future the Government should play an active part in the industrial development of the country, and secondly, that the Government could not undertake this work unless provided with adequate administrative equipment and furnished with reliable scientific and technical advice. He approved in principle the proposal that an Imperial and Provincial Department of Industries should be set up on the general lines laid down by the Commission. The Secretary of State therefore reversed the restrictive policy laid down by Lord Morley in 1910, which, though modified by Lord Crewe in 1912 and temporarily in abeyance while the Commission was conducting its enquiry, was still in force, and recognized that, if the active participation of Government in industrial development of the country is to be accepted as one of its legitimate functions, a new policy is required. The Secretary of State's despatch marked the end of a long period of uncertainty, and the commencement of a new era in respect of industrial development by the Government.

The following is a brief review of the history of the Department of Industries with reference to the efforts made by the Government of Madras to secure the Secretary of State's adherence to the new policy.

Sir Alfred Chatterton—In 1905 a scheme was submitted to the Government of India for the further advancement of the industrial development of the Presidency, and it was proposed to create a department which should make a survey of existing industries and should investigate the possibility of creating new ones. It was not proposed to work industries experimentally on a commercial scale, but merely to initiate experiments which might assist private enterprise to take up fresh industrial undertakings. Lord Morley, who was then Secretary of State for India, did not view the general principles underlying the scheme with much favour. He regarded with scepticism the prospect of attaining satisfactory results from the direction of State effort towards the creation of industries, and he doubted whether the lack of industrial energy and progress in the Madras Presidency might not be due to economic causes beyond the reach of State endeavour. Lord Morley, however, sanctioned the creation of the department, and the appointment of Mr (now, Sir Alfred) Chatterton to the charge of it with the title of the Director of Industrial and Technical Enquiries. Thus the Department of Industries came into existence in 1906 though not under the name.

Industrial Conference—In 1908 an Industrial Conference was held at Ootacamund, at which representatives of the leading industrial interests attended. The object of the Conference was to consider the best method of developing further the work which had been begun by the Director of Industrial and Technical Enquiries, and also to review the question of the improvement and extension of technical education. The Conference passed a number of resolutions and defined the three functions of the Department of Industries as—

(1) the supply of advice in regard to new industries, and the introduction of new methods and processes,

(2) the carrying out of investigations and experiments, and

(3) the development of selected industries, and added that the department should establish a bureau of information and an industrial museum. In regard to the vexed question of pioneer industries, the Conference passed a resolution to the effect that, subject to certain specified conditions, Government might undertake, as a pioneer, the introduction of new industries for the purpose of training students or apprentices or for demonstrating that such industries will be commercially successful. The resolutions of the Conference, however, were not passed without protest, and three prominent representatives of European business interests in Madras recorded a minute of dissent from the resolutions relating to industrial development, holding that the Government should confine its assistance to commerce, to matters of research, technical education, industrial instruction, and dissemination of industrial information. On this point the Government recognized as a general principle that the exploitation of industries should be regarded not as a normal but as an exceptional function of Government, and on the general question of the limitations that should be set to the functions of the State in attempting to promote industrial development, they accepted the conclusions arrived at by the Conference. Accordingly in March 1909 they made the following proposals to the Secretary of State :—

(i) that a permanent Department of Industries under the control of an officer to be styled the Director of Industries should be created ;

(ii) that industrial education, as opposed to technical education, should be placed under this department; and

(iii) that the department should further be entrusted with the duty of encouraging trade by the introduction of new industries and that it should establish and maintain a bureau of industrial information, and that it should have the charge of the well-boring and pumping operations which were then in progress.

Views of the Conference condemned.—Lord Morley, however, in a despatch, dated the 29th July 1910, differed fundamentally from the views expressed by the Conference and approved by Government, as to the functions of a department of industries. As before, he condemned a policy of attempting to create new industries by State intervention, and he was sceptical as to the utility of State effort in this direction, unless it was strictly limited to industrial instruction and avoided the semblance of a commercial venture. The policy which he sanctioned was that State funds might be expended upon familiarising the people with such improvements in the methods of production as modern science and the practice of European countries could suggest; further than this, the State should not go, and it should be left to private enterprise to demonstrate that these improvements could be adopted with commercial advantage. As the result of these orders, the Department of Industries, which, on the recommendation of the Conference, had been created in anticipation of sanction in October 1908, was abolished.

Reconsideration of the subject.—Lord Morley's orders, however, aroused considerable opposition in India. In February 1911, a resolution was passed in the Legislative Council of Madras inviting the Secretary of State for India to reconsider the decision. In pursuance of this resolution, the Government again addressed the Secretary of State for India in May 1911. They referred to the general disappointment which Lord Morley's orders had occasioned and laid stress on the difference between the industrial conditions of India and those prevailing in Europe, pointing out how difficult it was in a country like Southern India "to bridge the gulf" which exists between mere scholastic instruction and the practical application of an industrial teaching unless factories under State management were founded, and they asked for authority in special cases, and subject to the safeguard suggested by the Industrial Conference, to undertake the experimental introduction of the industrial processes

Creation of the Department of Industries.—These proposals were supported by the Government of India, and Lord Crewe's reply, in a despatch, dated the 15th March 1912, was not altogether unfavourable. He re-affirmed Lord Morley's decision against the extension of the activities of a Department of Industries to trading on a commercial scale, but he had no objection to the creation of a separate Department of Industries, provided that its functions were confined within certain limits. Accordingly the creation of the Department of Industries was sanctioned on the 21st March 1914, and the functions of the Director were thus defined.—

(1) to collect information as to existing industries, their needs and the possibility of improving them or of introducing new industries,

(2) to carry out and direct experiments connected with local inquiries;

(3) to keep in touch with local manufacturers, to bring the results of his experiments to their notice and to obtain their co-operation in the conduct of experiments on a commercial scale;

(4) to supervise the training of students; and (5) to advise Government with regard to technical matters involving legislation.

The despatch of the Secretary of State on the report of the Indian Industrial Commission indicated his adherence to the policy, advocated by the Madras Government, of active participation by the State in the industrial development of the country, which, if and when carried into effect on the basis of the detailed proposals advanced by the Industrial Commission, will result, it was hoped, in considerable industrial development when financial conditions became easier.

Madras Conference, 1920.—In March 1920, His Excellency the Governor presided over a conference at Madras, which was largely attended by representatives of commercial and industrial interests as well as by members of the Legislative Council. The business of the conference was not so wide as that of the conference held in 1908, but was confined to five specific points which were to be discussed at a conference of Directors of Industry to be held at Simla in the following April. The Madras conference generally approved of—

(1) the creation of a Board of Industries for this Presidency,

(2) the creation of an Indian Industrial Service (this proposal has since been abandoned),

(3) the control of industrial education by the Director of Industries,

(4) the extension of schemes of apprenticeship, and

(5) the establishment of demonstration factories by the Government.

Advisory Board of Industries—The Indian Industrial Commission in their report recommended the constitution of a Board of Industries to act as an advisory body to Provincial Directors and in pursuance of the views expressed at the conference, referred to in the preceding paragraph, Government in November 1920 sanctioned the appointment of an Advisory Board of Industries for the Madras Presidency consisting of 12 members. The Director of Industries is the Chairman and convenor of the Board and the remaining eleven members are non-officials with the Deputy Director as Secretary. Each member of the Board holds his appointment for a period of two years. The functions of the Board are advisory, but all matters of general importance affecting industries or industrial education are laid before the Board. The Board have power to co-opt other officials and non-officials for the consideration of particular subjects or classes of subjects, and those co-opted, whether officials or non-officials, are entitled to vote on resolutions relating to subjects for the discussion of which they were co-opted. The Board may also appoint committees, consisting of its own members or persons co-opted to standing or temporary committees for the consideration of special subjects. The Board has established itself as an advisory body of great value to the Department.

State aid to industries.—The recent constitutional changes have brought the Department of Industries into fresh prominence as one of the principal spending departments in charge of the Hon'ble the Minister for Development, and the question of pioneering industries with Government money is likely to be considerably affected by the recent passing of the State Aid to Industries Bill* which was introduced in the November session of the Legislative Council by the Hon'ble the Minister for Development. The Bill which was warmly supported in the Council by representatives of all sections of the public was subsequently referred to a Select Committee for detailed consideration and was passed with certain amendments and modifications in the December session of the Council amidst every manifestation of popular approval. A separate Committee was appointed to frame the requisite rules* under the Act and these have recently been published in the Fort St George Gazette. Applications for State Aid are already being received in the Department of Industries, but these cannot be dealt with, until the Board, which is to be created under the Act to consider such applications and which will take the place of the old Board of Industries, has been appointed and constituted.

The activities of the Department—The various activities of the Department of Industries have now grouped themselves under the following heads.—

I. General assistance to trade and industry, including the collection of statistics and of industrial and commercial information, and the supply of information to the public as regards the sources of supply of, and markets for, various articles of commerce.

II. Experiments and enquiries having for their ultimate object the starting, either by private owners or by the Government, of new industries or of new branches of or improved processes in existing industries.

* For the Act and the rules framed thereunder, vide pages 448 to 456.

III. Management of manufacturing institutions owned by Government which have passed beyond the early experimental stage. Examples of such institutions are

(1) The Kerala Soap Institute, Calicut.

(2) The Fruit Preserving Institute, Coonoor.

(3) The Glue Factory, Madras.

IV Assistance to scattered industries not conducted in factories, of which the weaving industry is at present the most conspicuous example

V Similar assistance intended principally for the benefit of agriculturists, which heads over most of the work which is conducted by the Pumping and Boring Branch

VI Industrial Education in all its branches, including education in arts and crafts and the grant of scholarships

The Industrial Engineering Branch of the Department of Industries.

History.—In September 1903, the Aluminium Industry was made over to the Indian Aluminium Company and as part of his programme of work in connection with the development of Indian Industries, Mr. (now, Sir Alfred) Chatterton proposed that a number of pumping installations should be set up with the object of demonstrating the advantages of modern machinery in agricultural operations. Some work had already been done in this direction, and Sir Alfred Chatterton himself and the Public Works Department had experimented with pumping by machinery. But these experiments had furnished evidence merely as to the value of lift irrigation on a comparatively large scale and much scepticism still prevailed as to whether comparatively small areas of land could be profitably irrigated by small engines and pumps. One small installation had already been put up at Melrosapuram in the Chingleput district, and in 1904, permission was obtained to open four other pumping stations where experiments were begun with engines varying in horse power from $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$ and with 3 and 4 inch pumps. From the first, the progress made was encouraging, and by March 1905 so many applications for assistance had been received that Government agreed to advances being made under the Land Improvement Loans Act for the purchase of oil engines and pumps and provided Sir Alfred Chatterton with the nucleus of a staff to assist those wishing to put up installations with advice and assistance. A class for training oil engine drivers was also opened at the School of Arts. It soon became evident, however, that very few of the wells in the Presidency could furnish enough water to make it worth while to put in an engine and pump, and that, in order to bring pumping installations into more extended use, it would be necessary to deepen the existing wells or to sink new ones, so as to tap the subterranean reservoirs which were suspected to exist at no very great depth in many districts of the Presidency. These results had been anticipated from the very beginning and in 1904 a set of boring tools had been purchased with which experimental borings were put down in various places. This led to the discovery of sub-artesian water both in the Chingleput and South Arcot districts and it became evident that it was desirable greatly to extend the scale of operations. Accordingly in 1906, the boring branch of the department was inaugurated by the deputation of a special party to the Chingleput district, partly to develop well irrigation by expeditious disposal of applications for loans, and partly to prevent waste of money by putting down trial borings before wells were sunk. Later on, the operations of the party were extended to the improvement of existing wells and from this time forward progress was rapid until the outbreak of war operated as a check.

Transfer of control.—On the 1st August 1916, the Pumping and Boring branch was transferred to the Department of Agriculture, as it was considered that most of the work was work which really appertained to the Agricultural Department. This arrangement was adversely criticised by the Indian Industrial Commission in paragraph 307 of their report. The Commission considered that where a well-equipped Industrial Department is in existence, it is waste of control to have one department installing power plant for agricultural purposes and another for small industries side by side in the same district, that such work is of a totally different character from that which properly belongs to the Agricultural Department and that valuable adaptations and improvements are not likely to be forthcoming except from a technical department which commands the services of specialists. The Government in G.O. No. 1402, dated the 30th July 1920, accepted the Commission's recommendations and directed that the Pumping and Boring Department with the Workshop attached to it should be transferred from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Industries. The transfer was given effect to on the 9th September 1920.

Development.—By March 1922, operations were in progress over nearly the whole Presidency and 5,785 borings had been put down. The percentage of success is reported to have exceeded 60. In the same period about 1,400 applications were received for investigation and advice and about 500 installations were set up and a sum of R. 3,60,900 was advanced under the Land Improvement Loans Act to 129 persons for the purchase of oil engines and pumps. Many other installations were put up independently of the department. In addition a number of oil, gas and steam engines were installed under the advice and with the aid of the department, in connection with other purely industrial concerns.

System of compounding fees.—The rapid increase, however, in the popularity of oil engines and pumps entailed correspondingly heavy work in the department. In the backward circumstances existing in South India, in connection with maintaining and running power plant, it was necessary to provide for the supervision and periodical inspection of all machinery. A system of compounding these plants at a nominal fee was accordingly instituted and on the 31st March 1922, 260 plants (including industrial) were on the inspection list. This number has since nearly doubled and is bound to further increase with the increase in number and efficiency of the staff maintained by the department.

Staff.—For inspection and boring purposes, the pumping and boring staff was augmented from time to time. The Engineering staff of the department which at present consists of one Industrial Engineer, four Assistant Industrial Engineers, 18 Supervisors, 40 Mechanics and 80 Boring Maistries and drivers instal and run not only pumping and boring plants but industrial plants as well.

Details of the operations.—The bulletins entitled "Boring" and "Lift Irrigation" published by the department explains in detail the operations undertaken by the department. They also contain general advice to the ryot-interests. Copies of these can be had from the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, at a cost of 6 pies each.

Fees.—The main object of the pumping and boring operations conducted by the department being to increase the agricultural wealth of the country, the fees charged are only nominal. Particulars of these are contained in the "Rules for the levy of fees for work done in connection with the industrial undertakings including pumping and boring operations," copies of which can be had free on application from the Director of Industries, Chempauk, Madras, or from the Industrial Engineer at the same address, or from the local Supervisor of Industries. As, however, the scale of fees laid down in the rules was fixed some years ago and as freight and other charges have since considerably increased, proposals have been submitted to Government for the revision of the rules and the fees charged.

Number of pumping plants and boring sets maintained by the Department.—On the 31st March 1922, the department maintained the following boring sets and power plants:—

Boring sets.—47 hand-boring sets and four power boring sets and one hand-driven calyx drill.

Pumping sets.—12 crude oil sets and 6 high speed kerosine sets.

Hand-boring sets.—These sets are in great favour with really poor ryots and are a means of real help to them and as such are rapidly gaining in popularity so much so that the department is, at present, unable to meet the growing demand for them. Application has accordingly been made to Government for sanction to increase the number from 47 to 100. The increase, if sanctioned, will also to some extent reduce the heavy freight charges as four sets can then be permanently allotted to each district. Various devices to further reduce these charges are also under consideration and experiment.

Workshop.—The department has a workshop attached to it for the effective maintenance of the machinery employed by the pumping and boring branch and for the prompt execution of repairs. Repair and renewal work is also done from time to time for other departments and for private individuals who have compounded installations and for industrial concerns.

Mapping of underground water supplies.—Two surveyors are permanently employed by the department for connecting the levels of the boreholes put down with mean sea level. This work has been completed in Chingleput, Tanjore and South Arcot and is nearing completion in the Kistna district. The results will be published in the form of maps giving the contours of the sub-soil, water levels, and these maps will be of great use in giving advice to ryots in these tracts in regard to subterranean water. It will not, however, be possible to map out accurately the course of subterranean water channels unless the number of borings put down is increased considerably and there is at least one boring per square mile.

Bureau of Industrial and Commercial Information.

The Bureau of Industrial and Commercial Information which is attached to the Department of Industries was founded some years ago as a result of the Industrial Conference held at Ootacamund in 1908. The conference considered that a Bureau of Information should be provided from which information could be obtained on points of commercial importance and interest. The purpose of the Bureau is to provide information on general, industrial and commercial subjects in connection with the existing industries, and of projected developments of industries in the Presidency, and to answer enquiries relating to commerce, trade and industry, affecting the Madras Presidency.

Measures taken.—Among the measures taken to assist individuals or firms anxious to start new industries or to extend and improve their business connections, may be mentioned,

(1) Furnishing information in regard to new processes of manufactures, use of machines, markets for goods, and sources of supply of materials and commodities, prices, and openings for capital.

(2) Indicating possible sources of raw materials and their suitability for various purposes.

(3) Assisting to find markets for finished products by placing manufactures in touch with consumers, wholesale dealers, or exporters of approved financial standing.

(4) Giving technical advice and offering opinions on the commercial possibilities of projected schemes.

(5) Arranging for analysis to be carried out where possible of raw materials forwarded by parties and indicating their commercial value.

The Work of the Peripatetic Weaving Parties.

Experiments in improved methods of weaving were commenced in the beginning of 1901-02 and a few fly-shuttle looms were set up in the School of Arts with the object of obtaining experience as to their working capacity and data regarding their possibilities. Experiments conducted on these machines yielded results which left no doubt as to the practicability of turning out a much larger percentage of cloth on a fly-shuttle loom than on the ordinary country loom. In 1905, it was decided to continue the experimental work in a properly organised hand-loom factory. Accordingly in February 1906, a weaving factory was opened at Salem, where there was a large weaver population, the objects in view being to ascertain by experiment whether it was possible to improve the conditions of the hand-loom weavers in Southern India. The experiments conducted and improvements tried in the factory led to the ultimate adoption of a type of loom which was practically the old English fly-shuttle loom modified as far as possible in the direction of simplicity and so as to suit it for the manufacture of indigenous cloths. The advantages claimed for this loom over the country looms are that the fly-shuttle slays is cheaper than the ordinary slay and that the fly-shuttle gives a greater output, the increase varying not only with the experience and skill of the weaver but also with the different counts of yarn used. Efforts accordingly were made to spread the use of fly-shuttle loom with a large measure of success, but further work was cut short as owing to a change of policy the factory was closed in 1910. Subsequent enquiries indicated that further demonstration work was necessary in the direction of introducing (1) some sort of warping mill in places where the fly-shuttle had been adopted, (2) dobbies for weaving simple designs, (3) the jacquard machine for complicated pattern and (4) the frame loom wherever it might be profitable. Previous experience pointed to the conclusion that the best way to convince the weavers of the efficiency of any new appliance was by demonstrating it at their very doors and though it was recognized that the introduction of improved appliance would not by itself solve all the problems connected with the improvement of the material condition of the weavers, it was decided to organize a peripatetic weaving party for the purpose of demonstrating to the weaving population the advantages of improved methods of work and appliances.

The first party accordingly was organized in March 1913 for work in the southern districts of the Presidency and consisted of a Superintendent and five weavers and was equipped with the following plant—warping mill, beaming frame, frame loom with automatic take up motion, spare slays, dobbies, jacquard machine and card cutting machines. A small stock of machinery for sale was added. A second party for the Northern Circars was organized in 1914. Though their efforts to introduce improved appliances were rather hampered by the general depression of the hand-loom industry caused by the war, they yet succeeded in a large measure in popularizing the fly-shuttle and the improved appliances in the districts visited by them. To their credit must also be mentioned the fact that they were able to arrange for the manufacture, in less than two months, of 15,000 army blankets. On his joining the department in August 1919, the Textile Expert visited important weaving centres throughout the Presidency with a view to investigate and report on the condition of hand-loom weaving in its technical aspects and on the social and economic conditions of the weavers. He recommended among other things the creation of an increased number of peripatetic parties to persuade weavers to adopt improved appliances and to instruct them in their use.

Government accordingly sanctioned in July 1920, the employment of ten additional parties to demonstrate to weavers the advantages of improved methods and appliances, but only five could be organized in 1920-21 and three in 1921-22, as considerable difficulty was experienced in recruiting suitable persons as maistries and weavers. Each party consists of a head maistry, an assistant maistry and three weavers. The principal duties of a peripatetic weaving party may be defined as follows:—

(1) to persuade the local weaver to adopt the fly-shuttle slay when it is practicable to do so and to carry out the necessary alterations in the country loom to enable this to be done; and to adopt flanged beams on their pit looms where long sized warps can be wound ;

(2) to cheapen the cost of warp preparation by the use of hand-driven mill warping machines, sizing machines and dressing-machines,

(3) to train weavers who only weave plain cloth, to produce towels, bed sheets, twill cloths and fancy designs by the use of extra treadles or draw boy harness; and

(4) to educate weavers to weave finer cloths and cloths of better quality in the manufacture of which power-driven loom, cannot compete with hand-looms.

The procedure adopted by a party is to arrange for a demonstration of fly-shuttle weaving in a central place in a village, or on the loom of one of the most influential weavers. When the advantages of fly-shuttle slay have been sufficiently manifested and a number of them have been introduced, the party moves on to another village but a maistry remains behind for sometime to watch the looms at work and to instruct the weavers in the manipulation of improved appliances. With a view to ascertain whether the improved appliances have been retained or discarded, the party revisits the scene of their former activities from time to time. The parties also take advantage of weekly shandies where weavers come from long distances, to give demonstrations of improved appliances and accessories. It is one of the duties of the Weaving Superintendent to train the village carpenters in the construction of improved weaving appliances in the hope that they would assist in extending their use when the party is moved to another village.

The weaving block of the Madras Industrial Institute was at first utilized for the purpose of training head maistries, maistries and weavers of the parties and for the manufacture of improved weaving appliances and accessories for their use, but this work has now been taken over by the Textile Institute which is at present located in a rented building in Davidson Street, Georgetown, Madras.

The ten peripatetic parties which were at work at the end of the year 1921-22 were stationed in Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Cuddapah, Kurnool, Bellary, Anantapur, Chittoor, North Arcot, Madura and Malabar. These parties are under the immediate supervision of five Weaving Superintendents with their headquarters at Vizagapatam, Pullampet, Chittoor, Guntakal and Cannanore. The parties have, since their inception in 1913 until the end of 1922, introduced the following improved weaving appliances and accessories in the several villages they have visited in the Madras Presidency —

Manufacturing activities under the control of the Department of Industries.

The success which has attended the efforts of the Department of Industries under the guidance of Sir Alfred Chatterton in introducing the Aluminium industry and the chrome process of manufacturing leather is too well-known to need special mention. Recent years have not been barren of results and the Government Pencil Factory was, after a period during which its successful working as a commercial concern was demonstrated, transferred to a private Syndicate. The introduction of Soap industry is due chiefly to the foresight and initiative of Sir F. A. Nicholson and evidence of its success will be found in the starting of 35 factories, 20 in the West Coast and 15 in other Madras Districts, in various parts of the Presidency. The manufacturing activities which are at the present time under the direction of the Department are soap, glue, ink, jam and vinegar. The aim of Government with regard to these manufactures is to ascertain and overcome the initial difficulties and discover if the industry can be worked at a profit and if it can be so worked to manage the business until the local manufacture of the particular article has been stimulated and until it has been demonstrated that it can be manufactured and sold at a profit. As the position of soap industry in the Presidency has been dealt with separately, this note will be confined to a description of the other activities referred to, i.e., glue, ink, jam and vinegar.

Glue.

Among the new developments that owe their inception to the initiative of the Madras Department of Industries, the manufacture of glue at tropical temperatures is by no means the least important. One of the many commercial secrets revealed by the war was the fact that a very large quantity of tannery waste from the Madras Presidency was exported to Germany, presumably for the manufacture of glue, and the closing of the continental markets to fleshings caused a great accumulation of this very valuable material. The experiments, conducted by the Department in 1916 to manufacture glue locally from fleshings though not completely successful, were yet encouraging. When therefore in the next year the Indian Munitions Board were seeking for supplies of glue in India for use in aeroplane construction, Mr. K. C. Srinivasa Ayyangar who was employed at the time as lecturer at the Leather Trades Institute was asked by Mr. Innes, the then Director of Industries, to complete the investigations previously initiated. After further research and some practical experiments, Mr. Srinivasa Ayyangar succeeded in evolving a method of treating the fleshings which yielded a satisfactory product.

At this stage, it was thought that further experiments of manufacturing glue on a commercial scale should be conducted by a private syndicate and Government accordingly sanctioned, under certain conditions, the lease to Messrs. Beardsell & Co., of the building, plant, appliances, etc., obtained by them for a period of one year. The firm took charge of the factory in August 1920 and after managing it for a year during which period they had actually been producing glue of good quality expressed their inability to continue the experiment and their wish to withdraw from the business altogether. The factory was thereupon taken over by Government and Mr. V. S. Chinmaswami Ayyangar, who was employed as Superintendent of the factory by Messrs. Beardsell & Co., was appointed as Superintendent of the Government factory and he took charge on the 1st October 1921.

The factory is capable of turning out 80 tons or more of glue per year, but for the present deals only with about 15 tons of raw materials and produces about 3 to 4 tons of glue per month. The glue produced is of excellent quality sued to high class furniture work, book binding and roller composition. It has met with the approval of Government departments and private consumers throughout India and recently important contracts have been made with the B.N. and M&S.M. Railways and a large firm in Calcutta for the supply of their annual requirements of glue, while the Director of Ordnance factories and the Quarter-Master-General have approved the glue as suitable for supply to their departments. Negotiations for developing the sales agency are in progress and when these are completed, the product of the factory should have a ready market.

Ink.

The main line of manufacture in the Government Industrial Institute is ink. In connection with this, the chief objects aimed at are—

(a) the preparation of inks and writing fluids of such quality as to compare with and surpass various imported inks,

(b) to do so at a cost which should enable successful competition;

(c) to use indigenous materials

The difficulties met with were great, as was to be expected in attempting to start on a wide, scientific and accurate basis a chemical industry almost new to the Presidency. As a result, however, of numerous experiments which were carried out, these difficulties were gradually overcome and certain formulæ having given promising results, a commencement was made with the manufacture of ink on a commercial scale. The question of containers has, however, proved a more persistent difficulty so much so that experiments were undertaken with a view to developing the local manufacture of stoneware and earthenware jars. It was for this reason also that sales to the trade had to be restricted in 1921-22. The difficulty as regards containers has been overcome to some extent, since it has been found possible to buy from the Superintendent of Stationery used jars and suitable containers have been imported from the United Kingdom on favourable terms.

The Institute has now a running contract for the supply of the requirements of the Superintendent of Stationery for 1922-23 and it is anticipated that further contracts will shortly be entered into with the Stationery Department for the supply of their requirements for the ensuing year. The ink produced is of excellent quality. Ink exhibited at the Tiruppur exhibition in May and at the Bezvada Exhibition in August 1921 was awarded a silver medal on each occasion. Red ink is also manufactured at the Institute and the manufacture of indelible inks for cheques has also commenced. The manufacture of ink may now be said to be a paying proposition and is already established as such on a limited scale.

Jam.

The Fruit Preserving Institute at Coonoor owes its inception to Sir F.A. Nicholson whose proposals for the establishment of a Jam and Pickle factory were accepted by Government tentatively for a period of 5 years. The object of starting the Institute was to create an organized fruit preserving industry on the Nilgiris coupled with the necessary co-development of systematised fruit culture not only to supply the requirements of the factory but also to supply the public needs and to benefit fruit growers, actual or prospective. The preliminary experiments conducted in Sir Frederick Nicholson's residence with plant which was domestic in character were so encouraging that it was decided to build a factory and instal the requisite plant for fruit preserving. While the factory was building, the Lady Manager proceeded to England on deputation to extend her knowledge of the subject, to study the latest methods and processes of manufacture and to arrange for the purchase and shipment of the necessary plant required for manufacture on a commercial scale. The building was completed and the requisite plant, internal fittings, etc., were installed during 1922-23.

Actual production in the factory commenced on the 19th July 1922, but owing to certain constructional and experimental difficulties, manufacture on a commercial scale was not commenced until the 14th November 1922. The factory has so far confined its attention to the manufacture of various kinds of jams and jellies, but it is under contemplation to develop the conjoined industries of the manufacture of jams, conserves, including bottled and crystallised fruits, pickles, chutneys and sauces.

Sales up to the present have been inconsiderable but the country is passing through a period of severe depression in trade. The Institute has yet to be developed and its equipment is not yet complete. When the possibilities of development have been explored fully and the available markets tried, it is hoped that the sales will show improvement. The operations have already had the effect of stimulating the cultivation of fruit on the Nilgiris and there are possibilities of the Institute securing, at no distant date, large running contracts to some at least of the products manufactured.

Vinegar.

In view of the fact that vinegar is much in demand and should not, being a cheap product, have to bear the relatively high cost of transport from England, while the country vinegar is ordinarily neither good nor cheap, it was considered that the possibility of manufacturing vinegar should be one of the lines of investigation at the Government Industrial Laboratory. It was some time before the requisite plant could be assembled and difficulties were later experienced in controlling experiments in the manufacture of the product. A "pure culture" method was however tried in the Laboratory with a considerable degree of success. Further work has had to be stopped, however, as the preliminary work which is of a very delicate nature requires laboratory facilities which do not at present exist. A new process for producing high strength white vinegar has recently been evolved by Dr. Fowler of the Indian Institute of Science, and Mr. Subrahmanyam, a Madras Government Research Scholar, and the possibility of carrying out experiments with this process is now under the consideration of Government. The vinegar manufactured by this process appears to be excellent and if the results of the large scale experiments confirm the promise of the Laboratory, there are great commercial possibilities about the process.

The Soap Industry of the Madras Presidency.

History—The Kerala Soap Institute represents the result of one of the many disinterested activities of Sir F. A. Nicholson as the Honorary Director of the Department of Fisheries. In 1913, Government appointed Mr. A. K. Menon, an Oil and Soap Expert who had been trained in England while holding a Government of India scholarship for about 4 years, as an assistant to Sir F. A. Nicholson in examining the question of fish oil and its uses, its possible utilization for the manufacture of soap and the best method of dealing with its large percentage of stearine (fish tallow). During the first year of his work Mr. Menon successfully used fish oil in the manufacture of fish oil soap for use on harness and leather goods and the manufacture of fish oil soap thus initiated, constituted an important local outlet for the fish oil and stearine which were being produced in the fish oil and guano factory at Tanur.

These experiments, however, led Sir Frederick Nicholson and his assistant to work at ordinary and high class soaps from vegetable oils and tallows, and with a view to testing whether the soaps thus manufactured could be marketed at a profit, the Government sanctioned early in 1916 Sir Frederick Nicholson's proposals for establishing a small complete factory for the experimental manufacture of soaps. To avoid delay in starting operations, Sir Frederick hired in the same year some godowns and sheds in Calcutt to provide accommodation for a temporary factory.

In September 1917, he submitted proposals for the establishment of a factory in permanent buildings of its own. His object was that the factory with its chemists, laboratory and other industrial aids should form a technological institution where other branches of oils and fats industries such as the manufacture of candles, glycerine, oil paints and varnishes, edible fats, etc., could be studied and demonstrated. It was intended that the Government factory besides serving as a stimulating example to encourage small capitalists to establish similar factories, should also provide facilities for training students in the processes employed. The Government therefore sanctioned, in November 1917, the establishment at Calcutt of a permanent factory; and a site measuring 3.75 acres was acquired for the purpose at a cost of Rs. 21,000.

Transfer of control.—At this stage the factory which had up to this time been under the control of the Department of Fisheries was transferred to the Department of Industries as Sir Frederick Nicholson desired to be relieved of the charge of it. The transfer took place in April 1919.

Change of name.—The name of the factory was subsequently changed from "Government Soap Works" to "Kerala Soap Institute."

Buildings.—The estimates and plans for the new factory were sanctioned by Government in October 1921. The work is nearing completion and the new building will be ready for occupation very shortly. The estimated cost of the buildings is Rs. 94,350 which is practically paid for by the profits made by the factory since 1916.

Extension of plant.—The success or otherwise of soap making as of any other industry depends upon whether it is possible to utilize the byproducts pertaining to that industry. When soap is made by the boiling process, glycerine which forms about 10 per cent of the weight of the oil used is set free and in large factories is recovered and refined. This is an important byproduct, as refined and distilled glycerine commonly fetches about Rs. 1,000—Rs. 1,500 per ton, and as such it pays the soap maker who turns out large quantities of boiled soaps to recover the glycerine. So far no factory in this Presidency has installed the necessary plant for the recovery of glycerine. A small plant has been obtained for the Kerala Soap Institute which will enable the factory to prepare 80 per cent crude glycerine and it is hoped to get this plant in full working order within a few months.

Staff.—The present staff consists of an Oil and Soap Expert, two Assistant Chemists and a Business Manager, besides the clerical and menial staff.

Varities of soaps manufactured, quantity produced and sold.—During the year ending the 31st March 1922, 368 tons of the various classes of soaps specified below were manufactured and 286 tons valued at Rs. 2,27,487-10-9 were sold. The output will be considerably increased after the factory is removed to the new buildings. The soaps manufactured are of excellent quality and are guaranteed pure. The products of the Institute have been exhibited at various exhibitions and the Institute has won several gold medals for the exhibits of soap.

- 1 Vegetal
- 2 Milled toilet soaps
- 3 Washwell and coaltar
- 4 Leaf soap
- 5 Saddle soap.
6. Insecticidal soap
7. Cheap disinfectant soaps.

Market.—The soaps manufactured are sold mainly through the agency of travellers employed for the purpose and a certain amount of money is also spent every year on advertisement.

Profits made.—Government have ordered that the factory should be managed primarily as a commercial concern designed to yield a profit on the capital invested so that the right kind of private enterprise may be induced to take up similar ventures. The following table shows the profit or loss of the Institute from the year when it commenced working on a commercial scale:—

Year.	Net sales			Net profit.			Net loss.

1921-22	2,27,350	0	3	16,152	4	2	...

Training of apprentices—As already stated one of the objects of the Institute is the training of students in the process of soap-making. It has not hitherto been possible however to extend the instructional side of the factory for want of accommodation and lack of facilities for training and several applications received from different parts had accordingly to be refused. Arrangements will however, be made for the training of students after the factory is removed to the new buildings.

Establishment of small cottage factories.—There is no statistical information available with regard to the number of small cottage factories that have sprung into existence in this Presidency, as a result chiefly of the establishment of the Kerala Soap Institute. A rough estimate, however, shows that there are at least over a hundred small factories scattered in different parts of the Presidency which produce soap by what is known as the "cold process," which is easy of manipulation by the aid of cheap and simple machinery. The total output of soaps from these small establishments is about 500 tons per month, calculated on an average of 5 tons per factory. Most of these cold process soaps, however, are of poor quality as they are turned out by uninstructed persons by the use or misuse of material, whose chemical characteristics are unknown to them. Although it is quite possible to make, by the cold process, a good class of toilet soap somewhat similar to the "Vegetol" made at the Kerala Soap institute, the majority of soaps that are turned out are positively injurious for toilet use. Every effort is, however, made by the Department to assist the owners of these factories with advice and suggestions, by making analysis of soaps they turned out, and pointing out how mistakes could be rectified. A bulletin entitled "Soap Making by the Cold Process" has been issued by the department for the information of the public. There is no doubt, however, that these soaps are being used largely for semi-toilet and for household use and on this account they have replaced to some extent several varieties of cheap foreign soaps which were popular in the Indian bazaars before the war. Statistics of the figures of imports of foreign soaps into the ports on the West Coast, for the years 1915 to 1922, will show that there has been of late an appreciable decrease in the quantity and value in the imports both of toilet and household soaps. The increase in duty on soaps to 15 per cent might have slightly influenced the figures, but there is no doubt that local competition in cheap soaps is being felt by foreign soap makers and exporters.

General observations.—There is a permanent and growing demand in this Presidency for high class toilet soaps. At present most of the toilet soaps in use are imported. The small quantity of toilet soaps made at the Kerala Soap Institute and at the Mysore Government Soap Factory at Bangalore, supplies only a small fraction of the demand in this Presidency. Ordinarily there is a good margin of profit in the sale of toilet soaps which are put up in fancy boxes and sold in cakes which weigh anything from 5 to 12 to the pound. There are perfumes of local origin, e.g., sandalwood oil, geranium oil, eucalyptus oil, patchouli oil, palmorosa oil, cloves oil, which are eminently suited for blending into soap compounds of agreeable odour. That there are no private factories which produce toilet soaps in this Presidency is mainly due to want of knowledge and lack of business enterprise amongst the people. Besides a steady and increasing demand, in this Presidency and other parts of India, there is the prospect of the development of an export trade in toilet soaps with the adjoining countries such as the Hinterland of Aden, Burma, the Malay States, etc., where such soaps are in considerable demand.

There is a market in this Presidency for textile soaps such as are used by weaving mills. The requirements of these mills are now met chiefly by foreign soaps, but it should be possible to make such soaps much cheaper locally, as the raw materials required for the same are cheap and abundant. Prospects are also favourable for the manufacture and sale of soft soaps for use in workshops and for general scrubbing purposes. A special soft soap made from fish oil has been regularly sold by the Kerala Soap Institute to planters and horticulturists for use as an insecticide against green bug, mango hopper and other insect pests. The demand for this soap is well maintained and it should be possible to develop an extended market for this soap.

As regards the question of raw materials for soap, this Presidency offers a vast range of vegetable and fish oils, of which coconut oil, groundnut oil, elupa oil, castor oil, mourha oil, maroti oil, are the most common. Tallow of a poor quality prepared from buffalo, beef and goat is available in small quantities. For preparing soap by the cold process, coconut oil is eminently suitable. For making high class toilet soaps, hard fats like tallow are used in European countries. It is possible to prepare hard fats from vegetable oils by the process of hydrogenation.

There is considerable scope for developing the soap industry in the Madras Presidency and it is the aim of the Kerala Soap Institute to assist in this direction.

The Tanning Industry of the Madras Presidency.

Origin.—The Tanning Industry of the Madras Presidency differs from most Indian industries, in that practically the whole of the manufactured product is exported. Though it is not, as a rule, profitable to export the poorer qualities of tanned leather which go to meet local requirements in India, the amount of leather so used does not, in normal times, exceed 30 per cent of the amount tanned. This industry may be considered to have originated when Charles de Sousa of Pondicherry found that by giving a bath of myrabolam liquor to leather tanned with the bark of the avaram shrub (Cassia Auriculata) the colour was not so sensitive to light and that the leather kept its light shade for a considerable period instead of turning to an unpleasant brick red colour in the course of a few days. Previous to the date of this discovery (between 1840 and 1850) small lots of tanned hides and skins had been exported but the trade very quickly increased from this time.*

Exports—The amount of tanned leather exported from Madras for the

It will be noticed that the export of tanned skins declined greatly during the years 1917-18 and 1918-19, whilst the amount of tanned hides increased very considerably during that period. This was caused by the tannage of skins and the export of tanned skins being prohibited during the greater part of these two years so as to turn the whole resources of the South Indian tanners to the tannage of hides which were urgently wanted for military requirements. In this emergency the South Indian tanner showed what a valuable asset he was to the country and to the Empire by tanning the enormous amount of about 2,000 tons of leather a month

The great boom of 1919-20.—A study of the post-war figures for hides shows a great boom in trade in the year 1919-20 followed by a still greater slump during the following two years, the differences in quantity and value of exports being very marked. In skins the declared value was higher in 1919-20 than in any of the pre-war years, as will be seen from the above table, although the number of skins exported was much less. This fall in numbers may be accounted for chiefly as being due to the greater demand for raw skins for glaze kid and to the lack of demand from Central Europe, which normally bought large quantities of tanned skins in the London auctions. During the years 1920-21 and 1921-22 both quantity and value fell very considerably on account of the general trade slump

The process at present used is practically identical in outline with that used by Charles de Sousa as far back as 1850, but the product has improved very much indeed as the labour and supervision has accumulated the experience of 70 years and those tanners who have made the greatest use of this experience have been the most successful.

* For further details of the history of the trade see "Monograph on Tanning and Working in Leather in the Madras Presidency" by Mr. (now Sir Alfred) Chatterton, 1905, and Indian Munitions Board Review of the Trade in India Hides, Skins and Leather, 1919.

† Hides are from cow, bull, bullock and buffalo, skins from sheep, goat and calf.

Early experiments.—In the early years of this century experiments were made in chrome tanning by Mr Chambers in his tannery in Tondiyarpattinam and by Mr. Chatterton, assisted by Mr. T. S. Chari, in the School of Arts, Madras. The visible result of Mr. Chamber's experiments is the large factory of the Chrome Leather Co at Chromepet near Madras which is owned and managed by him. Mr. Chari is now head of the firm of Messrs. Chari & Co. of Calcutta, who are Managing Agents of the Mysore Tannery, Bangalore, the Berhampore Tannery, Berhampore, Bengal, the Calcutta Chrome Leather Co. and the Indian Glacé Co.

The Chrome Leather Co.'s Tannery, Chromepet, stands in a class of its own in the Madras Presidency and is an up-to-date concern tanning and finishing all classes of leather, both chrome and vegetable, that are in demand in India. This firm also manufactures large quantities of finished leather goods.

Tanneries which work for export are scattered throughout the Presidency, but particularly in the following centres.—

Northern—Vizianagram, Bezwada, Ellore, Rajahmundry and in Hyderabad and Mutwada in the neighbouring districts of the Hyderabad State.

Central—The outskirts of Madras, Pallavaram, Ambur, Vaniyambadi, Ranipet, Vellore, Pernambut and in Bangalore in the Mysore State.

Southern—Trichinopoly, Dindigul, Erode and Coimbatore.

As a rule the tanneries in the northern division work only on hides, whilst those in the south are almost all skin tanneries. The central division divides its energies between the two classes of goods. The tanneries vary greatly in size, from what is practically a one-man concern to those which are capable of turning out over 10,000 hides or 50,000 skins per month.

Madras Tannery—Sir Alfred Chatterton in his "Monograph on Tanning and Working in Leather in the Madras Presidency" written in 1903 describes a Madras Tannery as below, and this description is as a rule as accurate to-day as when written. There are, however, places originally built on this plan that have been added to time after time till to-day, it is impossible to find the original square.

"A typical Madras Tannery consists of tiled sheds built on the four sides of a square or rectangle with a blank wall externally and opening on the inside to a quadrangle. A wide doorway in the middle of one of the shorter sides of rectangle gives access to the tannery. One-half is devoted to the reception of raw materials and to the carrying out of the process preliminary to tanning. The soaking pits are usually constructed below ground level along the outer walls. They are generally square in plan and three or four feet deep, built of brick and plastered. For the removal of the lime after unhairing, tanks of brick and plaster are usually built above ground level with masonry aqueducts or channel to supply them with water. Skin tanning is invariably carried on in wooden tubs from 3 to 4 feet in diameter or more, and of about the same depth. Of these there are often more than one hundred."

In normal times most of the Madras tanners obtain the greater part of their raw hides and skins locally with the result that there is a marked difference in pattern, size, etc., in the product of different districts. In times of great demand, raw materials are imported from all over India with the result that leather from different districts to a great extent loses its individuality. This was particularly noticeable in the hides tanned during the last two years of the war period when all attempts at keeping hides tanned in different districts separate were given up, and one general selection for all tannage was introduced. There is, however, one notable exception to the above rule in that several firms in the Northern division, and a few in the Central, make a speciality of tanning hides rejected by the Calcutta firms who buy raw hides for export.

Tanning materials.—Although there are quite a number of tanning materials available in the Madras Presidency, the export tanners use only three, of which two are barks and the third a fruit. Of these materials, the bark of Cassia Auriculata (Avaram, Tangedu, Turwad, Tanner's Cassia, etc.) is the most important as this material is the basis of all the best tannages. This shrub is plentiful in most parts of the Presidency, particularly so in the Ceded Districts, but never grows in thick clumps and is always scattered so that the collection of the stick is a slow and costly business. The bark must be stripped off the sticks within an hour or two of the cutting as otherwise it becomes impossible to remove. The right of collection of this bark on Government ground is sold by auction for various periods. This material was in the pre-war era, second only to Sicilian Shumach, in being the most expensive tanning material per unit of tan*. The high price is chiefly due to—(1) the cost of collecting the sticks; (2) the time taken to strip the bark from off them; (3) the light weight of the product; (4) the prices paid at auction for the right of collection. This bark has properties that make it the simplest of materials to use for tanning and this makes it particularly suitable for use with the class of labour and supervision available here.

The bark of Cassia Fistula (Konam Relu, Amaltas, Indian Laburnum) is used either as a substitute for part of the avaram bark or in a few tanneries in the North of the Presidency to replace it altogether. When used with care it gives a leather only slightly inferior in colour and general appearance to that tanned with avaram. The leather has the same fault of darkening if exposed to light that avaram tanned leather has. The bark contains less tannin than avaram, but is much cheaper to collect owing to its heavier nature. The tree coppices easily and is worked regularly in certain parts of the Northern Districts. The price of this bark fluctuates even more than avaram and its unit value is also exceedingly high when compared with most other materials used in India or elsewhere.

Myrabolams.†—The dried fruit of Terminalia Chebula are used to fix the colour of the leather and the Madras Tanner is exceedingly particular as to the quality of the myrabolams that he uses and prefers those grown in the Shevaroy Hills to any others. This quality, known as Salem Myrabols, is decidedly richer in tannin than most others, and is also of a very light colour, so that it pays the tanner of the very highest class of hides and skins to use them although they usually cost from two to three times the amount that others do.

Water used.—The water used by the South Indian Tanners is almost always obtained from shallow wells or tanks. It varies very greatly in character and is exceedingly impure in many cases. Water from certain tanneries examined in the Leather Trades Institute, Madras, has contained well over 100 parts per 100,000 of both temporary and permanent hardness together with considerable quantities of chlorides, so that no tanner using modern methods could possibly make a saleable leather with it, and yet the Madras tanner with his avaram tannage turns out quite a good article. There are, on the other hand, waters much less impure that seem quite unsuitable for this tannage and as the reasons for this are not understood, the Leather Trades Institute is now conducting research work on this subject.

The Maistris—Till quite recently, the working of the tanneries was entirely in the hands of "Maistris" or working foremen and in many cases the tannery owners knew practically nothing about the processes used. Now many of the owners are keen tanners and do most of the supervision themselves. The coolies that do the work in the tanneries are in all cases of the very lowest castes and are usually exceedingly irregular in their work, keeping what hours they like and only working after they have received large advances on their pay which the tanner has to recover over a long period. This system of giving advances leads to much trouble as in some cases the coolies take a second advance from another tanner before the first advance has been recovered in full, which naturally leads to complications. The processes used in different tanneries are almost identical, and vary only very slightly in small details according to the class of material being worked and the labour employed.

The following is a short account of the process as carried out in Hide tanneries*. In Skin tanneries, slightly less time is taken in each part of the process.

Soaking.—Soaking is always done in fresh water without any addition. The use of putrid soaks, which are supposed to have been used some years ago, is now unknown. The softening of dried hides is usually helped by working them on the flesh with a knife when thrown over a palmyra beam, whilst cured hides are worked in the same way to remove mud. Drums and other mechanical contrivances are never used, but tramping is occasionally done to help the washing and softening. Twelve to twenty-four hours in soaks is seldom exceeded in the hotter parts of the year and forty-eight in the cold weather.

Liming.—The tendency during the last ten years has been to shorten the liming and to use fresher limes. Most tanners now complete the process in from six to twelve days and they give each pack a fresh lime. The hides are handled at least once a day. This is done by the cooly standing in the pit bringing the hides to the surface with his feet and lifting them on to the edge of the pit with his hands. He then stirs up the lime and throws in the hides again and tramples them down.

Unhairing and Fleshing.—Unhairing and fleshing are always done by hand over a palmyra palm beam with a knife similar to the English unhairing knife but lighter and more curved so as to suit the curve of the beam. Both unhairing and fleshing is done with the concave edge of the knife and this has an advantage over the use of the convex edge of the English fleshing knife in that a broad cut is not so hollow in the centre.

Deliming.—Deliming is always partial and never complete and is carried out by alternately washing in water and scudding with the same knife used for unhairing. Hides are often scudded as many as four or even six times. The washing is usually done in fairly large shallow tanks and the process is helped by tramping.

Tanning.—The tanning process proper is divided into two parts, firstly treatment in bark and secondly in myrabolams. The Indian tanner does not consider myrabolams a tanning material in exactly the same way as bark and in one case where a tanner was prosecuted for tanning skins when this was prohibited, his defence was that he was only using myrabolams and that the use of bark was essential in "tanning," making leather by means of myrabs being only "dhori." Hides are brought from the final scudding operation and are floated into an old avaram liquor, through which several packs of hides have previously passed, and are handled in this several times. A certain amount of bark is then thrown between the hides, and they are left overnight, and again handled the following morning, the same bark being again spread between the hides. After from 7 to 10 days in this bark during which time they are handled daily, the hides are taken out and squeezed as dry as possible by twisting them between two bamboos. The hides are now well-worked on the flesh with a fleshing knife and any small portions of flesh missed in the fleshing process are thus removed. They are then given a second and third bark in each of which they remain from 7 to 10 days and are squeezed out and worked over the beam. This squeezing and working is a very important factor in the resultant leather as the more thoroughly it is done the better set out will be the finished leather. The penetration of the tannin is also accelerated by these processes. After the third bark the average run of hides is considered tanned but heavies are given a fourth and extra heavies a fifth bark. The amount of bark given in the different stages varies in every tannery but a total of about $3\frac{1}{2}$ lb. for each pound of dried leather is about the average where pure avaram is used. Usually from $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$ lb. are given in the first bath, 1 lb. in the second and $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ lb. in the third. Where konam is used larger quantities must be given.

* See Indian Munitions Board Hand-book "Result of working the Government Tannery at Dharavi, Bombay" by G. W. Macfarlane.

The myrabolam bath which follows consists in laying away the hides for three or four days in a fresh myrabolam infusion made by boiling up broken myrabolams in water and allowing the stew to cool. In use, care is taken that there is a certain amount of the pulp between each hide. After this the hides are removed, squeezed again and worked out and are then ready for oiling off.

Finishing—Oil is applied by sprinkling and then rubbing in with the hand and piling the hides one on another. After being in pile for some time the hides are hung up to sam (half dry). All drying is natural air drying, as no tannery has any arrangement for expediting drying in bad weather so that in damp weather leather is often damaged by mould. The sammed hides are set out with a copper slicker, dried out, and are then ready for sale.

Previously, the flesh of the hides was often coated with a paste of flour and grease to which other weighting matters were often added. This practice was prohibited during the control, with the result that a decided improvement in the flaying of hides was noted.

Softening—Two tanners of skins have scudding machines and one or two have pumps driven by power but these are the only cases where power is used in any of the export tanneries.

Skins are softened by staking and the flesh is rubbed with a rough hard burnt brick to smoothen it before packing for export.

This process produces a leather that for many purposes can hardly be improved on but it has some very serious defects in that (1) the amount of labour necessary in the tannery is very great indeed, (2) a very large proportion of the tannin from the bark and myrabolams is wasted as very little more than 60 per cent is used in either case; (3) this leather is unsuitable for book-binding or other similar uses as it is found that it gradually deteriorates on keeping especially if exposed to the fumes of gas or of coal fires.

Consignments.—As a rule skins are sent by the tanners on consignment to the London public auctions under their own mark, whilst hides are sold to merchants in Madras who select and classify them into well known classes and qualities and then export them either for sale by auction or private sale or in execution of orders previously received. The business is very speculative as raw material has to be bought for final sale at a period of at least four months afterwards.

The South Indian Tanner—It is often asked if it would not be possible for the South Indian Tanner to finish the hides or skins more profitably than the European firms engaged in this trade as labour is so much more plentiful and less costly in South India than in Europe. In answer to this it must be mentioned that the European manufacturers have the following advantages over any firm here in that:—(1) their labour is already trained and is more adaptable than Indian labour; (2) they are near the market for the finished leather and so can follow the demand much more easily and do not have to guess what the fancies of Dame Fashion will be so long in advance, (3) as the chief market for crust leather is London they have a greater choice of suitable material and are able to get larger quantities of a suitable selection than would be possible here.

When the experiments carried out by Mr. (now Sir Alfred) Chatterton at the School of Arts, Madras, had shown that it was possible to make chrome leather in India the Government of Madras hired a local tannery to work the process on a commercial scale. Students were allowed to follow the working of the process but unfortunately most of them had no previous knowledge of tanning and many of them left with the idea that the possession of a formula was all that was necessary to make a successful chrome tanner. As a result practically none of these students were of any use when they met the usual difficulties which always arise in starting a new process.

Leather Trades Institute.—In 1915 the present Leather Trades Institute was opened with the double aim of teaching future tanners the practice and theory of tanning and finishing of leather in all its branches, and for research in the processes used in the trade. To begin with, very few students from Madras joined the Institute but at the present time the great majority are from Madras or neighbourhood. The greater part of the time of the staff has so far been taken up in teaching and very little time has been available for research so that no very valuable results have so far been achieved in this direction, but work that has been in progress for some time is now beginning to show results. During the last two years two bulletins* have been published and it is hoped that it will be possible to publish others very shortly, which will be of value to the trade.

Classification of jails.—There are ten Central Jails (9 permanent and one temporary) and 4 district jails. The temporary jail was opened for the confinement of prisoners concerned in the Mappilla rebellion of 1921. There are also two special jails, viz, (1) the Borstal Institution, Tanjore, for the confinement of adolescent prisoners (of ages between 15 and 23) and (2) the Civil Jail, Madras, for civil prisoners admitted within the city of Madras. Central Jails are those in which prisoners sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for one year and upwards and prisoners sentenced to transportation are confined, these are also District Jails for the districts in which they are situated. Two Central Jails have been set apart for the confinement of habitual offenders—one for the Tamil and the other for the Telugu districts. Each of the Central and District Jails (except one of the latter class) is under the charge of a whole-time Superintendent. The appointment of Inspector-General of Prisons and four

* The classification of staff is explained at page 773.

Superintendentships of Central Jails are reserved for commissioned Medical Officers of the Indian Medical Service.

Visitors of jails—The Surgeon-General, the Director of Public Health, the Deputy Director of Public Health, all Presidency Magistrates, the Commissioner of Police, Sessions Judges, District Magistrates, Sub-Divisional Magistrates and Inspectors of Schools, are ex-officio visitors of jails within their jurisdictions. Non-official visitors are also appointed by the Government for the jails in the city of Madras and by District Magistrates for the mutassal jails. Lady non-official visitors are appointed for jails in which female prisoners are confined.

Remission system—Remissions of sentence are granted for good conduct, the days gained being liable to forfeiture for prison offences. A convict may ordinarily earn three days' remission in a month, if he behaves well and performs the task imposed. Selected casual convicts may be employed as night watchmen, overseers and convict warders; they earn money gratuities and are granted in addition special remission and other privileges.

Education in jails—Elementary education is imparted in all jails to prisoners under 30 years of age by a paid teaching staff. Lectures on moral and religious subjects are delivered by honorary lecturers, and on sanitary matters by the medical subordinates attached to jails. Technical instruction is given to convicts employed in the various industrial departments to enable them to earn their livelihood on release. Each jail is provided with a library and the prisoners are given facilities for reading and study. Recreation is provided for well-behaved prisoners in Association wards between lock-up and sleeping time.

Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society.—A Central Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society has been organized at Madras and several district committees have been formed at various centres for helping deserving prisoners, reclaiming habitual offenders and reducing crime.

Sub-jails.—At the headquarters of each Sub-Magistrate is a subsidiary jail in which unconvicted prisoners, remand or undertrial, and convicts sentenced to imprisonment for not more than one month are generally committed and confined; these subsidiary jails are superintended by Sub-Magistrates; they are inspected periodically by District and Sub-Divisional Magistrates and by District Medical Officers. There are 5 special sub-jails under the direct control of the Inspector-General of Prisons where prisoners of long sentences are confined and to which the remission system and the appointment of convict officers, applicable to Central and District Jails, are extended. There is a Reformatory School at Chingleput for the reception of juvenile offenders under the age of 15 years.

General summary.—The daily average population of all classes of prisoners during 1921 was 15,985.60 as compared with 15,427.99 in the previous year. There was serious overcrowding in almost all jails during the latter part of the year owing to the Mappilla rebellion in Malabar, and it became necessary to open a separate camp jail at Bellary for the confinement of Mappilla prisoners. The number of youthful offenders under the age of 15 advanced from 24 to 48 which includes 20 Mappilla juveniles. Six adolescents were conditionally released during the year from the Borstal Institution, Tanjore, for employment under well-known firms. There were 65 escapes during the year of which 51 were from the Central Jail, Trichinopoly, in consequence of the Non-Co-operation and Khilafat agitation in the town and its vicinity. Corporal punishment was inflicted on 4 prisoners against 3 in the previous year. The daily average sick fell as compared with the previous year in spite of the rise in prison population but the mortality rate rose slightly, viz., from 308 in 1920 to 339 in 1921, the increase being due to the bad state of health in which the Mappilla rebels were received. The total expenditure and the cost per head of maintenance of prisoners declined during the year from Rs 19,62,074 and Rs 127-2-10 to

Rs 18,68,881 and Rs 116-14-6 due to the favourable rates at which ration articles were purchased. There were larger cash earnings and manufactory assets during the year than in any previous year, owing to larger orders received from the various Government consuming departments.

Special Officer for Depressed Classes.—In pursuance of a resolution moved by the Hon'ble Mr. Dadahboy in the Imperial Legislative Council in March 1916 the Government undertook an exhaustive inquiry into the work that had already been done for the improvement of the depressed and backward classes including aborigines and the scope of the work that still had to be undertaken. Even before the completion of this inquiry orders were issued by the Madras Government in March 1919 sanctioning the appointment of a Special Officer for the protection of the depressed classes, and Mr. G. F. Paddison was elected for the purpose. But Mr. Paddison's services were meanwhile required as Settlement and Famine Commissioner and although he was able to exercise general supervision over the work which had been started in Godavari and Tanjore in connexion with the housing of the landless members of the depressed classes, it was not until October 1919 that he was free to devote his whole time to the special work.

Labour Commissioner and his function.—The inquiry which was commenced in March 1916 was completed in 1920 and a large volume of useful information was collected. The Government thereupon came to the conclusion that it was not sufficient to confine the duties of the Special Officer to what were commonly known as the depressed classes but that it was necessary to include within the scope of his duties all depressed and backward classes, in other words, labour in general. In pursuance of this policy, Government issued orders in February 1920 developing the duties of the Special Officer into those of a Commissioner of Labour to whom were entrusted the following branches of work.—

- 1 Amelioration of the condition of the depressed classes,
- 2 Management and control of criminal settlements,
- 3 Administration of the Indian Factories Act,
- 4 Wages Census,
- 5 Emigration of labour and inquiry into the working of the Madras Planters' Labour Act and the Workmen's Breach of Contract Act;
6. Labour questions including the organization of labour, recognition and registration of labour unions, co-operative housing and the co-ordination of unofficial assistance for the health and welfare of labour in general;
- 7 The reclamation of Kallars.

Depressed Classes.—From the economic point of view the depressed classes are suffering from many disabilities. They seldom own the land on which their huts are built and are thus liable to eviction at short notice. It is also very difficult for them to secure the assignment of cultivable waste on patta, Caste prejudices have further largely deprived them of any share in the educational facilities by which other sections of the community have greatly benefited. Debarred by custom from the village wells, they have to rely on insanitary and inadequate drinking water sources. Experience has shown that to ensure any substantial or continuous progress in measures for the relief of depressed classes entertainment of a special staff is essential. The work that had been started in Tanjore and Godavari under Deputy Collectors subsequently designated as Assistant Commissioners of Labour was organized and expanded in 1920, and, later in the year, similar work was undertaken in Chingleput district. Special operations were also started in May 1921 on a small scale in the South Arcot district under the supervision of the Assistant Commissioner of Labour, Tanjore. But the Legislative Council during the voting of grants for 1922-23 decided to abolish the posts of the Assistant Labour Commissioners on the ground that the staff employed was very costly. In September 1922 officers of the grade of Tahsildars were appointed to take the place of the Assistant Labour Commissioners and the work was entrusted to the immediate control of the District Collectors concerned subject to the general supervision of the Commissioner. These Special Tahsildars are now known as District Labour Officers. In South Arcot alone the work is being continued by the Revenue Divisional Officer, Chidambaram. In those districts of the Presidency in which a special staff of this Department is not working, such help as is possible is given to the depressed classes with the aid of Collectors or charitable or philanthropic bodies.

The number of schools and co-operative societies started and the extent of land acquired up to date for house-sites, etc., for the depressed classes are given in the table below. Besides this, large extents of poramboke and forest lands have been reserved in all the districts of the Presidency for assignment to the depressed classes for cultivation.

			ACRES.
Tanjore ...	144	189	313.30
Godavari ...	72	164	228.03

The City Tenants Protection Act of 1922 which was passed into law at the instance of the Labour Commissioner is a piece of legislation which will be of special benefit to the depressed classes. By this Act many Adiravidra tenants who in many parts of the City had erected buildings on other lands, were relieved from the constant threat of eviction by the landlords. There has been a great advance in the last few years in respect of the representation of the depressed classes on the local boards. At present, 17 out of 25 District Boards, 66 out of 125 Taluk Boards and 46 out of 79 Municipal Councils have representatives of the depressed classes on them, the total number of such representatives amounting to 136.

Criminal Settlements.—The Criminal Tribes Act, 1911, had its origin in the report of the Indian Police Commission 1902-03. Under the provisions of the Act the Local Government is empowered to settle any notified criminal tribe in a definite locality where endeavours are made to wean the inmates from their criminal ways and bring them up as self-respecting citizens. Eleven settlements were organized of which one has recently been abolished. The establishment and management of these criminal settlements and the general administration of the Act are considered sufficiently important in some of the other provinces to justify the appointment of Special Officers. In Madras these duties had been attended to till recently by District Magistrates or the Commissioner of Police, Madras, assisted for some time by the Deputy Inspector-General of Police, Railways and C.I.D. The general supervision of the settlements has now been entrusted to the Commissioner of Labour, the immediate control being left to the District Magistrates as before. The management of each settlement is entrusted to the Settlement Manager subject to the immediate control of the District Magistrates concerned and the general supervision of the Commissioner. The Madras Government have always held that in order that such settlements may prove successful they should be placed as far as possible under non-official agencies and have endeavoured to arrange accordingly. Of the ten settlements now in existence, five are under the management of the Salvation Army who have experience of and a special organization for this class of work, one is under the American Baptist Mission, one under a private firm and the remaining three are managed directly by Government.

Redemption of Kallars.—There is a Kallar Special Officer who is in immediate charge of this work. The work of this officer is directed to two ends, the suppression of crime and improvement of the economic conditions of the community. These ends are sought to be achieved by means of the creation of panchayats, the starting of schools, industrial centres and co-operative societies and the grant of lands. A special staff is placed at the disposal of the Kallar Special Officer to assist him in his work including a Deputy Tahsildar and Revenue Inspectors, Police staff and Supervisors of Schools.

The grant of lands, the imparting of instruction in industries, the formation of co-operative societies, the founding of schools and the starting of panchayats are rapidly changing the Kallars of Madura into orderly citizens. In all 169 schools, 501 panchayats and 9 industrial centres have been started. A special staff has also been working for the securing of land to Kallars. The reclamation work has recently been extended to Ramnad district.

Administration of the Indian Factories Act.—The administration of the Factories Act in this Province was in the hands of the Board of Revenue, Separate Revenue. The member in charge of this department had, however, little time to attend to this special work. Under the Act, the Factory Inspectors had to deal largely with questions of the hours of labour, overcrowding, sanitation, and other matters affecting the welfare of labourers. The Government considered that these were matters which should properly be managed by the Commissioner of Labour and therefore placed the Factory Inspectors under his control. The factories are inspected by three Circle Inspectors, each having a separate jurisdiction and a Chief Inspector who checks the work of the other Inspectors in addition to being in direct charge of Madras City and the districts of Chingleput and Nellore.

To give effect to the recommendations of the Washington Labour Conference, the Indian Factories Act, 1911, was thoroughly revised and the amended Act took effect from 1st July 1922. The chief features of the amendment are as follows:—(1) all factories employing not less than 20 persons are brought under the Act with power to Local Government to include factories employing 10 persons and above, (2) raising of the minimum age of children from 9 to 12 for employment in factories, and (3) all tea and coffee factories which satisfy the requisite conditions are brought under the Act. The number of factories under the new Act rose from 545 at the beginning of the year to 769 at the end of December 1922. The staff was reorganized and increased so as to cope with the work. An investigation to prescribe standards of humidity in cotton mills was conducted by a Special Officer appointed by the Government of India.

Wages census.—The usual quinquennial census of urban and rural wages was taken in 1921. The method adopted in the census of 1921 was different from that of the previous years. The principal change introduced in this census was division of Presidency into homogenous tracts instead of taking each district as the unit. There was also a change in the classification of labourers. On the whole the wages of artisans, ploughmen and other agricultural labourers have generally risen but no useful comparison of the statistics of the present census can be made with those of the previous ones in view of the changes mentioned above in regard to the method of compiling the statistics.

Labour situation—The labour situation was generally calm during the year 1922. Almost all the labour unions are either defunct or are working with much less vigour than in the previous year. In the year 1922 there were 13 principal strikes in the Presidency and the number of men involved in them totalled about 4,400.

A Workers' Welfare Committee consisting of representatives of the management and of the workers was constituted in the Buckingham and Carnatic Mills early in 1922. This Committee is doing excellent work and it is believed that if similar committees are started in other large industrial concerns it will materially help to maintain cordial relationship between capital and labour.

Land Revenue Administration in the Madras Presidency.

The Board of Revenue.—For purposes of general administration the Presidency is divided into 26 districts, each under a District Collector and Magistrate, who is generally a member of the Indian Civil Service. Each district with the exception of Madras and Anjengo contains two or more divisions, a division again comprises one or more taluks, each of which is under the jurisdiction of a Tahsildar. The Agency portions in the Ganjam, Vizagapatam and Godavari districts have been constituted into a separate division and placed in charge of the Agency Commissioner who corresponds directly with Government. The Collectors as Revenue Officers are subject directly to the control of the Board of Revenue which consists of three Members. The revenue jurisdiction of each Member of the Board of Revenue extends over the whole Presidency and the work of the Board is distributed among the Members under Madras Act I of 1894, but orders on important matters are passed by the full Board. Two members of the Board are Commissioners of Land Revenue and Settlement and one is Commissioner of Salt, Abkari and Separate Revenue. The Separate Revenue Commissioner is also the Inam Commissioner. Under the Commissioner of Land Revenue and Settlement is the Director of Survey. The Members of the Board of Revenue are also the Court of Wards. The Collector of Madras is also the Superintendent of Stationery, Paymaster of Carnatic Stipends and Protector of Emigrants and has under him a Medical Inspector of Emigrants.

The Collector and the Divisional Officers—The Collector as District Magistrate is primarily responsible for the maintenance of law and order and for the administration of criminal justice by the magistracy within his jurisdiction and for the proper working of the Police. As Collector he is the official head of his district and it is his duty to see that land revenue, income-tax and revenue derived from forest and abkari or excise are duly collected and he is officially responsible for all public money lodged in the district and subordinate treasuries. The maintenance of the numerous land records by the village officials, the state of the crops, the economic condition of the people and the grant of remissions of land revenue demand his constant attention. He has under him a small engineering establishment for the upkeep of the tanks and other irrigation works, which irrigate less than 200 acres of land. He fixes the number and sites of shops for the sale of intoxicating liquor and drugs (1) in urban areas in consultation with local committees appointed for the purpose and (2) in other areas in consultation with the District Superintendent of Police and it rests with him to accept or to reject the bids offered for the rights of vend in such shops at the annual auctions which are held by the Divisional Officers. In Zamindari tracts his Divisional Officers decide suits and generally regulate the relations between landholders and ryots under the Madras Estates Land Act I of 1908. The administration of the District and Local Boards having been transferred to private bodies, the Collector and his Divisional Officers have been relieved of all responsibility connected with Local Fund Administration. The Collector is also called on to deal with such emergencies as famine—of the approach of which it is his duty to warn the Government—plague and the movements of troops. Certain Collectors are also political agents to Native States within their districts. Many of the Collector's powers and much of his patronage are exercised by his subordinates and much of his time is occupied with the disposal of appeals preferred against the orders of his Divisional Officers. A Divisional Officer, if a member of the I.C.S., is called a Sub-Collector and Joint Magistrate, and, if a member of the Provincial service, is termed a Deputy Collector and Magistrate, but this distinction carries with it no corresponding differentiation of powers. A Divisional Officer exercises within his division most of the ordinary powers of a Collector, but with a few exceptions an appeal lies to the District Collector against his orders. The powers and patronage of a Divisional Officer of not less than 6 years' service are somewhat larger than those of other Divisional Officers. The taluks are divided for revenue purposes into firkas each of which comprises about a score of villages and is in charge of an officer called a Revenue Inspector.

Village officers.—The lowest unit for administrative purposes is the village. In each village there is a headman, sometimes called the patel or reddi or monegar or munsif, an accountant, who is generally called the karnam, and a staff of menial servants. These officers, who used to receive no remuneration in money but held certain lands on favourable terms, are now given fixed salaries, the pay of a headman in Government villages being Rs. 15 and that of the accountant varying from Rs. 15 to 25. In some districts these offices are hereditary but hereditary considerations may be neglected if the candidate for the office of headman or karnam is not educationally or otherwise fit to hold office. The headman is responsible for the collection of revenue and its remittance to the taluk treasury, in his capacity of village magistrate he can try petty cases and must maintain law and order in his village and report the occurrence of serious crimes, the movements of criminal gangs, etc., to the police, as village munsif he is a petty civil court, he is registrar of births and deaths, it is generally his duty to see that water is duly distributed to irrigate lands from Government sources and he has numerous other duties. The accountant is responsible for the maintenance and custody of the accounts and land records relating to the village. During the cultivation season he has to record the crop raised in each field, the area in which it is raised and an estimate of its outturn. He is required to have an elementary knowledge of survey and to assist the headman in collections and in judicial work.

Land tenure.—The chief varieties of land tenures are the ryotwari tenure and the ordinary inam tenure. The ryotwari system of holding under the Government has now been the principal tenure of this Presidency for over three quarters of a century. The pattadar or registered holder of the land under the ryotwari system is, as regards Government, the responsible proprietor of the land entered against his name in the land register of the village so long as he pays the assessment and is not legally dispossessed. If a registered pattadar improves his holding he is not chargeable with any additional assessment for such improvements. He is bound to pay the assessment fixed on his field or holding, whether cultivated, waste or fallow in the prescribed instalment unless it be remitted in accordance with the rules. The registered pattadar is entitled to work minerals on his land but is liable to pay therefor a separate assessment in addition to the assessment above referred to which is for surface cultivation. When assessed lands in a village are unoccupied, it is open to any individual whether resident of the village or not to apply for the land to be held by him under the terms of the ryotwari tenure. When there are two or more applicants for the same land preference is given to the person who has occupied the land and has spent money or labour in improving it, preference is also shown in the case of a person who has been enjoying the usufruct of the trees on the land on payment of tree-tax or who has been using the water of a well on the land for cultivation. Military service rendered in the late war by an applicant is also recognized as a preferential claim. Subject to these and other analogous considerations, preference is, as a rule, given to the first applicant. Darkhasts or applications for unoccupied lands are in the first instance disposed of by the Tahsildar. From his decision an appeal lies to the Divisional Officer if made within thirty days and no second appeal is admitted; but powers of revision are given to the Collector and the Board of Revenue in certain special circumstances. With a view to ameliorate the condition of the depressed classes lands are reserved for their exclusive benefit and assignments are made subject to conditions against alienation.

Applications for the transfer of registry of pattas are made in the office of the Collector or of some other duly authorized officer. When the application is bona fide a patta is issued in the name of the proper person and the necessary alterations are made in the village accounts.

Ryots are permitted to relinquish their lands provided they apply sufficiently early in the season to enable others to commence cultivation upon them. The dates up to which ryots are permitted to relinquish their lands vary in the several districts so as to follow the first rains in each district. The lands relinquished must be accessible to others, otherwise the relinquishment will not be accepted.

Land tenure in Malabar and South Kanara.—The land tenure in Malabar and in the Wynaad is governed by an Act called the Malabar Land Registration Act, 1896, which enables the Collector to ascertain and register the names of the jenmis from whom the land revenue is to be collected. There are special rules in force relating to land tenures in South Kanara.

Inam tenure.—When the State has given up its right to the land revenue or a portion of it in favour of an individual or an institution whether for the performance of certain duties or otherwise, the grant is termed as inam or maniam. In the year 1858 a commission was established to examine the titles of the possessors of inams, to continue those that were still required for religious, charitable or village service and to enfranchise others, if the possessors wished, by commutting for a moderate quit-rent the rights of the Government to prevent alienation, to resume or to demand service. The conditions of the inam grant must in each case be observed by the holder and the Government claim an absolute right to adjudicate as to the proper fulfilment of those conditions. In the case of Village Service inams the holders are bound to perform certain administrative duties and are styled village officers; the succession to these inams is governed by a special enactment and is hereditary in most districts. The inams attached to the more important village offices have, however, been enfranchised and the village officers are now remunerated by money salaries.

Unassigned lands.—Unassigned lands outside the recognized limits of any village are insignificant on the plains, but they abound on the hill ranges which are largely uninhabited. Special rules have been enacted for assignment of unoccupied lands in planting areas such as the Nilgiris, Malabar, Wynaad, the Shevaroyis in the Salem district, the Palnis and Kodaikanal taluks in the Madura district, the assignment being subject to an initial payment.

Zamindaris.—In the case of zamindaris and permanently-settled estates, the land has been assigned in perpetuity with a proprietary title as against the Government. The land revenue technically called 'peshkash' is a charge on the land and is fixed in perpetuity in accordance with the Permanent Settlement Regulation 25 of 1802. The mutual rights and obligations of Government and the Zamindars or proprietors are regulated by the terms of the Sanad or deed of permanent settlement granted to them. The estates for which no sanads have been granted are called unsettled palaiyams. The important difference between these and the permanently-settled estates is that in the case of the former the Government have the power to resume the grant at pleasure or to alter or revise the conditions on which they are held as for example by revising the amount of revenue paid by the holders.

Sources of Land Revenue and Collections

(For fasli 1331, i.e., from 1st July 1921 to 30th June 1922).

The land revenue of the Madras Presidency is derived from the following sources, viz., (1) Peshkash or revenue from permanently-settled estates, (2) Shrotriyam Jodi or quit-rent levied on inam villages, (3) assessment including water-rate on lands held under the ryotwari system, (4) miscellaneous revenue, and (5) proprietary estates' village service. The total current demand under land revenue and cesses amounted to Rs. 800.17 lakhs of which Rs. 774.94 lakhs was collected within the fasli. The revenue from peshkash was Rs. 49.87 lakhs and that from shrotriyam jodi Rs. 7.53 lakhs. The net ryotwari demand excluding remissions but including second crop charge and miscellaneous revenue amounted to Rs. 654.67 lakhs. The total extent of ryotwari holdings during the year was 26.23 million acres and the assessment thereon Rs. 541.29 lakhs. Including the area under miscellaneous cultivation the total area cropped on ryotwari holdings was 20.86 million acres. The area under wet was 4,875,400 acres and that under dry 14,965,613 acres. The revenue from water-rate and second crop charge was Rs. 32.60 lakhs. The amount of remissions granted with reference to the state of the season was Rs. 9.09 lakhs, while fixed remissions and assignments of revenue amounted to Rs. 10.44 lakhs. The receipts under miscellaneous revenue were Rs. 100.31 lakhs and the current demand under cesses was Rs. 81.65 lakhs. The total balance of land revenue and cesses outstanding at the end of the fasli, including both arrears and current, was Rs. 27.64 lakhs.

Up to the end of December 1922, Rs. 21.16 lakhs had been collected and the net recoverable balance on the 1st January 1923 was Rs. 5.53 lakhs. The charges of district administration including salaries and allowances of revenue inspectors but excluding those of village establishments were Rs. 102.38 lakhs or 13 per cent of the land revenue and cesses realized. It must, however, be noted that the superior revenue establishment is extensively used for judicial and other non-revenue work. Including the village service charges which amounted to Rs. 108.49 lakhs the total charges were Rs 210·87 lakhs or 27·2 per cent of the collections of land revenue and cesses Coercive processes.—The total number of coercive processes issued during the fasli was 787,752 including 4,894 cases of sales. The percentage of actual sales to the sale notices was 12·78 and the percentage of defaulters whose property was actually sold to the total number of pattas was 0·10. Immovable property of the estimated value of Rs 2·81 lakhs was sold for the recovery of arrears amounting to Rs. 0·69 lakh and realized Rs 0·86 lakh. The total area of land bought in by Government for want of bidders was 5,180 acres of dry and 523 acres of wet.

Transfer of registration.—Transfers of revenue registration fall under two main heads—

(1) Applications and notices received from Sub-Registrars

(2) Applications and intimations received from parties, village officers and others

Under the first head 332,319 applications were received during the fasli and the number received under the second was 75,328. The total number of applications for disposal including the previous year's pendency was 604,169 of which 150,513 were left pending at the close of the fasli. Of the number disposed of, 26,143 or 5·77 per cent were rejected

Loans and advances.—The advances made during the year under the Land Improvement Loans Act and the Agriculturists' Loans Act were Rs 8·22 lakhs and Rs 18·16 lakhs respectively. The rate of interest charged on advances granted to cultivators under these Acts was raised from 6½ to 7½ per cent per annum from 1st April 1921. Of the sums repayable during the year, viz., Rs 4·91 lakhs under the former Act and Rs 9·95 lakhs under the latter, the amount collected was 71·2 and 61·0 per cent respectively. The aggregate amount of principal and interest repayable under both the Acts was Rs. 20·03 lakhs of which about 18·7 per cent was collected without resort to coercion and 38·2 per cent after the issue of demand notices. The balance outstanding at the end of the year was Rs. 6·81 lakhs Incidence of Land Revenue.

The last quinquennial statement was prepared for the agricultural year ending June 1919. According to this statement the average incidence per head of population in the ryotwari tracts of the Presidency was Rs. 2-0-6. The incidence in whole inam and zamindari villages was As. 8-8 and As. 11-11. An extract from that statement is appended showing figures for each district

Survey Department.

Budget allotment for 1922-23 :—Rs. 13,11,960.

* Staff.—Class I (4); Class II (7); Class III (20), Class IV (47), Class V (1,029), Class VI (168).

The first attempt at a survey of lands in the Madras Presidency for fiscal purposes was made in the first quarter of the nineteenth century. The record of survey, called "paimash," consisted of an account of the measurement, conducted in a primitive fashion, of fields, their tenure at the time, and their areas taken on the well known rough and ready "khasra" method. The paimash measurements which were generally inaccurate could not lend themselves to the compilation of maps of fields (much less of villages), so that the location of fields was often either uncertain or hopeless.

2 To remedy this defect, the Madras Government ordered, in 1833, an experimental survey in South Arcot, thereafter discussed the question of a general professional survey of the Presidency and finally submitted a scheme which was approved by the Government of India. The scheme was sanctioned by the Court of Directors in December 1856, and the Madras Survey Department came into being in 1858 with a Superintendent to control its affairs.

Cadastral Survey.—The object of a Cadastral survey, in Madras, has been the delimitation of village and field boundaries, the preparation of village and field maps showing these boundaries and topographical details and of land registers containing particulars as to the number of fields and subdivisions, tenure ownership, etc.

The following maps are prepared and published by the Madras Survey.—

(a) Field atlases in manuscript, generally on scale 40" = 1 mile, showing for each field, its outer and interior subdivision boundaries, topo details, all its measurements and its area—prepared by surveyors in field.

(b) Village maps, on scale 16" = 1 mile, showing boundaries of all survey fields, important topo details, and the total village area—prepared in Party Offices and printed in the Central Office.

(c) Taluk and Zamindari maps, generally on scale 1" = 1 mile, showing village boundaries and important topo details—compiled and printed in the Central Office.

(d) Touring maps, one for each district, on scale 1" = 4 miles, showing taluk boundaries, towns, important villages and topo details—hills excepted—compiled and printed in the Central Office.

(e) District Atlas, in a bound volume containing a separate map for each district, on scales varying with size, from 1" = 23 miles to 12 miles excepting that of Madras which is on scale 24" = 1 mile and showing nearly the same details as the district touring map, but hills (vertical shading) in addition.

(f) Presidency Atlas on scale 1" = 12 miles showing district and taluk boundaries and the most important towns, villages and topographical details, including hills and drawn in sections so as to admit of these being joined to form a wall map, size 76" x 65".

Besides the above, the Central Survey Office has been compiling and printing, since 1911, 1 inch traverse charts and outline sheets covering the surveyed area of this Presidency to expedite the progress of the supplemental topographical operations that the Survey of India is now conducting in South India.

Resurvey—The initial cadastral survey of the ryotwari villages of the Presidency was completed in 1896. Meanwhile, the question of the extent to which the surveys theretofore conducted served current needs of administration came up for consideration. It was then noticed that as no attempts had been made to keep the surveys up to date, the few stones that were planted in the sixties and a large percentage of those fixed later, had disappeared, and the village maps originally published were out of date, there being little correspondence between the survey record and the actual occupation on ground. A resurvey was then ordered of Trichinopoly district and commenced in 1891. More districts followed suit.

About 1904 a new idea developed itself, that is of substituting for the costly resurvey an apparently cheaper method of survey called "revision survey" which consisted of

(1) replacement of missing survey stones, and

(2) measurement of existing subdivisions, without the whole village area being dealt with as in a resurvey, and confined to areas where

(a) the percentage of missing stones was comparatively low, and

(b) the original survey record of measurement was sufficient for their replacement and for future maintenance.

As, however, the results of this method of survey were disappointing, for the reason that the economy expected from it was not realized and that the resultant survey record compared unfavourably with that of a resurvey, it was, subsequently, abandoned in favour of a regular resurvey. Resurvey is now in progress in the districts of Tanjore, Trichinopoly, Malabar, Kistna and Godavari.

Special surveys.—Collaterally with the ordinary resurveys, the Madras Survey has been making other special surveys, such as

(1) Town surveys.—These are made on the application of Municipal Councils, being required for a proper definition of the limits of private and public properties, whereby encroachments on streets, etc., can be effectively checked. Up to date, 29 towns have been surveyed and mapped, 23 towns have been surveyed but remain to be mapped, and the survey of 32 towns is either suspended or awaits requisition for survey from the Councils concerned. In the case of towns other than Madras two-thirds of the cost of survey is debitable to the Municipality and the balance to Government.

(2) Local Fund road surveys.—These are made on the application and at the cost of District Boards.

(3) Street surveys in unions.—These are also conducted at the instance of District Boards who bear one-third of the cost, two thirds being paid by Government and wherever possible during the course of the resurvey of the locality in or near which the unions are situate.

(4) Mamul wet surveys.—These, as the name implies, are made for the purpose of helping Government in differentiating, and fixing water-rate on lands in proprietary areas brought under wet cultivation from an irrigation source created at Government expense. The cost of these surveys is borne by Government.

(5) Soil block surveys.—These are conducted in whole inam villages on the application and at the cost of District Boards. The soil in each whole inam village is classified by the Settlement Department in blocks which are surveyed by the Survey Department. Thus the possible assessment in the village is obtained for a determination of the land cess, the object aimed at.

Legal provisions.—The laws under which survey operations in this Presidency were regulated prior to 1897 were—

(1) Act XXVIII of 1860.—"An act for the establishment and maintenance of boundary marks and for facilitating the settlement of boundary disputes in the Presidency of Fort St George" and

(2) Act II of 1884.—Under the former, Government bore the cost of all survey theodolite stations which were not boundary marks, and of all boundary marks, in unoccupied ryotwan lands, while the owners bore the cost of the survey marks which defined the boundaries of occupied fields. The latter was promulgated for the better maintenance of boundaries after completion of survey and for recovery, from the ryots concerned, of the cost of restoring survey marks. It made the owner or occupier responsible for the maintenance of the boundary marks on his property and enabled the Collector to enforce the maintenance of demarcation generally, and to recover, where necessary, the expenses incurred in the repair of boundary marks, from the owner or occupier of land.

The two Acts were repealed by the Madras Survey and Boundaries Act IV of 1897, "An Act to amend the law relating to survey of lands and settlement of boundary disputes." This Act, while embodying the provisions of the Acts it repealed, enabled Government to undertake the survey of private estates on the application and at the cost of the proprietors concerned. It also empowered the Collector to enforce the maintenance of survey marks in estates, under conditions similar to those prescribed for Government villages. Chapter IV of the Act further provided for the settlement of boundary disputes, arising otherwise than in the course of a survey, by the Collector himself or such of his subordinate officers as he could specially appoint as survey officer for this purpose. Government had intended by this enactment to make the survey final in its results, even as regards ryots who should have failed to complain against the survey of their lands during the course of survey and estop them from contesting its accuracy after the expiry of the special period of limitation prescribed thereunder for the institution of suits in courts of law. This purpose having failed by reason of defects in the drafting of the Act as evidenced by certain decisions of the High Court it has been repealed, and in its place another Act has been passed by the Legislative Council to achieve, principally, this special end Constitution of the department.—The Survey Department was originally under the control of a Superintendent, assisted by 6 Deputy Superintendents and a number of Assistant Superintendents for charge of the Central Office and Field Parties, the senior amongst them being in charge and the juniors assisting them. The Superintendent was under the direct orders of Government. The Survey cadre underwent changes and as at present constituted, consists of a Director and of Assistant Directors in charge of Central Office and of Field Parties, each of whom generally has a junior Assistant Director to assist him. The department is also subject to the control of the Commissioner of Survey and Settlement.

The normal strength of Survey parties is six, of which one is ordinarily employed on the survey of estates, the cost of which is borne by the proprietors concerned. Each party consists, usually, of one office and three field sections, each under the immediate control of a Sub-Assistant Director, the most senior generally holding charge of the office section and being directly responsible to the Officer in charge for correct mapping. Of the three field sections, two are employed on cadastral survey proper while the third conducts theodolite surveys for the preparation of the framework of the cadastral survey maps.

Each of the two cadastral survey sections is divided into two sub-sections, under two Head Surveyors, each sub-section consisting of 4 ranges, of 9 Field Surveyors each, supervised by 4 Deputy Surveyors. The Sub-Assistant in charge of the theodolite section is assisted by a Head Surveyor who has under him six Deputy Surveyors for doing theodolite work and 10 Field Surveyors for preliminary demarcation of village and khandam boundaries.

Current resurveys.—The annual normal outturn of a Survey party is 800 square miles in initial surveys—of estates, all Government tracts having been initially surveyed by 1896—and in resurveys of Government tracts 250 square miles in deltaic and 350 square miles in other areas. Current resurveys bear reference mainly to districts surveyed between 1890 and 1900, when cheap systems of revenue survey, obtaining in other Provinces had come into vogue on considerations of economy. The initial survey of Malabar, South Kanara, and Anantapur (part) and the resurvey of Trichinopoly, Kistna, Godavari, Salem and Guntur (part) were thus conducted. These surveys stood condemned as a sacrifice of accuracy to economy, while the fresh survey of the districts concerned has cost more than it would have if an accurate survey had been made, on the old lines, in the first instance. Not until 1901 was the mistake of such work realized and a start made to preserve and restore the framework of the old theodolite surveys and to conduct resurveys on a permanent and professional basis. The year 1934-35 is expected to see the completion of resurveys, and thereafter, periodical surveys will be required to keep the survey up to date by bringing to book changes of ownership and sub-division of properties which will be numerous. But such surveys will, in consequence of the permanency of framework already achieved, be of the nature of revision only and cost but little in comparison with the current resurveys.

Revenue surveys of other Provinces compared—It will be of interest to compare the revenue survey of this Presidency with the revenue surveys of other Provinces in India. While in other Provinces the chief aim of revenue surveys was the determination of the approximate areas of revenue holdings, Madras is the only Province in which they were conducted on professional lines. The chief points of difference may be summarized as below.

In other Provinces theodolite station marks are usually clay cylinders buried in the ground and not easily identifiable after the purpose of the survey is served. Field bends and corners are not demarcated with stone. Field boundary lines are not measured. The village map is compiled in field on the traverse skeleton, by plotting important field bends on measurements which a surveyor cries out and drawing in other bends by the eye so that there is no record of measurement, the chances of errors are large, and opportunities for rectifying them nil. In the Punjab the map shows measurements of field boundaries only, but none to fix them; and in Bombay there is a field measurement book, but not to scale. In the United Provinces, Bengal, and Behar and Orissa there is no record of field measurement at all. In Madras, on the other hand, theodolite stations are easily identifiable permanent stone marks and all field trijunctions, besides a number of minor bends, are also marked with stone so that revenue administration and maintenance of survey is easy. Such a survey is permanent, and should a river in flood sweep away all land marks over a wide area the survey could be reproduced and all boundaries restored. Again from the field measurement atlas a ryot can obtain, at a trifling cost, a plan of his holding, however insignificant, showing all measurements and its area, and transfers of land by purchase, etc., are a simple concern. Thus, the revenue surveys of the Madras Presidency may be considered the best in India. Lt-Col. Crichton C.I.E., Survey of India, who, under instructions from the Government of India, investigated the Madras system, with a view to its simplification, declared it admirable and recommended its continuance. Later, in 1914-15 a second and more detailed enquiry was conducted by a Committee appointed by the local Government at the instance of the Government of India, consisting of a senior civilian from the Punjab, another from Madras, and the Directors of Land Records and of Survey, Madras. The Committee were unanimous in their advice against a change in the system. One striking feature of the revenue surveys in Madras is that with their superiority over revenue surveys in other Provinces they combine economy, for Lt-Col. Crichton found that the cost in Madras was but one anna per acre more than in the cheaper revenue surveys in Bengal.

Settlement Department.

Settlement parties.—The Revenue Settlement Department was constituted in 1858 with the object of carrying out a general revision of assessment of the ryotwari lands throughout the Presidency. The Department consists at present of four Settlement parties under the control of the Commissioner of Land Revenue and Settlement who is a Member of the Board of Revenue. Each party is in the charge of a Special Settlement Officer or Special Assistant Settlement Officer drawn from the ranks of the Indian or Provincial Civil Service.

Process of settlement.—The detailed operations performed in connection with the settlement of each district are summarized below :—

The soils are divided into five main series, alluvial, regar or black red ferruginous, calcareous and arenaceous. Each main series except the alluvial is generally divided into three classes—clay, loam or sand—according to the mechanical composition of the soil, the alluvial being divided into two classes, clay and loam. Each of these classes is again subdivided into five sorts—best, good, ordinary, inferior and worst, according to the quantity of organic matter or the presence of other valuable or deleterious ingredients which affect the fertility of the soil.

The next stage is to ascertain the amount of crop each class and sort of soil will produce. For this purpose one or more food grains are selected as the standard crops for each district or part of a district. Paddy is the standard crop adopted for wet or irrigated lands. As several varieties of food grains are cultivated on dry or unirrigated lands, the grain which is cultivated on the largest area in a tract is taken as the standard and sometimes more than one grain is selected as the standard. The average outturns of the standard grains per acre are then ascertained by crop experiments and tested by the experience of officials and non-officials. Crop experiments were however given up in the later settlements and the standard outturns were fixed on the basis of those adopted in adjoining districts.

The money values of the grain outturns are next ascertained. For this purpose the average prices of the standard grains prevailing in the last twenty non-famine years are calculated so as to ensure that the profits of good and losses of bad years are balanced. A deduction of 10 to 15 per cent is made from the average price so calculated as an allowance for the cartage of grain to markets and for the profits of merchants. The net price thus arrived at is called the commutation rate. The standard outturn adopted for each grain is then converted into cash by applying this rate. From the money value of the grain outturn per acre as thus determined, a percentage deduction is made as an allowance for vicissitudes of season and for uncultivable areas included in the holdings. The estimated cost of cultivation per acre is then deducted from the gross value as thus calculated. The result is the net produce of the land and one half of this or more often, rather less than one half is fixed as the Government assessment. With a view to avoid a multiplicity of rates, the classes and sorts of soil which have been found by experience to yield more or less the same outturn are arranged in grades called "tarams". As the productive powers of soils vary according as they are irrigated or not, the grouping of tarams is different for wet and dry lands.

All the villages in a tract do not possess the same advantages in respect of proximity to markets and facilities of communication. For the purpose of determining the assessment on dry lands, the villages in a tract are therefore arranged in groups, generally two or three for a district. Similarly, the irrigation sources in each district are classified into a number of groups according to the water-supply and the rate of assessment on wet land of the same class and sort of soil varies according to the class of the irrigation source. The rates of assessment for wet and dry lands as detailed above are calculated for lands of the highest class in a tract and the rates for the other classes are obtained by reducing the former by one or more tarams.

Where as a result of the introduction of the settlement rates the assessment on any holding is increased by more than 25 per cent, relief is granted by the system of increment remission. That is to say, the increase in assessment is spread gradually over a series of years.

Resettlements.—With the settlement of the South Kanara district in the year 1904—05, the initial settlements of all the districts in the Presidency were completed. The currency of a settlement is generally 30 years. As the term fixed for the initial settlement of each district expires, it is resettled for another period of 30 years. During a resettlement no general reclassification of soils or calculation of grain outturns, cultivation expenses, etc., is made except for special reasons. The revision of assessment is generally based on the increase or decrease in the recorded prices of the staple grains of the tract during the 20 non-famine years immediately preceding the commencement of resettlement operations compared with those adopted at the expiring settlement. Resettlements have been completed in the districts of Tichunopoly, Godavari, Kistna, Guntur, Nellore, Salem, Kurnool, Ganjam, Cuddapah, Chittoor, North Arcot, Chingleput, Coimbatore, Tinnevely, Ramnad and Vizagapatam and in the greater portions of South Arcot and Madura and in one taluk of Anantapur.

Financial result.—Up to the end of the official year 1921—22 the operations of the Survey and Settlement Departments have resulted in a net increase of nearly 133 lakhs of rupees in the revenue, which works out to a return of nearly 25 per cent on the outlay.

Court of Wards.

The Board of Revenue is the Court of Wards. The Court is subject to the local Government, and Collectors are subject to the Court, the powers of the Court being locally exercised through the District Collector or through any other person whom it may appoint for the purpose. A proprietor of an estate is deemed to be disqualified for the management of his property if he is a minor, or if the proprietor is a woman declared by the local Government to be incapable of managing her property, or if the proprietor has been adjudged by a competent Civil Court to be of unsound mind and incapable of managing his property, or has been declared by the local Government to be incapable of managing his property owing to any physical or mental defect or infirmity. A proprietor sui juris may, on his own application, have his estate taken under the management of the Court, if the Government deem it to be in the public interests that it should be so managed. The Court may take under its superintendence the person or the property of a disqualified proprietor, or both, or the property of a proprietor who has applied to have his property placed under the superintendence of the Court. When the Court assumes the superintendence of a ward's property, the District Collector takes possession of the property on behalf of the Court. In the case of an encumbered estate where the liabilities cannot easily be ascertained, a notification is published calling on all persons having pecuniary claims against the estate to notify them to the District Collector within six months and the claims so received are disposed of on their merits. When it is considered expedient on public grounds to save an estate from dismemberment at the hands of its creditors, the ordinary execution of decrees against that estate is transferred to the District Collector and some other officer is appointed to exercise the functions of the Estate Collector, the District Collector being a Judicial Officer solely in charge of execution of decrees. If the encumbered property is in the possession of a mortgagee, or of any persons claiming under a mortgage, the local Government may in certain circumstances require the encumbrancers to deliver up possession of the estate to the manager appointed by the Court. The Court may also, in certain circumstances, retain management after the proprietor's disqualification has ceased, until it is satisfied that he will be thereafter competent to take charge of his estate and administer his own affairs. If the proprietor who has become a ward of the Court is the hereditary trustee or manager of religious or charitable institutions and the institutions have endowments attached to them, the Court may take charge of the endowment property and make arrangements for the discharge, during the wardship, of the ward's duties as trustee or manager. The surplus funds of an estate are generally utilised (after provision has been made for the preservation and improvement, if possible, of the property under the Court's charge) for the purchase of landed property, or invested in Government securities or securities guaranteed by Government or in first mortgages of immovable property.

Local Self-Government.

Local Boards—A district board has been formed for every district, but the Agency tracts in the Ganjam, Godavari and Vizagapatam districts, have been separated and constituted into a separate district board known as the Agency District Board under the Agency Commissioner. Taluk boards exist in all districts except the Nilgiris. The area under a district board is ordinarily the revenue district excluding all municipalities, while that under a taluk board is usually coterminous with a revenue divisional charge, but in some districts, taluk boards have been constituted for single revenue taluks. The Madras Local Boards Act, 1920, gives each class of local board (district, taluk and union) an independent status and distinguishes their funds and functions. Not less than three-fourths of the members should be elected; the president of a union board should invariably be elected; the president of a taluk board should be elected unless the Government otherwise direct, and the president of a district board may be appointed or elected at the discretion of the Government. The privilege of electing its president has been conceded to two district boards; and official presidents have been replaced by non-official presidents in all districts but the Nilgiris. The revenue divisional officer is no longer an ex-officio member of the district board or the ex-officio president of the taluk board and the privilege of electing its president has been conceded to all except 14 taluk boards. The total number of members of a district board is subject to a maximum of 52 and a minimum of 24. The president of every taluk board in the district is an ex-officio member of the district board. One-fourth of the members of the district board are appointed by Government and the rest are elected by the taluk boards in all districts except in the Nilgiris, where the two planters' associations and the tax-payers and inhabitants of the district elect the members. The total number of members of a taluk board is subject to a maximum of 24 and a minimum of 12. Three-fourths of the total number of members of taluk boards are elected by the tax-payers and inhabitants of the taluk, and the rest are appointed by the presidents of district boards. The qualifications of voters have been considerably lowered and women are no longer debarred from voting or from standing as candidates at elections. Presidents, vice-presidents and members of local boards do not ordinarily receive any remuneration but they may be paid their travelling expenses. Presidents are responsible for seeing that the resolutions of their boards are carried into effect. Under the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920, no village can be constituted into a union unless it has a population of 5,000. The total number of members of a union board is subject to a maximum of 15 and a minimum of 7. Three-fourths of the members are elected by the tax-payers and inhabitants of the union and the rest are appointed by the president of the taluk board. Union boards exist in all districts except the Nilgiris and South Kanara. The main source of income of district and taluk boards is a tax of one anna in the rupee on the annual rent value of all occupied lands in the district. The district board can levy an extra tax not exceeding 3 pies in the rupee on the annual rent value of occupied lands and the taluk board can levy another tax of three pies in the rupee. The levy of a railway cess has been abolished. The income of union boards is derived chiefly from a tax on houses. Local boards also derive an income from tolls and ferries, profession and companies' taxes, pilgrim tax and fees for the use of markets, cart-stands and slaughter-houses. A consolidated budget of all the local boards in the district has to be submitted to the Government but the local boards have a free hand in framing their budgets. Government cannot interfere in this matter unless a budget fails to provide for the due discharge of all liabilities in respect of loans or for the maintenance of a working balance. The main ordinary duties of local boards are the construction and maintenance of roads, bridges, avenues, hospitals, dispensaries, markets, water-works, wells, drains, latrines, the training of nurses, midwives and vaccinators, the supervision of sanitation and the diffusion of education. District and taluk boards employ engineering establishments for the construction and maintenance of public works vested in them or under their control, but the services of officers of the Public Works Department are occasionally utilized with the permission of Government for the execution of special works considered to be beyond the powers of the ordinary local fund staff. The District Collector, the Surgeon-General, the Director of Public Health and his assistants, the Sanitary Engineer and his deputies, the District Medical and Sanitary Officer, the Chief Engineer, the Superintending Engineer of the circle, the Director of Public Instruction and the District Educational Officer may, with the permission of the president, address a local board on any matter affecting the general administration, sanitation, public works or public instruction.

General progress.—All the district boards except that of the Nilgiris are presided over by non-officials. The number of taluk boards in the Presidency is 125 of which 115 Boards have elected presidents and 9 Taluk Boards have nominated non-official presidents. Of the 1,218 seats open to election in the year 1921-22, 712 were actually so filled and in the case of 397 elections which were contested, 34.9 per cent of the registered voters came to the poll, as against 32.03 per cent in 1920-21. The number of union boards which assisted in the administration of local affairs in 1,100 important villages fell by 10 to 579.

The new Local Boards Act, which came into force from 1st April 1921, limits the rate at which land cess can be levied to one anna in the rupee on the annual rent value of occupied lands

Accordingly the land cess is levied at a uniform rate of one anna in all the districts. The new Act makes no provision for the levy of a special cess of 3 pies for the construction of railways or tramways, but an additional cess of three pies may be levied for the purposes of a district board or taluk board alone. Such additional cess was levied by 13 district boards and 62 taluk boards. The levy of profession and companies' taxes is also authorized by the new Act. The former was levied during the year by 33 taluk boards and the latter by 29 taluk boards. Tolls upon carriages, carts and animals were collected in all districts. House-tax was collected in all unions. The cash balance under local funds at the beginning of the year was Rs. 81.26 lakhs. The total receipts amounted to Rs. 213.47 lakhs. The net revenue from tolls declined in 13 districts, the total income falling by Rs. 1.11 lakhs to Rs. 18.64 lakhs. The grants received from Provincial funds amounted to Rs. 65.01 lakhs. A sum of Rs. 17.92 lakhs was granted from Provincial funds in aid of the general resources of local boards, including a sum of Rs. 0.64 lakh not disbursed in the previous year. Rs. 14.16 lakhs were granted for trunk roads, the responsibility for the maintenance of which was assumed by the Government from 1920-21, though the grant was disbursed after the close of the year; Rs. 31.53 lakhs were granted for education, and Rs. 1.42 lakhs for hospitals and dispensaries. A grant of Rs. 0.87 lakh was also paid as usual to the Nilgiri District Board for public works in consideration of the smallness of its revenues.

The total expenditure of local boards was Rs. 236.04 lakhs and the year closed with a balance of Rs. 58.69 lakhs. The outlay on communications was Rs. 80.49 lakhs, of which over Rs. 15 lakhs were met from Government grants. The length of the new roads constructed was 107½ miles, and the total mileage maintained at the end of the year was 23,528, of which 2,882½ miles are trunk roads, towards the maintenance of which the Government contribute at the maximum rate of

Rs. 500 per mile. At the close of the year, local boards maintained 35 sessional schools for the training of teachers, one Sanskrit college, 139 secondary schools and 7,418 elementary schools. In the sessional schools 638 students received instruction and the total attendance at all the other schools was 461,166 pupils. The total expenditure of local boards on education was Rs. 50.88 lakhs, towards which provincial funds contributed Rs. 27.24 lakhs, while the income from fees and other receipts was Rs. 7.90 lakhs. The net outlay from local funds was thus Rs. 15.74 lakhs. The number of hospitals maintained by local boards was 99 and the number of dispensaries 298. The cost of their maintenance amounted to Rs. 16.22 lakhs, and 12,486 in-patients and 3,625,527 out-patients were treated in them. The number of vaccinators employed by local boards was 425 and they performed successful vaccinations on 685,482 persons or 20.4 per mille, of the population. The total expenditure on preventive medicine including sanitation and water-supply amounted to Rs. 9.32 lakhs.

Municipalities.—The duties devolving on local boards are discharged in municipal areas by independent bodies styled municipal councils. Each council consists of not less than 16 and not more than 36 members. Under the Act the elective strength should not be less than three-fourths; the rest of the members are appointed by Government. The revenue divisional officer is no longer an ex-officio member of the council, and official supervision has been largely relaxed. The property tax leviable on buildings and lands comprises a tax for general purposes and it may also comprise a water and drainage tax, a lighting tax and a railway tax. The rate of this tax is fixed by each council independently. Other sources of municipal income are a profession tax, tolls, taxes on vehicles and animals, a companies' tax and a pilgrim tax. In hill stations a tax on private, menial and domestic servants may in addition be levied. Unless a municipal council is indebted, it has a free hand as to the taxes to be levied and the rates at which they should be levied. The registration of births and deaths is compulsory in all municipalities and the vaccination of children is also obligatory. Some councils employ paid chairmen, while others have paid secretaries to assist their honorary chairmen. Every ratepayer is given a vote and is eligible for election to the council. Women can also vote at municipal elections but cannot at present stand as candidates at elections. They may, however, serve on special committees of the council.

General progress.—The total number of municipal councils rose from 80 to 81, Saidapet having been newly constituted a municipality with effect from the 1st April 1921. The system of appointing councillors by election was in force in 76 municipalities.

The opening balance was Rs. 27.89 lakhs. Current receipts, excluding the opening balance, amounted to Rs. 126.38 lakhs. Of this Rs. 41.30 lakhs were derived from taxes, the average incidence of taxation per head of the population being Rs. 1-14-3, a decrease from the Rs. 1-15-10 of 1920-21. The grant from Provincial funds amounted to Rs. 9.90 lakhs, of which Rs. 5.44 lakhs were for education, Rs. 0.60 lakh for trunk roads, Rs. 0.49 lakh for medical relief and the rest for other purposes. Loans amounting to Rs. 7.52 lakhs were advanced by the Government, as against Rs. 2.07 lakhs in the previous year. The Madura municipal council took a loan of Rs. 4.85 lakhs for its drainage scheme, the Vellore municipal council a loan of Rs. 0.82 lakh for the same purpose and the Ootacamund municipal council Rs. 0.50 lakh for the lighting of the town with electricity.

The total expenditure amounted to Rs. 132.60 lakhs. Expenditure on communications amounted to Rs. 15.07 lakhs, of which Rs. 7.63 lakhs were spent on the maintenance of roads and Rs. 5.08 lakhs on lighting. The total expenditure under water-supply and drainage, including the capital charges, was Rs. 23.44 lakhs, of which

Rs. 6.63 lakhs were met from Provincial grants and Rs. 3.90 lakhs out of loans advanced by the Government. The municipalities maintained 55 hospitals and 43 dispensaries for giving medical relief to the public. The number of in-patients treated rose by 1,198 to 30,786, and the number of out-patients by 18,112 to 1,988,640. The total cost of medical relief was Rs. 7.12 lakhs. There were 972 elementary schools maintained by municipal councils or 57 more than in the previous year. The number of municipal secondary schools also increased from 30 to 35. The total expenditure on elementary education was Rs. 7.52 lakhs, of which Rs. 3.50 lakhs were met from Government grants and Rs. 3.92 lakhs entirely from municipal funds. The total expenditure on secondary education was Rs. 5.15 lakhs, of which Rs. 1.18 lakhs were met from Provincial funds, the net debit to municipal funds being 0.86 lakh. The expenditure under preventive medicine, which includes conservancy, was Rs. 23.25 lakhs. The closing balance of the year was Rs. 21.66 lakhs. The public debt outstanding against municipalities rose from Rs. 30.04 lakhs to Rs. 35.47 lakhs.

Corporation of Madras.—The municipal affairs of the City of Madras are administered by a council and a Commissioner. The council consists of 50 councillors, of whom 30 are elected by the rate-payers and inhabitants of the 30 municipal divisions, three elected by the Madras Chamber of Commerce, three by the Madras Trades Association, two by the South Indian Chamber of Commerce, one by the Port Trust Board, one by the Anglo-Indian Association of Southern India, and one by the University of Madras. The remaining 9 councillors are appointed by the Government. There are four standing committees, of seven members each, dealing with taxation and finance, works, health and education. The Commissioner, who is appointed by the Government, is a paid officer and is the head of the executive. He can attend meetings of the council or of any standing committee and take part in the discussion, but he has no right to move any resolution or to vote. At the first meeting after the first day of November in each year, the council elects one of its number to be its president and each standing committee similarly elects one of its number to be its chairman. The taxes leviable in the city of Madras are in general similar to those in the mufassal municipalities, but the Corporation levies also a tax on timber brought into the city and a duty on transfers of property in the shape of an additional stamp duty. The council can itself fix the rate at which the property tax is to be levied. The present rate is 18½ per cent of the annual value of the buildings and land. The three principal officers of the Municipal Corporation are the Revenue Officer, the Health Officer and the Engineer who are appointed by the council, subject to confirmation by the Government. A special engineer has also been appointed by the council, with the approval of the Government, to carry out the extensive water and drainage schemes now in hand. Subject to confirmation by the Government, the council has power, in the event of any unusual mortality or the prevalence of any dangerous disease within the city, to appoint a special health officer to investigate the causes thereof and to suggest remedies, and to appoint a special revenue officer for the purpose of carrying out a periodical revision of assessment, introducing a new tax or discharging any extraordinary duty connected with the revenue administration of the Corporation. But no necessity for either of these appointments has so far arisen.

General progress.—The total receipts of the Corporation inclusive of the opening balance amounted to Rs. 86.24 lakhs against Rs. 64.69 lakhs in the previous year and the expenditure was Rs. 60.44 lakhs against Rs. 57.18 lakhs. The balance at the credit of the Corporation at the end of the year was Rs. 25.80 lakhs as against Rs. 7.51 lakhs in the previous year. The income from municipal rates and taxes was Rs. 35.91 lakhs or Rs. 1.47 lakhs more than in the previous year. The increase was for the most part due to the revision of assessment under property tax. The incidence of taxation per head of the population was Rs. 6-14-11 against Rs. 6-9-6 in 1920-21. The revenue derived from municipal property and sources apart from taxation was Rs. 5.98 lakhs or Rs. 58,197 more than in the previous year. The grants and contributions from Government amounted to Rs. 10.40 lakhs as against Rs. 5.40 lakhs in 1920-21 and were made up of a contribution of Rs. 40,026 and a special grant of Rs. 10 lakhs for the improvement of the water-supply and drainage works. Miscellaneous receipts amounted to Rs. 6.06 lakhs as against Rs. 4.97 lakhs in 1920-21. The increase was due to the income derived on account of water supplied for non-domestic purposes. The debt at the close of the year was Rs. 125.93 lakhs. A sum of Rs. 1.96 lakhs was paid for the repayment of Government instalment loans amounting to Rs. 45 lakhs and Rs. 4.91 lakhs for interest on all loans. The sinking funds at the end of the year on account of the several loans, exclusive of the Government instalment loans, amounted to Rs. 33.29 lakhs in Government securities, stock certificates and Madras Municipal Debentures and Rs. 1,405 in cash.

The expenditure on works amounted in all to Rs. 27.67 lakhs or 45.78 per cent of the total expenditure as against Rs. 26.21 lakhs in the previous year.

The expenditure on education was Rs. 1.11 lakhs against Rs. 94,220 in the previous year. The total number of schools at the close of the year was 34 and there were 4,722 boys and 782 girls on the rolls on 31st March 1922, an increase of 15.5 and 23 per cent, respectively, on the previous totals.

A sum of Rs. 9.18 lakhs or 15.1 per cent of the total expenditure was spent on sanitation and conservancy during the year as against Rs. 8.23 lakhs in the previous year.

A sum of Rs. 4.25 lakhs was spent on lighting, and the cost of maintenance alone amounted to Rs. 1.30 lakhs. During the year 1,358 new electric lights were installed and 37 were removed. The number of electric lights on 31st March 1922 was 5,434. There were also 1,805 oil lamps. The public parks were maintained at a cost of Rs. 57,480 as against Rs. 90,982 in the previous year. The cost of the maintenance of fire engines was Rs. 34,766 as against Rs. 22,604 in 1920-21. There were 104 fire calls during the year but only 54 cases called for the actual attendance of the engines.

Panchayats.

Budget allotment for the Registrar-General of Panchayats for 1922-23.—Rs. 21,300.

* Staff.—Class I (1); Class II (nil); Class III (nil); Class IV (1); Class V (2); Class VI (5).

The Registrar-General.—The Village Panchayat Act XV of 1920 came into force on 4th January 1921 and under section 37 of the Act, the Government sanctioned the creation of the appointment of a Registrar of Panchayats to organize and superintend village panchayats for a period of one year from 15th December 1921 for the whole area to which the Act extends. Rai Bahadur N. Gopalaswami Ayyangar, B.A., B.L., was appointed to this office with the designation of Registrar-General of Panchayats to distinguish him from honorary registrars of panchayats who had already been appointed for certain taluk board areas. The duration of the appointment has since been extended by another year.

Honorary organizers.—Most of the powers of the local Government under the Madras Village Panchayat Act, 1920, have been delegated to the Registrar-General and the latter gets the work of organization and superintendence of panchayats done through presidents of taluk and district boards—an agency which is purely non-official and honorary. It is proposed to appoint honorary organizers to assist taluk board presidents in this work of organization and supervision.

Panchayats—The panchayats constituted under the auspices of the Registrar-General are different from village panchayat courts formed under the Madras Village Courts Act and exercising purely judicial functions. The latter are under the control of the Revenue department. The Registrar-General's panchayats are different also from the voluntary forest panchayats for organizing which a separate staff has been appointed to work under the Chief Conservator of Forests.

One hundred and thirty-three panchayats have so far been constituted under the Madras Village Panchayat Act, XV of 1920. They are scattered over 17 districts and 38 taluk board areas.

Many of them have started or are starting work in various directions—mainly sanitation, water-supply, lighting, irrigation, village roads, etc. Some of them have resolved to levy taxes and fees. Others are getting voluntary contributions. Some work has been done in the shape of contributions in labour. Certain taluk boards have made contributions to the funds of panchayats; others have entrusted them with specific works together with the allotments therefor.

The whole movement is still in its infancy and it is too early to judge of the progress made.

Madras Port Trust.

Finance.—During the year 1921–22 the receipts of the Port Trust on revenue account from all sources amounted to Rs. 25.43 lakhs as against Rs. 29.59 lakhs in 1920–21 and Rs. 15.28 lakhs in 1913–14, the last pre-war year, a decrease and an increase of 14.06 per cent and 66.43 per cent, respectively. The falling off from the 1920–21 figure was largely due to the abnormal realization during 1920–21 of transit dues on account of imports which had for long lain in the port sheds owing to the financial difficulties of the consignees. Excluding this swollen item, the receipts were Rs. 23.46 lakhs in 1921–22, an increase of Rs. 47 lakh over the previous figure. If contributions made from revenue surplus to capital, which amounted to Rs. 8.72 lakhs, be left out of account, the gross expenditure was Rs. 20.92 lakhs or 82.27 per cent of the gross receipts. Excluding from working expenses the interest on loans, which amounted to Rs. 5.82 lakhs, the actual working expenses came to 59.38 per cent of the harbour earnings against 48.39 per cent in 1920–21. The harbour dues alone, excluding charges for specific purposes, such as craneage and storage, amounted to Rs. 13.35 lakhs. A sum of Rs. 1.19 lakhs was paid to the Corporation of Madras in respect of property tax. It will be observed that the net result of working for the year has been a profit of Rs. 2.22 lakhs, which does not leave a sufficient margin for contingencies which may at any time arise in a port situated, as Madras is, in an unprotected position, on an exposed coast, and subject to cyclones.

Trade.—The total tonnage of goods which passed through the port in the year amounted to 874,080 tons against 848,756 tons in last year and 797,665 tons in 1913–14; imports contributed 660,571 tons and exports 213,509 tons against 717,740 tons and 131,016 tons, respectively, in the previous year. Although the import tonnage was slightly less than in last year, this was more than counterbalanced by the increase in the export tonnage. Of the above total, 870,119 tons was sea-borne against 810,159 tons last year. The imports of rice fell by 66·8 per cent, but there was a slight increase in the imports of other food-grains from 37,846 tons in 1920-21 to 42,693 tons in 1921-22. There was a decrease in the imports of Government stores owing to the stoppage of grain imports on account of the cessation of the war and also in the imports of timber, piece-goods, provisions and beer and wines by about 18 per cent, 37 per cent, 39 per cent and 42 per cent, respectively. With these exceptions, practically all heads of imports showed an increase, notably railway materials, cement and metals (iron and steel) not handled by the Trust. Kerosene oil was imported to an extent of 64,070 tons against 59,091 tons in 1920-21, other mineral oils increased from 28,980 tons to 31,283 tons. The year under review was a record year as regards shipments of ground nuts, which amounted to 129,455 tons against 100,710 tons in 1917-18, the previous record year. The export of hides and skins showed a slight increase, due to a revival in exports. The freight collected on behalf of the two contiguous railways on the railway traffic amounted to Rs. 25·65 lakhs. The value of private trade in foreign merchandise from foreign ports amounted to Rs. 1,746 lakhs against Rs. 2,129 lakhs in the previous year, while that of the Indian merchandise from Indian ports was Rs. 496 lakhs against Rs. 462 lakhs in 1920-21. The value of Indian merchandise to Indian ports was Rs. 183 lakhs against Rs. 136 lakhs in the previous year and that of Indian merchandise to foreign ports was Rs. 961 lakhs against Rs. 762 lakhs in the previous year.

Meteorology of the Madras Presidency for 1922.

The revival of the monsoon that occurred towards the close of December 1921 persisted till the 11th January 1922 and abundant rain fell over the greater part of the Presidency. Heavy rain fell at some places in South Madras in March, but over the rest of the Presidency weather was exceptionally dry.

Hot weather set in during the first week of March and temperatures over 100° F. were recorded at Guntur, Nellore, Cuddapah, Salem, Trichinopoly and Pudukkottai on the 6th. Disturbed weather set in in the south-east of the Arabian Sea and Seas became very rough on the Malabar Coast on the morning of the 21st April and probably weather was unsettled in the Arabian Sea for a few days. In the south of the Peninsula, thunderstorms were fairly frequent in May. A temporary advance of the monsoon occurred in the south-east of the Arabian Sea on the 11th and persisted till the 23rd, causing widespread rain in the south of the Peninsula. The Arabian Sea monsoon which appeared on the Malabar Coast on the 30th May developed and carried rainfall into the central parts of the country. The monsoon weakened on the 4th June and was practically confined to the West Coast of the Peninsula for a week. After the 12th it revived and steadily extended inland.

Malabar had exceptionally heavy rain during the first fortnight of July. In the second half of the month the monsoon was fairly active over the greater part of the country except for a short break in the Peninsula between the 25th and 28th. In August the monsoon was weak but thundershowers were fairly frequent in South-East Madras. A slight storm appeared in the south-west of the Bay on the 2nd November and advancing northwards and weakening at the same time disappeared off the North Coromandel Coast on the 5th, it stimulated the monsoon in the Peninsula and caused heavy rain on the Madras Coast, Cuddalore and Madras each reporting 7 inches on the morning of the 3rd. Another moderately severe storm appeared from the Gulf of Siam and reached Port Blair on the 18th. Thence moving in a west-north-westerly direction it crossed the North Madras Coast near Masulipatam on the 22nd and caused heavy rain on the coast. A third storm of moderate intensity appeared to the east of Ceylon on the 28th and traveling in a west-north-westerly direction passed close to Trivandrum on the morning of the 30th causing heavy rain in the southern districts of Madras. Rainfall disappeared in the south of the Peninsula on the 2nd December and during the rest of the month weather was dry except for occasional showers.

Monsoon of 1922.

The Arabian Sea monsoon appeared on the Malabar Coast on the 30th May and carried rainfall into the central parts of the country. It weakened on the 4th June and was practically confined to the West Coast. After the 12th it revived and steadily extended inland. A break set in on the 25th June and lasted till the 4th July. During the next two days the monsoon strengthened in the Peninsula and a vigorous monsoon prevailed over the greater part of the country during the next four weeks, with a short break in the Peninsula between the 25th and 28th. In August, the monsoon was weak but thundershowers were fairly frequent in South-East Madras. It withdrew on the 22nd September.

The north-east monsoon was unusually strong in November and gave rise to four storms in the Bay of Bengal, one of which crossed the North Madras Coast near Masulipatam and carried rainfall into Hyderabad, Bombay and the Central Provinces, while another passed out into the Arabian Sea near Trivandrum and gave very heavy rain locally in South Madras. The total rainfall of November was thus largely above normal in Southern India. In December the monsoon was weak during the first few days, when a storm which formed to the south-west of Port Blair carried rainfall into Burma.

Kaval system—The police in Southern India on the arrival of the English was run on the ancient hereditary Kaval system. Under this certain predatory tribes undertook to protect the property of the remainder and even to make good losses incurred by them, and for this service the Kavalgars levied contributions and taxes from all property holders. Their demands took different forms, such as a portion of the crops, a rate on houses, a transit duty on articles carried by road, and even a tax on professions, for the "moturpha" tax was originally a Kaval exaction. It is not known precisely on what principle it was decided where this system should prevail and where not, probably it was a matter very much of geographical accident and mutual compromise. In the larger part of the Presidency the Kaval system was in the main a useful and regulated village watch and ward, to which little exception could be taken; but in the Southern Tamil districts the oppressive features of the system were more apparent. Here the heads of the Kaval races levied individual exactions of all kinds, over wide areas and with little or no regard for their duties of protection. Measures were taken, in the early stages of English administration, to suppress these abuses. The inam lands of the poligars were resumed and their levy of contributions was interdicted. Many years, however, elapsed before oppression was definitely put down. The local village watch or 'stala kaval' itself was retained, and it survives in the village police of the present day, under whatever local appellation it may be known. By Madras Regulation XI of 1816, the village police was placed under the head of the village, and it became a valuable agent of the magistrate in the administration of the country.

Torture Commission of 1855 and the Madras Police.—The present police organization in the Madras Presidency was brought into existence over 60 years ago, as a result of the report of the Torture Commission of 1855 and a department, distinct from the Revenue and Magisterial departments, consisting of a Chief Commissioner with 20 District Superintendents and 20 Assistant Superintendents was sanctioned in a despatch of 9th June 1857. Mr. William Robinson of the Madras Civil Service, who had minutely studied the question of police organization in England and elsewhere, was appointed Chief Commissioner in 1858 and subsequently took the designation of Inspector-General of Police. The new constabulary was introduced in the district of North Arcot in 1859, and early in 1860, the work of reorganization was extended to all districts except those in the Northern Circars, where the introduction of the measure was postponed till 1861. The new force was organized very much on the Irish model.

The Police Act of 1859.—By this reform, Revenue and Police functions were separated and police establishments were placed under whole time European Officers called Superintendents and Assistant Superintendents of Police, who were subordinate to the District Magistrates. An Act—Madras Police Act XXIV of 1859—was passed legalising these changes, and certain duties such as guards and escorts previously performed by the Military were taken over by the Police. The subordinate police consisted of Inspectors, head-constables and constables, head-constables being in charge of police stations and Inspectors of groups of stations. In 1860, the Government of India appointed a commission, to enquire into the whole question of police administration in British India, and one of the results of this was the formation of Armed Reserves at headquarters of districts, for the suppression of local disturbances. With the expansion of the department, Deputy Inspectors-General of Police were appointed for purposes of supervision, their charges consisting in groups of districts.

Recruitment of Police officers.—When the new police was first constituted, its officers were drawn from the Commissioned ranks of the Indian Army, but this source of recruitment was gradually closed and police officers were appointed by nomination. The Public Services Commission of 1887, condemned this method of selection and since 1893 recruitment has been by competition in England and India and by promotion of officers already in the Public Service.

Railway Police.—In 1899 a Railway Police for the whole Presidency under a Superintendent was organized, for the maintenance of law and order within railway precincts.

Police Commission of 1902.—The next stage of reform was during the years 1906—1910 as a result of the recommendations of the Police Commission, appointed by the Government of India in 1902. The principal changes effected were, the creation of a Gazetted Provincial Police Service and of the rank of Sub-Inspector, the members of the former to assist the Superintendent or hold charge of subdivisions and the latter to hold charge of police stations in the place of head-constables. The number of police stations was reduced, special institutions to train Sub-Inspectors and constables were created and the Criminal Investigation Department was organized for the purpose of collating and distributing information regarding organized crime and for assisting in the investigation of difficult or complicated cases.

Administrative arrangement.—The existing administrative arrangement in the Police Department is as follows:—

The police force of the Presidency is under the general control of an Inspector-General, who is assisted by four Deputy Inspectors-General in charge of ranges, a Deputy Inspector-General in charge of the Railway Police and the Criminal Investigation Department and a Commissioner of the Madras City Police.

Each district is in charge of a Superintendent who, where necessary, has the assistance of one or more Assistant or Deputy Superintendents.

Districts are divided into circles, of which Inspectors are in charge. These circles are subdivided into police station ranges, each of which is in charge of a Sub-Inspector with head-constables and constables, under him.

The Village Police are still under the exclusive control of the District Magistrate and his subordinates in the Revenue department.

The following statement shows the strength of the force at various periods—

Public Works Department (Irrigation Branch).

* Staff.—Class I (Nil), Class II (Nil); Class III (3); Class IV (15), Class V (48); Class VI (16).

Prior to the formation of the regular Public Works Department in 1858, the Maramut Department of the Board of Revenue had the control of all irrigation works and navigable canals in this Presidency. The Irrigation branch was first constituted in the year 1867, when it was made a subordinate branch of the Public Works Department, by the appointment of a Chief Engineer for Irrigation and early in 1877 it was made a distinct and independent branch in direct communication with Government. The Chief Engineer for Irrigation is also the Joint Secretary to Government, Public Works Department (Irrigation branch) and he is assisted by an Assistant Chief Engineer who is also Under Secretary to Government.

2. The subjects dealt with in this department are—

- (1) Irrigation including waterways.
- (2) Hydro-electric schemes
- (3) Canal telephones.
- (4) Public Works—ferries

3. Irrigation works in this Presidency are classified as shown below.—

(a) Works for which capital and revenue accounts are kept—

A Irrigation works—

	No. of works.
(i) Productive ...	24
(ii) Unproductive ...	27

B. Navigation, Embankment and Drainage works—

(ii) Unproductive ...	3

(b) Works for which capital and revenue accounts are not kept—

(i) Irrigation works.	About 37,000
(ii) Navigation, Embankment and Drainage works,	...

The total capital expenditure to the end of 1921-22 on the works referred to at (a) above is Rs. 11,88,90,100. The works referred to at (b) (i) above, are works costing not more than Rs. 50,000 each. These minor works irrigate nearly 3 million acres and are of great importance in this Presidency. The works referred to at (b) (ii) consist mainly of flood embankments along the principal rivers.

The total outlay incurred on and the total revenue derived from irrigation works during the year 1921-22 was Rs. 88,96,369 and Rs. 2,81,16,806 against Rs. 80,64,621 and Rs. 2,77,05,160 respectively in 1920-21. The area charged as irrigated was 7,229,326 acres against 7,298,567 acres in the previous year.

The Public Works Department are generally in charge of the maintenance of all works irrigating more than 200 acres and exercise complete control over the distribution of water in the larger works of irrigation.

There are no separate irrigation divisions and circles in this Presidency and each division is responsible for both buildings and irrigation works in its charge. A temporary division for the investigation of Hydro-electric schemes is working directly under the Chief Engineer for Irrigation.

The budget allotment for 1922-23 for works in charge of this department is Rs. 76.16 lakhs of which Rs. 1.27 lakhs represent the grant for Hydro-electric surveys.

Public Works Department (Railways).

Secretary to Government, Railways.—The railway systems in the Presidency are controlled by the Railway Board and the local Government have no voice in fixing their Budget allotments. The District Board Railways are, however, subject to the general control of the local Government. The Senior Government Inspector of Railways Circle, No. 7, Madras, is doing the duties of Secretary to Government, P.W.D. Railways and he receives a duty allowance of Rs 250 per mensem. The establishment working under him forms part of the Public Works Secretariat. Prior to 1 Jan. 1908, the Consulting Engineer for Railways was the expert adviser of the local Government in railway matters and he was ex-officio Secretary to Government, P.W.D. Railways. The Deputy Consulting Engineer was ex-officio Under Secretary to Government for Railways. With the re-organization of the system of Government control of Railways in India, the appointments of the Consulting and Deputy Consulting Engineers were abolished from that date and separate Government Inspectors of Railways were appointed, working directly under the Railway Board. In the case of this Presidency, however, the Secretary of State approved, as a special case, the retention, by the Senior Government Inspector, of his functions as Secretary to Government for Railways for a period of two years only, i.e., till 1 Jan 1910, after which date the Railway Secretariat was merged into the P.W.D. Secretariat. In 1916, however, this Government again raised the question of assigning the functions of Railway Secretary to the Senior Government Inspector of Railways and this proposal was sanctioned by the Secretary of State and effect given to it from the 15 Jan 1919.

District Board Railways.—In the matter of the development of District Board Railways, the Madras Presidency is far ahead of other provinces in that 275 miles of railway have been constructed, with funds provided by the District Boards out of cess collections and by the assistance of Government. During the year 1922–23 the construction of the Tinnevely-Tiruchendur Railway was completed and the line was opened for traffic in February 1923. A special staff for the acquisition of lands for the Mayavaram-Tranquebar Railway was sanctioned by the Government in February 1922 and the work is still proceeding. The preliminary survey of the Shoranur-Nilambur-Manantoddy-Railway having been completed, a detailed survey of the line is being carried out between Shoranur and Nilambur, as also a detailed survey of the Tirutturapundi-Vedarannim Railway extension to Point Colmere. The preliminary survey of the Cochin-Anamalais-Munnar Railways was also completed and the project report is under consideration. Sanction to the survey of the Tinnevely-Tiruchendur Railway extension to Kulasekharapatnam, has also been accorded by the Railway Board.

Railway development.—An Officer was appointed by the Railway Board in 1921, to investigate the railway requirements of Southern India and he has submitted his report. If the recommendations made by him are approved, a definite policy of Railway development will exist, which, if carried out, will meet the requirements of traders, passengers and the country generally for some years to come. Proposals from the Agent, Madras and Southern Maharatta Railway, for the formation of a local Advisory Committee for the Madras and Southern Maharatta Railway at Madras, received the attention of Government. The open mileage of railways in the Presidency during the year 1922–23 was as follows: Broad Gauge 1,725·80 miles, metre gauge 1,983·65 miles and narrow gauge 123·30 miles. Besides this there were, as mentioned above, 275 miles of railway (25 miles broad gauge and 250 miles metre gauge) owned by the District Boards of Tanjore, Kistna, Coimbatore, Guntur, Salem and Tinnevely.

The Madras Record Office.

Main functions.—The Madras Record Office contains the records of—

- (1) the Government Secretariat (except those of the last 5 years which are retained in the Record Branch of the Secretariat). The earliest date back to 1670
- (2) the Board of Revenue—older ones.
- (3) the Collectorates, up to 1820.
- (4) Dutch and the Danish, Carnatic (in Persian), High Court (Select); Accountant-General's Office (Select), and Specifications, etc.

It also contains sets of Gazettes of the Government of India and of the Fort St. George, Almanacs, Directories, Army and Civil Lists and departmental reports.

The main functions of the Record Office are as follows:—

(i) Preservation of records.—The records are arranged in open racks, either as volumes or bundles of loose papers between wooden planks. There is a specially trained staff to mend the older records

(ii) Supply of records.—Records are furnished to the offices concerned on requisitions; but applications from private persons for copies of records have to be made to the departments concerned and not the Madras Record Office direct. Research scholars are afforded special facilities.

(iii) Publications.—The following have been issued:—

(1) Press Lists (brief abstracts) of all Government records from 1670 to 1800, issued in 35 volumes.

(2) Reprints (exact reproduction in print) of and selections from, the ancient records of the 17th, 18th and the early 19th centuries, comprising Consultations, Despatches, Letter-books, Sundries, etc. 112 volumes

(3) Calendars (i.e., chronologically arranged abstracts to facilitate historical research) of the Madras Records subsequent to 1740, 2 volumes

(4) Translation of the Diary in Tamil of Ananda Ranga Pillai, Dubash of Duplex, commencing from 1736 3 volumes.

Origin and growth of the Madras Record Office.—A separate Record Office was constituted in 1805, when Lord William Bentinck recommended the location of the records in a set of apartments of the old "Fort Square" in Fort St. George, and placed them in charge of a Record-keeper assisted by 3 writers. In 1826, they were removed to the "Pillar godown," known as the "Old Banqueting Hall," the site of the present Council Chamber. In 1888, the records were shifted to the ground floor of the Secretariat buildings (vacated by the Government Press on its removal to the Mint buildings), and arranged in open record racks. The office was then known as the "General Record Office" (by reason of its being common to and serving all departments of the Secretariat), and its establishment formed part of the Chief Secretariat. In 1902, the idea of centralising all important records of permanent interest in one place was started by Mr. S. C. Hill, officer in charge of the Records of the Government of India, during the Viceroyalty of Lord Curzon; and the Government of Madras in 1907 materialized the proposal, by sanctioning the construction of a separate building for the housing, of not only the Secretariat records, but also those of the Board of Revenue and the Collectorates. The inauguration of the present office was carried out by Mr. C. M. Schmidt, the Registrar of the Chief Secretariat who continued in charge. In 1909, the Madras Record Office was constituted on an independent basis with a separate establishment; and in 1910, a full-time Curator was appointed, Mr. Henry Dodwell, M.A., an officer of the Educational Department, being the first incumbent of that office.

Former researches—As the repository of a continuous record, comprehending more than 250 years of British connection, the Madras Record Office affords ample facilities for research work R Clerk in 1789, and William Elliot in 1830, examined the records to compile their "Standing Orders" Garrow in 1837 and Huddleston in 1856 examined them for antiquities and the latter produced his "Notes and Extracts" from the 17th century records, in 5 small volumes. In 1860, Talbot Wheeler was deputed to examine the records with a view to shroff them. The result of his examinations is embodied in his "Handbook to the Madras Records", and "Madras in the Olden Times" (containing interesting extracts from the very beginning up to 1748). He made a collection of Sir Thomas Munro's Minutes, afterwards published by Sir A J Arbuthnot. The next enquiry into the records was initiated in 1886 by C. G. Master (Member of Council, and a descendant of Sir Streymsnam Master, Governor of Madras from 1678); and Mr. C D Macleane, Under Secretary to Government, was selected to examine the records. The "Disposal number system" was the one fruit of his labour. About 1894, Mr. A T. Pringle, Assistant Secretary, undertook to continue the work of Huddleston, and produced 4 more annotated reprints of the 17th century records. The translation of Ananda Ranga Pillai's Diary was undertaken by Sir Frederick Price, and is continued by Mr. Dodwell. In 1908-11, Mr. A. Galletti edited and published 15 volumes of Dutch Records. Mr. H. Dodwell, as Curator, prepared a "Report on the Madras Records" and issued 2 volumes of "Calendars" of records covering 1740 to 1754. Among the outsiders who utilized the Madras Records for historical purposes may be mentioned, Professor Forest who made copious extracts regarding Clive, Colonel Love who produced in 1913 his monumental "Vestiges of Old Madras," and Mrs. Frank Penny for her work on "Fort St. George."

Record of rights—The present system of registration of deeds was first introduced by the Registration Act of 1864, with a view to secure trustworthy documentary evidence regarding transactions, especially those relating to immovable property and to render comparatively easy, the investigation of title to such property. The passing of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, which rendered the registration of documents evidencing transactions relating to immovable property compulsory in all cases, except in the case of certain oral transactions of small values, also furthered the realisation of these objects. Facilities for the ascertainment of title have been afforded, by the department itself undertaking the search in the records and granting encumbrance certificates to the public, the production of which is compulsory in the case of Court sales of property, of the value of Rs 100 and over. This system, which is highly appreciated by the people, is peculiar to this Presidency, as in the other Provinces the parties have to make their own arrangements to inspect the registration records to find out the encumbrances. The preparation of these encumbrance certificates has also been rendered easy, by the maintenance of a subsidiary index for every Government village, showing the numbers of documents registered against each survey number or subdivision. With a view to further increase the utility of the registration indexes in this direction, as also to help the maintenance of a record of rights, experiments are being conducted in some taluks of the Tinnevely and Tanjore districts, for preparing and maintaining a ledger of all transactions relating to the several holdings or pattas in ryotwari tracts.

The department under ex-officio and special officers—At its inception, the department was manned mainly by the Revenue officers. Tahsildars, Deputy Tahsildars and Sub-Magistrates were appointed as ex-officio Sub-Registrars and the Treasury Deputy Collectors as ex-officio Registrars, except in Madras city where there was a special Registrar. The gradual expansion of operations rendered it necessary to have a special staff, as the revenue officials who were itinerating officers could not pay that close and constant attention to the registration work, as is required for its development. From the year 1875 onwards, special officers replaced gradually the ex-officio officers, so that there are only 5 ex-officio Sub-Registrars at present. In other Provinces the District Registrar is even now an ex-officio officer, and in some Provinces the Sub-Registrars also are ex-officio officers.

Officers and salaries—All Registrars, except the Registrar of Madras, and all Sub-Registrars were originally remunerated solely by commission, but later on partly by fixed pay and partly by commission. In 1899, the payment of commission was abolished altogether and the officers were granted a fixed pay. Since then, their pay has undergone revision from time to time and it stands at present as under,

District Registrars (32).—Rs. 250-300-50-500 with two selection posts, one on Rs. 600 and the other on Rs. 700.

Sub-Registrars (573)—80 per cent of the total number on Rs. 65-5-150 and the remaining 20 per cent on Rs. 160-5-200.

Probationary Sub-Registrars.—To serve as a reserve for leave and permanent vacancies in the cadre of Sub-Registrars, a class of probationers numbering at present 77 is maintained. They are paid Rs. 35 in the mufassal and Rs. 40 in Madras on entertainment and Rs. 40 on passing the departmental tests. They also get an allowance of Rs. 10 when placed in charge of offices.

Both District Registrar and Sub-Registrar form one cadre, the former being recruited by promotion from the latter.

Inspector-General—The Inspector-General has in this Presidency been a special officer from the very commencement. The Inspectors-General in other Provinces, except Bengal, are only ex-officio officers. Till 1887, the pay of the Inspector-General was Rs. 1,500 when it was reduced to Rs. 1,250. In 1919 the pay was again revised and fixed at Rs. 1,250-50-1,500.

Clerical establishment—Till 1874 the District Registrar had no permanent establishment. He was given a certain fixed allowance which he was authorized to utilise in the best manner possible, and he was held responsible for the arrears in the office. From 1874 a permanent establishment was entertained with fixed pay. The clerks, of sub-offices were till 1888 paid by commission, partly or wholly, and their service was not pensionable. In 1888 the clerical service as a whole was reorganized on the fixed pay system and the pay has undergone revisions from time to time. Their present pay is as under:—

Rs. 35-35-1-50-1-60 in the mufassal and Rs. 40-40-1-55-1-65 in Madras city, with one post on Rs. 60-4-80 for each district in the mufassal and one on Rs. 65-4-85 in Madras city.

Companies at work—The statistics of Joint Stock Companies that are now available relate to the year 1921-22. The year was not very favourable for the development of companies. Various factors were at work such as the uncertainty of exchange, the general depression in trade and the non-co-operation movement, which tended to retard the development of existing companies and the launching of new ones into being. However, the number of companies rose from 576 (479 public and 97 private) to 645 (538 public and 107 private). A classified table is given below. —

The number of companies registered and wound up were 118 and 48 respectively against 120 and 30 in the previous year. About 59 per cent of the companies registered and 75 per cent of those wound up were trading and industrial concerns

Capital of Companies.—The following table compares the paid-up capital contributed by the several classes of Companies in the year under report, the one preceding it and the closing year of the past quinquennium.

The following statement shows the number and the average paid-up capital of companies in the leading provinces, not omitting banking and loan companies for the year 1919-20 for which figures are available —

Budget allotment Salt (including Salt-petre and Fish-curing yards)—The budget allotment of the year 1922-23 is Rs. 31,46,000 under expenditure and Rs 1,87,70,000 under receipts. The expenditure represents 1/3 of the combined charges of the Salt and Excise Department as well as the full expenditure incurred for manufacture and storage of salt, etc.

Budget allotment Excise—The budget estimate for 1922-23 under excise receipts is Rs. 482 70 lakhs. Two-thirds of the net charges of the combined Salt and Abkari Department are debited to excise and the allotment under excise charges is Rs 29 90 lakhs besides Rs 2 16 lakhs provided for under "Excise Compensation."

Salt Revenue—Origin and Growth.

Salt administration—The salt revenue in Madras can hardly be said to have a history before the establishment of the Government monopoly in 1805, by Regulation I of that year. The administration of revenue was vested in the Collectors of districts whose controlling authority was the Board. The multifarious nature of the duties of Collectors prevented them from devoting proper attention to the development of salt revenue. In 1876, a Commission sat under the orders of Government of India to investigate the whole question of the administration and the collection of salt revenue in the Madras Presidency. As a result of their recommendations, the department was constituted as a separate one with a Commissioner, Deputy Commissioners, Assistant Commissioners and necessary subordinate staff. The reorganization of the department was completed in 1881-85, both in the maritime districts and the interior. In the same year, Government decided to entrust to the Commissioner the supervision of the abkari revenue of the Presidency and to employ the salt preventive force on abkari conjointly with salt duties.

The Commissioner of Salt and Abkari Revenue was then made an ordinary member of the Board of Revenue. Since then, the Salt and Abkari Departments have been administered by a joint staff.

Roughly, the administrative arrangements are that a Sub-Inspector is the unit for preventive work, over him is the Inspector, assisted by an Assistant Inspector in factories. The whole Presidency is divided into 9 Assistant Commissioners' charges and Assistant Commissioners exercise check over the work of Inspectors. Over the Assistant Commissioners there are 3 Deputy Commissioners, directly under the orders of the Board. The control of distilleries is under a separate Assistant Commissioner.

Salt duty—Under the monopoly system as it existed before the Salt Commission of 1876, the issue price of salt from the factory was fixed by Government at a figure intended to cover the manufacturing cost and duty; how much constituted each item was unspecified at first, but the difference between the import duty and the issue price of monopoly salt was annas two and later annas 3 a maund. The duty was Rs. 2-8-0 from 1878 to 1882 when it was reduced to Rs. 2, and this rate continued till 1887. Between 1888-1902, it was Rs. 2-8-0 per maund. Then a cycle of prosperity permitted a gradual reduction of duty to Rs. 2, in 1903, to Rs. 1-8-0, in 1905, and to Re. 1, in 1907. The tax was enhanced to Rs. 1-4-0 in 1916, on account of financial stringency arising out of the war and this year it has been doubled in order to meet the deficit in the Imperial Budget.

Salt factories.—The salt industry was held as a Government monopoly prior to 1876. The Salt Commission of 1876 recommended the gradual introduction of an excise system in the belief that there were no practical difficulties in the way, that the measure would not injure the interests either of the consumer or of the Imperial revenue and that a much-needed improvement could be effected in the quality of salt, thereby giving Madras a share in the trade of the supply of salt to other parts of India and Burma. As a result of this recommendation, manufacture under excise was substituted for that under monopoly. Subsequently another system of manufacture was introduced, viz., "modified excise." Thus there are 3 (three) systems of manufacture of salt in vogue at present, (1) "monopoly" under which the licensees have each a prescribed quantity of salt to manufacture, locally termed the "dittam" which the Government buys at a fixed price called the "Kudivaram," (2) "excise" under which the licensees make as much or as little salt in their holdings as they can or as they wish to make and sell on their own account and (3) "modified excise" under which the manufacturer ordinarily manufactures for his own sale, but may be required at any time before the commencement of the season to sell the whole or a portion of his salt to Government at a fixed price. There are 56 factories distributed all along the 700 miles of the sea-board of which 13 are "monopoly," 30 "excise" and 13 "modified excise." Each of these, broadly speaking, has its own market. The coastal districts are supplied by the factories situated in them, while the inland districts are served by such factories as command the necessary railway facilities. Some of the factories are favourably situated for export by sea.

The manufacture and sale of salt as well as the revenue realized during the quinquennium are noted in the statement below.—

			Manufacture maunds.	Sale maunds	Revenue RS,	Expenditure. RS,
1917-18	11,052,658	11,252,181	1,61,98,441	17,86,343
1918-19	16,620,434	12,210,804	1,77,72,899	25,72,451
1919-20	14,470,545	11,634,100	1,51,53,932	22,36,779
1920-21	12,671,090	11,381,587	1,46,12,475	21,94,320
1921-22	12,064,657	12,112,653	1,39,10,320	23,87,050

Fish-curing Yards.—In order to augment the supplies of a cheap nourishing food and to prevent the use of illicit or spontaneous salt, the Salt Department have, since 1874, been maintaining fish-curing yards at various centres along the coast. Salt is issued duty-free to these yards, a nominal price being charged which at present does not cover the cost of manufacture and transport to yards.

Excise.

Excise administration.—Under the Reforms, excise is a transferred subject. The control of the excise administration is vested in the Commissioner of Salt, Abkari and Separate Revenue, who is a member of the Board of Revenue

Under the Commissioner there is a large force employed for the realization and protection of the salt, abkari and customs revenue, the superior officers of which are 3 Deputy Commissioners, 12 Assistant Commissioners, 88 Inspectors and 105 Assistant Inspectors. Collectors are generally responsible for the excise administration of their districts, though relieved of the preventive work by the officers of the Salt, Abkari and Customs Department.

Excise revenue.—The excise revenue in this Presidency is derived from the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, toddy, hemp drugs and opium. The forms of intoxicating liquor chiefly consumed are country spirit, toddy, locally manufactured beer and brands of rum, brandy, etc., and imported wine, beer and spirits. In Madras, country spirits and toddy are the main sources of revenue and yield about 88 per cent of the total excise revenue.

Excise system in Madras.—Generally speaking in the areas of which the British took over the administration, the supply of alcoholic drink was at first regulated by the farming system. Under this system the monopoly of manufacture and sale of liquor in a certain area was granted on tender or disposed of by auction. This system was in force till about 1873, when it was replaced by the "Improved Excise System" under which the monopoly of supply of arrack or toddy in each district was given to one contractor, subject to the condition that he paid duty on every gallon of spirit issued and guaranteed a minimum revenue to Government. This system was responsible for a serious growth in illicit practices. A committee was therefore appointed in 1884 to examine and recast the whole excise administration. It is from the report of this committee and the passing of Act I of 1886, that the existing Madras system dates. In 1886, the "Free Supply System" which was one of free competition amongst the licensed distillers in respect of manufacture and supply was introduced. This system led to unhealthy competition and ultimately to the danger of a monopoly. The system was therefore abandoned and in 1901, the contract distillery system was adopted which still continues. This system was recommended by the Indian Excise Committee of 1905-06 for adoption in the other provinces of India. The main features of this system are that the privileges of manufacture and vend are entirely separated and that the manufacturer is given the privilege of supply of a fixed area at a definite rate per gallon, the liquor being issued from a central source of supply, distillery or warehouse. The right of retail vend is disposed of by auction. This system is in force throughout the whole of the Presidency except some portions of the Agency Division. There are 10 distilleries and 15 warehouses for the supply of contract distillery area. In the non-excise tracts of the Agency Division, the outstill and the central distillery systems are in force. The revenue realized from country spirits is about 44 per cent of the total excise revenue. The incidence of the total revenue derived from country distillery spirits per proof gallon and the average consumption of country spirits per 100 of the population in the distillery areas during the quinquennium 1917-18 to 1921-22 were as under:—

	Incidence of taxation per proof gallon.	Consumption per 100 of population. P. Galls.
1917-18 ...	9.60	4.11
1918-19 ...	11.14	4.17
1919-20 ...	11.13	4.95
1920-21 ...	13.34	4.19
1921-22 ...	12.80	4.00

The incidence of revenue per proof gallon for 1921-22 in Bombay (Rs. 11.19) and in Central Provinces and Berar (Rs. 12.09) is less than that in Madras, while the consumption per 100 of the population, 12.98 and 4.02 proof gallons respectively, is higher than in Madras.

Toddy.—Sap of the date, palmyra, sago and coconut palms called toddy is used as a drink either fresh or after fermentation. Unfermented toddy is not subject to any taxation. Fermented toddy is taxed by means of fees payable for the right of retail vend and also by means of the tree-tax system under which a fixed fee is charged for every tree from which it is intended to draw fermented toddy. The rate of tree-tax in the major portion of the Presidency is Rs. 4-8-0 per coconut and Rs. 9 per sago for each half year and Rs. 3 for palmyra or date palms for a whole year. The average number of trees of all kinds of palms licensed for fermented toddy is 2,938,400. The number of shops sold for the retail vend of toddy in 1922-23 is 10,609. The revenue from toddy is about 44 per cent of the total excise revenue.

Foreign liquor.—"Foreign Liquor" for excise purposes includes all liquors imported from outside British India, as well as liquors made in the Presidency which have been excised at the full tariff rate of import duty. It also includes beer and rectified spirits. For the sale of foreign liquor for consumption on the premises tavern licences are granted, the fees for which are determined by auction, but wholesale licences, retail licences for consumption off the premises, for refreshment rooms, bars, etc., are granted on fixed fees. The excise duty on foreign spirit is Rs. 21-14-0 per proof gallon and on beer 8 annas per gallon. The total revenue under foreign liquor in 1921-22 is Rs. 14 lakhs which is about 28 per cent of the total excise revenue.

Drugs.—The narcotic products of the hemp plant consumed in Madras fall under the two main categories, namely, ganja or the dry flowering tops of the cultivated female hemp plant and bhang or the dried leaves of the hemp plant, whether male or female, cultivated or uncultivated. Charas is not manufactured or consumed in the Presidency. The main features of the existing system are restricted licensed cultivation under supervision in the Bapatla taluk of the Guntur district and the Polur taluk of the North Arcot district; storage in Government storehouses, payment of a quantitative duty before issue, retail sale under licences and restriction on private possession. Licences to retail all forms of hemp drugs are usually sold annually by auction. The duty on ganja is Rs. 20 per seer and on bhang Rs. 3 per seer. The total consumption in 1921-22 was 40,596 seers and the revenue realized amounted to Rs. 15 72 lakhs.

Opium.—The cultivation of the poppy is prohibited and the whole of the opium supply is imported from the Ghazipur factory in the United Provinces on behalf of Government. The drug is stocked in district treasuries in the first instance and thence distributed to taluk cutcheries for issue to licensed vendors. The issue price per seer of opium in 1922-23 was Rs. 63 of which Rs. 23, the cost of producing opium, is credited to the central head "IV Opium." The right of retail vend to the public is sold generally by auction. The number of retail shops in 1922-23 was 609, and the consumption in 1921-22 was 34,757 seers and the revenue realized in that year amounted to Rs. 26.86 lakhs or 5.5 per cent of the total excise revenue.

Government policy in excise matters.—The general principles governing the excise policy of Government, as reaffirmed by the Government of India in 1914, are—

(1) that any extension of the habit of drinking is to be discouraged, (2) that taxation is to be as high as possible without encouraging illicit practices, and (3) that, subject to these considerations, a maximum revenue is to be raised from a minimum consumption. The steps taken to give effect to this policy are reduction in the number of shops, reduction in the strength of liquor issued to shops, restriction in the limit of private possession, removal of shops from the roadside, the appointment of Excise Licensing Board with a non-official majority for the City of Madras, the establishment of advisory committees for municipalities and a large number of unions and the restriction of hours of sales in shops. An advisory committee for excise administration, consisting of ten non-official members of the Legislative Council with the Hon'ble the Minister for Excise as President, was appointed in 1921-22.

Stamps.

Stamps.—The stamp revenue is derived from non-judicial or revenue stamps and judicial or court-fee stamps. Non-judicial stamps are required to be used for documents arising in the course of ordinary business and commerce, judicial stamps are used by persons having business in courts of justice or public offices. Apart from these two classes of stamps, there are what are known as court copy stamps on which copies given to parties by judicial and revenue courts and offices are transcribed. The value of this stamp paper which has been raised from annas two to annas three with effect from September 1922, represents a payment to Government for the cost of the paper and the labour of copying.

Stamp Department.—Prior to 1860, little is known of the activities of the Stamp Department, as the stamp law was then contained in various regulations of the Codes as in the other Presidencies of Bombay and Bengal. It was only in 1860 that an enactment (Act XXXVI of 1860) applicable to the whole of India was introduced and the history of the Stamp Department may be said to date from then. By a notification issued by the Government in that year, the general control and supervision of the department was vested in the Board of Revenue (Land Revenue) and an officer designated the Superintendent of Stamps was appointed in charge of the General Stamp Office in the Presidency town. The duties of the Superintendent of Stamps were to keep a sufficient stock of stamps on hand for supply to Collectors on indent and to keep the accounts of the department. The stamps themselves were affixed and impressed at the mint by the Mint Master on requisition from the Superintendent of Stamps.

The management of the stamp revenue in each district was vested in the Collector of Land Revenue. The detailed management of the Stamp Department in the Collector's office was vested in the Treasury Deputy Collector, subject to the control of the Collector. With the amendment of the Stamp Act in 1879, all officers holding the rank of Sub-Collector or Head Assistant Collector in charge of divisions in all the districts were invested with the powers of a Collector under the Stamp Act within the limits of their respective jurisdictions. These powers were subsequently extended to all Revenue officers under the Stamp Act of 1899, and in the meanwhile, the administration of the Stamp Department had been transferred in 1891 from the Board, Land Revenue Department, to the Board, Separate Revenue Department. In 1908, all Tahsildars and Deputy Tahsildars in independent charge were appointed Collectors to exercise certain powers especially of refunds under the Stamp Act, and later in 1918, all District Registrars were also appointed Collectors under the Act to exercise powers especially of adjudication.

Stamp vend arrangements.—Stamps of all denominations are stocked in all treasuries and sub-treasuries and supplied to the public at their face value through vendors licensed by Collectors on the discount system. There are also a few salaried vendors in the Presidency town, located in the High Court and other important places for the convenience of the litigant and other public. The stamps sold by licensed vendors are generally restricted to denominations of Rs. 50 and under, stamps of higher values being obtainable direct at all the treasuries and sub-treasuries.

Legislation.—Act XVIII of 1869 may be said to have been the first attempt at a complete reconstruction of the law relating to duties chargeable on instruments and the classification of instruments according to the amount of duty with which they are chargeable. This Act, however, did not deal with the stamp duties or court fees leviable on Judicial Proceedings as enacted in the Act X of 1862 which, after undergoing certain changes in 1867 was finally enacted as Act VII of 1870. The present law governing the stamp duties chargeable on instruments is contained in Act II of 1899, as amended by the Madras Act VI of 1922, by which the duties on certain instruments have been enhanced. The law relating to court fees is governed by Act VII of 1870, as amended by the Madras Act V of 1922.

Town Planning Act in Madras.—In November 1911, an All-India Sanitary Conference was held in Bombay wherein the question of general town planning was one of the subjects discussed. In 1915, as an outcome thereof, a Town Planning Act was passed in Bombay on the lines of the English Town Planning Act of 1909. During 1914 and 1915, Professor Geddes and Mr H. V. Lanchester were engaged by the Government of Madras to stimulate interest in town planning in the Presidency and Messrs. E. S. Lloyd and J. K. Lancashire to examine town planning and extension schemes. The Government also made grants to the extent of about Rs 40 lakhs to local bodies for relief of congestion and for town extensions. The experience gained during these years has shewn that without a Town Planning Act and a permanent officer to advise local bodies on these matters to give cohesion and continuity of policy, little good would result. The Government therefore drew up a Town Planning Bill in 1917 on lines somewhat similar to, but more comprehensive than, the Bombay Act. Owing to the war and other causes, the bill was not finally passed until 1920, and the Director provided for in the Bill was sent from England and joined the appointment early in December 1921. The important features of the Act are: (1) It is applicable to all Municipalities in the Presidency, (2) and to other areas under notifications made from time to time; (3) it has been made compulsory that all Municipalities containing a population of over 40,000 should send in schemes to Government for sanction within five years from 1st January 1922, and (4) provision is made for the establishment of Town Planning Trusts to carry out the provisions of the Act where it is thought desirable.

Progress during 1922.—During the year 1922, besides the work in connexion with the establishment of a new Department, the Director of Town Planning was engaged in drafting rules required by the Act and preparing matter for a questionnaire on "Civic Surveys." He is also preparing the schemes of the Madras City and suburban Town Planning Trust, two of which, for Mambalam and Mylapore, have been published for criticism prior to being sent up to Government for sanction. He has also been advising local bodies throughout the Presidency having so far visited 23 towns, and a number of schemes which have been in abeyance for years have now been revived and are being brought up-to-date and revised to comply with the requirements of the Act, whilst other schemes have been started. Up to the end of 1922, two schemes were sent up to Government for sanction. A number of other towns have schemes hanging fire in some of which a good deal of capital has been sunk in land and construction works, and it is hoped to get many of these schemes brought under the operation of the Town Planning Act at an early date, though progress is naturally slow with so small a staff, as much of the work is new to the officers of the Municipalities and personal visits are essential, if these schemes are to be prepared in such a way as to comply with the provisions of the Act.

Customs Department.

* Staff.—Class I (3); Class II (5), Class III (16); Class IV (51), Class V (100), Class VI (501). [The above includes also temporary establishment both in the Chief Port and Out-Ports.]

Customs administration.—Originally the Customs administration was under the control of the Collectors of maritime districts, their work being supervised by the chief controlling Revenue authority.

As the District Collectors who had to attend to multifarious duties had little or no time to devote to customs work, which is of a very special nature, it was thought desirable to relieve the Collectors of all control over customs matters. In 1900 therefore the customs was amalgamated with the Salt and Abkari department. The Sub-Inspectors were made the unit of administration and over them there were the Inspectors and Assistant Commissioners who were required to refer all doubtful points of customs practice and procedure to the Chief Customs Officer at Madras. Later experience showed that Assistant Commissioners were not necessary and the Inspectors were made directly responsible to the Collector of Customs, Madras.

The whole Presidency is now divided into eight charges each under the control of an Inspector. At Madras there is the Collector of Customs and his three Assistants. The Collector or the senior Assistant Collector tours through the whole Presidency and submits to the Board notes of inspection of the several out-ports and land customs stations he has inspected.

Land Customs administration.—Land customs duty, otherwise called Sayer, which means remainder, is levied on the frontiers of the French Settlements in the Madras Presidency, viz., Yanam in Godavari, Pondicherry in South Arcot, Karikal in Tanjore, and Mahe in Malabar. The rates of duty charged are the same as those applicable to articles imported from or exported to, foreign countries by sea and are prescribed, by the Indian Tariff Act, and the duty is collected by establishments posted on the frontiers.

The budget allotment for the year 1922-23 is Rs. 10,28,000 under expenditure and Rs. 3,02,41,000 under receipts. The latter sum includes the receipts under the Cotton Duties Act also.

Customs Revenue.—The gross sea and land customs revenue collections of the Madras Presidency reached the level of Rs. 215'93 lakhs in 1921-22 from Rs. 91'22 lakhs in the pre-war year 1913-14, an increase of Rs. 124'71 lakhs or 137 per cent. To that total import duties contributed Rs. 189 lakhs or 87 per cent, export duty Rs. 9'95 lakhs or 5 per cent, excise duty on cotton manufactures Rs. 6'35 lakhs or 3 per cent and land customs and miscellaneous Rs. 10'43 lakhs or 5 per cent. The corresponding figures for these items in 1913-14 were Rs. 76'03, 9'30, 2'11 and 3'78 lakhs. The share of the Chief Port, Madras, in the total customs revenue was Rs. 166 lakhs or 78 per cent and that of the out-ports and land customs stations Rs. 47'93 lakhs. The increase of nearly Rs. 113 lakhs or 148 per cent under import duty as compared with 1913-14 was shared by all articles and was the result partly of high prices and partly of revisions in the Tariff Schedule by which the rates of duty were enhanced in March 1921 and further increased in March 1922. The main sources from which the import duty was derived in 1921-22 were cotton manufactures (Rs. 27'53 lakhs), liquors (Rs. 23'67 lakhs), tobacco (Rs. 11'63 lakhs), sugar (Rs. 11'44 lakhs), metals (Rs. 10'74 lakhs), mineral oils (Rs. 10'58 lakhs), articles of food and drink (Rs. 9'93 lakhs), cutlery and hardware (Rs. 9'67 lakhs), railway plant and rolling stock (Rs. 9 lakhs), matches (Rs. 7'63 lakhs), machinery (Rs. 7 lakhs), motor vehicles (Rs. 5'33 lakhs), paper (Rs. 4'92 lakhs), chemicals (Rs. 4'24 lakhs) and dyes (Rs. 4'12 lakhs). The chief items under export duty were raw hides and skins (Rs. 4'48 lakhs), tea (Rs. 2'76 lakhs) and rice (Rs. 2'70 lakhs).

The History of the Tariff in India.

The tariff in the Moghal Empire.—Customs duties on articles imported by sea have been known in India for centuries, though, until recent years, the rates have been low. In the time of the Moghals, the rate did not exceed 5 per cent ad valorem. There was also an elaborate system of internal transit dues, which, for many years, impeded the trade of India. The break-up of the Moghal Empire, by multiplying the number of independent authorities, increased the complication of these dues, and in the early days of the East India Company they were recognised as such an impediment to trade that one of the chief privileges which the Company sought, and later demanded, was exemption from the dues, and one of the greatest scandals in the conduct of the early servants of the Company, before it was curbed by Clive and Warren Hastings, was their insistence on obtaining for their own private transactions the privileges of exemption attaching to the goods of the Company.

2. The Company's administration—The task of abolishing the inland duties was taken up seriously in 1835 and was completed in 1844. In the meantime, though the import duties on goods entering India continued to be levied to some extent at different rates in different provinces, a fairly consistent tariff had been evolved. Generally speaking, the duties on raw produce were at the rate of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent and on manufactured articles at $3\frac{1}{2}$ or 5 per cent; but until 1848 these duties were doubled in the case of goods imported in foreign ships. After this date, the nationality of the shipping was ignored, but differential duties continued to be levied up to 1859 in accordance with the nationality of the goods, the duty on foreign goods being double the duty on British goods.

3 The tariff after the Mutiny—In 1859 the necessity of raising more revenue to meet the charges occasioned by the Mutiny led to a revision and enhancement of the tariff. The differential duties on British and foreign goods were abolished. The general rate of duty which had been 5 per cent was raised to 10 per cent, the duty on cotton yarn at the same time being raised from $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 per cent. An experiment was made by selecting certain articles of luxury for a special rate of 20 per cent. This, however, proved unremunerative and was abolished in the next year. In 1862 the duty on cotton piece-goods was reduced to 5 per cent and that on yarn to $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. In 1864 the general rate of duty was lowered from 10 to $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. All these reductions reflected the accepted policy of trying to revert to the rates in force before the Mutiny, and the improvement in the finances which was gradually making this possible.

4. The abolition of the general customs duties—The next important step, however, was delayed for some years, and when it came, the cotton duties controversy had already begun to cast its ill-omened shadow over the tariff policy of India. When in 1875 the Government of India found themselves in possession of a surplus, they utilised it partly in the abolition of a number of export duties and partly in reducing the general rate of import duty from $7\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 per cent, leaving the duties of 5 per cent on cotton piece-goods and of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on cotton yarn untouched. This action was disapproved by the Home Government, and, as a result of the strong agitation conducted by the Lancashire cotton trade, the Government of India were directed to abolish the cotton duties as soon as their finances permitted. The partial abolition of the cotton duties in 1878 and 1879 led on in 1882 to the abandonment not only of the remaining cotton duties, but of the whole of the general customs duties, the Government of India concluding that the duties still existing caused an amount of friction, scrutiny and interference with trade quite incommensurate with the net revenue they produced. From 1882 to 1894 no import duties were levied in India with the exception of the duties on arms and ammunition which were retained for administrative purposes, the duties on liquors, opium and salt which were complementary to the excise policy, and a duty of $\frac{1}{2}$ anna per gallon on petroleum which was imposed for revenue purposes in the year 1888.

5 Export duties.—Reference has been made above to the existence of export duties. These, indeed, were an integral feature of the early tariff policy and were levied generally at a rate of 3 per cent ad valorem on practically all exports, certain specified articles only being exempt. The main exemptions in 1859 were cotton-wool (i.e., raw cotton), sugar, tobacco and raw silk. Export duties were at this time levied at the rate of 2 annas per maund on grain, Rs 3 per maund on indigo, 4 per cent ad valorem on lac, and 3 per cent on all other articles. Though the rates were low and the duties were levied solely for purposes of revenue, the principle was regarded as unsound from the point of view of economics, and a consistent policy of abolition was pursued. Some important additions were made to the list of exemptions in 1860, notably tea, coffee, wool, jute and raw hides and skins, but a heavy duty was imposed on saltpetre. In 1867 the export duty schedule was reduced from 97 items to 9, one of the duties abolished being that on saltpetre. In 1873 the duty on wheat was taken off, and in 1875 the list was reduced to three articles, indigo, lac and rice. The two former were freed in 1880, but the duty of 3 annas per maund on rice survived from financial considerations the abolition of the general import duties in 1882, and has continued at the same rate to the present day.

6 Re-imposition of customs duties accompanied by the cotton excise.—In 1894 the fall in the sterling value of the rupee rendered fresh taxation necessary, and customs duties were re-imposed. But while the duties were again levied at a general rate of 5 per cent, with railway materials and machinery left free, and only 1 per cent on iron and steel, the Secretary of State declined to allow any duty to be placed on the chief article of import, viz., cotton goods. The revenue situation, however, made it impossible to maintain this exclusion of cotton goods from the tariff, and in December 1894 an import duty of 5 per cent was placed on cotton piece-goods and yarn, accompanied by an excise duty of 5 per cent on Indian yarn of counts above 20s. The excise on yarn did not give satisfaction to the Lancashire cotton industry, and accordingly in 1896 the duty on cotton piece-goods was lowered to $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent, an excise duty at the same rate was placed on all Indian mill-woven cloth, and cotton yarn was admitted free of duty.

7 General character of the tariff before the war.—The tariff as re-imposed in 1894 remained in its main essentials unaltered till the war. In general, it consisted of a low uniform rate of duty imposed on nearly all imports. Its object was purely revenue, but where the levying of even the low rate of 5 per cent was thought likely to impede the development of the country, as in the case of railway materials, machinery and iron and steel, special exceptions were made. On the other hand, liquors and tobacco were singled out as capable of yielding a good revenue at comparatively high rates of taxation without any injury to the country.

8 Recent enhancements.—In 1916 the financial burden imposed by the war necessitated an enhancement of the tariff. The general rate was raised from 5 to $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. There was a considerable curtailment of exemptions. Machinery, other than that for cotton mills and railway material, were now taxed at $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent and the duty on iron and steel was raised from 1 to $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. Sugar, in consideration of the large imports and the consequent large revenue which it was likely to produce, was subjected to a duty of 10 per cent and considerable increases were made in the duties on liquors and tobacco. The cotton duty and excise still remained at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. In the following year, largely as a result of the contribution of £100 million made by India towards the prosecution of the war, still further revenue had to be found. The cotton duty was therefore raised to the general level of $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent, the excise remaining unchanged at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.

9. In 1921 the Government was faced with an unprecedented deficit and further large changes were made in the tariff, which were designed to produce an additional revenue of 8 crores of rupees. The general rate of duty, including the duty on cotton piece-goods, was raised from $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent to 11 per cent, the excise remaining as before at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. The special exemption, however, which in view of the excise the cotton mills had enjoyed in respect of imports of machinery and stores, was withdrawn. The duties on liquors and tobacco were enhanced once more, the duty on sugar was raised from 10 to 15 per cent and a high specific duty was placed on matches. Finally, certain articles in the nature of luxuries, such as motor-cars, silk piece-goods and watches, were singled out for taxation at the rate of 20 per cent.

10. But the financial embarrassments of the Government and their need of more revenue from the customs were not even yet at an end, and in 1922 it was found essential to make further far-reaching changes in the tariff. The general rate of duty was raised from 11 to 15 per cent, but the duty on cotton piece-goods remained at 11 per cent, the excise also remaining unchanged at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. The duty on machinery was retained at $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent, but the duty on iron and steel and railway materials was raised from $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 10 per cent. The duty on matches was doubled and that on sugar raised from 15 to 25 per cent. Cotton yarn, which had since 1896 been free, was taxed at 5 per cent. The duty on kerosene was raised by one anna per gallon and an excise duty of one anna per gallon was placed on kerosene produced in India. The duty on those articles which had been singled out for the special rate of 20 per cent in 1921 was now raised to 30 per cent. Such increases as it was believed that liquors could still bear without failing to produce increased revenue were imposed, but the taxation on tobacco was considered already to have reached the productive limit.

11. Character of the present tariff.—It is obvious that the 1922 tariff has travelled a long way from the tariff in force before the war. The general rate of duty is no longer low, and wide breaches have been made in the old principle of uniformity. Omitting a limited free list, we have now an important class taxed at $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent, a second important class at 10 per cent, and a third at 30 per cent, while such largely consumed commodities as cotton piece-goods, cotton yarn, sugar, petroleum and matches in addition to liquors and tobacco are taxed at special rates.

12. New export duties.—Another important feature which has emerged in recent years is the tendency to revert to export duties. It has already been explained how at one time low export duties were levied on almost all articles of export, and how a policy of abolishing these duties was steadily pursued until only the duty on rice remained. The financial difficulties of 1916 gave rise to two new export duties, one on jute both raw and manufactured, the other on tea. In 1917 the export duty on jute was doubled. In 1919 a principle was introduced which was entirely new to the Indian tariff. Hitherto all export duties had been levied solely for the sake of revenue. But the export duty on raw hides and skins imposed in that year was put forward frankly as a measure of protection for the Indian tanning industry. It also contained another novel principle by providing for a rebate of two-thirds of the duty on hides and skins exported to the Empire and there tanned.

Agent for Government Consignments.

The function of this office is, as the designation implies, to arrange for the distribution to the several departments and offices of Government, Civil and Military, of all stores and other articles arriving by sea, whether they were shipped by the Director-General of Stores, London, or by private firms and tradesmen in or out of India and vice versa, to ship to Indian Ports and to other countries on behalf of Government departments and offices, stores consigned by them to these countries. The work of Landing and Shipping is done through a firm of contractors under the direction of the Agent for Government consignments. Messrs. Bunny & Co. (Madras), Ltd., are the contractors since 1909.

The office is maintained from Provincial funds, but is under the administrative control of the Presidency Port Officer and is located in the same buildings, as that of the Presidency Port Officer in the old High Court buildings opposite to the Madras Harbour. It has also godowns in the back portion of the Sea Customs Office.

Veterinary Department.

Budget allotment for the year 1922-23 Rs. 5,70,000 including non-voted charges.

* Staff.—Class I (1), Class II (2), Class III (4), Class IV (65), Class V (174), Class VI (203). [Of the numbers in Classes IV and V, 20 are on other duty.]

Expansion of the Department—Prior to the year 1892-93, there was in this Presidency a Veterinary Branch officered by an Army Veterinary Surgeon whose services were lent by the Military Department. It consisted of 1 Inspector of cattle diseases for the Presidency, 1 Deputy Inspector of cattle diseases in charge of Pony Breeding operations, 1 Sub-Assistant Director of Agriculture to assist the Inspector of cattle diseases and 8 Stock Inspectors. The Department was then under the orders of the Agricultural department. During the year 1892-93, a separate department, known as the Civil Veterinary Department with executive officers known as Superintendent, Deputy Superintendents, etc., first came into existence and it was organized mainly for the investigation and prevention of cattle disease. Since then, it has expanded gradually and it now consists of 2 Imperial officers, 4 Deputy Superintendents, 13 Veterinary Inspectors and 159 Veterinary Assistants, the whole being under the direct control of Government. The Presidency is divided into 2 divisions, one in charge of the Chief Superintendent at Madras and the other under the Superintendent, I division, Vizagapatam. It is also divided into 4 Circles and 13 Ranges, each circle being in charge of a Deputy Superintendent and each range in charge of a Veterinary Inspector. Some of the Veterinary Assistants are in charge of Veterinary institutions and some are in touring billets. There are at present 58 Government Veterinary institutions and 70 touring billets.

Work in 1921-22—Most of the hospitals and dispensaries showed an increase of work. The number of castrations performed at Veterinary institutions, excluding the Madras Veterinary College, was 2,617. The number of patients treated was 72,969, and in 14,323 cases medicines were supplied to non-attending patients. The touring staff inoculated 70,815 animals, treated 42,837 contagious and non-contagious cases and castrated 6,809 animals. The reported total mortality from contagious diseases dropped from 37,066 to 31,258, the largest decrease occurring under Rinderpest and Anthrax.

The Reformed Government.

The Executive Civil Government of the Madras Presidency is subject to the superintendence, direction and control of the Governor-General in Council Under the Government of India Act, 1915, as amended by the Government of India Act, 1919, rules have been framed under which certain subjects have been declared to be provincial and these again have been divided into reserved and transferred subjects: the administration in respect of reserved subjects is in the hands of the Governor in Council and in respect of transferred subjects in those of the Governor acting with his ministers. The term "Local Government" means the Governor in Council or the Governor acting with his ministers, as the case may be. The Council includes the Governor, who is the President, and four members of whom one is appointed by the Governor as the Vice-President; one of the members at least must be a person who, at the time of his appointment, has been for at least twelve years in the service of the Crown in India. The Governor and the members of the Executive Council are appointed by the Crown. The terms for which they may hold office are not limited by any legal enactment. The Secretary of State has directed that a member of the Executive Council should hold office for five years exclusive of any time during which he draws less than full pay, not having himself been granted leave. If a Governor or member of the Executive Council returns to Europe or leaves India with intent to return to Europe, his office is deemed to become vacant. The ministers are appointed by the Governor and hold office during his pleasure; but they must not be members of the Executive Council or officials, and no minister can hold office for a longer period than six months unless he is, or becomes, an elected member of the local legislature. The Governor in Council may grant a member of the Executive Council leave of absence under medical certificate for a period not exceeding six months.

When a vacancy occurs in the office of the Governor and there is no successor on the spot to supply the vacancy, the Vice-President or, if he is absent, the senior member of the Executive Council assumes office as acting Governor. If a vacancy occurs in the office of a member of the Executive Council and there is no successor present on the spot, it may be filled by the Governor in Council by the appointment, as temporary member, of any person qualified for such appointment. The Governor may make rules and orders for the transaction of business in his Executive Council and with his ministers. On questions brought before the Executive Council, the opinion of the majority ordinarily prevails, the Governor or other presiding member having a second or casting vote in the event of an equal division of opinion, but when any measure is proposed which in his judgment affects the safety, tranquillity or interests of the province or any part thereof, and he differs from the opinion of the majority of the members of the Executive Council, the Governor has power to act on his own authority and responsibility. The Governor in Council is not empowered to declare war or to make treaties and has no immediate control over the military administration of the Presidency. He corresponds directly with the Secretary of State except in certain cases. The authority of the local Government is not superseded by the presence in his province of the Governor-General. The local Government is empowered to undertake works of public utility, not being railways, which are not expected to cost more than fifty lakhs of rupees. The Governor in Council, or the Governor acting with the ministers, possesses all the civil patronage of the Presidency which is not retained by the Secretary of State or delegated to subordinate members of the administration. Despatches to the Secretary of State in the reserved departments are signed by the Governor and all the members of the Executive Council, despatches in the transferred departments are signed by His Excellency alone. Letters addressed to the Government of India and all orders of the local Government are signed by an officer of the Secretariat. All correspondence regarding public business reaches Government through the Secretariat.

The Madras Legislative Council.

From 1861 to 1909—When first constituted by the Indian Councils Act of 1861, the Legislative Council of Madras consisted of the ordinary members of the Governor's Executive Council and a number of additional members besides the Advocate-General, of whom not less than half were to be non-officials nominated by the Governor. The number of nominated members, exclusive of the Advocate-General, was fixed at not less than four and not more than eight and thus the strength of the whole Council was so small that the Council could be described as "a mere committee for the purpose of making laws, a committee by means of which the executive Government obtained advice and assistance in their legislation and the public derived the advantage of full publicity at every stage of the law-making process." The Council could not inquire into grievances, call for information or examine the conduct of the executive; and even its legislative function consisted merely of registering the orders of the Government in a manner which ensured publicity and discussion. By the Councils Act of 1892 the minimum and maximum numbers of additional members, exclusive of the Advocate-General, were raised to 8 and 20, respectively. The Governor had power to nominate all of them, but he was to do so subject to certain regulations made by the Governor-General in Council with the approval of the Secretary of State in Council, and under these regulations seven non-official members were to be nominated on the recommendations of various local, commercial and learned bodies. Technically the function of the nominating bodies was to be that of mere recommendation, but, in practice, the nomination was always accepted and thus in course of time the system of election came to be firmly established. The Council was to contain an official majority, but it had the right of asking questions and of discussing though not voting upon the budget.

Minto-Morley Reforms.—The next stage in the development of the Council was marked by the Indian Councils Act, 1909, (The "Minto-Morley Reforms"), the salient features of which were (1) a great expansion in the strength of the Council—the Council consisted of 42 additional members, besides the ordinary members of the Governor's Council, (2) the legal recognition of the elective principle—21 members out of the 42 additional members were elected, (3) the abandonment of the official majority, though a combination of officials and nominated non-officials could obtain a majority over the elected members; (4) the grant of rights (a) to move resolutions on the budget and divide upon them, (b) to move resolutions upon matters of general public importance and (c) to ask supplementary questions.

Government of India Act, 1919—The Government of India Act of 1919 made still further changes in the composition and functions of the local Legislative Council. The Council is no longer the Governor's Executive Council supplemented by a number of additional members for the purpose of legislation, but is a separate body consisting of members nominated or elected as provided by the Act and having an independent existence of its own. The members of the Executive Council are ex-officio members of the Legislature, but the Council contains in addition 98 elected and 25 nominated members. The Ministers are appointed by the Governor but must not be officials and must be, at the time of appointment or become within six months, elected members of the Council. Of the nominated members not more than 19 may be officials; five are nominated to represent backward communities which are unlikely in any other way to secure representation, and one to represent the inhabitants of the Agency Division, which has been declared a backward tract. The Governor is not a member of the Legislative Council but has the right to address the Council and may for that purpose require the attendance of the members. Until the expiration of a period of four years from the first meeting of the Council, as constituted under the Act, the President is to be a person appointed by the Governor, but thereafter he will be a person elected by the Council from among the members and approved by the Governor. The Deputy President is a member of the Council elected by the Council and approved by the Governor. Of the ninety-eight elected members, thirteen represent Muhammadan and Indian Christians constituencies; the Europeans and Anglo-Indians of the Presidency each have one representative, as also the Madras University and the Planting community, commercial bodies have five and the larger landholders six; and the remaining sixty-five are elected by general non-Muhammadan constituencies. Twenty-eight of these sixty-five seats are reserved for non-Brahmans, though at the elections held at the end of 1920 considerably more than this number were actually secured by non-Brahmans. For the rural constituencies the general qualification for a vote is the payment of Rs. 10 per annum in rent or revenue; for urban constituencies the payment of taxes at the minimum rate, or in Madras the occupation of a house of an annual value of not less than Rs. 60, irrespective of these qualifications, retired, pensioned or discharged officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers of His Majesty's regular force are entitled to vote. Generally speaking, a voter must be a British subject, not of unsound mind and not under 21 years of age, a sex disqualification which formed part of the original rules has since been removed. The total number of voters on the first electoral rolls was over a million and a quarter, and though this is a small proportion of the population of the Presidency, the enfranchisement of this number must be recognized as a great advance on the former system of indirect election. The number that actually went to the polls was 303,558.

The general qualifications for election to the Council run on the same lines as the qualifications for the franchise with certain additions. The age minimum is raised to 25; conviction for a serious offence in a Criminal Court becomes a disqualification; and no person who is already a member of any legislative body constituted under the Act is eligible for election. Government servants are debarred from election, and the acceptance of any Crown office must be followed by resignation, except in the case of Ministers. The rules provide for the settlement of election disputes by a court of three commissioners of high judicial standing. New members are required to take an oath of allegiance to the Crown. On any failure to take this oath, the seat is declared vacant by the Governor, who may also declare vacant the seat of any member who is absent from India for a long period.

Powers of the Council—Generally speaking, the Legislative Council has power, subject to the provisions of the Act, to make laws for the peace and good Government of the province; but no legislation which affects any Act of Parliament is permissible. Considerable latitude is now allowed in respect of legislation for the imposition of taxation. Previous to the passing of the Act, the consent of the Governor-General had to be obtained for all such legislation. This restriction has been removed in the case of certain scheduled taxes such as those on non-agricultural land and luxuries. Under the concurrent powers of legislation now granted to the Central and Provincial Legislatures, it is open to the Provincial Council to amend, in its application to their own province, certain forms of legislation passed by the Central Legislature. But it is obvious that, to ensure uniformity in India and to safeguard the observance of the general policy of the country a large measure of control over matters affecting broader issues must be retained in the hands of the Central Legislature. This precaution is ensured by the scheduled limitation of the powers of the local Council, thus the following forms of legislation are not within the province of the Provincial Council—

(a) Laws imposing new taxation, except such laws as are permitted by schedule (vide supra),

(b) Laws affecting the public debt of India or customs or taxes imposed by the authority of the Central Government;

(c) Laws affecting the Imperial forces or relations with foreign Princes or States;

(d) Laws regulating central subjects;

(e) Laws affecting provincial subjects which are declared to be subject to the legislation of the Central Government, or affecting the powers of the Governor-General, or such laws as aim at repealing or altering legislation which, according to the rules provided under the Act, can only be altered or repealed with previous sanction.

Powers of the Governor.—In pre-Reform days it was generally possible for the Government to pass any measure which it considered necessary and to prevent the passage of any measure which it regarded as injurious or unsound. With large non-official majority these powers no longer remain and other safeguards for use in emergencies have had to be provided by the Government of India Act and the rules framed thereunder. Where any Bill has been introduced or is proposed to be introduced, or any amendment to a Bill is moved or proposed to be moved, the Governor may certify that the Bill or any clause of it or the amendment affects the safety or tranquillity of the Province or any part of it, or of another province and may direct that no further proceedings shall be taken in connection with it. Similarly, where the Council has refused leave to introduce, or has failed to pass in a form recommended by the Governor any Bill relating to a reserved subject, the Governor may certify that the passage of the Bill is essential for the discharge of his responsibility for the subject, and thereupon the Bill is deemed to have been passed. A measure so passed must ordinarily be reserved for the signification of His Majesty's pleasure, though where in the opinion of the Governor-General a state of emergency justifies such action, he may immediately signify his assent and the Act will come into force subject to subsequent disallowance by His Majesty in Council, and Acts passed under these provisions must be laid before both Houses of Parliament. It is further open to the Governor or the Governor-General, when a Bill has been passed by the Legislative Council, to withhold his assent; or the Governor may, instead of declaring that he assents to, or withholds his assent from, the Bill, return the Bill to the Council for reconsideration in whole or in part together with any amendments which he may recommend; or, in certain cases for which provision is made in the rules, he may, or must, reserve the Bill for the consideration of the Governor-General. A Bill so reserved, if it does not receive the assent of the Governor-General within six months, lapses unless within that period the Governor has returned, or notified his intention to return, it to the Council for further consideration. No use has hitherto been made of these emergency powers.

Financial procedure.—The annual budget of the province is presented to the Council yearly on a day appointed by the Governor. There are two stages in the passage of the financial programme—a general discussion and the voting of demands for grants. But the following heads of expenditure are not subject to submission to the vote of the Council —

(a) contributions payable by the local Government to the Governor-General in Council,

(b) interest and sinking fund charges on loans,

(c) expenditure, the amount of which is prescribed by law,

(d) salaries or pensions of persons appointed by, or with the approval of, His Majesty or by the Secretary of State in Council, and

(e) salaries of the High Court Judges and of the Advocate-General

Normally, a separate demand is made in respect of the grant required for each department, but the Finance Member may unite the grants of two or more departments in one demand. On the appointed day, a motion for the granting of each demand is made by the responsible Member of Council or Minister. The members of the Legislative Council are then free to bring forward motions for the omission or reduction of a grant, but it is not open to them to move for the increase of any grant or for the alteration of its destination. There is a statutory provision for excess grants and for supplementary grants. As in the case of ordinary legislation, the Governor has power to carry through demands in respect of reserved subjects when he is of opinion that such expenditure is essential for the proper discharge of his responsibilities, and, in the case of all subjects, to enforce such expenditure as he considers essential for the safety of his province.

Resolutions.—Members have a right to move resolutions on matters of general public importance, fifteen days' notice must be given. Every resolution must be in the form of a recommendation to the Government, and no resolution may be moved on matters affecting relations with foreign States, relations with, or the administration of, Princes or Chiefs under the suzerainty of His Majesty, or on any matter which is sub judice. The Governor may disallow any resolution, before it is placed on the agenda, on the ground that the public interests would suffer thereby or that it relates to a matter which is not primarily the concern of the local Government. The standing orders of the Council forbid the moving of a resolution which covers the same ground as a previous resolution of the same session.

Questions.—On giving seven days' notice, a member may put a question on any matter of public concern, with the object of obtaining information from the member of the Government to whom whose special cognizance the subject-matter lies. The limitations on resolutions mentioned above apply equally to questions, and questions regarding controversies with higher authorities and the answers thereto are confined to matters and statements of fact. Any member who is dissatisfied with the answer given to his own or another member's question may follow up the question with a supplementary question.

Motions for adjournment.—It is open to any member to move for the adjournment of the business of the Council for the purpose of the discussion of a definite matter of urgent public importance. But the Governor may disallow such a motion on any of the grounds mentioned in the case of resolutions.

The Legislative Councils office.

Budget allotment for year 1922-23 Rs. 2,77,900

* Staff—Class I (2), Class II (Nil), Class III (1), Class IV (14), Class V (7), Class VI (17).

The Reformed Legislative Council under the Government of India Act, 1919, came into existence on the 17th December 1920. The Council Office was formed on the same date to deal with all matters connected with the meetings of the Legislative Council. Before the Reforms, the Secretary to the Government, Local and Municipal Department (now styled Local Self-Government Department) was also the Secretary to the Council and he looked after the duties not only of the Legislative Department but also those relating to the Council which consisted of but 50 members. In view of the largely increased powers of the Reformed Legislative Council, a separate Secretary to the Council was appointed to deal with the business of the Council exclusively, with a suitable staff under him. The office is under the direct control of the Hon'ble the President, the Secretary and his assistants being appointed by His Excellency the Governor. But certain work connected with the Legislative Council has been reserved by the Legislative Department of the Secretariat: these items are, addressing the Government of India on Bills to be introduced into the Council, arranging for elections and attending to election petitions, etc. In April 1922 the Hon'ble the President and the Secretary to the Council went to England to study Parliamentary procedure. They made a close study of the working of the House of Commons in all its details and after their return certain improvements in the working of the Madras Legislative Council were made as a result of the visit.

An important change introduced as the result of the Secretary's deputation to England is the prompt issue of the Council proceedings. Under the new system proofs are made available to the members of the Legislative Council on the next day but one after each meeting. This improvement has not been so far introduced into any of the other Councils in India.

A beginning was made last year to form a well-equipped and up-to-date library for the use of the members of the Legislative Council. Out of an allotment of Rs. 10,000 provided for this purpose in the Budget of 1922-23, about 1,000 standard books have been purchased, and these have been catalogued and indexed and are available for the use of the members. Books on Parliamentary procedure on Politics and Constitutions, on Economics and on subjects of social interest are fairly represented. Second-hand copies of several useful publications which are out of print at present were also secured by the Secretary when he was in England.

In the year 1921, the Council sat for 46 days and in the following year (1922), it sat for 41 days. Ordinarily the Council does not sit for 4 months from April to August. Except during the period of this recess, the Council meets every month and sits for not less than five days at a time with the exception of the sitting in March when the Budget is presented, discussed and passed, and for this purpose it sits for a longer period—15 to 20 days.

Besides the Standing Finance Committee, the Public Accounts Committee and the Select Committees on Bills, the members of which are elected by the Council, the former two committees by means of the single transferable vote and the last on the motion of the particular member in charge of a Bill, there are Standing Advisory committees composed mostly of members of the Legislative Council, such as the Industries and the Fisheries Committee, the Local and Municipal Administration and Public Health Committee, the Agency Advisory Committee, a Committee for Agriculture and Co-operation, the Education and Registration Committee and the Public Works Committee. These Standing Advisory Committees are appointed by the Government and the advice of members is sought on all questions of importance arising in the administration of each particular department and certain non-official members of the Council who are experts on the subject or who are interested in the working of the department are also included as ex-officio or co-opted members. The functions of the Committee are purely advisory.

There are 12 reporters to the Council (10 permanent and 2 temporary) who work in shifts of 15 minutes each and the transcripts are handed in before the close of the day. The reporting staff is also expected to attend to all kinds of committees, both committees of the Legislative Council and those appointed by the Government.

Finance.

Finance is the vehicle of government (Reforms Report, paragraph 165)

Apart from its importance as the fuel of the whole administrative machine, the finance of a country is a symptom and a gauge of the quality of its government. (Government of India's First Despatch to the Secretary of State, dated 5th March 1919, paragraph 50)

Financial arrangements of the Government of Madras prior to the Reforms.

The year 1921-22, which witnessed the introduction of the Reforms, brought about a radical change in the financial relations subsisting between the Central and Provincial Governments. Till that year the Provincial Governments had no separate revenues of their own, their resources being obtained mainly from a share of divided heads of revenue and from lump assignments from Imperial revenues. One of the cardinal features of the Government of India Act of 1919 was the complete separation between the finances of the Central Government and those of the various Provincial Governments and the allocation of definite sources of revenue to Provincial Governments. To understand the importance of the changes introduced by the Reforms, it is necessary to refer to the nature of the old financial arrangements known as the "Provincial Settlements" which have now been replaced by the new system. The Provincial Settlements in force prior to the 1st April 1921 were the successors of a number of earlier settlements, at first only temporary, then quinquennial and then quasi-permanent, the negotiations regarding which had gone on between the Government of India and the Provincial Governments at intervals for about half a century. These provincial settlements were based, not on the revenues of the Provinces, but on their needs as estimated by the Government of India

History of the financial settlements— The history of the financial settlements divides itself into five periods, each bringing the Government of India nearer to the recognition of the fact that a Province is entitled to spend the revenues which its Government levies

In the first period, prior to 1871, both revenue and expenditure were completely centralized. The local Government could not keep any part of its collections and it could not undertake any expenditure without specific sanction.

In the second period, from 1871 to 1882, certain limited allotments were given for expenditure on certain specified services.

In the third period, from 1882 to 1904, the Provinces were given a share in certain growing heads of revenue, but the object seems to have been mainly to stimulate their interest in collections.

The surpluses accumulated by the economies of Madras were resumed by the Government of India at the close of each quinquennial settlement (17.44 lakhs per annum in 1887, 10.38 lakhs per annum in 1892 and 13 lakhs per annum in 1897)

In 1904 commenced a new period, known as the period of the quasi-permanent settlements, in which the principle of equality was first recognized. It was laid down, in the words of the Decentralization Commission Report, that "so far as possible the same share of the chief sources of revenue should be given to each Province, to insure a reasonable equality of treatment." This principle, however, was not carried into practice in the settlements made in the years 1904 and 1905, under which, for instance, Bombay received one-half of the revenue under the heads Land Revenue, Stamps, Excise, Income-tax and Forests, while Madras received one-half of Stamps and one-fourth of the other four. The matter was pressed upon the Government of India, and Sir Edward Baker acknowledged the inequality of the settlement and promised amendment; and in 1908 this promise was fulfilled and a half share of all the five heads given to both Provinces

This treatment, however, was short-lived. In 1911 began what was known as the permanent settlement. The intention of the Government of India in adopting the above change was, on the one hand, to give more elasticity to the settlements and more freedom to local Governments in working them, and on the other hand, to protect the general tax-payers of India against possible mismanagement in any particular Province, and to put an end to the frequent and undesirable controversies over the adequacy of the existing settlements. The Government of India retained the option of distributing among the Provinces special grants both recurring and non-recurring out of India's surplus revenues. The net result, comparing Madras and Bombay for convenience again, was that both received the whole of the revenue from Forests and Registration, and half the revenue from Land Revenue, Stamps and Income-tax. But, while Bombay was allowed to take the whole of the Excise, less a fixed assignment equal to one-half of the revenue accruing at the time of the settlement and was allowed to enjoy the increment under this head of growing revenue, Madras was still allowed only one-half of the revenue from that source. If the treatment accorded to Bombay had been accorded to Madras, she would have been enabled in 1919-20 to incur expenditure on Provincial developments to the extent of 95 lakhs more than she did.

The option retained by the Government of India to distribute surplus grants developed into an undesirable system of doles. In this also Madras fell short of getting her share thus —

For a population of 41½ millions, Madras obtained a recurring grant of 28.50 lakhs for Education during the years 1911-12 to 1919-20, Bengal with a population of 45½ millions received 41.81 lakhs during the same period, and Bombay with a population of 19½ millions received 21.45 lakhs.

The distribution of non-recurring grants tells the same tale. In March 1911, when the Government of India distributed the opium surplus for 1910-11, Madras was given only 11 lakhs out of a total of 147 lakhs for Education and Sanitation, and, out of a total grant of 104 lakhs distributed among the various Provinces for miscellaneous objects, Madras did not receive a single rupee.

It was left for the framers of the Reforms Report to discover and proclaim the inequality of burden which history has imposed on Madras. They said:—

"We attach great weight to the proposition that, if the Provinces are to be really self-governing, they ought to adjust their expenditure, including therein their obligations to the common interests of India, according to their resources and not to draw indefinitely on more enterprising neighbours."

In order to satisfy the demands thus made, Madras had to impose the taxation which was leviable at the discretion of the local Government at a higher rate than other Provinces, while in respect of the administration of Imperial taxes she has by stricter administration imposed a heavier burden upon the tax-payer.

Provincial Revenue and Expenditure from 1889-1890.

The following table shows for a series of years from 1889-90 the total Provincial revenue and expenditure of the Madras Presidency on the basis of the Provincial Settlements then prevailing, and the revenue and expenditure converted from the old basis to the basis of the Reforms period and indicates what would have been the position if Madras had been given throughout the treatment which is now recognised as equitable treatment:—

Changes effected by the Reforms.

Provincial Revenue and Expenditure

As already stated, with the advent of the Reforms there has been since the 1st April 1921 a complete separation of all-India and Provincial revenues and expenditure, though all moneys received from sources of provincial revenue are paid into the public account, of which the Governor-General in Council continues to be the custodian. In order to meet the expenditure required by the Government of India for the upkeep and development of services which clearly appertain to the Imperial sphere, the Government of India are credited with the revenues derived from the taxes which are levied at a uniform rate throughout India, such as Customs, Income-tax and Salt and from Government services such as Railways, Posts and Telegraphs and Opium. The remaining revenues, i.e., the revenues arising from the administration of Provincial subjects, belong to the Provincial Governments by statutory right and form the main item of Provincial income.

The Provincial Governments are concerned with the administration of Central subjects only in so far as they act as agents of the Government of India in their administration (for example, Customs, Salt, etc.) and in such capacity are vested with certain financial powers.

Of the principal heads of revenue which were divided between Central and Provincial prior to the 1st April 1921, Land Revenue, Irrigation, Excise and Stamps have since become wholly Provincial, while Income-tax has been reserved as a Central source of income. Similarly, in the case of expenditure, all expenditure on Provincial subjects is charged against Provincial revenues and accordingly, expenditure under Stamps, Excise, Major Irrigation Works and Famine Relief, which was till the 1st April 1921 shared between the Central and Provincial Governments, has become entirely Provincial.

The following are the several heads of Provincial Revenue and Expenditure —

Revenue.—Land Revenue, Excise, Stamps, profits from productive Irrigation works, Forests, Registration, Administration of Justice, Jails, Interest on Provincial Advance and Loan Account, Police, Education, Medical, Public Health, Agriculture, Industries, contributions for Pensions and Gratuities, Stationery and Printing, Minor Irrigation works, and Civil works (excluding receipts from buildings belonging to Central departments).

Expenditure.—Land Revenue, Excise, Stamps, Irrigation Works, Forests, Registration, Interest on debt, General Administration, excluding Audit and Currency, but including Local Fund Audit, Administration of Justice, Jails, Police, Education, Medical, Public Health, Agriculture, Industries, Superannuation allowances and pensions, Civil Works, Stationery and Printing, Famine Relief, Ports and Pilotage, Scientific Departments, Miscellaneous Departments (Commissioner of Labour, Inspector of Factories etc.), and Provincial contribution to the Central Government.

The Yield of the Taxes.

The exact incidence of the taxes imposed in the Presidency and the extent to which each augments the resources available to the local Government have been a good deal obscured in the past by the fact that some taxes were levied by the Central Government and others by the Provincial Government, while in regard to the latter, the proceeds were divided between the two Governments in varying degrees under a succession of intricate provincial contracts. It is not proposed here to touch upon the revenues which are secured solely for the Government of India by services such as the post office, telegraphs and railways, nor upon the taxes which are of the nature of local rates, that is to say, taxes the bulk of which are levied by local bodies, with which may be included the port dues which go into the local funds administered by various port authorities. For the rest, it may be useful to touch briefly upon the main taxes levied, whether they are Central or Provincial, taking them in the order of their magnitude, and indicating briefly the changes that have occurred in the last thirty years.

Land Revenue.—The most important is of course the Land Revenue, the principles of the levy of which are fairly well known and involve an increase which, though it is by no means equivalent, follows upon the increase in prices of agricultural products. This is the main factor of the increase in the last thirty years which is indicated by the figures below —

			LAKHS.
1891-92	392.22
1901-02	506.82
1911-12	563.92
1921-22	607.48
1922-23 (Revised)	643.30
1923-24 (Budget)	634.37

This is a tax that has been the subject of many criticisms, of which it is important to note one here, namely, that inasmuch as revisions are based mainly upon prices, the man whose tax was fixed in the nineties is at a great advantage when compared with the man who is paying on the basis of the prices of the last five or even ten years.

Excise.—Next in magnitude to Land Revenue is Excise, which differs from all the other taxes levied in that it is the one tax which the Government have never had any scruple in increasing up to a point which just falls short of inducing illicit practices on such a scale as to be uncontrollable.

The following figures of total taxation per proof gallon of country spirit illustrate the results of this policy —

			RS. A. P.
1891-92	5 2 4
1901-02	5 13 0
1911-12	7 11 4
1919-20	11 2 0
1920-21	13 5 5
1921-22	12 12 9

The total receipts from Excise, which are noted below, show how this item of revenue, from being less than one-third of the Land Revenue thirty years ago, has now reached nearly 86 per cent of it—

			LAKHS.
1891-92	121.25
1901-02	142.77
1911-12	300.22
1921-22	488.17
1922-23 (Revised)	490.46
1923-24 (Budget)	543.35

The receipts from Opium are credited in the main to the Central Government. In the case, however, of Excise opium supplied to the Madras Presidency for sale, the Madras Government is credited with the sale-proceeds after deducting the cost price. This gain and the rentals derived from opium shops are included in the total figures under Excise.

Customs—The next item in magnitude is Customs, a purely central source of revenue. In this case, there have been several changes in rates. The general tariff was re-introduced in 1894. The general rate was raised from 5 to 7½ per cent in 1916, to 11 per cent in 1921 and to 15 per cent in 1922. The receipts under Customs have risen as follows:—

			LAKHS
1911-12	78.50
1920-21	192.50
1921-22	212.45
1922-23 (Revised)	306.17
1923-24 (Budget)	327.67

Stamps.—Next comes the revenue from Stamps, which is divided between non-judicial and judicial, the growth in revenue under which is attributable to the increase in commercial activity and in litigation. In this case there has been very little change in rate in the thirty years up to year 1922-23 when legislation was undertaken for enhancing the Stamp duties and Court-fees. The table below shows the increase in revenue —

			LAKHS
1891-1892	66.66
1901-1902	85.94
1911-1912	125.81
1921-1922	189.85
1922-1923 (Revised)	222.00
1923-1924 (Budget)	239.45

Salt is another Imperial head of revenue. The rate per maund, which was Rs. 2-8-0, was reduced to Rs. 2 in 1903, to Rs. 1-8-0 in 1905, and to Re. 1 in 1907 and was raised again to Rs. 1-4-0 in 1916 and to Rs. 2-8-0 from 1st March 1923. The changes in receipts are exhibited in the table below —

			LAKHS
1891-1892	177.16
1901-1902	191.17
1911-1912	107.43
1921-1922	139.02
1922-1923 (Revised)	151.22
1923-1924 (Budget)	239.15

Income-tax.—The maximum rate was raised in 1916 from 5 pies to 12 pies in the rupee, after which there were imposed a super-tax and later an excess profits tax for one year. In 1922 the maximum rate of income-tax was raised to 1 anna 6 pies in the rupee. The receipts have risen as follows:—

			LAKHS
1891-1892	18.94
1920-1921	172.42
1921-1922	177.73
1922-1923 (Revised)	149.93
1923-1924 (Budget)	196.51

The great bulk of this goes from 1921-22 to the Government of India, but the Provincial Government receives what is known as the pie rate, that is, 3 pies for every rupee by which the income assessed to the tax in any year exceeds the income assessed in 1920-21.

The above are the main taxes imposed for revenue purposes. The remaining sources of revenue are largely payments for services rendered or return on capital invested.

Registration—The revenue from Registration is mainly of the former kind and the increase in its receipts has been due to the increasing popularity of the system and the steady progress in registration of documents that has ensued. The scale of fees was raised in 1922. The total revenue has risen as follows—

	LAKHS
1901-02	14.47
1911-12	20.52
1921-22	32.56
1922-23 (Revised) ...	36.70
1923-24 (Budget) ...	37.42

Irrigation—The revenue from Irrigation represents the return on capital invested. The total sum invested in irrigation works amounts roughly to 9 crores and the return from such works, after deducting working expenses and interest on capital outlay, amounts to about 62 lakhs, or nearly 7 per cent.

Forests—The return from Forests is also largely in the nature of interest on capital invested. The total income has increased as follows:—

	LAKHS.
1901-02	25.18
1911-12	11.35
1921-22	48.57
1922-23 (Revised) ...	53.72
1923-24 (Budget) ...	50.52

Industries—The return from Industries is quite a recent development and is expected in the year 1923-24 to amount to 1250 lakhs. Endeavours are being made to put the Government industrial concerns on a commercial basis, each with its own working capital.

Minor items—In addition to these, there are sundry minor items of income for which it is unnecessary to give a comparative table. The anticipated return under these heads for the year 1923-24 is shown in the table below:—

	LAKHS.
Administration of Justice (Magisterial fines, etc.) ...	14.22
Jails (Jail manufactures, etc.) ...	8.68
Police (Cattle-pounds, etc.) ...	6.00
Education (Fees in Govt. Colleges and Schools) ...	5.90

To sum up, the final division of the sources of revenue between the Central and Provincial Governments from the 1st April 1921 is as follows:—

Central—Customs, Income-tax, Salt and Opium.

Provincial—Land Revenue, Excise, Stamps, Forest, Irrigation, Registration, a very small portion of Income-tax, and sundry minor items.

Provincial Contributions to the Central Government—In consequence of the complete separation between the finances of the Central Government and those of the Provincial Governments, it was found that the receipts of the Central Government fell short of their expenditure by 983 lakhs. The question of making good this deficit by contribution from Provincial Governments was considered by Lord Meston's committee and later by the Parliamentary joint select committee. With reference to the recommendations of the latter committee it was laid down in Devolution Rule 17 that the sum of 983 lakhs should be met, from contributions from the Provincial Governments as follows —

(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)
	LAKHS
Madras ...	348	35½	19

Central Provinces and Berar.	22	2	5½
Assam ...	15	1½	3
	983	100	100

(a) Since remitted for a period of 3 years from 1923.

In making the above recommendation the Joint committee have made an emphatic declaration of their intention that the contributions from the Provinces to the Central Government should cease at the earliest possible moment.

The initial contribution demanded from Madras is 348 lakhs or 35½ per cent of the Central deficit, while the standard and equitable share is only 19 per cent.

It has also been laid down in Devolution Rule 18 that, if in any year a reduction is made in the total of the Provincial contributions, a reduction will be made in the contributions of those local Governments only, whose last previous annual contributions exceeded their standard shares of the reduced demand and that the reduction in the case of each will be proportionate to such excess. If therefore any reduction is made in the total demand of 920 lakhs, the bulk of it will go towards the reduction of the present large contribution of 348 lakhs from Madras, but so far no reduction has been made; and the levy of such a large contribution from Madras has been the subject of strong and continued protests.

Provincial Loan Account—Prior to the 1st April 1921, the Provincial Advance and Loan Account, i.e., the moneys required for the grant of loans to agriculturists, local bodies, etc., was financed by the Government of India. The local Government paid to the Government of India interest on the amounts outstanding, while the interest received from local bodies and agriculturists was credited to provincial revenues. With effect from the 1st April 1921, these loans have to be financed by the Provincial Governments. Under Devolution Rule 23, the total amount due to the Government of India by the Government of Madras on the 1st April 1921, viz., 109 86 lakhs has to be repaid with interest in not less than 12 years. The annual instalment in repayment of the principal is 9 50 lakhs and the interest paid in 1921-22 was 1 53 lakhs.

Capital outlay on Irrigation Works.—The capital outlay on major irrigation works (productive and protective) was in the past met by the Government of India. With effect from the 1st April 1921 the revenues and charges on account of irrigation works are wholly provincial. The capital sums spent by the Government of India on these works up to the 31st March 1921 are treated as advances made to the local Government from the revenues of India on which interest is payable to the Central Government, although the capital sum need not be repaid. The total sum spent by the Government of India on irrigation works in Madras up to the 31st March 1921 is 875 26 lakhs and the interest paid by the local Government is nearly 30 lakhs per annum.

Famine Relief.—The financing of famine expenditure has also been placed on a new basis under the Reforms. Under Devolution Rule 29, the Madras Government is required to maintain a famine insurance fund by contributing from its revenues a fixed sum of 6 61 lakhs every year. This fund is not to be expended save upon a actual famine relief expenditure, or construction of protective irrigation or other works for the prevention of famine, or for the grant of loans to cultivators either under the Agriculturists' Loans Act or for relief purposes. The balance at the credit of the fund is regarded as invested with the Central Government, which pays interest on it. The annual assignment can be suspended only when the accumulated total of the fund is not less than six times the annual assignment of 6.61 lakhs.

Budget Procedure.

The gradual development of self-governing institutions forms part of the policy formulated by the Government of India Act of 1919, and with a view to attain this end, certain of the provincial subjects have been transferred to popular control. The transferred subjects, the most important of which are Local Self-Government, Education (other than European Education), Excise, Registration, Medical and Public Health, Agriculture, Industries and Public Works, are administered by the Governor assisted by Ministers chosen from among the elected members of the Legislature. The other subjects are reserved for administration by the Governor assisted by his Executive Council, and include, among others, Land Revenue, General Administration and Maintenance of Law and Order. In respect of these reserved subjects, the primary responsibility for their proper administration still remains with the Secretary of State.

The division of Provincial subjects into "Reserved" and "Transferred" has not been attended by an allocation of the sources of provincial revenue to the two branches. The expenditure on all subjects is a charge on the general revenues and balances of the province. The Provincial Budget is considered by the whole Government acting together and the distribution of the incomes for expenditure on the reserved and transferred subjects is a matter of agreement between the two sides of the Government. The budget estimates as framed by the Executive Government are laid before the Legislative Council and the proposals of the Government for the appropriation of provincial revenues in any year are, except in the case of certain non-voted charges referred to later, submitted to the vote of the Council in the shape of demands for grants. The Council may assent, or refuse its assent, to a demand, or may reduce the amount of the demand either by a reduction of the whole grant or by the omission or reduction of any of the items of expenditure comprising the demand subject, however, to certain limitations and exceptions. This power to vote supplies is an essential characteristic of a representative assembly and the resolutions passed by the Legislative Council in connection with the budget now possess a mandatory character and the Executive Government is bound to give effect to the wishes of the Legislature as expressed through these resolutions.

The Governor, however, possesses the power to authorize in cases of emergency such expenditure as may be necessary for the safety or tranquility of the province or for the carrying on of any department, and in the case of reserved subjects he may restore an item specially vetoed by the Council, on a certificate that the proposed expenditure is essential to the discharge of his responsibility for the subject concerned. All proposals for appropriation emanate from the Executive Government and the Council does not possess the power to vote any increase of expenditure during the budget discussions. In addition to the above limitations on the powers of the Council, the following items of expenditure have been removed from the scope of the Council's vote:—

(a) The contribution payable to the Central Government,

(b) Interest and sinking fund charges on loans,

(c) Expenditure, of which the amount is prescribed by or under any law,

(d) Salaries and pensions of persons appointed by or with the approval of His Majesty or by the Secretary of State in Council, and

(e) Salaries of Judges of the High Court and of the Advocate-General.

In cases of doubt whether any particular item of expenditure falls or does not fall under one of the exceptions detailed above the decision of the Governor is final.

The following table shows, under "Reserved" and "Transferred" subjects, respectively, the reductions that have been made in the budget by vote of the Council and the restorations that have been effected by certificate of His Excellency the Governor.

* The Provincial demand for Excise represents two-thirds of the charges of the joint Salt and Excise department.

† These reductions were restored by the Local Government on certificates by His Excellency the Governor under section 72-D of the Government of India Act.

Financial powers of the Local Government.

Taxation and Borrowing.—With the advent of the Reforms, the field of provincial sources of revenue has been extended in the direction of taxation and borrowing. The Scheduled Taxes rules framed under section 80-A (3) (a) of the Government of India Act have given local legislatures the power to impose taxation, without the previous sanction of the Governor-General, in respect of certain matters such as land put to uses other than agricultural, advertisements, amusements, etc.

As regards borrowing, the power has for the first time been conferred by section 30(1)(a) of the Government of India Act, under which a local Government may, on behalf and in the name of the Secretary of State in Council, raise money on the security of the revenues allocated to it under the Act subject to certain conditions. The loan proposals require the sanction of the Government of India if the loan is to be raised in India, and of the Secretary of State if the loan is to be raised outside India; and in sanctioning the raising of the loan, the Government of India or the Secretary of State may specify the amount of the issue and any or all of the conditions under which the loan shall be raised. Loans can be raised by provincial Governments only for certain specific purposes such as capital expenditure on irrigation, construction or acquisition of any work or permanent asset of a material character connected with a project of lasting public utility, financing of famine relief, etc., and where the investment is unlikely to yield an adequate return the maintenance of a sinking fund has been prescribed.

Powers of sanction.—At the same time the restrictions previously imposed on the powers of the local Government to sanction expenditure out of their resources have to a large extent been removed. A distinction is, however, made between powers to sanction and incur expenditure on Transferred Subjects and powers in relation to expenditure on Reserved Subjects. The Parliamentary Joint Committee have observed that it is the intention of the Government of India Act of 1919 that expenditure on Transferred Subjects should, with the narrowest possible reservations, be within the exclusive control of the Provincial Legislature.

Thus, in respect of Transferred Subjects, the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council is necessary for the creation of any new or the abolition of any existing permanent post, or for the increase or reduction of the pay attached to any permanent post, if the post is one which would ordinarily be held by a member of an all-India Service, or for the increase or reduction of the cadre of an all-India Service, for the creation of a permanent post on a maximum rate of pay exceeding Rs. 1,200 a month, for the creation of a temporary post the pay of which exceeds Rs. 4,000 a month, or the extension beyond a period of two years of a temporary post with pay exceeding Rs. 1,200 a month, and for expenditure on the purchase of imported stores or stationery.

In regard to expenditure on Reserved Subjects, in addition to the above, further restrictions have been imposed. Thus, the sanction of the Secretary of State is necessary for capital expenditure upon irrigation, navigation and similar works when the original estimate exceeds 50 lakhs. Such sanction is also necessary for a revision of permanent establishment involving additional establishment charges exceeding 5 lakhs a year; provided that, if a resolution has been passed by the Legislative Council recommending an increase of establishment charges for this purpose, the sanction of the Secretary of State is not required unless the expenditure exceeds 15 lakhs a year.

The local Government also exercise certain limited powers in their capacity as agents to the Governor-General in Council in the administration of Central Subjects, such as Customs, and Salt. For instance, they can sanction the creation or abolition of a permanent post provided that the maximum pay of the post does not exceed Rs. 500 a month; sanction the creation of a temporary post on pay not exceeding Rs. 1,500 for not more than six months; and sanction revision of the pay of an establishment provided that the additional expenditure does not exceed Rs. 6,000 a year.

Committees of the Local Legislature.—The introduction of the Reforms scheme has brought into existence two Committees of the local Legislature, namely, the Public Accounts Committee, and the Finance Committee, the functions of which are calculated to bring the Legislature increasingly into touch with the details of the financial problems dealt with by the Executive Government.

The Public Accounts Committee is a statutory body which is constituted soon after the commencement of each financial year, not less than two-thirds of which are elected by the non-official members of the Legislative Council, the remaining members being nominated by the Governor. The Finance Member is the Chairman. The main function of the Committee is scrutiny of the Audit and Appropriation Reports of the province. It satisfies itself that the money voted by the Council has been spent within the scope of the demands granted by the Council and brings to the notice of the Council all financial irregularities.

In addition to the Public Accounts Committee, which is a machine for ensuring regularity in public expenditure, there is the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council which is an advisory body for scrutiny of expenditure and for recommending economies. The Finance Committee, which is also constituted every year, consists of nine members, of whom six are elected by the non-official members of the Council and the remaining members, including the Finance Member who is ex-officio Chairman, are nominated by the Governor. Its main function is the examination and discussion of the budget proposals of the Executive Government, including the supplementary estimates. It also examines new schemes of expenditure before they are entered in the budget.

The Finance Committee constituted for the year 1922-23 has also been appointed as a Retrenchment Committee with a view to further curtailment of expenditure.

Financial position.

Provincial revenue and expenditure.—From the table given in the earlier portion of this Chapter, it will be seen that thirty years ago, in 1892-93, the revenue assigned to this Presidency was only 302 lakhs and the actual expenditure was 318 lakhs. If the present settlement had been in force, this Government would have been in receipt of a revenue of 756 lakhs and the expenditure on the new basis would have been 403; in other words, the provincial contribution in those days was nearly one-half of the gross provincial revenue on the new basis.

Ten years later, in 1902-03, the total figures for revenue and expenditure were 367 lakhs. Had the new settlement been in force, the revenue would have been 917 lakhs and the expenditure 471 lakhs, so that again very nearly half the gross provincial revenue went to the Government of India.

By the beginning of the war, in 1911-15, things had improved somewhat. The revenue was 757 lakhs and the expenditure 823 lakhs; but if the new settlement had been in force, the revenue would have been 1,269 lakhs and the expenditure 841 lakhs, leaving a contribution of 428 lakhs.

Then followed the four war years (1915-16 to 1918-19), in which expenditure was restricted in every direction with the result that at the end of 1918-19 there was a balance of 210 lakhs. In the first year after the war, viz., the year 1919-20, the receipts on the old basis amounted to 955 lakhs and the charges to 959 lakhs, exceeding the revenue by only 4 lakhs. In the year 1920-21, which was the year when the Reforms were in the making, the revenue on the old basis amounted to 954 lakhs, while the expenditure rose to 1,101 lakhs, exceeding the revenue by 147 lakhs. This excess expenditure was mainly due to the urgent necessity for revision of pay of all officers (both gazetted and non-gazetted) in the Presidency. The total expenditure incurred in 1920-21 on account of the revision of salaries amounted to about 128 lakhs. Even that, however, proved far short of the necessities, and in 1921-22, the first year of the Reforms period, the extra expenditure in consequence of the increase of salaries amounted to nearly 2 crores. At the same time there was another great set-back due to the temporary success of the non-co-operation movement, which cut down the provincial receipts from Land Revenue, Excise and Forests and increased the charges in Malabar and on the maintenance of law and order generally. The total receipts for 1921-22 amounted to 1,542 lakhs, while the total expenditure, including the provincial contribution to the Central Government of 348 lakhs, amounted to 1,641 lakhs, leaving a deficit of about 99 lakhs.

Towards the commencement of the year 1921-22, His Excellency Lord Willingdon announced his intention of calling upon all heads of departments to show how they would carry on their administration if they were compelled to reduce the charges thereof by 20 per cent. The net result of the retrenchments effected by the Government in 1921-22 was the abolition of 60 gazetted appointments, 565 non-gazetted appointments, and 4,765 constables, attenders and peons, and about 7,000 members of the village staff. The department of Land Records was entirely swept away, and in the department of Public Works no new works were undertaken and as a consequence, there were abolished the posts of 1 Superintending Engineer, 7 Executive Engineers, 22 Sub divisional officers, 200 subordinates and 315 menials.

When the budget for 1922-23 came to be framed, the Provincial revenue was still at a low ebb. The Legislative Council recommended an increase of pay to village headmen, amounting to nearly 35 lakhs a year, while they did not approve of taxation to meet it.

The Madras Government was therefore obliged to embark upon increases in the Stamp duties and Court fees and Registration fees. It was anticipated that the yield from the Stamp duties and Court fees would amount to 70 lakhs and that from the enhanced Registration fees to 7½ lakhs. The actual yield from the new Stamp duties and Court fees has, however, proved to be only one half of what was anticipated. The total revenue for 1922-23 according to the revised estimate is 1,635 lakhs and the expenditure 1,653 lakhs, leaving a deficit of 18 lakhs, a result which was achieved by the enforcement of all possible economies in the various departments of Government.

The budget for the year 1923-24 has been framed on the basis of the revenue recovering, the non-cooperation movement being at least quiescent, the Malabar rebellion over, and the revision of salaries practically at an end. According to the figures as finally passed by the Legislative Council, the total revenue is estimated at 1,687 lakhs and the total expenditure at 1,712 lakhs, leaving a deficit of about 25 lakhs.

Figures under principal heads—The following statement shows by principal heads the total revenue and expenditure for the four years, 1920-21 to 1923-24, the figures for 1920-21 having been adjusted with reference to the classification of revenue and expenditure adopted since the Reforms.—

The debt of the Presidency.—As already stated, local Governments have been given independent borrowing powers subject to certain restrictions as regards the objects for which money may be borrowed, the amount of the issues, the rate of interest and other conditions, under which the loan may be raised. The Madras Government have not so far entered the open market and all their borrowings have so far been met by advances from the Central Government.

The total amount of debt at the end of 1923–24 on which the Madras Government will be paying interest to the Government of India is 1,260 74 lakhs which is made up of :—

	LAKHS.
(1) Irrigation Works (capital outlay incurred by the Government of India up to 31st March 1921, which is of the nature of permanent debt)	875 26
(2) Old Provincial Advance and Loan Account (the total amount due to the Government of India on 1st April 1921 was 109 86 lakhs which is repayable with interest, in twelve annual instalments of principal. During the three years 1921–22

	LAKHS.
to 1923-24, three instalments aggregating (3 × 9·50) or 28·50 lakhs, will be paid leaving a balance of 81·36 lakhs) ...	81 36
(3) Short-term loans to be repaid in 15 years ...	304 12
1921-22 ...	114 86

1923-24 (120·79 — 8·42 repayment)	112·37
	304 12
	<hr/> 1,260·74

Leaving out of account the permanent debt on account of Irrigation Works, the total borrowings from the Government of India amount to (81·36 + 304·12) or 385·48 lakhs. Of this sum, 261·74 lakhs are lent again to local bodies, agriculturists, zamindars and others who are responsible for the charges of the loans, 26·24 lakhs represent the outlay on productive irrigation works since the Reforms and 15·29 lakhs represent the capital expenditure on certain works included in the Public Works programme. The balance to be accounted for is 82·21 lakhs.

The deficits in the Revenue account in the three years amount to (98·72 + 17·68 + 21·59) or 140·99 lakhs. Deducting the opening balance to the credit of this Government on the 1st April 1921, viz., 58·78 lakhs, the total borrowings for meeting the deficit amount to 82·21 lakhs. This figure does not however accurately represent the extent of the dead-weight debt of the Madras Government, because against this sum should be set about 29 lakhs which are invested in industrial enterprises, some of which are profitable, and about 36 lakhs spent or allotted as grants to local authorities for water-supply and drainage schemes and other permanent works of public utility. If these two sums [(29 + 36) or 65 lakhs] are deducted and if a provision of about 9 lakhs is made for the repayment of the Sinking Fund loans up to the end of 1922-23 the real dead-weight debt at the end of 1923-24 will be about 20 lakhs.

Future outlook.—It may be hoped that the Provincial revenues, which received a set-back in 1921-22 and 1922-23 on account of the temporary success of the non-co-operation movement, will in future years show, as in the past, a normal growth sufficient to cover the normal increase in expenditure. In addition to this, the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee, who are overhauling the machinery of the several departments of Government, are expected to result in a considerable reduction of expenditure.

Over and above all this, there has to be considered the large temporary drain on the resources of Madras which is involved by the contribution of 348 lakhs to the Central Government, representing about one-fifth of the gross Provincial revenues. Several representations have been made by the Madras Government for a substantial reduction in this contribution, but so far they have not been successful. There is, however, reason to hope, as will be seen from the pronouncements made by the Hon'ble Sir Basil Blackett, Finance Member of the Government of India, and His Excellency the Governor-General, extracted below, that in the near future there will be a substantial reduction in the Provincial contribution of Madras which will make possible expenditure on various urgent and necessary schemes, especially in the nation-building departments, which are now hung up for want of funds.

Extract from the Budget speech dated 1st March 1923 of the Hon'ble Sir Basil Blackett, Finance Member of the Government of India.

" * * * I do not think that any one considering Indian finances at the present time can fail to be impressed by the undesirability of a long continuance of the present unsatisfactory position in regard to the provincial contributions. The Government of India have stated plainly that, as soon as they are able to do so, they intend to reduce, and eventually extinguish, these contributions. * * *

But so long as we have a deficit in the Central budget, it is obviously impossible for us to make a beginning with the reduction of provincial contributions.

* * * Much, therefore, as we should have liked to be able to make a beginning of the reduction of the provincial contributions, it is obvious that this year we must confine ourselves to an attempt to deal with our own deficit. I would, however, add this appeal to all who are interested in a reduction in the provincial contributions. Let them give us their full support in any measures we propose for securing a balanced Central budget in the certainty that by so doing they are hastening the day when the contributions can begin to be released."

Extract from the statement by His Excellency the Governor-General on 29th March 1923 certifying the Finance Bill with the salt tax at Rs. 2-8 per maund —

"Ever since my arrival in this country the Legislature, all sections of the press and public men in deputations, addresses and speeches have insistently urged on me the vital necessity of securing financial equilibrium. In addition representations had persistently been made that the Government of India should balance its budget in order that it might begin to remit the contributions of 9½ crores from the Provincial Governments to the Government of India, a matter vitally important to the progress of those departments which have, under the Reforms Scheme, been committed to the charge of Ministers Many of the members had emphasised the need of regaining equilibrium as a necessary preliminary to fulfilling our obligations in regard to the gradual reduction of provincial contributions, and it is indeed obvious that no step in this direction can be taken so long as the finances of the Central Government are in deficit. * *

* Unbalanced budgets appear to me to involve dangers to the future of India perhaps inherently greater than any constitutional or political issue, while their immediate effect is to stifle the development in the provision of all those beneficent activities, e.g., Education, Public Health, Industry, which should be the first fruits of the reforms. I am convinced therefore that my action will prove of ultimate benefit in the development of the reforms and the advancement of India and for these I shall continue to labour in the discharge of the high responsibilities entrusted to me as Governor-General."

The Application of Astronomical Principles to Indian Historical Investigations.

For reasons that will presently appear, the subject has received more attention in the south than in other parts of India. The system of the Indian Calendar itself was a mystery for a long time to Europeans resident in India and was for the first time disclosed to European readers in two pamphlets dated about 1740, one by Beschi, the famous Jesuit missionary and Tamil scholar who lived and wrote at Madura, and the other by Walther, a Protestant Lutheran missionary at Tranquebar. These works must have been the result of considerable labour on the part of their respective writers, but it is evident that their object was purely and simply to explain the ordinary terms of the Indian Calendar or Panchanga, and neither of these missionaries probably suspected the important bearings of the science they were helping to found on the future of Indian History, or on the interpretation of dated Indian inscriptions. Walther must have seen the inscriptions at least at Tanjore and Beschi had abundant opportunities of seeing not only those at Madura but the much more famous and more ancient inscriptions at Trichinopoly and in Mysore. One reason may be suggested why their curiosity in this respect was foredoomed to disappointment. Few of the inscriptions in question, perhaps none, mentioned years whether by the Salivahana or by the Vikrama, or any other era. Assuming that these missionaries had an intimate knowledge of the Indian Calendar or Panchanga, as current in their time, it must have passed their comprehension how to locate in time calendrical details, in which no year figured as a prominent element. In the last quarter of the eighteenth century, the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal was founded and its annual transactions devoted a good deal of space to the interpretation of Indian inscriptions. It so happens, however, that the first inscriptions examined by the Royal Asiatic Society were those of Bengal, or of the Vizianagar Kings, in all of which there are years of the Saka or Vikrama era; and since the equivalence of these eras to the Christian era has been long known, there was no difficulty in rendering the years of the inscriptions into those of the Christian era. But when it came to a question of interpreting the month and day of the Indian Calendar these early students of Indian inscriptions were at sea. Some pandit apparently told them that Kartika, for instance, was the Indian month corresponding to the English December and they proceeded straightway to translate the "fifth day of Kartika" (it being a lunar month by the way) into the fifth day of December. Even if the Indian month quoted had been a solar month like December, the translation would not have been correct, because, as is well known, Indian solar months do not commence on exactly the first days of the English solar months; on the contrary, at the present time, the first day of an Indian solar month is nearer the middle than the beginning of the English solar month.

Further progress in this direction was not possible until the matter had been more accurately studied than it had been by Walther and Beschi. This was reserved for two writers, Warren and Jervis, both of whom wrote about 1835 important works which are interesting reading even at the present day, namely, Kalasankalita by Warren and Indian Metrology by Jearvis. In these works an attempt was made for the first time to construct schemes of the Indian Calendar for long periods of time. It does not appear, however, that much use was made of these works, even after the formation about the year 1857, of the Indian Archaeological Department except by a rare writer here and there, like Cunningham who calculated in his "Asoka Inscriptions" a date in the Buddha era either with the help of Warren or with the assistance of some pandit employed by the Archaeological Department.

In 1888, Professor Hermann Jacobi of Bonn published in the Indian Antiquary an important article "On the Method of calculating Indian Dates," which went directly to the root of the matter and enabled any one who was minded to do so to calculate the dates of inscriptions. In Professor Kielhorn of the Elphinstone College, Poona, was found the combination of mathematical aptitude and Sanskrit learning which was needed to continue the research, and we find Professor Kielhorn engaged for the remainder of his life (d. 1908) in building up that science which will always remain a monument of his fame, the application of Indian astronomical principles to the construction of an Indian Chronology. Finally, in 1909 or 1910, were given posthumously to the world, in two small volumes forming appendices to the Epigraphica Indica, Professor Kielhorn's Inscriptions of Northern India and his Inscriptions of Southern India.

To Professor Kielhorn is due the merit of having discovered for the first time the fact that a South Indian inscription containing details of week-day, day of solar month, tithi and nakshatra, though it may mention no year, can be located with certainty in one year out of 400, provided its superior and inferior limits are known within the space of 400 years. This discovery enabled Professor Kielhorn to settle half a dozen dates in the history of the Pandyas and Cholas; and going backwards and forwards from these dates, he was enabled in a short space of time to settle the details of the whole of the Chola chronology for about 400 years, i.e., from A.D. 900 to A.D. 1800. That he was not equally successful with the Pandyan chronology was due to the fact, of which he himself does not seem to have been aware, that the reigns of the Pandya Kings in the most important period of Pandyan history, from the middle of the 12th to the middle of the 14th century, were not successive like those of the Chola Kings, but frequently overlapped one another.

For further progress in this direction it was necessary that a far more compendious method of calculation should be resorted to than was available to Professor Kielhorn. The present writer's* persistent endeavours to discover such a method have culminated in the compilation of a day-to-day Ephemeris from the year 700 A.D. to the year 2000 A.D., which was published in 1922 in seven volumes.

Within these wide limits of time it is no longer necessary to calculate the details of a date, expressed in week-day, solar day of month, tithi or nakshatra; it is enough to look up the particular page of the Ephemeris where the details of the year in question are entered. The writer has fully explained in part II of Volume I of his Ephemeris the method by which it was possible to produce in the course of a few months day-to-day details which hitherto were supposed to involve minute and elaborate calculation entailing the expenditure of at least a quarter of an hour for each date. Briefly, the new method depended on the discovery of certain long term cycles which, with the aids furnished by the modern printer's art, render it possible to produce an Ephemeris for any number of years almost entirely by mechanical effort.

The writer's Ephemeris starts with the year 700 A.D., it could have been carried back with equally little effort for as many centuries as one might please and would have only entailed the cost of printing an additional volume of 400 pages for every additional period of 200 years. There was, however, a practical limit. It is certain that without a week-day an Indian date cannot be verified except where an eclipse is cited, and on the other hand, it is equally certain that week days were not commonly cited in India before the 8th century A.D. and possibly not at all before the fifth A.D. The number of week-day dates between the fifth and eighth centuries A.D., probably not much more than a dozen on the whole, would not make it worth while to have as many volumes as there are two hundred years between these epochs, and, after all, any individual date can always be calculated directly, to any degree of accuracy, according to any of the known Siddhantas without the aid of any day-to-day Ephemeris.

The uses of such an Ephemeris as that published by the writer for the eleven hundred years from 700 to 1800 A.D. (not to mention the current period of 200 years from 1800 A.D. to 2000 A.D. which are of interest only to the existing generations), are of many descriptions; and they enable the investigator to carry his results far beyond the limits considered possible by Kielhorn. Thanks to this new method, it has been possible to throw considerable new light on the history of the mediæval Pandyas from the 13th to the 15th centuries A.D. and to test in minute detail the correctness of the Saka dates in hundreds of Vizianagar inscriptions with the result that it is now known that only 50 per cent of inscriptions where Saka dates, with other details, are quoted, can be regarded as chronologically correct. This is an important conclusion and one which brings home the value of calendrical calculation and verification even where there is a citation of a Saka or a Vikrama year.

The study of horoscopes, as time records, will, it is hoped, make much more progress in future than it has done in the past, thanks to the special exposition of the subject, together with exhaustive illustrations and complete tables, in Volume I, part 1 of the writer's Ephemeris published in 1922. Before the appearance of this work the only horoscope for which any attempt at systematic investigation had been made, that is to say, for historical purposes, was that of Rama in the Ramayana, which Bentley in his "Historical review of Hindu astronomy," identified with the year B.C. 942. Bentley's identification was necessarily wrong because his longitudes are not sidereal, as required by Indian Astronomy, but tropical right ascensions. The present writer has made this particular horoscope the subject of a detailed and special study in the work above cited, not because of its historical value, for it probably possesses none, but as an illustration of the correct method of locating a horoscope in time, which method must be the same whether the horoscope is imaginary or real. The writer has there shown that Rama's horoscope, according to the Surya Siddhanta, could have been true on a particular date in only one of two years, B.C. 2,055 and B.C. 278. The horoscope is, in all probability purely imaginary, and likewise a late effort of imagination on the part of some one who, in the early centuries of the Christian era, added to the text of the Ramayana the first and last cantos, which are now recognized by critics, on grounds independent of astronomy, to be late additions. But the investigation by the present writer shows that a horoscope such as Rama's which is concerned with five planets, viz., the Sun, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, can be referred to only two dates in a period of 4,000 years. The greater the number of planets mentioned in a horoscope the longer the cycle of recurrence, that is, the period in which the same combination is likely to occur; and the smaller the number of planets mentioned in a horoscope the greater is the likelihood of its being satisfied by more than one date in the course of a few thousand years. The latter is the case with Sankara's horoscope which is probably equally imaginary with that of Rama, but in which the planets in exaltation are only four, viz., the Sun, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn,—Venus, for obvious reasons, being omitted. This horoscope, as the writer has shown in the same passage of the work above cited, is satisfied by about half-a-dozen dates in the course of a thousand years, and the fact that one of the identifications, A D. 805, coincides with the date accepted on other grounds as being a probable one for Sankara is a mere accident. We thus reach the ordinary kind of horoscope in which six, seven or more planets are mentioned and which, if authentic, can be referred with certainty to only one date, and not more than one, out of several thousand years. This is a proposition regarding the horoscope of which neither astrologers, nor the astrologising public are aware. Given a horoscope without mention of any year, but with only the mention of the ordinary nine planets and the houses occupied by them, such a horoscope can belong only to one individual in the whole life-history of the human race, and if it belongs to other individuals, it must be to persons born on the same date.

This exceedingly interesting conclusion is brought out by another investigation carried out in the course of the same work, viz., that of the Paripadal horoscope, in which the poet Nallantuvanar, describing a flood in the river Vaigai near Madura in the early dawn of a summer morning, says that at that time the nakshatra Kṛithika was high up, and the planets Mars, Venus, Mercury, Saturn and Jupiter, were in Aries (Mesha), Taurus (Rishabha), Gemini (Mithuna), Sagittarius (Dhanus) and Pisces (Mina), respectively. The poet says that at the same time the moon was rapidly approaching a state of eclipse. There are internal indications in the poem, particularly in the reference to a lunar eclipse occurring in the morning and to the fact of Saturn being still in the latter half of Dhanus, but approaching his own house Makara, which preclude the possibility of the horoscope being a mere effort of imagination. But for these indications, one might be tempted to suppose that the poet collocated a number of planets in certain houses merely because they were their own houses, or swakshetia, which is the case with all the planets, except Saturn, in the present horoscope, just as the poet who inserted Rama's horoscope in the text of the Ramayana merely fixed his imagination on a horoscope which should contain five planets in exaltation. But not only are the circumstances above mentioned against the theory of an imaginary horoscope in the case of the Paripadal, but there is the indubitable fact that all the details of the horoscope as given by the poet, absolutely all without an exception, were fulfilled on one particular date, and one date only in the course of several thousand years as shown by the writer: the date in question is 17th June, A D 634.

It is exceedingly improbable that horoscopes of an equally satisfactory kind with that of the Paripadal will be discovered hereafter except by the possible discovery of new manuscripts of ancient works containing them; but the principles established by these investigations are of value in any endeavour to understand the chronological character of the Indian horoscope and in assessing at their true value certain phases of modern astrology.

It requires to be mentioned in conclusion that Indian astrology, though now identified with Indian astronomy had a different origin and is probably much younger than its sister the Indian Urania. The Vedic astronomy was not coupled like the modern Indian astronomy with astrology. When astrology first came into this country is a moot point, but it seems probable from the course run by astrology in other civilized countries of the East, like Egypt, Babylonia and

Assyria, that until the system of astrology practised in this country became what we might call a fixture, which it has been for the last 1,500 years, it ran a chequered course, parallel in all probability to that of astrology in those other countries and in Greece and ancient Rome. We know that astrology and astrologers flourished in the early Roman Empire long before the time of Ptolemy who laid the foundations of modern astrology, but we also know that the earlier astrology was primitive in character and short-lived, because of the far greater pretensions to mathematical precision of the Ptolomaic astrology. For instance, we have reason to infer from Ovid's Fasts and Manilius' System of Astronomy in verse, that it must have been the practice of astrologers in the time of Augustus and Tiberius to use, as the rising sign or lagna, not only one of the signs of the zodiac rising at the moment of a birth, but any fixed star anywhere in the heavens happening to rise at that time. This apparently was because the system of rising signs had not yet been combined with the planetary movements, as it was in Ptolemy's system. It is not unreasonable to suppose that similar attempts at a crude system of astrology, which pretended to make predictions not from a study of the courses of the planets, but from the far easier observation of the daily rising and setting of the fixed stars and of the passages of the sun and the moon through the signs of the zodiac, may have obtained in India before the Ptolomaic system of Ptolemy. Maternus and Paulus Alexandrinus was adopted, as it apparently was, by Varahamihira in the 6th century A.D., at any rate, we have no means of proving that the Indian astrology before Varahamihira's time was planetary in character, though it may have been concerned with predictions of the future from observations of the diurnal courses of other heavenly bodies.

Description.—Travancore occupies the south-west portion of the Indian Peninsula. It forms an irregular triangle, with its apex at Cape Comorin, and it is situated between $8^{\circ} 1'$ and $10^{\circ} 22'$ north latitude and between $76^{\circ} 13'$ and $77^{\circ} 38'$ east longitude. It is bounded on the north by the State of Cochin and the British district of Coimbatore, on the east by the British districts of Madura and Tinnevely, and on the south and west by the Indian Ocean. Its extreme length from north to south is 174 miles, its extreme breadth 75 miles, and its area 7,625 square miles. It is about four-fifths of Madura, nine-tenths of Coimbatore, one and one-fourth of Malabar, and one and one-third of Tinnevely. Compared with other Native States, Travancore is about one-twelfth the size of Hyderabad, one-fourth of Mysore, seven-eighths of Baroda, two-sevenths of Gwalior, more than five times the size of Cochin and six times that of Pudukkottai. It is smaller than the Principality of Wales by about 250 square miles and bears to England and Wales together the proportion of one to eight.

Physical geography.—Travancore is one of the most picturesque portions of Southern India. The mountains which separate it on the north and east from the British districts are clothed with magnificent primeval forests, while the belt of flat country to an average width of 10 miles inland from the sea, is covered with an almost unbroken mass of coconut palms which in a great measure constitute the wealth of the country. The whole surface is undulating, and presents a series of hills and valleys, traversed from east to west by numerous rivers. At the southern end of the State lies Nannjanad, with its clusters of houses, palmyra groves and extensive paddy fields, resembling in some respects the neighbouring district of Tinnevely.

The hill scenery has peculiar beauties, among which are the wild, rocky and precipitous acclivities and fantastic forms of the mountain range near its southern end. The valleys are studded with temples and churches. The numerous houses and gardens scattered over the country give it an appearance entirely different from that of the east coast of India.

The hilly region is very extensive and is a marked feature of the country. The mountains possess every variety of climate and vegetation and can boast of extensive tea and rubber plantations run both by Indian and European agencies. Their elevation differs, equally widely, the loftiest among them, the Anamudi peak (8,337 feet above sea-level) being the highest in India next to the Himalayas. The Cardamom hills, with an area of about 400 square miles and an elevation of about 3,500 feet are still the abode of the elephant and the bison and are the favourite hunting ground of world-renowned sportsmen.

The climatic variations of the whole of India may, on a small scale, be experienced in Travancore, though a warm humidity is one of the special features of its climate. On some of the peaks, the pinching cold of the northern regions of Europe may be felt; lower down, on an elevation of between 3,000 and 4,000 feet, one meets with the bracing temperature of England, while a cloudless sky with a clear sun marks the cessation of the heavy monsoons. From January to May there is intense and oppressive heat which at times becomes so intolerable that some of the taluks then present the aspect of a true equatorial region.

Numerous rivers rise in the Ghats and flow by tortuous courses, through high banks and rocky beds, into the backwaters and the sea. Most of these are navigable for some distance inland. The most important of these rivers is the Periyar rising in the High Ranges, which after a course of 142 miles enters the backwater of Kodungallur (Cranganore). A portion of its enormous discharge of water is now diverted into Madura by the Periyar waterworks. The next in importance are the Pamba (90 miles), the Kallada (70 miles), the Kulakada (70 miles), the Muvattupuzha (62 miles), the Karamana (42 miles), the Thambraparni (37 miles), the Neyyar, the Minachil and the Vamanapuram (35 miles each) rivers. The Thambraparni has been bunded up and the reservoir so formed irrigates an extent of about 70,000 acres of wet land in Nanjanad.

A succession of lagoons or backwaters connected by navigable canals, extends along the coast, almost throughout its length forming a most important means of communication. This system of water communication extends from Tirur in British Malabar, to about 20 miles south of Trivandrum; between the latter place and Quilon there rises at Varkalaya a high promontory of land about 6 miles in breadth the highest portions of which have been tunnelled through in two places to a length of over a mile, while the remaining portions have been cut open into a canal, thus making the line of water communication complete. A strip of land from seven miles to about half a mile wide separates these backwaters from the sea. There are however several outlets from them to the sea. The bulk of the country has been opened up by a net work of roads and canals, and in central and south Travancore there is a mile of road to almost every square mile of country. North Travancore is however not so well served by roads and strenuous efforts are being made to bring it up to the same level as central and south Travancore. The Cardamom hills are the only area in the whole State that have not yet been fully opened up for wheeled traffic. One line of Railway about a hundred miles in length now cuts across the State from east to west and thence runs along the coast from north to south and more Railway lines are in contemplation.

Over one-half of the total area of the State is covered by hills and forests.

The total area of reserved forests at present is 2,387 and odd square miles. A large variety of timber trees such as teak, blackwood, ebony, jack, angih, etc., grow in the forests.

The South-West Monsoon begins about the middle of May. The rainfall is generally heavy, accompanied by thunderstorms. The North-East Monsoon commences in the month of October. The average rainfall during the past year 1921-22 was 92.44 inches. From February to May the heat is intense and oppressive.

Rice is the staple food of the people, but the principal source of agricultural wealth is the coconut. Other important crops are pepper, cardamoms, arecanut, jack-fruit, tapioca, tea and rubber. The State is not rich in minerals as gold, iron or precious stones, but mica exists in sufficient quantities and the monazite sands of South Travancore have attracted the attention of the world. The lignite of the Varkalay cliffs and the Kaolin deposits scattered over the country are also of great importance.

Concise history of Travancore.—The early history of Travancore is in great part traditional, but there is little doubt that His Highness the Maharaja is the representative of the Chera dynasty, one of the three great Hindu dynasties which exercised sovereignty at one time in Southern India. The petty chiefs who subsequently set up as independent rulers within the State were all subdued and the whole country as at present constituted, was consolidated and brought under one rule by Maharaja Martanda Varma (1729–1758). The English first settled at Anjengo, a few miles to the north of Trivandrum, and built a factory there in 1684. In the wars in which the East India Company were engaged in Madura and Tinnevely in the middle of the 18th century, the Travancore State gave assistance to the British authorities. Travancore was reckoned as one of the staunchest allies of the British Power and was accordingly included in the Treaty made in 1784 between the Honourable East India Company and the Sultan of Mysore. In view of the protection of the State from possible inroads by Tippu an arrangement was come to in 1788 with the Honourable the East India Company, and in 1795, a formal treaty was concluded, by which the Company agreed to protect Travancore from all foreign enemies. In 1805, the annual subsidy to be paid by Travancore was fixed at 8 lakhs of rupees.

The Ruling Family of Travancore—His Highness the Maharaja of Travancore was born on the 25th September 1857, and ascended the Masnad on the 19th August 1885. His Highness is entitled to a salute of 21 guns. The Marumakkattayam law governs the succession to the State. The present Senior Rani, Her Highness Setu Lakshmi Bayi (born 19th November 1895), and the Junior Rani Setu Parvati Bayi (born 8th November 1896), were adopted into the family on the 31st August 1900. A son was born to the Junior Rani on the 7th November 1912 and a daughter on the 17th September 1916; the Rani gave birth to a second son on the 22nd March 1922.

His Highness the Maharaja has now sat on the Masnad for the past 38 years. These years have been marked by uniform peace and contentment and by continued progress and prosperity. Under His Highness' wise guidance, sound judgment, and unremitting devotion to public duty, the State has made rapid strides in the path of all-round development. It is by no means easy to recount in detail the innumerable measures of administrative reform initiated, pursued and perfected during His Highness' rule, but the establishment of the Legislative Council, the institution of the Sri Mulam Popular Assembly, the boon of free primary education, the completion of the Kodayar Irrigation Project, the introduction of the Tinnevely Quilon Railway and its subsequent extension to Trivandrum and the conversion of grain into cash rents, stand out as the landmarks of his beneficent rule. The institution of the Agricultural, Industrial and Co-operative Credit Departments, the creation of a distinct sanitary staff, the extension of medical relief, the establishment of Municipal Councils, Village Panchayat Courts and Courts of Bench Magistrates, the Regulation of Charities, the expansion of education in all its branches—primary, secondary and collegiate, and the amelioration of the depressed classes are also worthy of special mention.

Government of the State—The Government of the country is conducted in the name and under the control of His Highness the Maharaja. The Diwan is His Highness' Chief Minister. The several departments are constituted mostly on the British Indian model. The work of legislation is entrusted to a Legislative Council brought into existence for the first time in 1888. Regulation II of 1097, remodelling this Council on a popular and representative basis, was passed on the 2nd October 1921. Under the new constitution, the Council is composed of 50 members, of whom 28 are elected and 22 nominated. 15 out of the latter alone being officials,

The Diwan is the President, but a Deputy President who need not necessarily be an official is also appointed to preside at the meetings of the Council in the absence of the President. The Council is invested with the powers of voting on the budget, moving resolutions and asking questions including supplementary questions. Of the 28 elective seats, 1 is allotted to the Municipal town of Trivandrum, 22 are distributed among the 30 taluks including the areas comprised within the remaining 18 Municipal towns, 1 goes to the planting community, 1 to the Jenmies, 1 to the proprietors of Edavakais and political pensioners, and the remaining 2 to represent the interests of commerce and industry. All those who are registered holders, inamdars, tenants or kudiyaans of land the annual value of which is not less than Rs 5, those who are assessed in a municipality to land or building tax of not less than Rs. 3, and in the town of Trivandrum of not less than Re. 1, or professional tax of any amount, those who are assessed to incometax, all graduates of recognised Universities who are not undergoing a course of instruction in a recognized institution and all discharged, retired or pensioned officers of the Nayar Brigade, or His Majesty's Army or Navy are eligible for the exercise of the franchise in the general constituencies, provided that they are not of unsound mind as judged by a competent court of law and are not under 21 years of age. Women are placed on a footing of complete equality with men in the matter of both electorship and membership.

To afford to the people an opportunity of expressing direct to Government their wants and wishes and representing their views regarding the administrative measures adopted from time to time, and to enable Government to learn at first hand how their actions affect their people and to have the benefit of the suggestions of the latter regarding those measures, His Highness the Maharaja was pleased to command that an assembly under the designation of the Sri Mulam Popular Assembly, should be constituted. The Assembly was held for the first time in October 1904 and consists at present of 100 members of whom 77 are elected and 23 are nominated by Government. The Assembly meets in February or March. Each member is allowed to bring forward two subjects and speak on it. The Assembly opens with an address by the Diwan and the members are then called upon to make their representations, and the Diwan replies in the name and on behalf of the Government. In regard to the qualifications for election, every person who pays on his own account an annual land revenue of not less than Rs 50 or whose net annual income is not less than Rs. 2,000 and every graduate of a recognized University of not less than 10 years standing and having his residence in the taluk represented by him is given the privilege of election.

For purposes of land revenue administration the State has been divided into four divisions, three under the control of officers called Diwan Peishkars, the officer in charge of the fourth or the Devicolam Division being called Commissioner. All these officers are directly responsible to the Land Revenue and Income-Tax Commissioner who is the head of both the Land Revenue and Income-Tax Departments. The head of each of the four Divisions exercises the powers of a District Magistrate. Each Division is divided into taluks under the charge of Tahsildars and each taluk is subdivided into pakuethies or villages, which constitute the unit of administration. The head of a pakuethi is called a Proverthikar. There are now 80 taluks and 131 pakuethies.

The total annual income of the State at present amounts to Rs 2,00,66,830.

Agriculture.—The Department of Agriculture is popularising agriculture on scientific lines by means of demonstrations, investigations and experiments. There are departmental demonstration farms for paddy, coconut, ginger and fruit cultivation. The department is also conducting experiments in breeding and curing marine fish and there are 5 fish-curing yards under its control.

Industries—The Department of Industries which was organized in 1919 has been directing its attention towards the investigation of conditions favourable to the establishment of new industries, the introduction of improved methods in existing industries and the expansion of industrial and technical education. The S M R V. Technical Institute at Nagercoil, the Sri Mulam Technical School at Trivandrum and the Commercial School at Alleppey are the three Government institutions which at present impart industrial and technical education in the State.

Education—The number of educational institutions in the State is 3,197 consisting of 1,112 departmental, 1,892 aided and 193 unaided institutions. Including the aided and unaided institutions there are 6 Arts Colleges, 51 English High Schools, 108 Middle Schools and 2,702 Primary Schools besides 16 Training Schools and 4 Special Schools. There is also a Training College and a Sanskrit College. The total strength of pupils on the rolls of all the institutions together in 1921-22 was 402,181.

Population—The population of the State according to the census of 1921 is 4,006,062 (2,032,553 males and 1,973,509 females), which shows an increase of 16·8 per cent over the figure at the last census, viz., 3,428,975. Hinduism is the predominant religion and its followers constitute over five-eighths (2,549,554) of the entire population, while the Christians form over a fourth (1,172,934) and the Muhammadans over one-fifteenth (270,478) thereof. Hindus have increased by 11·3 per cent, Muhammadans by 19·4 per cent and Christians by 29·8 per cent during the last decennial period. General literacy has increased during the decade from 150 to 241 per mille of the population (from 248 to 330 in the case of males and from 50 to 150 in the case of females) and literacy in English from 8 to 13 per mille (13 to 21 in the case of males and 2 to 5 in the case of females).

Situation.—Cochin is a feudatory State on the West Coast of India. It is on the north, north-east and north-west bounded by the Malabar district of the Madras Presidency, on the south-west by the Arabian Sea, and on the south by the State of Travancore. It lies between 9° 48' and 10° 50' north latitude and 76° 5' and 76° 58' east longitude and has an area of 1,417½ square miles.

Physical aspects.—Physically the State is divided into three well defined zones: the hills, the plains and the sea-board. The hills form eastern portion covering nearly half the extent of the State and abound in forests of teak, ebony and other valuable trees. The plains succeed the hills. Intersected by numerous rivers and streams and dotted with homes and farmsteads, they stretch westwards towards the sea and its backwaters. Between the sea and backwaters lies the long and narrow stretch of sandy sea-board densely covered with coconut palms.

Hills.—The portion of the Western Ghats which forms the eastern belt of the State and its offshoots towards the west constitute the mountain system of the State and it is composed mainly of a succession of bluff ridges and conical peaks. The chief ranges which form the system are the Nelliampathies and Pottundi in the Chittur Taluk, the Machad in Talapilli, the Paravattani in Trichur, the Palapilli and Kodasser in Mukundapuram and the Malayattur in Kanayannur-Cochin. These ranges vary in height from a few hundred feet to about 5,000 feet above the sea level.

River system.—Cochin for its area has an extensive river and backwater system. The chief rivers are the Alwaye or Periyar, the Chalakkudi, the Karuvannur, the Ponnani or Bharatapuzha and the Chittur. On the Chalakkudi river there are two waterfalls one at Adirapilli of nearly 150 feet and the other at Echipara.

Backwater system.—One striking feature of the country is the continuous chain of lagoons or backwaters running parallel to the sea and receiving the drainage of the rivers and streams descending from the ghats. The water in them is saltish except during rainy season. They are very irregular in shape and vary in width from a few yards to four miles.

Ports.—The chief ports of the State are Cochin, Malipuram, Narakkal and Cranganore. The opening into the sea lies entirely in British Malabar while the harbour within is almost wholly in territory. The second two are open roadsteads which are generally resorted to during the monsoon months, when shipping and landing are dangerous at the Cochin port. The last, the "Mouzirin" of the ancients is scarcely used as a port.

Climate and rainfall.—A heavy rainfall, a warm and humid atmosphere and a temperature without much variation are the chief characteristics of the climate of Cochin. The average rainfall is some 120 inches every year and it is also fairly regular.

Early history.—Very little is known of the early history of the State. According to tradition, the Rajas hold the territory in right of succession to Cherman Perumal who some time about the beginning of the 9th century is supposed to have governed the whole country of Kerala—from Gokarnam to Cape Comorin—at first, as Viceroy of the Chola kings and later as an independent ruler. In 1502, the Portuguese were given a strip of land near the port of Cochin and in the following year they were allowed to build a fort at the place and to establish commercial relations with the State. In the earlier wars with the Zamorin, the Rajas of Cochin derived considerable help from the Portuguese. About the latter part of the 17th century, the Portuguese influence began to decline on the West Coast and in 1663 when they were defeated and ousted from the town of Cochin by the Dutch, the then Raja entered into a fresh treaty with the latter and conceded to them the same privileges as to the Portuguese. In 1776, the State was conquered by Haider Ali to whom and, subsequently to his son, Tippu Sultan, she remained tributary for some time. In 1791, a treaty was concluded between the then Raja and the Honourable the East India Company by which His Highness agreed to become tributary to the Company and to pay a subsidy of Rs. 1,00,000 annually in consideration of the protection promised by the Company from outside invaders. In 1809, this treaty was revised and a fresh treaty entered into under which, in addition to the previous subsidy of one lakh of rupees, the State agreed to pay an annual sum equal to the expenses of maintaining one battalion of native infantry, viz., Rs. 1,76,037 or Rs. 2,76,037 on the whole, the amount to be paid in six equal instalments every year. In 1818, this annual subsidy was reduced to Rs. 2,00,000 and the latter forms the pecuniary obligation of the State at the present day.

Population.—The population of Cochin according to the Census of 1921 was 979,080 of whom 482,959 were males and 496,121 females. The majority, 66 per cent, are Hindus, Christians forming 27 per cent and Muhammadans 7 per cent. There is also a small but influential community of Jews numbering 1,167 settled down in the State since the early centuries of the Christian Era. More than half the population is employed in agriculture. Rice is the staple food of the people.

Administrative divisions and towns.—For administrative purposes, the State is divided into six Taluks, viz., Cochin-Kanayannur, Mukundapuram, Trichur, Talapilli, Chittur and Cranganore. The last is a sort of Zamindari or estate owned by a Chief of the place subordinate to Cochin. The chief towns are Ernakulam (the capital), Mattancherry, Irinjalakuda, Trichur, Wadakkanchery, Kunnankulam, Chittur and Cranganore.

Political relation.—The State is governed by His Highness the Maharaja as its hereditary ruler with a Diwan appointed by him as his chief minister and advised in important matters by a British Political Officer called the British Resident in Travancore and Cochin under the Madras Government. The Maharaja's powers are limited only by the regulations passed by himself and by the treaty obligations with the British Government, the officers exercising such powers as are delegated to them by His Highness by legislative enactments or by special rules or orders. The Diwan is the responsible Minister of the Maharaja and the Chief Executive Officer of the State and he is primarily responsible for the official and progressive administration of the State.

His Highness the Maharaja.—His Highness Sir Rama Varma, G.C.I.E., the Maharaja of Cochin, was born on the 6th October 1858.

Particular care was bestowed on His Highness' early education. Of studious habits from his boyhood, His Highness pursued his Sanskrit and English studies assiduously and has been able to attain a high degree of proficiency in both. He has made a special study of ayurvedic medicine and in one branch of it, viz., the treatment of animal poisons, he is considered to be one of the best authorities on the Malabar Coast. In his younger days His Highness had been ever prompt in placing the benefit of his special knowledge and skill at the disposal of patients brought to him and it was only when he became the Elaya Raja or heir apparent that he had for want of time to reluctantly give up this humanitarian work.

In 1890, His Highness married Srimati V. K. Parukuthi Amma of the well-known Kurupam family of Trichur and has two sons and two daughters by her. His Highness' domestic life has ever been one of unalloyed happiness.

After His Highness ascended Masnad on the 7th December 1914, to gain experience and widen his outlook on administrative affairs, His Highness toured throughout the length and breadth of India on two occasions, visiting at the same time several important places of historic and religious interest. The distinction of G.C.I.E. was conferred on His Highness on the occasion of His Majesty the King-Emperor's birthday and for the services rendered by His Highness during the Great War the title of "Maharaja" was conferred on him as a hereditary distinction in the year 1921.

The Administration Reports of the State for successive years bear testimony of His Highness' administrative ability, while the love and esteem in which His Highness is held show his high popularity as a ruler.

Summary of the progress of the State.—The history of the State during the last quarter of a century has been one of steady progress in all directions.

Revenue.—The gross revenue of the State under all ordinary receipt heads for the official year 1927 M.E. (1921-22) was Rs 55,46,463 and the gross expenditure was Rs 55,28,759.

Roads and communications.—There are in all about 500 miles of metalled roads maintained by the State, besides several unmetalled ones. The backwaters and navigable canals also afford easy communication between the several parts of the State bordering on the coast.

Tramway.—For want of suitable transport facilities, parts of the forests of Cochin had long remained unworked. To remove the defect in the case of one of the richest tracts in the State, a Tramway was constructed from Parambikulam to Chalakudi, a distance of nearly 50 miles, in 1925.

Railway.—A State Line of Railway (metre gauge) was opened in July 1902 from Shoranur to Ernakulam, the capital of the State. The line, 64.8 miles long, costing nearly 71 lakhs of rupees, is now worked by the South Indian Railway. There are 17 stations on the line.

Education.—As a result of a vigorous and liberal policy pursued in the State for several years, educationally Cochin has become one of the most advanced areas in India, whether for male or female education, 80.4 per cent of boys and 39.1 per cent of girls, of school-going age being in school. In the small area of the State there are 33 High Schools, 66 Lower Secondary Schools and 996 schools imparting primary education. Last year, out of a revenue of Rs. 55,46,463 the State contributed Rs. 8,97,605 for education alone.

Medical and sanitary.—The State maintains 33 medical institutions, viz.,

11 Hospitals, 20 Dispensaries and two Asylums—one for lunatics and the other for lepers. There are also four Veterinary Hospitals maintained at State expense. The expenditure on medical relief last year was Rs. 2,13,543.

Industrial and Commercial development.—For the spread of industrial education, the State maintains one Trades School and twelve rural Industrial Schools. Several efforts have of late been made for the industrial development of the State in other directions. A stoneware factory at Chalakkudi under a European expert is now under construction, while a Tannery Factory subsidised by Government has of late been brought into working order. The question of starting a Paper Pulp factory and the enlargement of the coconut fibre industry is engaging the attention of the Darbar. The details of the improvement of the harbour were under discussion during the year, and the experimental dredging and reclamation work were being vigorously pushed on.

Constitutional reforms.—With a view to training the people in the art of self-government, Panchayats have long been established in the State, the most important functions delegated to these bodies being the improvement of agriculture and maintenance of minor irrigation works. Towards the close of last year, there were 84 Panchayats working, of which 25 were also exercising judicial functions. There are four Municipalities of the State—at Ernakulam, Trichur, Mattancherry and Chittur. Preparations are being made for the establishment of a Legislative Council and it is hoped that the Council will be an accomplished fact by the commencement of the next official year.

Description.—Pudukkottai is the third in importance of the five Native States in direct political relations with the Government of Madras. It is bounded on the north and west by Trichinopoly district, on the south by Ramnad district, and on the east by Tanjore district. The State comprises an area of 1,179 square miles. Pudukkottai resembles in its physical aspects, the upland parts of the east coast of the Presidency, and consists for the most part of a plain of somewhat sparsely cultivated dry lands interspersed with a very large number of rainfed tanks. There is no seaboard. The climate resembles that of the surrounding districts and is fairly healthy. The annual rainfall averages 35 inches. The capital of the State is Pudukkottai, a well laid out Municipal town, containing several fine buildings and a population of 26,101 according to the Census of 1921.

Population.—The population of the State as found by the Census of 1921 was 426,813. 71.01 per cent of the inhabitants were classified as engaged in agriculture.

Early history.—In early times the northern part of the present Pudukkottai State belonged to the Chola kings, whose capital was at Woriur near Trichinopoly, and the southern part to the Pandya kings of Madura. About the middle of the 16th Century, Madura passed to the Naick dynasty and its kings acquired the whole territory which makes up the present state. In the 17th Century, the country passed into the hands of the Tondimans. It is the only principality that stands to-day to represent the ancient kingdoms of the Pandyas and the Cholas and it is the only Tamil State in the whole of India, ruled over by a Tamil king.

Relations with the British Government.—The relations of the English with the State began during the Carnatic wars of the 18th Century. During the siege of Trichinopoly by the French in 1752 and 1753 A.D., the Tondiman of the time rendered valuable services to the company and he was also very useful in the wars with Haidar Ali, and in the operations against the rebellious Poligars of Sivaganga and Panchalankurichi in Madura and Tinnevely districts, respectively. Thus in prosperity or adversity, from the earliest period of their connexion with the British, the Tondimans have always stood by them; neither considerations of danger nor allurements of advantage have ever induced them to swerve from the allegiance and their services, sometimes in very critical conjunctures when the British were struggling for empire have been eloquently recorded in the pages of history. The Tondimans pay no tribute to the British even directly or indirectly; this unique distinction shared perhaps by no other ruler in all India, is a sufficient testimony for the very high regard the British Government have for the Tondimans.

Raja's family.—The present Raja, His Highness Sri Brahadamba Das Raja Sri Marthanda Bhairava Tondiman Bahadur, G.C.I.E., born on 26th November 1875, is the eighth in succession from Raghunatha Tondiman, the founder of the State. By birth, the grandson of Rimachandra Tondiman (the seventh Raja) by his eldest daughter, His Highness became the late Raja's son and heir by adoption. His Highness succeeded to the Gadi in 1886. During his minority, the late well-known Sir A. Seshiah Sastri, K.C.S.I., was Diwan Regent and he introduced several reforms in the State and brought it to a prominent rank. The present Raja was entrusted with the powers of administration in 1894. On August 10, 1915, His Highness was married at Melbourne in Australia to Miss E. M. Fink, daughter of Wolfe Fink, Esq., M.A., LL.B., of Melbourne, Victoria. His Highness' son, Marthanda Sydney, is six years old, having been born on July 22, 1916. His Highness is entitled to a salute of 11 guns.

Progress of the State.—Since the accession of the present Raja to the throne the State has advanced by rapid strides in several directions. Every branch of the administration has been more or less reformed. The revenue has doubled itself and the mileage of roads under maintenance has trebled itself. The capital town has been greatly improved. Various institutions such as the Demonstration Farm, the Museum, the People's Park, the Annual cattle shows, etc., have been maintained and supported in a very liberal spirit by His Highness for the industrial and agricultural development of the State. The irrigation works in the State have been considerably improved and expanded. Medical relief under modern and up-to-date methods has been extended to all parts of the State, and a hospital for women and children has been established at the capital town. Free primary education is given to all subjects of the state. Higher education has made great progress, a Second Grade College has been opened and it is located in an imposing edifice with a fine library, an extensive compound, and an equally extensive recreation ground. A training school has been opened for training the village teachers in the improved methods of teaching. A Municipal Council has been constituted for the purpose of associating non-officials with the Municipal administration of the town. A representative Assembly consisting of 30 members was called into being as a means of communication between His Highness' Government and the public. With a view to give the public a voice in matters of legislation, an advisory council has been constituted, and elected representatives are associated therewith.

The Collector of Trichinopoly is the Ex-officio Political Agent for Pudukkottai.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of the Raja from the State, the administration of the State is in the hands of his brother Vijaya Raghunatha Dura Raja, B.A., as Regent.

The area of Banganapalle State is 275 square miles, and according to the Census of 1921, it has a population of 36,692. The State is situated in Kurnool district. Banganapalle was ruled during the 16th Century by Raja Nandachakravarthi and his descendants. About that time, the king of Bijapur conquered Banganapalle and gave it as a jagir to his General Siddi Sambul. The latter ruled it until 1665 A.D. With Syed Hussain Ali Khan the present dynasty of the Jagirdars of Banganapalle begins. In course of time the Jagir was confiscated by Tippu. Again in 1787 A.D. this was got back by Asad Ali Khan who defeated Tippu's forces at Thamadpalli. After the death of Syed Gulam Ali Khan, a descendant of the same dynasty in A.D. 1822, this Jagir went into the hands of the Madras Government. In 1848, they restored the State to the Nawab. The interference of the British power again became necessary in the reign of Syed Fathe Ali Khan. The Madras Government took charge of the administration on February 1, 1905, and on the death of the Nawab on the 22nd of April 1905, he was succeeded by Syed Ghulam Ali Khan Bahadur. Syed Ghulam Ali Khan was installed by Sir Arther Lawley, the then Governor of Madras, on December 19, 1908. During the intervening period of over three years, the State was administered by an Agent. After the installation, the Nawab introduced valuable reforms in the several departments and considerably improved the condition of his subjects. One of the chief reforms inaugurated in his time was the settlement of land revenue. An era of peace, prosperity and security reigned throughout his rule. For the protection and better administration of the forests in the State, a Forest department was organised. Education made striking progress. Telegraph line was opened in the State in the year 1911.

A salute of nine guns was granted to the Nawab in 1921. The Nawab, as characteristic of his family, was loyal to the British throne and had made contributions befitting his dignity to the cause of the Paramount Power in the late European war. For the fitting up of the Hospital ship "Madras," the Nawab gave Rs. 1,000 per month in the year 1914. In January 1915, he made grants of Rs. 75,000 to the Madras War Fund and of Rs. 25,000 to His Excellency the Viceroy's Indian Relief Fund. In addition to these and other contributions, the State had purchased War Bonds to the value of Rs. 9,500. The Nawab died on the 22nd January 1922.

The late Nawab left behind him three sons and a daughter, the eldest of whom is Nawab Mir Fazl Ali Khan Bahadur, aged 22 years. On the death of the Nawab, he was succeeded by Nawab Mir Fazl Ali Khan Bahadur. He was installed by His Excellency Lord Willingdon, the Governor of Madras. The present Nawab was educated first at Newington College, Madras, and then in the Mayo College, Ajmer, and passed his Diploma examination in the year 1921. The young Nawab is the first member of the ruling family who has attained a high distinction in his educational career. The other two sons of the late Nawab are continuing their studies in the Mayo College at Ajmer.

Sandur.

Area, 160 square miles, Population, 11,665.

Ruler, Srimath Venkata Raw Rao Sahib Ghoirpade Mumalkat Madai Senapati, Raja of Sandur.

Political Agent, A. C. Dutt, I.C.S., Collector of Bellary.

Deputy, T. Rameshchandra Ayyar, B.A.

Sarishdadar, B. S. Salunke.

General—The little Native State of Sandur lies within the district of Bellary. It is 160 square miles in area, includes 20 villages and has a population of something over 11,665 souls of whom between one-third and one-half live in its capital, Sandur. It consists of long, narrow valleys shut in by two nearly parallel enclosing walls of hills covered with long grass and forest. Of the 11,665 people in the State over 2,148 are Mussalmans, which is a large proportion, even for the Deccan districts. Of the Hindus, the most numerous body are the Lingayats, who are over 3,016 strong History—Sandur has an interesting history. After the destruction of the empire of Vijayanagar by the united Muhammadan kings of the Deccan at the battle of Talikota in 1565, the country round about it fell under the nominal sovereignty of one of the victors, the Sultan of Bijapur. All real authority, however, lay in the hands of a number of semi-independent chiefs. One of these, the poligar of Jaramali in Kudligi taluk, made himself master of Sandur about 1700, but about 1728 was turned out by a Maratha named Siddoji Rao of the Ghorpade family. This Siddoji was the ancestor of the present Raja of Sandur and, except for two short intervals, his descendants have held the State ever since.

Finance—The receipts during the year 1921-22 amounted to 1.17 lakhs, an increase of Rs 11,000 over the previous year's figures and the expenditure to 1.10 lakhs, a decrease of 1.20 lakhs, due to the fact that the figures for 1920-21 included the payment of the Raja's debts. The closing balance was 2.86 lakhs.

Education—There are 10 Hindu and 2 Mussalman Elementary schools in the State and one model school. Primary education has been recently made compulsory. A scheme is on foot for instituting a High School in Sandur town.

Kumaraswami temple.—The famous Kumaraswami temple is situated in a natural amphitheatre of wooded slopes at the head of a ravine near the top of the hills almost due south of Sandur.

Ramandrug.—The sanitarium of Ramandrug is in this State. It is a small plateau $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles long and half a mile wide on the top of the southernmost of the two ranges of hills which enclose the valley of Sandur.

Travellers' Bungalows with Trunk and Branch Roads.

Twenty Trunk Roads (4,178.6 m.) and 620 branch roads (16,333.7 m.) are described below.

These Trunk Roads are maintained by Government under G.O. No. 347 L, dated 9th April 1920. They pass through more than one district while branch roads are generally confined to a single district. All the Trunk Roads are arranged alphabetically with reference to the name of the town from which the road starts while branch roads are arranged under each district. Details are also given about the nature of the accommodation available in the Travellers' Bungalows situated on these roads. The distance noted after the village is calculated from the starting point in each case.

The abbreviations used in this section are—r.s. = Railway station, R. 1 = One room, R. 2 = Two rooms; B. 1 = One bath room, B. 2 = Two bath rooms; H. 1 = One hall; F. = Furnished; S. 1 = One stable, 4.5 m. = 4 miles 5 furlongs.

The amount noted within brackets is the charge for a single person for a day.

Unable to take Quinine!

BUT CURED BY HENRY'S JVARA-HARI

Mr. C. O. H. Stevens of the North-Western Railway Rohri, writes :

Q I have been a great sufferer of Malaria Fever on and off for years ; and not being able to take Quinine in any form by mouth the same acting as a poison on my system, I have found great difficulty in getting over each attack of Malaria Fever, and I have always had to fly into a hospital for treatment, where I used to get cured with quinine injections, but not more than 5 grains equivalent in the twenty-four hours. ¶ It was only the other day that I was persuaded by a friend of mine to try a bottle of your " Jvari-Hari " for an attack of fever that I had and at first I was reluctant in trying it, fearing it may contain quinine ; however I tried one dose, and to my surprise I found it did not bring on the symptoms, the same as quinine does, on me and since then I have been taking it regularly

TOUCH TYPEWRITING AND THE OLIVER TYPEWRITERS

The Keyboard of the Oliver is the best for the Touch method of typing because it is so compact that hand movement is almost entirely eliminated, the letters of the alphabet are in the standard or "Universal" order, with Shift Keys at each side of the Keyboard, and the figures and related commercial signs are arranged in such logical, a straightforward way, that they can be learned instantly and struck without hesitation

Investigation will reveal that these points touch matters of the utmost importance. Why not enquire? Additional information may be had at our office. We have a free Training School and we can make you a competent operator. For particulars please apply to.---
